The leading social holiday event out on Gunpowder Heights, was the Christmas dinner Cliff Hedges gave, and which was attended by a large number of his young gentlemen friends. Everything that was necessary to make the feast tempting was served by his mother in the most appetizing style.

Joseph Wens and wife, of King's Mills, Ohio, spent part of the past week here with his aunt, Mrs. Richard White and his uncles, Messrs. Samuel, J. A. and Everett Hall. Mr Wens holds a good position in the powder mill at King's Mills. There have been two or three bad explosions in the powder mills since Mr. Wens has been employed there, but he does not apprehend any danger of his ever taking part in one.

W. H Rice, President of Florence Deposit Bank, was a caller at this office Monday. When asked how soon he expected his town to be touched by a traction road, he responded without hesitating, "within the next year." Being asked what road he expected, he replied, "the C. N & C." Mr. Rice appears to be sanguine that President Ernst has determined to extend his road as far as Florence during the next 12 months. It is certainly to be hoped he will not be disappointed as to the time in which Florence will become a traction road town.

Let All Pull Together.

The tobacco growers meeting at the court house Monday, was not largely attended, but what it lacked in numbers was made up in enthusiasm, and should things prove as harmonious today at the Lexington meeting as they were in the meeting held here last Monday there will be no trouble whatever in adopting a plan of procedure in the matter of raising tobacco for several years to come in the Burley belt. When the plan for pooling is worked out it may contain several radical changes from that which prevailed the last few years, but it will have the same object in view, and will, to be a success, necessitate a hearty cooperation on the part of all the growers. Let the growers pull together and see how easy it will be to accomplish a successful pool.

Lost—On the street in Burlington, fingered black glove. Finder will please leave at the County Clerk's office and oblige. G. B Powers.

PENNY POSTAGE

Is Now Probable for First-Class Mail, Says Hitchcock.

Washington.—That the Postoffice Department will soon be self sustaining and that penny postage for first-class letters is a probability of the near future are statements made by Postmaster Hitchcock.

"Before the close of another fiscal year the federal postal establishment will become self-sustaining. This will be accomplished without curtailing in the slightest the service rendered or leasening in any respect its efficiency."

This was the statement made by the postmaster general, in connection with the announcement that he had submitted to the Treasury Department, five days in advance of the time fixed by law, his estimates of appropriations for the Postoffice Department and the postal service during the fiscal year beginning on July 1st.

In private conversation heretofore Mr. Hitchcock has indicated his belief that it may be possible within a year or two, through the operation of plans he had worked out, to place the postal service on a paying basis. During the last fiscal year ended June 30 last he returned to the treasury about $6,000,000 out of the actual appropriations made by Congress for the department. The deficit of the department for that year was less than for many years, being reduced by approximately one-half from the deficit of $17,000,000 of the year before.

It is the expectation of Mr. Hitchcock further to reduce the deficit during the present fiscal year, and the estimates for 1912, which he transmitted to the Treasury Department, indicate a bright prospect for a still further reduction during that period.

By an effective reorganization of the Postoffice Department in Washington, including the introduction of labor saving devices, it has been possible, said Mr. Hitchcock, to reduce considerably the number of employes and at the same time to obtain increased efficiency in the handling of the larger volume of business. Similar methods of reorganization now are being applied to the entire postal service.

With the postal service able to pay its own way, Mr. Hitchcock is convinced that "penny postage" for first-class letters is not the "wildest dream" it has been declared. Indeed, he is almost prepared to assert that 1 cent postage now is in sight as a practical business proposition.

It would be unfair to tell the name of the author of this story; but it is too good to pass up.

In Tennessee not many years ago it was a sport and a science in some sections to stuff the ballot boxes so that, no matter how the people voted, the machine candidates won. In one little town an enthusiast for honest government was named as one of the board of three election judges. His two companions were ready to slip into the ballot box enough votes to elect their man; but they could not get the honest judge to leave the voting booth long enough for them to turn the trick. Finally, after he had refused to leave long enough for lunch, all three went to a neighboring hotel for a hasty meal. The honest judge, who was also very devout, put the ballot box on the floor between his feet and, shutting his eyes, bowed his head for several minutes while he asked the blessing on the meal. While he was doing this the other two stuffed the box, and the machine candidates had a staggering majority. And to this day the honest judge advertises the fact that for once he made the election judges give the people of his town an honest deal.

With a roar that could be heard for a mile the ice gorge at Medock Bar, above Lawrenceburg, broke under the rise in the river early Wednesday morning, and beside endangering the lives of rivermen, destroyed several hundred dollars' worth of floating property that was harbored near Lawrenceburg. Thos. Littel and George Sadler, were sleeping in their houseboat near the Lawrenceburg Landing when the gorge broke. Tons of grinding ice bore down on their frail craft, and crushed the sides of the hull before the sleepers were aroused. They escaped in a few scanty night clothes, carrying their most valuable property to safety. The boat is almost a complete loss. Other river property in the Lawrenceburg harbor escaped damage, although it was feared for a time that a valuable yacht, belonging to Charles Baur, a local banker, would be carried away with the heavy flow of ice.

Lost—Gold bracelet between the upper landing at Lawrenceburg Ferry and the residence of H. C Duncan. On the inside is the name Fernice Duncan, 1907. Finder will please return to H. C Duncan and receive reward.

The heating plant in the new school house is ready to heat the building. Jailer Sammie Adams will have charge of it, consequently things in that locality will be kept warm alright.

The high water and floating ice in Gunpowder yesterday were too much for Elmer Conley to tackle, consequently only a few on rural mail route No. 2 were served yesterday.

The Business Principle

of successful lives is the habit of saving, depositing what can be spared in a good bank to meet the emergencies of the proverbial rainy day. A little at a time makes a snug sum in a short time. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., will accept any sum on deposit and pays four per cent. interest on what remains a year, or three per cent for what remains six months. Remittances by mail given prompt response and careful attention. This Bank has assets of over One Hundred Thousand Dollars. We qualify as administrator, executor, trustee, guardian, etc., of estates, which is much more satisfactory than a private individual in such capacity. Mail communications given careful attention. Your patronage solicited.

BRICK FOR SALE

100,000 brick, good as new, taken from the Petersburg Distillery. Price $4.50 per 1000.

F. M. WINGATE,
Petersburg, Ky.

There is much speculation among the farmers as to the probable action of the trust as to buying the 1910 tobacco. At present there is practically no buying in this county and little in the Burley belt. On account of the dry weather very little tobacco has been stripped and is therefore not ready for inspection by the buyer who no longer buys "unsight-unseen" since the death of Old Pool, the best old nag that ever took the farmer to market. Trust officials have announced that they will buy the 1910 tobacco for what it is worth, but the trust will take its time about saying what it is worth. The trust is now master of the farmer and the latter can now only wait for the spirit to move that benevolent organization which early this fall so freely distributed money for tobacco which buyers never saw. Just how the trust killed the pool has never been told in print as far as we have seen. The trust had few of its own buyers in the field but it used the warehousemen to accomplish its purpose. When it appeared that there was danger of the pool succeeding, the Trust stopped the pooling by giving the Cincinnati and Louisville warehouses orders for a certain large amount of tobacco to be purchased at once, and these warehouses in turn gave orders to an army of buyers thruout the State to buy quickly. The price was such that the buyers were authorized to give as high as 16 cents for tobacco without ever looking at it. Everybody knows how well the plan succeeded and how well the plan succeeds when farmers are now wondering when the trust will tell the warehouses to tell their buyers to tell the farmers that sales will be resumed at about one half the recent prices and about one-third of former pool prices. —Cynthiana Log Cabin.

The report of each of the banks in the county except that at Belleview, appears in this issue. They all appear to have had a very good year.

If you have done all the good you could this year you have done very little harm.

Tobacco Growers Meeting.

At a meeting of the Boone county tobacco growers held at Burlington, on the first Monday in January, 1911, T. F Curley was elected chairman of the meeting and G. B Powers, secretary.

By motion and second the following persons were elected as delegates to attend the meeting of independent tobacco growers at Lexington Jan 5th, 1911:

Charles Sleet, Beaver;
W. B Arnold, Belleview;
J. G Kennedy, Verona;
Henry Stephens, Petersburg:
C. G Riddell, Rabbit Hash;
Charles Tanner, Florence

They were sent uninstructed as to cutting out the 1911 or 1912 crop.

T. F Curley, Chairman.
G. B Powers, Secretary.

The County Board of Supervisors of Tax, composed of W. P Cropper, of Bullittsville; H. H Grant, of Petersburg; R. O Powers, of Verona, and W. W Conner, of Union, has been in session at the court house since Monday. The valuation of pooled tobacco seems to be the most perplexing question with which the board has been confronted.

LIMABURG.

Miss Lena Davis, eldest daughter of W. T Davis, and Stanley Barker were quietly married at Rev. Riley's in Burlington, on New Year's day at 10 o'clock. The bride was beautifully gowned in a blue tailor-made suit, and the groom wore the conventional black. After the ceremony they and a few immediate relatives partook of a turkey dinner prepared by Mrs. Davis' skillful hands. The bride and groom have a host of friends who extend their congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs R. O. Beemon entertained, Sunday, with one of their splendid dinners. Those present were R. W Rouse and wife, Hubert Rouse and family, R. I. Rouse, wife and son, Frank Rouse and wife and Elmer Kelly and wife, L. C Acra and family, Miss Myrtle Clore and Claude Stephenson.

Ruben Beemon lost his best work mare, Monday. He found her down in the stable with a broken leg and had to kill her.

O. E Aylor, wife and daughter, Laura, spent Monday at the Boone Hotel in Burlington, guests of Mr. and Mrs Kelly.

Mr. Batte purchased a young cow of H. L Tanner for $75. He will engage in the sweet milk dairy business

J. W Utz and A. G. Beemon are out this week collecting the subscription for the church.

J. T Stephenson and family visited at Frank Stahl's near Grange Hall, Sunday.

D. M Snyder bought six nice shoats of C. L Tanner at $4 per head.

Mrs. P A. Ryle is sick.

HATHAWAY.

W. G McElroy, who left here about three years ago, for Waco, Texas, to make his future home, returned on a visit to his mother, and sister, of Grant county, and came down to visit his brother at this place. He will start to Texas again this Wednesday, and will take his mother who will make that place her home.

Personal Mention.

Russell Smith arrived here Tuesday from his visit to Florida.

L. A Tanner, of R. D. No. 2, was a pleasant caller at this office last Saturday.

Miss Margaret Hughes spent the holidays with her sister, Mrs. Earl Walton, of Petersburg.

Misses Pauline Kelly and Laura Porter were Sunday guests of Misses Myrtle and Alma Corbin, of Belleview.

Misses Jeanette and Ruth Huey, of Big Bone, were guests of their aunt, Mrs. E E. Kelly, the first of the week.

Dr. L H. Crisler and wife, of Covington, were new year's guests of his sister, Mrs. W J. Rice, and family near town.

Miss Alice Carver entertained several of her young friends in a very delightful manner, last Thursday night. Delicious refreshments were served.

W. E Yest, the real estate agent, was in Burlington, Monday, ready to take orders for Alabama land, on which he says you can see things growing.

Mr. and Mrs Wm. Walton entertained most delightfully at their elegant home five miles out on the Belleview pike, last Wednesday night, in honor of their son John.

Big passenger travel during the holidays over the Burlington and Erlanger route. On several occasions there were more passengers than Messrs. Phipps' auto could accomodate.

William Carpenter, of Locust Grove neighborhood, is recovering from quite a severe attack of blood poison, which, for several days, caused him much suffering. The trouble resulted from sticking a thorn or a briar in one of his hands.

C. T Northcutt and son, of McVille, were looking after business in Burlington, last Saturday. Mr Northcutt will the first of March, move to the farm which he purchased a few weeks ago of Jas. Goodridge on the Kelly neighborhood on Middle Creek.

Earl Smith and Newton Sullivan had charge of the box-ball alley a few days the past week while Mr. and Mrs Griffith were absent from town visiting friends. The boys displayed considerable ability in the management of the business during the proprietor's absence.

The leading social holiday event out on Gunpowder Heights, was the Christmas dinner Cliff Hedges gave, and which was attended by a large number of his young gentlemen friends. Everything that was necessary to make the feast tempting was served by his mother in the most appetizing style.

Joseph Wens and wife, of King's Mills, Ohio, spent part of the past week here with his aunt, Mrs. Richard White and his uncles, Messrs. Samuel, F. A. and Everett Hall. Mr Wens holds a good position in the powder mill at King's Mills. There have been two or three bad explosions in the powder mills since Mr. Wens has been employed there, but he does not apprehend any danger of his ever taking part in one.

W. H Rice, President of Florence Deposit Bank, was a caller at this office Monday. When asked how soon he expected his town to be touched by a traction road, he responded without hesitating, "within the next year." Being asked what road he expected, he replied, "the C. N & C." Mr. Rice appears to be sanguine that President Ernst has determined to extend his road as far as Florence during the next 12 months. It is certainly to be hoped he will not be disappointed as to the time in which Florence will become a traction road town.

Let All Pull Together.

The tobacco growers meeting at the court house Monday, was not largely attended, but what it lacked in numbers was made up in enthusiasm, and should things prove as harmonious today at the Lexington meeting as they were in the meeting held here last Monday there will be no trouble whatever in adopting a plan of procedure in the matter of raising tobacco for several years to come in the Burley belt. When the plan for pooling is worked out it may contain several radical changes from that which prevailed the last few years, but it will have the same object in view, and will, to be a success, necessitate a hearty cooperation on the part of all the growers. Let the growers pull together and see how easy it will be to accomplish a successful pool.

Lost—On the street in Burlington, fingered black glove. Finder will please leave at the County Clerk's office and oblige. E. B. Powers.

The Courage of Captain Plum

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Nathaniel Plum of the sloop Tyscoon lands secretly on Beaver Island, stronghold of the Mormons. Obadiah Price, Mormon councilor, confronts him, tells him he is expected, and bargains for the ammunition aboard the sloop. He finds Nat by a solemn oath to deliver a package to Franklin Pierce, president of the United States. Near Price's cabin Nat sees the frightened face of a young woman who disappears in the darkness, leaving an odor of lilacs. It develops that Nat's visit to the island is to demand settlement of the king, Strang, for the looting of his sloop by Mormons. Price shows Nat the king's palace, and through a window he sees the lady of the lilacs, who Price says is the king's seventh wife. Calling at the king's office Nat is warned by a young woman that his life is in danger. Strang professes indignation when he hears Nat's grievance and promises to punish the guilty. Nat rescues Neil, who is being publicly whipped, and the king orders the sheriff, Arbor Croche, to pursue and kill the two men. Plum learns that Marion, the girl of the lilacs, is Neil's sister. The two men plan to escape on Nat's sloop and take Marion and Winnsome, daughter of Arbor Croche, and sweetheart of Neil. Nat discovers that the sloop is gone. Marion tells him that his ship has been seized by the Mormons. She begs him to leave the island, telling him that nothing can save her from Strang, whom she is doomed to marry. Plum finds Price raving mad. Recovering, he tells Nat that Strang is doomed, that armed men are descending on the island. Nat learns that Marion has been summoned to the castle by Strang. Nat kills Arbor Croche, and after a desperate fight with the king, leaves him for dead. The avenging host from the mainland descends on St. James. Neil and Nat take part in the battle and the latter is wounded. Strang, whom Nat thought he had killed, orders him thrown into a dungeon. He finds Neil, a fellow prisoner.

(CHAPTER X.—Continued.)

"She always seemed like such a little child to me that I never dared—to—tell her," he faltered. "I've done it in this."

"How will you get the note to her?"

"I know the jailer. Perhaps when he comes to bring us our dinner I can persuade him to send it to her."

Nathaniel thrust his hands into his pockets. His [illegible] into Obadiah's gold.

"Would this help?" he asked.

He brought out a shimmering handful of it and counted the pieces upon the table.

"Two hundred dollars—if he will deliver that note," he said.

Neil stared at him in amazement.

"If he won't take it for that—I've got more. I'll go a thousand."

Neil stood silent, wondering if his companion was mad. Nathaniel saw the look in his face and his own flushed with sudden excitement.

"Don't you understand?" he cried. "That note means heaven or hell for Winnsome—it means life—her whole future! And you know what this cell means for us," he said more calmly. "It means that we're at the end of our rope, that the game is up, that neither of us will ever see Marion or Winnsome again. That note is the last word in life from us—from you. It's a dying prayer. Tell Winnsome your love, tell her that it is your last wish that she go out into the big, free world—away from this hell-hole, away from Strang, away from the Mormons, and live as other women live! And commanded by your love—she will go!"

"I've told her that!" breathed Neil. "I knew you would!"

He motioned for Neil to put the money in his pocket. The pain was coming back into his head, he grew dizzy, and hastened to the bench. Neil came and sat beside him.

"So you think it's the end?" he asked. He was glad that his companion had guessed the truth.

"Don't you?"

"Yes."

There was a minute's dark silence. The ticking of Nathaniel's watch sounded like the tapping of a stick.

"What will happen?"

"I don't know. But whatever it may be it will come to us soon. Usually it happens at night."

"There is no hope?"

"Absolutely none. The whole mainland is at the mercy of Strang. He fears no retribution now, no punishment for his crimes, no hand stronger than his own. He will not even give us the pretense of a hearing. I am a traitor, a revolutionist—you have attempted the life of the king. We are both condemned—both doomed."

Neil spoke calmly and his companion strove to master the terrible pain at his heart as he thought of Marion. He could go to the end like a man—he would at least make an attempt to do as much. Yet he could [illegible] saying:

"[illegible] of Marion?"

[illegible] passed [illegible] body.

[illegible] We have to do all that she can to get her away," replied Neil. "If Marion won't go—" He clenched his hands with a moaning curse and sprang to his feet, again pacing back and forth through the gloomy dungeon. "If she won't go I swear that Strang's triumph will be short!" he cried suddenly. "I cannot guess the terrible power that the king possesses over her, but I know that once his wife she will not endure it long. The moment she becomes that, her bondage is broken. I know it. I have seen it in her eyes. She will kill herself!"

Nathaniel rose slowly from the bench and came to his side.

"She won't do that!" he groaned. "My God—she won't do that!"

Neil's face was blanched to the whiteness of paper.

"She will," he repeated quietly. "Her terrible pact with Strang will have been fulfilled. And I—I am glad—glad—"

He raised his arms to the dripping blackness of the dungeon ceiling, his voice shaking with a cold, stifled anguish. Nathaniel drew back from that tall, straight figure, step by step, as though to hide beyond the flickering candle [illegible] and come into his face, the blazing fire that seemed burning out his eyes. If what Neil had said was true—

Something choked him as he dropped alone upon the bench.

If it was true—Marion was dead!

He dropped his head in his hands and sat for a long time in silence, listening to Neil as he walked tirelessly over the muddy earth. Not until there came a rattling of the chain at the cell door and a creaking of the rusty hinges did he lift his face. It was the jailer with a huge armful of straw. He saw Neil approach him after he had thrown it down. Their low voices came to him in an indistinct murmur. After a little he caught the sound of the chinking gold pieces.

Neil came and sat down beside him as the heavy door closed upon them again.

"He took it," he whispered exultantly. "He will deliver it this morning. If possible he will bring us an answer. I kept out a hundred and told him that a reply would be worth that to him."

Nathaniel did not speak, and after a moment's silence Neil continued:

"The jury is assembling. We will know our fate very soon."

He rose to his feet, his words quivering with nervous excitement, and Nathaniel heard him kicking about in the straw. In another breath his voice hissed through the gloom in a sharp, startled command:

"Good God, Nat, come here!"

Something in the strange fierceness of Neil's words startled Nathaniel, like the thrilling twinges of an electric shock. He darted across the cell and found Marion's brother with his shoulder against the door.

"It's open!" he whispered. "The door—is—open!"

The hinges creaked under his weight. A current of air struck them in the face. Another instant and they stood in the corridor, listening, crushing back the breath in their lungs, not daring to speak. Gently Neil drew his companion back into the cell.

"There's a chance—one chance in ten thousand!" he whispered. "At the end of this corridor there is a door—the jailer's door. If that's not locked, we can make a run for it! I'd rather die fighting—than here!"

He slipped out again, pressing Nathaniel back.

"Wait for me!"

Nathaniel heard him stealing slowly through the blackness. A minute later he returned.

"Locked!" he exclaimed.

In the opposite direction a ray of light caught Nathaniel's eye.

"Where does that light come from?" he asked.

"Through a hole about as big as your two hands. It was made for a stove pipe. If we were up there we could see into the jury room."

They moved quietly down the corridor until they stood under the aperture, which was four or five feet above their heads. Through it they could hear the sounds of voices but could not distinguish the words that were being spoken.

"The jury," explained Neil. "They're in a devil of a hurry! I wonder why?"

Nathaniel could feel his companion shrug himself in the darkness.

"Lord—for my revolver!" he whispered excitedly. "One shot through that hole would be worth a thousand notes to the girls!" He caught Marion's brother by the arm as a voice louder than the others came to them.

"Strang!"

"Yes—the—king!" affirmed Neil laying an expostulating hand on him. "Hush!"

"I would like to see—"

Even in these last hours of failure and defeat the fire of adventure flamed up in Nathaniel's blood. He felt his nerves leaping again to action, his arms grew tense with new ambition—almost he forgot that death had him cornered and was already preparing to strike him down. Another thought replaced all fear of this. A few feet beyond that log wall were gathered the men whose bloodthirsty deeds had written for them one of the reddest pages in history—men who had burned their souls out in the destruction of human lives, whose passions and loves and hatreds carried with them life and death; men who had bathed themselves in blood and lived in blood until the people of the mainland called them "the leeches."

"I'd like to take a look through that hole, Neil," he added.

"Easy enough—if you keep quiet. Here!" He doubled himself against the wall. "Climb up on my shoulders."

No sooner had Nathaniel's face come to a level with the hole than a soft cry of astonishment escaped him. Neil whispered hoarsely but he did not reply. He was looking into a room twice as large as the dungeon cell and lighted by narrow windows whose lower [illegible] were on a level with the ground outside. At the farther end of the room, in full view, was a platform raised several feet from the main floor. On this platform were seated ten men, immovable as statues, every face gazing straight ahead. Directly in front of them, on the lower floor, stood the Mormon king, and at his side, partly held in the embrace of one of his arms was Winnsome!

Strang's voice came to him in a low, solemn monotone, its rumbling depth drowning the words he was speaking, and as Nathaniel saw him lift his arm from about the girl's shoulders and place his great hand upon her head he dug his own fingers fiercely into the rotting logs and an imprecation burned in his breath. He did not need to hear what the king was saying. It was a pantomime in which every gesture was understandable. But even Neil, huddled against the wall, heard the last words of the prophet as they thundered forth in sudden passion.

"Winnsome Croche demands the death of her father's murderer!"

Nathaniel felt his companion's shoulders sinking under his weight and he leaped quickly to the floor.

"Winnsome is there!" he panted desperately. "Do you want to see her?"

Neil hesitated.

"No. Your boots gouge my shoulder. Take them off."

The scene had changed when Nathaniel took his position again. The jury had left its platform and was filing through a small door. Winnsome and the king were alone.

The girl had turned from him. She was deathly pale and yet she was wondrously beautiful, so beautiful that Nathaniel's breath came in quick dread as the king approached her. He could see the triumph in his eyes, a terrible eagerness in his face. He seized Winnsome's hand and spoke to her in a soft, low voice, so low that it came to Nathaniel only in a murmur. Then, in a moment, he began stroking the shimmering glory of her hair, caressing the silken curls between his fingers until the blood seemed as if it must burst like hot sweat from Nathaniel's face. Suddenly Winnsome drew back from him, the pallor gone from her face, her eyes blazing like angry stars. She had retreated but a step when the prophet sprang to her and caught her in his arms, straining her to him until the scream on her lips was choked to a gasping cry. In answer to that cry a yell of rage hurled itself from Nathaniel's throat.

"Stop, you hell-hound!" he cried threateningly. "Stop!"

CHEAP MILK REFRIGERATOR

A Wooden Box and a Tin Pail the Essentials for a Serviceable Ice Box.

If milk is not kept cold it is a dangerous food for babies, for every minute that it is much above the temperature of ice the germs of disease increase in it at an alarming rate. Very many babies die of summer complaint merely because their milk has been allowed to stand for hours in a warm room.

Many are unable to buy enough ice in summer to preserve milk in ordinary refrigerators for twenty-four hours. Most mothers, however, buy a five or ten-cent cake every morning and by following the suggestion of Dr. Alfred F. Hess can make at home at small cost an excellent milk refrigerator that requires only a very little ice:

"Obtain a box from the grocer; any wooden box a foot in depth will answer the purpose. Buy a tin pail with a cover, one deep enough to hold a quart bottle of milk and a slightly larger pail without a cover. Place one inside the other and stand them in the center of the box. Now pack sawdust or excelsior beneath and all about them to keep the heat from getting in; complete the refrigerator by nailing about fifty layers of newspaper to the under surface of the box cover.

"The refrigerator is now ready for use. In the morning as soon as the milk is received it should be placed in the pail and five cents worth of ice should be cracked and placed about the milk bottle. The cover should be replaced on the can and the lid on the wooden box. Every morning the melted ice should be poured off."—Survey.

Bible Teaching as a Function of the Preacher

WITH the normal man, sin apart, the problem of natural development would be the simplest possible. The truth of the Bible would drop into the mind of the living man eager to receive it, and lead him right, on and up to his chief end, in completeness of life in God. Probably much of the ablest of purely intellectual preaching of the day makes fatal failure in assuming that it has to deal with the normal man in this wise, and that its end can be attained by mere natural development. But practically the Bible preacher as teacher has to do, not with the normal man, but with man the sinner. That entirely changes the problem. Sin means obedience lost, conformity to environment lost, life lost, God lost. It means direst soul wreck in the soul, in the life, in society. The aim of instruction must be to bring man back to obedience and life; to bring about the moral and spiritual renovation and reconstruction of the sinner, and to save him from sin. While, therefore, the preacher is not to lose sight of the natural development of what is normal in man, he must, in presenting the teachings of God's word, aim supremely at the supernatural transformation of his hearers. The natural is to be barely the point of departure in reaching out toward the supernatural; the development merely an attendant upon the transformation. With the nature all right nature would alone be needed for development, but with the nature perverted, something more and essentially different, becomes necessary.

For Real Effectiveness.

Now, the effectiveness of Bible teaching, in preaching to men as sinners, must always depend upon certain principles—too often neglected or forgotten—but that should be clearly defined and firmly grasped. If it be asked, What are these principles, it may be readily shown that they naturally connect themselves (1) with the teacher himself as regards the preparation for this task; (2) with those who are taught, as having to do with their condition and needs; (3) with the Bible remedy for sin, as furnished in the redemption by Christ or (4) with the Holy Spirit, who appears as the author of the regenerated life.

These points decide the line of thought to be followed in the present discussion, and suggest the principles upon which effectiveness in Bible teaching to sinners must depend.

First Principle—Let the preacher as teacher, first of all, grasp the situation, and master the needs of man as a lost sinner, and let those needs overmaster his own soul.

Suitable Teachings.

Second Principle—Having himself mastered the situation, let the preacher as teacher, in the prosecution of his aim of seeking and winning the lost, press home with absolute conviction the Bible teachings suited and intended to rouse the sinner to his lost and hopeless condition in sin.

Third Principle—Let the preacher, when the way has been thus prepared, lay all stress upon the Bible doctrines concerning the remedy—salvation by the cross, pressing the sinner always to immediate decision for Christ.

Fourth Principle—Let the preacher as teacher of truth for salvation, while seeking the most perfect adaptation of means to that end, not neglect the doctrine of the Holy Spirit and his saving work.

And so the outcome of the whole process of the preacher's instruction of the sinful man is not a natural evolution into the Christian life, but an instruction into it by a supernatural transformation.—Dr. D. S. Gregory, in Homiletic Review.

The Elements of Repentance.

Repentance has two elements in it—sorrow for sin, and turning away from sin. The psalmist put it right when he said: "I thought on my ways and turned my feet unto thy testimonies." Repentance is the result of our looking into God's face and seeing there the pain of our misdeeds. It is the feeling of sorrow that comes when we look at the cross of Christ and see there what sin, our sin, has done. It is not so much the feeling of conviction that results from our thinking about our lost state, and the sad state of those who die without God and without hope, as it is the sorrow that our sin is so hateful to God and so harmful to his righteous rule upon the earth. It is the state of mind of the child who feels sad at his disobedience, not so much because it fears punishment, as that he has caused pain to those who are dearer than life, and is determined not to cause his parents sorrow again. That is repentance.

Life's Reality.

The noisy waves are failures, but the great silent tide is a success. . . . Do you know what it is to be failing every day and yet to be sure that your life is, as a whole, in its great movement and meaning, not failing but succeeding?—Phillips Brooks.

God wants human hearts for temples, for homes. He hath need of thee. Let him come in and occupy.—Rev. S. Merrit.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

HIRAM CARPENTER'S WONDERFUL CURE OF PSORIASIS.

"I have been afflicted for twenty years with an obstinate skin disease, called by some M. D.'s. psoriasis, and others leprosy, commencing on my scalp; and in spite of all I could do, with the help of the most skilful doctors, it slowly but surely extended until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do any labor, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there would be nearly a dustpanful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the envelope containing this letter. In the latter part of winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, without any relief. The 12th of June I started West, in hopes I could reach the Hot Springs. I reached Detroit and was so low I thought I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr. —— treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All thought I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Cracked through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs; feet badly swollen; toe-nails came off; finger-nails dead and hard as a bone; hair dead, dry and lifeless as old straw. O my God! how I did suffer.

"My sister wouldn't give up; said, 'We will try Cuticura.' Some was applied to one hand and arm. Eureka! there was relief; stopped the terrible burning sensation from the word go. They immediately got Cuticura Resolvent, Ointment and Soap. I commenced by taking Cuticura Resolvent three time a day after meals; had a bath once a day, water about blood heat; used Cuticura Soap freely; applied Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. Result: returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left, and my skin as smooth as this sheet of paper. Hiram E. Carpenter, Henderson, N. Y."

The above remarkable testimonial was written January 19, 1880, and is republished because of the permanency of the cure. Under date of April 23, 1910, Mr. Carpenter wrote from his present home, 610 Walnut St. So., Lansing, Mich.: "I have never suffered a return of the psoriasis and although many years have passed I have not forgotten the terrible suffering I endured before using the Cuticura Remedies."

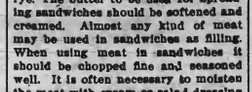
THE life of the husbandman—a life fed by the bounty of earth and sweetened by the airs of heaven.

Cooking in Casserole.

Casserole cookery has gradually worked itself into great popularity until now in almost every home some form of casserole is used. Since the study of foods and feeding has become more common the housewife begins to realize the value of slow cooking of foods, hence the popular use of the fireless cooker and the casserole.

Anything that requires slow cooking without browning, may be cooked in this stone-covered dish. If the browning is desired, it may be done before the food is put into the casserole.



Long, slow cooking of meats after the outside has been seared to retain the juices, is conducive to retaining the best and most nutritious elements of the food and also it makes the flavor of meats far superior to other methods of cooking.

Chicken in Casserole.—Separate the chicken as for frying, wipe perfectly dry and brown in a little fat. When the pieces are all nicely browned, place them in the casserole with a pint of chicken broth made by stewing the wing tips and the feet. Put on the cover and cook in a moderate oven for an hour and a half. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter in a pan, add a dozen potato balls, a dozen carrot balls and a few small onions; as soon as brown add to the casserole with more water if necessary, and cook until the vegetables are tender. Do not remove the cover after putting in the vegetables. Serve from the casserole. Beefsteak, mutton and any meat may be cooked in this manner. The coarse and tough cuts of meat are made tender and savory by this process of cooking.

Rice and Meat in Casserole.—Line the bottom and sides of a buttered casserole with a cupful of cold cooked rice. Season any chopped meat with onion juice, celery salt, herbs and salt, moisten with butter and eggs and fill the dish with the chopped meat. Cover with the rice and cook slowly for an hour. Serve with tomato sauce.

Bananas With Sauce in Casserole.—Pare and scrape half a dozen bananas to remove the coarse threads, cut in halves, both lengthwise and crosswise and put into a casserole. Melt a small glass of currant jelly, pour over them the juice of half a lemon and a tablespoonful of butter. Cover and cook in a slow oven for half an hour.

Pears baked in a casserole with a little butter and sugar are perfectly delicious. Let them brown the last half hour. Pears need long cooking, often a half a day to make them rich and tender.

SOME people are so fond of ill-luck that they run half way to meet it.

Sandwiches.

Sandwiches may be made of several kinds of bread; white, whole wheat graham, oatmeal, Boston brown and rye. The butter to be used for spreading sandwiches should be softened and creamed. Almost any kind of meat may be used in sandwiches as filling. When using meat in sandwiches it should be chopped fine and seasoned well. It is often necessary to moisten the meat with cream or salad dressing to make it sufficiently moist to spread.

It is often necessary to make the sandwiches several hours before serving. To keep them moist wrap them in a cloth wrung out of cold water, then fold in a dry towel. Sandwiches will keep several hours in this way and keep perfectly moist.

Egg Sandwiches.—Chop several hard-cooked eggs, season with salt, pepper and a grain of mustard. Spread over well-buttered bread and cut in any desired form.

Cucumber Sandwiches.—Pare slices of cucumber on well-buttered bread, sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve at once, as the cucumber will lose its freshness.

Onion and Celery Sandwiches.—Chop celery and onion fine, mix with a little dressing or olive oil, season with salt and pepper and spread on buttered bread.

Walnuts browned in a very little butter, chopped and mixed with grated maple sugar is another good mixture.

Take a cup of freshly grated cocoanut, one-fourth of a cup of chopped almonds, one teaspoonful of rose water and a tablespoonful of powdered sugar; mix well and use as filling for sandwiches.

Stuffed olives chopped, mixed with mayonnaise.

Blanched and browned almonds, chopped, mixed with boiled dressing.

Cottage cheese and olives, with mayonnaise.

One-half cup each of preserved ginger and candied orange peel, chopped fine; mix with three tablespoonfuls of thick sweet cream.

Take two bananas, mixed with two tablespoonfuls of maraschino cordial and two tablespoonfuls of thick sweet cream, sweetened with honey.

One From the Cashier.

The harmless customer leaned across the cigar counter and smiled engagingly at the new cashier. As he handed across the amount his dinner check called for he ventured a bit of aimless converse, for he was of that sort.

"Funny," said he, "how easy it is to spend money."

"Well," snapped the cashier as she fed his fare to the register, "if money was intended for you to hold on to the mint would be turning out coins with handles on 'em."

Had Money in Lumps.

Charles H. Rosenberg of Bavaria had lumps on his shoulders, elbows, and hips when he arrived here from Hamburg on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. In fact, there was a series of smaller lumps along his spine, much like a mountain range, as it is presented on a bas-relief map.

The lumps were about the size of good Oregon apples, and as Rosenberg passed before the immigration doctor for observation, the doctor said softly to himself, "See that lump." Then he asked Mr. Rosenberg to step aside.

"You seem like a healthy man," said the doctor, "but I cannot pass you until I know the origin of those lumps on your body."

"Ah, it is not a sickness," laughed the man from Bavaria. "Those swellings is money."

Taking off his coat he broke open a sample lump and showed that it contained $500 in American bank notes. He informed the doctor that he had $11,000 in all, with which he was going to purchase an apple orchard in Oregon.

He was admitted to the country.—New York Tribune.

Why He Laughed.

Miss Mattie belonged to the old south, and she was entertaining a guest of distinction.

On the morning following his arrival she told Tillie, the little colored maid, to take a pitcher of fresh water to Mr. Firman's room, and to say that Miss Mattie sent him her compliments, and that if he wanted a bath, the bathroom was at his service.

When Tillie returned she said:

"I tol' him, Miss Mattie, en' he laughed fit to bus' hisself."

"Why did he laugh, Tillie?"

"I dunno."

"What did you tell him?"

"Jus' what you tol' me to."

"Tillie, tell me exactly what you said."

"I banged de doah, and I said, 'Mr. Firman, Miss Mattie sends you her lub, and she says, 'Now you can get up and wash yo'self!'"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Where He Was Queer.

The negro, on occasions, displays a fine discrimination in the choice of words.

"Ale Hall am a bo'nd a'tist with a whitewash brush, sah," answered the colored patriarch eloquently.

"Well, tell him to come and white-wash my chicken house tomorrow."

Uncle Jacob shook his head dubiously.

"Why, didn't you say he was a good whitewasher?"

"Yes, sah, a powe'ful good whitewasher, sah; but mighty queer about a chicken house, sah, mighty queer!"—Mack's National Monthly.

MAKE UP YOUR MIND.

If you'll make up your mind to be Contented with your lot
And with the optimists agree
That trouble's soon forgot,

You'll be surprised to find, I guess,
Despite misfortune's darts,
What constant springs of happiness
Lie hid in human hearts;

What sunny gleams and golden dreams
The passing years unfold,
How soft and warm the lovelight beams
When you are growing old.

Acted Like the Genuine.

"The landlady says that new boarder is a foreign nobleman."

"Bogus, I'll bet."

"Oh, I don't know. He may be the real thing. He hasn't paid her a cent as yet."

More Human Nature.

Grouchly—By denying myself three ten-cent cigars daily for the past 20 years I figure that I have saved $2,190.

Moxley—Is that so?"

Grouchly—Yes. Say, let me have a chew of your tobacco, will you?

Thanks to Burnt Cork.

"Gosh! But the colored race is a-comin' to the front fast!" whispered innocent Uncle Hiram, at the vaudeville show, as the black-face comedian was boisterously applauded.

"Yes, indeed," smiled the city man; "anyone can see that that fellow is a self-made negro."

Le, the Rich Indian.

The per capita wealth of the Indian is approximately $2,130, that for other Americans is only a little more than $1,300. The lands owned by the Indians are rich in oil, timber and other natural resources of all kinds. Some of the best timber land in the United States is owned by Indians.

The value of their agricultural lands runs up in the millions. The ranges which they possess support about 500,000 sheep and cattle, owned by lessees, bringing in a revenue of more than $272,000 to the various tribes besides providing feed for more than 1,500,000 head of horses, cattle, sheep and goats belonging to the Indians themselves. Practically the only asphalt deposits in the United States are on Indian lands.—Red Man.

No Slang for Her.

"Slip me a brace of cackles!" ordered the chesty-looking man with a bored air, as he perched on the first stool in the lunchroom.

"A what?" asked the waitress, as she placed a glass of water before him.

"Adam and Eve flat on their backs! A pair of sunnysiders!" said the young man in an exasperated tone.

"You got me, kid," returned the waitress. "Watcha want?"

"Eggs up," said the young man. "'E-g-g-s,' the kind that come before the hen or after, I never knew which."

"Why didn't you say so in the first place?" asked the waitress. "You'd a had 'em by this time."

"Well, of all things——" said the young man.

"I knew what he was drivin' at all the time," began the waitress as the young man departed. "But he's one of them fellers that thinke they can get by with anything. He don't know that they're using plain English now in restaurants."

The League of Politeness.

The League of Politeness has been formed in Berlin. It aims at inculcating better manners among the people of Berlin. It was founded upon the initiative of Freulein Cecelie Meyer, who was inspired by an existing organization in Rome. In deference to the parent organization the Berlin league has chosen the Italian motto, "Pro gentilezza." This will be emblesoned upon an attractive little medal worn where Germans are accustomed to wear the insignia of orders. The idea is that a glaance at the "talisman" will annihilate any inclination to indulge in bad temper or discourteous language. "Any polite person" is eligible for membership.

The "Country Churchyerd."

Those who recall Gray's "Elegy" in a Country Churchyard" will remember that the pe-se-ful spot where "the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep" is identified with St. Giles', Stoke Poges, Buckinghamshire. In the prosaic pages of a recent issue of the Gazette there appears an order in council providing that ordinary interments are henceforth forbidden in the churchyard.

How She Learned.

The mother of a family of three small children was discussing their comparative precocity with a friend. "John was very slow at everything," she said, referring to her oldest. "Tom was a little better, and Edith, the baby, is the smartest of all. She picks up everything quick as can be."

Master John, who had been listening, now contributed his share of the conversation.

"Humph!" he exclaimed. "I know why her learns so quick. It's 'cause her has us and we didn't have us."

Economy.

The late former Governor Allen D. Candler of Georgia was famous in the south for his quaint humor.

"Governor Candler," said a Gainesville man, "once abandoned cigars for a pipe at the beginning of the year. He stuck to his resolve till the year's end. Then he was heard to say:

"'By actual calculation, I have saved by smoking a pipe instead of cigars this year $208. But where is it?'"

Moslem Traditions.

Ramadan is the month exalted by Moslems above all others. In that month the Koran—according to Moslem tradition—was brought down by Gabriel from heaven and delivered to men in small sections. In that month, Mohammed was accustomed to retire from Mecca to the cave of Hira, for prayer and meditation. In that month Abraham, Moses and other prophets received their divine revelations. In that month the "doors of heaven are always open, the passages to hell are shut, and the devils are chained." So run the traditions.—The Christian Herald.

A Medical Compromise.

"You had two doctors in consultation last night, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"What did they say?"

"Well, one recommended one thing and the other recommended something else."

"A deadlock, eh?"

"No, they finally told me to mix 'em!"

Hard on the Mare.

Twice, as the bus slowly wended its way up the steep Cumberland Gap, the door at the rear opened and slammed. At first those inside paid little heed; but the third time demanded to know why they should be disturbed in this fashion.

"Who?"

"The mare. Spake low! Shure, O'm desavin th' crayture. Everry toime she 'ears th' door close, she thinks won o' yez is gettin' down ter walk up th' hill, an' that sort o' raises her sperrits."—Success Magazine.

Exaggeration.

On her arrival in New York Mme. Sara Bernhardt, replying to a compliment on her youthful appearance, said: "The secret of my youth? It is the good God—and then, you know, I work all the time. But I am a great-grandmother," she continued, thoughtfully, "so how can these many compliments be true? I am afraid my friends are exaggerating."

Mme. Bernhardt's laugh, spontaneous as a girl's, prompted a chorus of "No, no!"

"Yes," said the [illegible] delicious exaggeration, like the French nurse on the boulevard. Our boulevards are much more crowded than your streets, you know, and, although we have numerous accidents, things aren't quite as bad as the nurse suggested.

"Her little charge, a boy of six, begged her to stop a while in a crowd, surrounding an automobile accident. 'Please wait,' the little boy said, 'Want to see the man who was run over.' 'No; hurry,' his nurse answered. 'There will be plenty more to see further on.'"

A Suggestion.

"Two doctors have been called in on a case," said the observer of events and persons. "There is no reason in the world why anything that has a worth 40 cents to anybody——"

Blissful Ignorance.

"Were you nervous when you proposed to your wife?" asked the mental person.

"No," replied Mr. Meekins, "but I could have foreseen the past ten years I would have been."

Economy in Art.

"Of course," said Mr. Sirius Barker, "I want my daughter to have some sort of an artistic education. I think I'll have her study singing."

"Why not art or literature?"

"Art spoils canvas and paint and literature wastes reams of paper. Singing merely produces a temporary disturbance of the atmosphere."

Home Thought.

"It must have been frightful," said Mrs. Bossim to her husband, who was in the earthquake. "Tell me what was your first thought when you awakened in your room at the hotel and heard the alarm."

"My first thought was of you," answered Mr. Bossim.

"How noble!"

"Yes. First thing I knew, a vase on the mantel caught me on the ear, then a chair whirled in my direction, and when I jumped to the middle of the room four or five books and a framed picture struck me all at once."

Even after saying that, he affected to wonder what made her so angry for the remainder of the evening.—Mack's National Monthly.

New Process of Staining Glass.

The art of coloring glass has been lost and refound, jealously guarded and maliciously stolen so many times in the history of civilization that it seems almost impossible to say anything new on glass staining. Yet a process has been discovered for making the stained glass used in windows which is a departure from anything known at the present time. What the Venetians and the Phoenicians knew of it we cannot tell.

The glass first receives its design in mineral colors and the whole is then fired in a heat so intense that the coloring matter and the glass are indissolubly fused. The most attractive feature of this method is that the surface acquires a peculiar pebbled character in the heat, so that when the glass is in place the lights are delightfully soft and mellow.

In making a large window in many shades each panel is separately moulded and bent and the sections are assembled in a metal frame.

Our Voices.

I think our conversational soprano, as sometimes overheard in the cars, arising from a group of young persons who have taken the train at one of our great industrial centers, for instance, young persons of the female sex, we will say, who have bustled in full dressed, engaged in loud, strident speech, and who, after free discussion, have fixed on two or more double seats, which having secured, they proceed to eat apples and hand round dagguerreotypes—I say, I think the conversational soprano, heard under these circumstances, would not be among the abatements the old enemy would put in requisition were he getting up a new temptation of St. Anthony.

There are sweet voices among us, we all know, and voices not musical, it may be, to those who hear them for the first time, yet sweeter to us than any we shall hear until we listen to some warbling angel in the overture to that eternity of blissful harmonies we hope to enjoy. But why should I tell lies? If my friends love me, it is because I try to tell the truth. I never heard but two voices in my life that frightened me by their sweetness.—Holmes.

What About Brain Food?

This Question Came Up in the Recent Trial for Libel.

A "Weekly" printed some criticisms of the claims made for our foods. It evidently did not fancy our reply printed in various newspapers, and brought suit for libel. At the trial some interesting facts came out.

The following facts, however, were quite clearly established:

Analysis of brain by an unquestionable authority, Geoghegan, shows of Mineral Salts, Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined (Phosphate of Potash), 2.91 per cent of the total, 3.83 of all Mineral Salts.

This is over one-half.

Considerable more than one-half of Phosphate of Potash.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows: Potassium and Phosphorus, (which join and make Phosphate of Potash), is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumen and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor, and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

The natural conclusion is that if Phosphate of Potash is the needed mineral element in brain and you use food which does not contain it, you have brain fag because its daily loss is not supplied.

On the contrary, if you eat food known to be rich in this element, you place before the life forces that which nature demands for brain-building.

In the trial a sneer was uttered because Mr. Post announced that he had made years of research in this country and some clinics of Europe, regarding the effect of the mind on digestion of food.

But we must be patient with those who sneer at facts they know nothing about.

Mind does not work well on a brain that is broken down by lack of nourishment.

Worry, anxiety, fear, hate, &c., &c., directly interfere with or stop the flow of Ptyalin, the digestive juice of the mouth, and also interfere with the flow of the digestive juices of stomach and pancreas.

Therefore, the mental state of the individual has much to do (more than suspected) with digestion.

This trial has demonstrated:

That Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumen and water.

That Grape-Nuts contains that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

For State Senator.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. James W Kennedy, daughter-in, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

McCreary Against the Field.

Already is it McCreary against the field in the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor. It is an old saying that under the apple tree that bears the good fruit the clubs will be found, and the old adage is being again verified in the case of McCreary.

A terrific howl is being sent up by some because certain persons, as the howlers charge, are for McCreary, therefore he ought to be defeated for the nomination. It does not take a wise man to know that a candidate wants every vote for him he can get. A candidate would be a blooming fool who would say to ex-Gov. Beckham, Percy Haley, Mr. Mayo, or anyother voter "I do not want your support in my race," yet that is exactly what some are demanding that Senator McCreary proclaim.

It is charged that McCreary has entered into a combination with Beckham, Haley and Mayo. Mr McCreary says he has made no combination with any man or set of men, and as he has never yet been accused of deliberately lying, and being the one above all others who ought to know the truth of his statement must be accepted until the proof is produced, and it must not be given to the public anonymously and through a scurrilous sheet like the one purporting to be printed in a Tennessee town, and which was recently mailed in Newport. Such dark-lantern practices and efforts to strike below the belt are as reprehensible in politics as in anything else, and the political bandits who indulge in such practices belong, properly, to Adams county, Ohio, crowd.

McCreary's most grievous sins are he is considerably beyond the meridian of life, and has held many offices. As for the first he is not responsible, but his age is not such as to incapacitate him in the least. He has led a correct life and as a result is a well preserved and an ideal representative of perfect manhood at the age of sixty-eight. His age should be no handicap in the contest he has entered.

It is true that he has held office many years since he reached his majority, but his recognized ability and honesty secured the positions for him, and in all the years he has served the public there has not been a single charge of corruption, graft or dishonesty made against him. His record is spotless. Where do you find a man who has a better record either as a private citizen or a public servant than Jas. B McCreary? Again, during Democracy's darkest days in Kentucky James B. McCreary's advice was sought and followed closely, preventing, no doubt the loss of many lives and preventing much blood shed.

Every position McCreary has held he did so with ability, and credit to himself and honor to those he representated. If nominated he will be elected by a handsome majority and make Kentucky a Governor of which she may well be proud.

The proposal of the nonpoolers who are to meet in Lexington, today, for organization, to raise a crop of tobacco in 1911 and cut out the crop in 1912, will meet with opposition from old-line poolers who are members of the Burley Tobacco Society. These latter say that the slogan of the growers, whether poolers or nonpoolers in the past, should be cut out a crop in 1911, sell the pooled tobacco now on hand and make a united effort for a strong pool in 1912 and the succeeding years.

Robert McGlasson, of R. D No. 2, was the first to receive a receipt for subscription to the Recorder dated in January, 1911, and then along came Edgar Cropper, of R. D No. 1, and planked down for three subscriptions, two of which he sends to his children.

The Kentucky Editors.

(Courier-Journal Dec. 29)

The Kentucky editors are in Louisville for their Midwinter Press Association meeting and for the purpose of participating in the Good Roads Congress. Louisville is always glad to welcome these representatives of the press and it is to be hoped that every one of them will find the present visit both pleasant and profitable.

Kentucky's newspapers compare favorably with those of any other State in the union. Kentucky editors, as a whole, are as progressive and as enterprising as may be found anywhere on the globe. There is no more important factor for advancement than a well conducted newspaper, and Kentucky is fortunate in having a large number of papers which are well conducted. Thru no other agency is accomplished so much of valuable and unselfish work for the public good. The average newspaper editor is an indefatigable "booster." He booms his town, he lauds his county and he sings paeans of praise for his State. He does these things not desultorily or intermittently or half-heartedly. It is a part of his business to "boost" when others knock; to push where others kick; to pull where others balk. And he is steadily and continuously on the job.

It must be admitted that much of the editor's laborious endeavor to advance the intrests of his community is put forth under conditions quite the reverse of encouraging. His optimism must needs be like Mark Tapley's "particular jollity"—always on tap and most in evidence when circumstances are most depressing. The public is not always appreciative and no man does more or gets less than the faithful advance agent of prosperity who makes it the chief end and aim of his journalistic efforts to "boost" for the common good. To the editor who is really in love with his work this is a small matter, since he has with him the ever-present consolation that "virtue is its own reward."

The newspapers of Kentucky are doing their full share for development and improvement and for progress along varied lines of advancement. The mid-winter meetings of the Press Association are events of interest and importance in current history. The present gathering in connection with the Good Roads Conference is of exceptional importance and should be productive of beneficial results for the entire Commonwealth.

PT. PLEASANT.

Mrs. Geo Bradford is quite sick with grippe.

Mr. Henry Jergen has lately installed a telephone.

Mrs. H V. Tanner entertained relatives Christmas day.

Mrs. J J. Rucker entertained a number of friends, Saturday.

Mr. White, of Cincinnati, has been the guest of Miss Dollie Huron.

W. Keene Souther spent Thursday night in Fern Bank, O., guest of his uncle, Henry Gordon.

The marriage of Emery Smith and Miss Ethel Souther came as a surprise to their family and friends.

Mr. and Mrs Allie Walton and little daughter, Reba Clare, spent Saturday night and New Year's day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J H. Walton.

Miss Mamie Haley closed her school for the holidays with a very pretty little entertainment on Friday before Christmas, and left for her home in Walton.

Quite a large crowd of young folks was very pleasantly entertained at the hospitable home of Mr. Malchus Souther, Saturday night, Dec. 31, to watch the old year out.

Fiscal Court In Session.

The Boone County Fiscal Court held its regular January term this week, commencing on Tuesday and holding over Wednesday. County Judge Cason presided, and all the Justices of the Peace except Esquire Ben S. O'Neal, of Verona, were present. Esquire O'Neal was snow bound, hence his nonappearance. Considerable routine business was transacted, the first day of the term being devoted to the settlement with road overseers.

The county infirmary was let to Frank Rouse at $300 for this year.

A Stigma On The Town.

Last Saturday night three young gentlemen of Erlanger responded to an invitation to attend a "Watch Party" in Burlington. They came in one buggy. They hitched near the residence to which they had been invited. When they started home at midnight they discovered that some miscreant or miscreants had unhitched their vehicle, which a few minutes later they found, shaftless, jammed up on the portico at the court house. The streets and allies of the town were searched, but the horse, shafts and harness could not be found. Next morning the buggy shafts were found on top of the court house portico, the horse was roaming about the streets, while part of the harness was found in O. P Phipp's bus, and part on top of a barn. No doubt this piece of a barn. No doubt this piece of dirty work was enjoyed very much by the hoodlums who pulled it off, but it shows clearly the lack of principle and common decency on the part of those responsible for it, while the stigma will rest upon the entire town.

Local Happenings.

The younger class in and about Burlington seemed to have a better time than anybody during the holidays.

The man who predicted this would be a mild winter is hiding in the bushes with the man who hit Bill Patterson.

Thomas Fowler, a native of this county land a brother of the late Edward Fowler, died at his home at Campers, Illinois, on the 23d ult.

All those who are to take part in the minstrel show to be given in Burlington, are requested to meet at Library Hall Friday evening at 7:30.

Charles Kelly and wife, of the Waterloo neighborhood, gave the young people a dance, last Friday night. Quite a crowd of young people attended and all had a good time.

Robert Wilson and family who have lived on Frank Rouse's farm for about two years, moved to Walton, last week, where he will work for C. Scott Chambers, the undertaker and liveryman.

Richard Allen, residing in the suburbs of Limaburg was a caller at this office one day last week. Mr Allen has been a resident of that locality several years and is well liked by all his neighbors.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a very valuable medicine for all throat and lung troubles, quickly relieves and cures painful breathing and a dangerously sounding cough which indicates congested lungs. Sold by all dealers.

About $4,000 must be paid either by the state or the citizens of Louisville who were parties to the injunction suit restraining the Sheriff of Jefferson county from collecting taxes on the twenty-per-cent increase in the valuation of property in that county.

The dirt roads got bad in short order last week. Previous to the fall of snow they were in excellent condition and the people who use them were congratulating themselves on being able to get about so nicely and easily. But, lo and behold, the change came without warning.

That Pie Social.

Pies, pies, pies—pies upon pies, pies by the side of pies and pies of all kinds about describes the condition which confronted those who attended the pie social given by the ladies Aid Society of the local Baptist church at the residence of Mr. and Mrs M. L. Riddell, last Friday night. Every pie in the large supply was a product of the highest art of its class of culinary work, and was served in a pleasing manner by the ladies to whom that duty was delegated. Having feasted on a diet of pies, with a cup of good coffee as an accompaniment if you chose the latter, you left the dining room, passing a large bowl filled with delicious punch. This bowl was presided over by Miss Alice Carver who smiled upon the guests so pleasantly that they could not resist becoming liberal patrons of her department. Taken altogether the social was a great success, and all who patronized it felt that they were assisting in a good cause.

Smith-Souther Marriage.

Miss Ethel Souther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Malchus Souther, of Pt. Pleasant neighborhood, and Emery Smith, son of C. G Smith and wife, of Hebron neighborhood, were married at the residence of Rev. Runyon, in Latonia, last Thursday. They had gone to the city ostensibly to attend the theater and the first information of the marriage the bride's parents received, was about nine o'clock Thursday night when she called them by telephone from the Palace Hotel, Cincinnati. They had kept their intentions a profound secret, but not because of parental objections. The Recorder extends congratulations.

Benjamin R. Gaines Dead.

Benjamin R. Gaines 59 years old December 26, 1910, departed this life at his home five miles west of Burlington last Saturday at 1:30 p. m, after an illness of twenty four hours of acute indigestion. Funeral last Monday at 10 a. m at Petersburg. Mrs Gaines wife, who survives was Miss Nannie at the house. Mr Gaines' wife son, W. A Gaines, child by his second wife, who was a Miss Graves. A brief biography will be published next week.

The superintendent of mails at Cincinnati acted promptly on the Recorder's complaint of delay in its delivery at Walton, and from now on the paper should reach that office promptly every Thursday evening. It is the policy of the postoffice department to have all matter delivered at the earliest time possible after it is mailed, and any delay that is complained of is investigated at once.

From New Kentucky.

C. H Acra, of French, Indiana, writes:

I am living in Indiana, in the suburbs of New Kentucky, and will write a few lines to let my Boone county friends know that I have not forgotten them. The Democrats predominate in this neighborhood. Some of the natives say that Kentuckians are coming in so rapidly that it will soon be impossible for an American to secure a home in which to live. But the more cornerackers that come in the better it will be.

A friend at Rabbit Hash sent me a fine, fat 'possum, which, with sweet potatoes I enjoyed very much. I can not find a Hoosier who ever ate a 'possum and they think a person who does eat that kind of meat has a depraved taste.

Peace and plenty prevail here since the Democrats swept the country a few weeks ago.

I wish the editor, correspondents and readers of the Recorder each and everyone a happy and prosperous 1911.

Several of the citizens of this county who are interested in tobacco culture will attend the big meeting of tobacco growers to be held at Lexington today. The probability is an understanding will be reached at the Lexington meeting as to how to deal with the tobacco situation this year that will meet with the approval of all. The growers can control the market if they will stand together, a fact that needs no demonstration.

Lennie Eddins is considerably worried over the fact that he was mistaken a few days since for a brother of his father, J. M Eddins, and the father of his young brother, Stanley. Lennie cannot be convinced that he looks so old as to be a victim of such mistakes.

Bad colds are prevalent the county over.

Over A Half Million Raise.

Uncle Sam's census enumerators announced a falling off in Boone county's population, but quite the contrary is the result of the enumeration of the taxable property in the county, by Assessor T. G Willis, it having increased considerable over $800,000 over the assessment made in 1909. Of course Mr. Willis is much elated because of the increase and is sure that the moguls at Frankfort can find no excuse for disturbing his work this year by adding a per cent thereto. Mr Willis has watched closely his work of listing property, aiming at all times to be fair with the property owner and just with the Commonwealth. Joe H. Walton, of Rabbit Hash, was the first to give in his 1910 list and Richard Utz, of Burlington, was the last.

In the guessing contest at the box-ball alley Walton Dempsey guessed the exact number of beans in the glass jar, and was awarded the prize, a barrel of flour, but accepted a five dollar bill instead. There were several guesses that were very close to the number of beans. One liberal patron of the alley counted up what the rolling he had done had cost him and found it exceeded the cost of the barrel of flour, and no doubt there were others.

Not being able to cross Gunpowder creek last Thursday Elmer Conley back-tracked on his mail route to Gunpowder at the foot of the James Ryle hill. Mr Conley takes great interest in serving the patrons of route No. 2, and can be relied on to do his part to cover all the route every day.

John Acra, one of the industrious and clever citizens of the Doublelick territory was transacting business in Burlington Saturday morning. Mr Acra is a renter but of a class that a good farmer is always glad to have on his land.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is not a common, every-day cough mixture. It is a meritorious remedy for all the troublesome and dangerous complications resulting from cold in the head, throat, chest or lungs. Sold by all dealers.

SHORTAGE

Of Hogs for Slaughter In the Cincinnati Market Last Year Was Nearly 100,000.

(Enquirer Dec. 29)

There is a reason for the high price of meats in this market ouring the past year, and this reason stands out boldly in the annual report of Charles B. Murray, Secretay of the Cincinnati Pork Packers and Provision Dealers' Association, which was submitted yesterday. The report shows that there were nearly 100,000 less hogs slaughtered than in the preceding year, while the total slaughter of hogs, cattle and sheep was approximately 820,000 compared with 940,000 for last year, or a falling off of 11 per cent. compared with the annual average slaughter of 945,000, for the past five years.

Continuing the report of Secretary Murray, who is also Superintendent of the Chamber of Commerce, says:

"The number of hogs locally slaughtered during the winter season was 196,000, and for the summer season 299,000, making a total of 495,000 for the 12 months, which compares with 595,000 for the preceding 12 months, and an annual average of 613,000 for 10 years prior to 1910.

"The year's shortage in supplies of hogs in the Cincinnati market was a condition which prevailed generally. The total Western slaughtering of hogs for the 12 months prior to November 1, 1910, was about 20 per cent short of the preceding 12 months, a decrease of more than 5,000,000 in numbers.

"The explanation for the large decline in market supplies of hogs the past year and earlier is found, at least partly, in drought conditions in the late months of 1908, occasioning shortage of water for live stock in many sections which hastened the marketing.

"The abnormal supplies thus crowding the markets brought prices down to positions so much below relative values of corn that producers to a large extent abandoned or curtailed swine raising, so that with the better shaping of the industry there has been the reduced basis of supplies, which cannot be quickly restored, but which may be expected to show a tendency toward development in the near future.

"The number of cattle slaughtered in Cincinnati for the year ending October 31, 1910 was about 195,000, compared with 185,000 the preceding year and an annual average of 180,000 for five years prior to the past year.

"The total number of sheep slaughtered was about 150,000 compared with a like number for the preceding year and an annual average of 125,000 for five years prior to the past year.

"Prices of packing grades of hogs in Cincinnati for the twelve months ending October 31, 1910, averaged about $9.25 per one hundred pounds, compared with $7.05 the preceding year, an advance of 31 per cent. For the four winter months the average was about $8.80, and for the eight summer months about $9.50

"From the first records of pork packing at Cincinnati to the present time the total number of hogs slaughtered is 35,665,000. Of this number 26,320,000 represent winter operations, and 9,345,000 summer slaughtering."

Good Roads.

Louisville, Ky., Dec 29—Kentucky proposes to spend $1,250,000 annually to establish good roads in all parts of the commonwealth.

To perfect the plan which has already been drawn by the special committee, insuring State aid to the different counties, is the work of the Good Roads Congress now in session here.

The Legislature will be asked to adopt the perfected measure.

Today the Good Roads Congress and the Kentucky Press Association conferred together, and it is believed that these two forces will realize the prayer of Dr. J. S. Lyons in opening the congress that "the crooked ways be made straight and the rough ways smooth."

The plan for improving the roads in brief is that a State tax not to exceed 5 cents on the hundred dollars be levied. The different counties may levy up to 40 cents to build roads.

After the county has levied a tax, and its proposed road plans are approved by the Highway Commissioner, who is created by the law, the State may pay not less than one-third nor more than half the cost of the road, no county to receive more than two per cent of the total State levy in any one year.

Under this plan the State will provide about $450,000 annually and the counties $900,000.

MARRIAGE IN EARLY LIFE

Franklin Thought Early Unions Had Best Chance of Happiness and Success.

Indeed, from marriages that have fallen under my observation, I am rather inclined to think that early ones stand the best chance of happiness. The temper and habits of the young are not yet become so stiff, and uncompiying, as when more advanced in life; they form more easily to each other, and hence, many occasions of disgust are removed. And if youth has less of that prudence which is necessary to manage a family, yet the parents and elder friends of young married persons are generally at hand to afford their advice, which amply supplies that defect, and, by early marriage, youth is sooner formed to regular and useful life; and possibly some of these accidents of connections, that might have injured the constitutions, or reputation, or both, are thereby happily prevented.

Particular circumstances of particular persons may possibly sometimes make it prudent to delay entering into that state; but, in general, when nature has rendered our bodies fit for it, the presumption is in nature's favor, that she has not judged amiss in making us desire it. Late marriages are often attended, too, with this further inconvenience, that there is not the same chance that the parents should live to see their offspring educated. "Late children," says a Spanish proverb, "are early orphans." A melancholy reflection to those whose case it may be! With us in America marriages are generally in the morning of life; our children are therefore educated and settled by noon; and thus, our business being done, we have the afternoon and evening to ourselves.—Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography.

LEAVE THE PAST ALONE

Incident Which Shows How Unpleasantness May Be Avoided by Letting Past Die.

John B. Moissant, the well-known aviator, refused with a smile to discuss his turbulent past among the revolutionists of South America.

"Leave the past alone," he said to a New York reporter. "Thus you avoid unpleasantness. Let me tell you about Judge Hangar.

"Judge Hangar was spending a sunny autumn week at Atlantic City, and every morning on one of the piers he used to see a young lady whose face looked most familiar.

"The judge prided himself on his memory for names and faces, and yet somehow this young lady escaped him. But he was sure he knew her, and one morning, though she always studiously avoided his eye, he stopped and addressed her with courtly politeness.

"'Pardon me, miss,' he said, 'your features are familiar, but, strangely enough, I cannot recall the circumstances under which we met. Yet I certainly remember our having met somewhere.'

"'Remember!' cried the young lady, and she rose from among her friends with angry and aggressive air. 'Remember, you old scallawag! Well, you ought to remember. It's not a year since you gave me eight months in the common pleas, and for two cents I'd push you over the railing into the water!'"

Perch Feed on Trout Eggs.

Dr. Tarlton B. Bean, New York state fish culturist, received a package of yellow perch the other day from the president of the Fishermen's club at Penn Yan, which forcibly illustrates the destructive capacities of perch in the spawning beds of lake trout. Mr. Goodspeed accompanied the package with a letter in which he told Doctor Bean that the state hatchery employes in taking trout from Keuka lake for spawn one day captured in a seine on the trout beds on the east shore about seven bushels of yellow perch. Apparently every perch had been feeding upon the eggs of the lake trout, which had been laid in abundance in that section of the lake and every perch had a bellyful of lake trout eggs.

Doctor Bean said he thought a mistake had been made in the past in planting perch in waters inhabited by trout, and announced that so long as he had any say in the matter there would be no more planting of perch in waters where there were trout.

Christian Girl No Girl at That.

The request for "Christian Girl" at the Congress hotel in Chicago the other night, and the calls by a page for such a person created general amusement among guests and employes until it was learned that "Christian Girl" was a traveling man from Cleveland, O., stopping at the hotel and was wanted by a friend on the telephone.

"Have you a Christian Girl here?" a man asked Clerk Burke.

"Well, I don't know," hesitated the clerk. "Wait and I'll find out."

"Say," replied the guest, "I don't want a female, a sure enough girl, I just want Christian Girl from Cleveland and he's no girl at that."

The right Girl was found.

Too Many Bones.

Bacon—Your dog is very fond of bones, I suppose?

Egbert—Oh, yes.

Bacon—The more he gets the happier he is, I suppose?

How They Do it in Ohio.

In a single county in Ohio over 600 men have been indicted for bribery and false voting. This was in the rural districts. The farmers out West must be getting too prosperous.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

—o—

Votes in Ohio are worth $20 a throw. All of which goes to prove that the high cost of living has affected all our commodities.—Milwaukee Sentinel

—o—

They offer the defense for Adams County Ohio, that other counties in the State are as bad and that vote buying has gone on for so long that the voters did not realize it was wrong. Then it was high time for prosecutions enough to teach them morality. —Buffalo Express.

—o—

Nearly 300 voters were disfranchised in one Ohio county for selling their votes. That's nothing. They can move to Illinois and run for the Legislature.—Detroit News.

—o—

There seems to have been no standard price for votes in Adams County, Ohio. A ten-cent drink of whisky bought one man, while the next comer got $25. Ten per cent of the voters in the county are under indictment. It was epidemic.—St Paul Dispatch.

—o—

It has been discovered that votes have been sold to the highest bidder in Ohio for 20 years. They will be raffling them off at church fairs there next.—Omaha Bee.

—o—

The story is told that in one county in Ohio as many as 1,500 voters were sold. The number of buyers is not stated. Whatever that number is, add to the 1,500 who sold and the sum will show how many men there are in that county who are outside the prisons that ought to be on the inside.—Knoxville Journal and Tribune.

—o—

One hundred and twenty-five men have been indicted for selling ballots in Ohio. It appears that the market in the Middle West is flourishing.—Atlanta Journal.

—o—

With 790 vote sellers indicted so far in Adams County, Ohio, all of whom will be disfranchised for five years, the Stepmother of Presidents may cut less ice in the next elections.—Atlanta Journal

—o—

They speak of voters who sold their votes in Adams County Ohio, as appearing at Court by the wagon load. Sold by the weight or by the load?—N. Y World.

—o—

No, gentle reader, Adams County, Ohio, was not the birthplace of Senator Lorimer.—Louisville Times.

—o—

It is safe to say that there will be no vote buying and selling in Adams County, Ohio, for some time to come. The drastic enforcement of the law covering such offense is an object lesson that will have a lasting effect. The example of the Judge who is applying it could be followed elsewhere to advantage.—Indianapolis Star.

State News.

It seems to us that the American Tobacco Company has used very poor judgment in handling the 1910 tobacco so far. They placed buyers in every county and took the "limit off" the price, in order to break down the pool and they did. And two days after the pool went by the board not a buyer could be heard of any place. Now they are buying tobacco in a roundabout way at 5 and 6 cents.—Carlisle Advocate.

It is to be hoped that the effort being made by the independent tobacco growers to organize a pool will be crowned with success. The present condition of the tobacco market certainly emphasizes the need for some sort of action on the part of the growers.—Georgetown News.

A number of crops of tobacco from here have been taken to Lexington, but the prices have been very disappointing to the sellers. Five, 6 and 7-cent tobacco brings the producer small return for his labor.—Midway Clipper.

WHO GETS MOST FROM LIFE?

The Man Who Lives Like an Anchorite or He Who Lives Like Good Fellow?

"Oh, hold on now, Ford. Don't go harping on that. You are pure New England stock. Joe Garland is half Kanaka. Your blood is thin. His is warm. Life is one thing to you, another thing to him. He laughs and sings and dances through life, genial, unselfish, childlike, everybody's friend. You go through life like a perambulating prayer-wheel, a friend of nobody but the righteous, and the righteous are those who agree with you as to what is right. And after all who shall say? You live like an anchorite. Joe Garland lives like a good fellow. Who has extracted the most from life? We are paid to live you know. When the wages are too meager we throw up the job, which is the cause, believe me of all rational suicide, Joe Garland would starve to death on the wages you get from life. You see, he is made differently. So would you starve on his wages, which are singing, and love—"

"Lust, if you will pardon me," was the interruption.

Doctor Kennedy smiled.

"Love, to you, is a word of four letters and a definition which you have extracted from the dictionary. But love, real love, dewy and palpitant and tender, you do not know. If God made you and me, and men and women, believe me, he made love, too. But to come back. It's about time you quit hounding Joe Garland. It is not worthy of you, and it is cowardly. The thing for you to do is to reach out and lend him a hand."—Jack London, in Pacific Monthly.

PAT GOES OFF THE PAYROLL

Foreman's Recital of Irishman's Recklessness Is Interrupted and His Agitation Calmed.

A works foreman of mine, who had been employed as assistant superintendent in another dynamite factory, told me the following story:

He one day intercepted an Irish laborer, who was taking a barrel, which had been used for settling nitroglycerin, down to the soda dry-house, with the intention of filling it with hot nitrate of soda from the drying-pans. The foreman scolded Pat roundly and told him that, should he do such a reckless thing again, he would be instantly discharged. The foreman then went to the superintendent's office and reported the matter.

In the meantime, Patrick, utterly ignoring the injunction, simply waited for the foreman to disappear, then proceeded to the dry-house with the barrel and began to fill it with the hot nitrate of soda.

Over in the superintendent's office the foreman had just completed his narration of the incident, when there was a thunderous report and a crash of glass. Then Pat's booted foot landed on the office floor between them. The superintendent dryly remarked: "Calm your agitation—Pat is already discharged!"—Hudson Maxim in Adventure.

Breaking Up Soil With Powder.

It doesn't take long to tear an acre to pieces with the powder system now being used in adobe lands. A demonstration a few days ago on the college farm showed how thoroughly the ground was broken up. Whether the process is to be successful is still to be proved. E. R. Anhast has charge of the work now being done. In ground to be used for an orchard Mr. Anhast had holes bored—196 to the acre—15 feet apart. The charges put into these were connected with wires. Three rows about twelve or fifteen charges, were fired at one time. The tough adobe was cracked from hole to hole; large pieces rose twenty-five or thirty feet into the air. The ground was in fairly good condition to plow, but it will be even better after frost has laid its softening influence upon it.

It costs about $15 an acre for the powder and possibly $2.50 or $2.75 for the labor.—Manhattan Industrialist.

Children and Money.

My father was a minister with six children. My mother was ready to enter college with her brothers before the day of the woman's college. Now that I have children of my own I am thankful for the thoughtful training which we six children had. We each had a small allowance, and at the close of the eyar, if in our home-made diaries we could show a balance in our favor, the amount of money we had saved was doubled and placed to our account in the savings bank. We then became the proud possessors of a bank book. The habit of saving, with wise supervision to prevent miserliness, makes all the difference between plenty and want in later years. —Christian Herald.

Monument in a River.

There are monuments in all sorts of out-of-the-way places, but one that is really unique is that erected in a river. It stands in the Parramatta river, New South Wales, a stream known the world over for the rowing events that have taken place upon it. This monument, which is in memory of the world-famed rower, Searle, is also unique from the fact that it has been used as the winning post for many of the races for the world's championship and is still used as such for local events.

Mr. and Mrs R. K. Pinnell of Georgetown, spent the holidays here at their old home with their many friends. Mr Finnell is a conductor on the local freight train on the Cincinnati Southern with a run between Georgetown and Lexington.

C. Scott Chambers, the clever undertaker of this place, was called to near Burlington to take charge of the obsequies of Benj. R. Gaines, one of Boone county's old and most highly esteemed citizens who died Saturday at his home near Burlington.

David S. Buck has returned to Johnson City, Tennessee, where he has charge of extensive lumber interests. His brother Ernest Buck who has been here with home folks accompanied him to Johnson City to accept a position with the same lumber firm.

Mr. and Mrs J. W. Hogan, of near Union, entertained on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs Clarence Calman, of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs Will Wilson, of Covington; Mr. and Mrs. Eli Conrad and son, John and Mr. and Mrs Geo. Rice and children, Chester and Miss Besse Lee, of Walton.

Edmond Johnson of Covington, spent part of the holidays here with his father W. B Johnson and family. Mr Johnson is a bookkeeper in the wholesale grocery house of Henley & Co., Cincinnati, and is very popular with his associates because of his many attractive qualities.

The Walton Baptist Sunday school in its Christmas greeting Dec. 23d, distributed two hundred bags of candy, oranges, nuts, etc., among the members, being the largest "treat" ever given by a Walton Sunday school. The affair was managed by Wayne Byland, the efficient superintendent.

Mrs. Nancy Coffman, one of our venerable ladies, was seriously hurt one evening last week by accidentally falling down the stairs at the home of her daughter-in-law Mrs. Alice Booth Dr. Menefee was called and rendered the necessary aid and Mrs. Coffman has now about recovered.

Rev. L A. Kohler of Cincinnati, who is attending the Bible College at Lexington, spent most of the holidays here with his parishioners, he being the pastor of the Walton Christian church. Bro. Kohler is very popular with his congregation because of his pleasant manner and genial disposition.

Forest H. Brown the clever cashier of the Citizens Bank at Grant, this county, was here Wednesday, enroute to Bellevue from a visit to his old home near New Liberty, Owen county. Mr Brown is making a fine success of his bank and is doing his part in every way to make it an institution of profit and benefit to the public generally.

Walton Lodge, Knights of Pythias elected and installed officers for the ensuing term as follows: Chancellor Commander, Carl Neumeister; Vice Chancellor, William Moxley; Prelate, Wm. Kennedy; Master at Arms, Ernest McElroy; Keeper of Records and Seal, S. L Edwards; Master of Finance, W O. Rouse; Trustees, Ernest McElroy and Wm. Kennedy

Chas. R Wood of Sparta, was here Thursday inspecting the hotel property here with a view to making a purchase and moving to Walton to engage in the hotel business. Mr Wood conducted a hotel at Warsaw and Sparta for many years, and was also engaged in the merchandise business at Sugar Creek. He is a clever gentleman, a good hotel man, and would be a welcome addition to Walton.

Miss Hattie Taylor has resigned aa a teacher in Walton High school to accept a position as teacher in a school in Hazard, county seat of Perry county, where she taught last year. Hazard is 35 miles from a railroad and the trip from the railroad to the town has to be made on horse back. Mrs Alice Booth has accepted the position of teacher in Walton High School made vacant by the resignation of Miss Taylor.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society and the Epworth League of the Methodist church desire to express their highest appreciation to the officers of the Walton Bank and Trust Company for the use of the beautiful room during the week of their Bazaar, and especially do they wish to thank R. C Green, cashier, for the many favors extended them while the Bazaar was in progress. They also thank all of their patrons.

Hon. Jas W. Kennedy of Union, was here Friday the guest of his daughter Mrs. S C. Hicks, enroute home from Louisville where he had been attending the Good Roads Convention. Mr Kennedy is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from this district, composed of the counties of Boone, Gallatin and Owen. He is an excellent man in every way. Hon John W. Lankshire of Petersburg, and Hon N. S. Walton of the same locality, are reported as candidates, also, and they are also very worthy gentlemen on whom the honor might be deservedly conferred.

The many friends of G. Mosby Allen are soliciting him to make the race for representative of Boone county in the next Kentucky legislature on the Democratic ticket. Mr Allen is the mayor of Walton at present. He is not a politician, and he is not ambitious about making the race, but it is believed that he can be induced to offer his name to the Democratic voters of this county for the nomination, and nomination is equivalent to election. Mr Allen is a first class gentleman of the highest integrity, and he has so many good qualities that his popularity extends to all circles, and he is in every way worthy to represent the splendid county of Boone among the law makers of the State.

HON. J. W KENNEDY

Announces As A Candidate for State State Senator.

HON. JAMES W KENNEDY.

In another column in this issue appears the announcement of Hon. James W Kennedy, of Union, as a candidate for State Senator in this Senatorial District, which is composed of the counties of Boone, Gallatin and Owen. Mr. Kennedy is well equipped for the position and will make the district a good Senator if elected.

Handsomely Entertained.

New year's day Mr. and Mrs Morgan Beemon entertained W. L Kirkpatrick and family; J. C Buckner and family, of Florence; Owen Ross and family, Mrs. Linda Ross, and Mrs. Tobe Rogers and sons, of Burlington. The guests were entertained in a royal manner. There waa both instrumental and vocal music to fill the soul of the music lover, and when the dinner hour came, the feast was so elaborate and consisted of so many delightfully prepared articles of food, this scribe cannot do it justice in the way of a description. The writer has partook of many a wedding dinner, but nothing he saw compared with the dinner on this occasion. After dinner cigars were passed and the men all enjoyed a good smoke. Here is hoping Mr. and Mrs Beemon and all the guests shall spend many more such occasions.

J. C Buckner.

A LITTLE LIGHT ON CLOTHING
We hold strictly to one price all the time. It must be very disappointing for you to see a clearance sale where prices are quoted from $5.00 to $6.00 less than you paid a month or so before. We know what it costs to produce a garment. Our next step is to buy the very best cloth in large quantities, thereby reducing the cost of same, add a living profit and give you the advantage of clearance prices when the goods are up to date and seasonable. We don't size you up when you come in our store to see how much money you have in your pocket, then try and show you something to fit your pocketbook regardless of quality. All of our goods are in plain view. We live up to our prices always.

Mr. Benjamin R Gaines, died at his residence six miles from Petersburg, Dec. 31st, 1910, at a good old age of 89 years, a life well spent in doing for his relatives, friends and neighbors. Mr Gaines was a man of fine natural ability, and possessed a most kind heart and benevolent disposition. He was never known to turn a deaf ear to an appeal for help from those in distress, or those who were in need of assistance. He was already to back with his means any friend or neighbor who needed relief. He took in the orphans and the widows, and cared for them. For his many good traits of character and for his kindness to those who needed help, he was prominent among his fellowmen. We can truly say that in the death of Mr. Gaines Boone county has loat one of her best and most useful citizens. He leaves a kind wife, who was Miss Nannie Berkshire, of Petersburg; two grandsons and a loving, dutiful son, W. A Gaines, child of his second wife, who was Miss Eliza Graves, sister to the late Dr. Wm. Graves, of Petersburg Funeral at Petersburg conducted by Rev. S J. Bradley and Rev. R. H. Carter. Miss Flora Arnold entertained Saturday evening with a social. The evening was well spent as Miss Flora is a delightful entertainer.

Immediately after services Sunday at the Baptist church, the congregation retired to the river for the baptism of three candidates.

W. B Arnold attended the Burlet Tobacco convention at Lexington, last week, and was very much enthused over the reports made at the meeting.

Bernard Rogers had a young horse to get badly cut in a wire fence Sunday, making the third time the same animal has been hurt in the same manner.

At The Good Roads Convention.

I attended the good roads congress held at Louisville on the 28th and 29th of December, and was impressed with the high character and earnestness of the delegates who composed the meeting. Nearly every county in the State was represented by one or more delegates, and all seemed to be deeply interested in the improvement of not only the roads of our State but in the general uplift of the citizenship of the State, and nation, and especially the cause of education, and while I do not approve of some features of the synopsis of the bill presented, yet I think it can be improved upon and a good road system worked out that would really reduce our road tax rather than add to it, and think a bill will be perfected that will be satisfactory to all and beneficial to the state and people. It is not necessary at this time to enter into a discussion of the merits of the bill or criticise its demerits, but wait until the committee appointed to draft the bill reports, for we all know from experience the need of good roads, and the necessity of a good roads system, and as every county in the state has the question under consideration, out of the multitude of counsel a wise and excellent system may be developed and agreed upon.

I also attended the tobacco meeting held at Lexington on the 5th inst., which was largely attended, and some good suggestions were made and articles of incorporation offered that if adopted and carried into effect, will clearify the situation for the future, and bring about an understanding and cooperation of all factions that would turn failure into success. 43 counties out of 64 were represented, including Indiana and Ohio. Two-thirds of the 43 counties favored cutting out the 1911 crop, and one-third opposed it, but on a rising vote practically all voted to cut out and it will be up to the growers to say what they will do. If the crop can be cut out without bringing about a condition of anarchy and night riding, it will be the shortest and quickest way to alleviate present conditions.

Respectfully,
J. W KENNEDY.

Kentucky Slowly Progressing.

Beginning with the present year and month Kentucky took rank with the progressive States in our union, and became one of the first Southern States to take official cognizance of the advent and the passing out of the world of human beings, who are born or die within her borders. That a civilized government should let the event of a birth and a death of a human pass without a note of its occurrence will appear an inhuman act to all who will pause for a moment to give the matter due consideration. That the cause of a death is secured is also a great aid in the battle now being waged against prevalent diseases.

The certificates of births and deaths will be preserved for all time, protected against fire, mold and theft, and will become of inestimable value in years to come to prove descent, in aiding in the settlement of wards and guardians, to determine age for holding public office, jury service, entering the professions, liability under the child labor laws, age of consent and of irresponsibility for crime.

The certificates of death which states whether or not the patient has died of a contagious, infectious or communicable disease will enable the State Board of Health to put its finger with certainty upon the diseased spots of the State and enforce proper regulations and precautions to that the needless slaughter by preventable diseases of the citizens of the State will be checked.

Local registrars for every county of the entire State have been appointed, commissioned and furnished with the necessary supplies to begin their work. Physicians are required to report within ten days the births that occur in their practice and to give the facts required upon the form of death certificate adopted by the Bureau of the Census, and provided for by this law.

The undertaker is required to procure the personal and statistical particulars with the signature of the informant and to procure from the physician the facts relating to the cause of death. The certificate is then presented to the Local Registrar who issues a burial or removal permit.

It becomes unlawful for cemetery keepers, sextons or owners of private burying grounds to permit burials without a burial permit from the local registrar. A body cannot be shipped by a common carrier or other public conveyance without the authority of a burial-removal-transit permit which requires the body to be so prepared that there is no danger of the spread of the disease enroute, or when it reaches its destination

Penalties are provided for failure to comply with the laws provisions by anyone upon whom a duty devolves.

Every good citizen should aid in making this law a success in every detail, as the good accruing therefrom to the masses of people will be manifold. Study its intent, and the details of its workings, and help to educate the public so that the greatest good may come from its operation.

Query—The school house at Burlington was built by the taxpayers of the district for the purpose of keeping up a common school for the benefit of all the white children in the district between the required ages. How is it that a great portion of these children are now deprived of their rightful privileges? Will the County Superintendent please answer. ENQUIRER, R. D.

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Nathaniel Plum of the sloop Typhoon, lands secretly on Beaver Island, stronghold of the Mormons. Obadiah Price, Mormon councilor, confronts him, tells him he is expected, and bargains for the ammunition aboard the sloop. He finds Nat by a solemn oath to deliver a package to Franklin Pierce, president of the United States. Near Price's cabin Nat sees the frightened face of a young woman who disappears in the darkness, leaving an odor of lilacs. It develops that Nat's visit to the island is to demand settlement of the king, Strang, for the looting of his sloop by Strang. Price shows Nat the king's palace, and through a window he sees the lady of the lilacs, who Price says is the king's seventh wife. Calling at the king's office Nat is warned by a young woman that his life is in danger. Strang professes indignation when he hears Nat's grievances and promises to punish the guilty. Nat rescues Neil, who is being publicly whipped, and the king orders the sheriff, Arbor Croche, to pursue and kill the two men. Plum learns that Marion, the girl of the lilacs, is Neil's sister. The two men plan to escape on Nat's sloop and take Marion and Winnsome, daughter of Arbor Croche, and sweetheart of Neil. Nat discovers that the sloop is gone. Marion tells him that his ship has been seized by the Mormons. She begs him to leave the island, telling him that nothing can save her from Strang, whom she is doomed to marry. Plum finds Price raving mad. Recovering, he tells Nat that Strang is doomed, that armed men are descending on the island. Nat learns that Marion has been summoned to the castle by Strang. Nat kills Arbor Croche, and after a desperate fight with the king, leaves him for dead. The avenging host from the mainland descends on St. James. Neil and Nat take a part in the battle and the latter is wounded. Strang, whom Nat thought he had killed, orders him thrown into a dungeon. He finds Neil a fellow prisoner. They overhear the Mormon jury deciding their fate.

He shrieked the words again and again, maddened beyond control, and the Mormon king, whose self-possession was more that of devil than man, still held the struggling girl in his arms as he turned his head toward the voice and saw Nathaniel's long arm and knotted fist threatening him through the hole in the wall. Then Neil's name in a piercing scream resounded through the dungeon corridor and in response to it the man under Nathaniel straightened himself so quickly that his companion fell back to the floor.

"Great God! what is the matter, Nat? Quick! let me up!"

Nathaniel staggered to his feet, the breath half gone out of his body, and in another instant Neil was at the opening. The great room into which he looked was empty.

"What was it?" he cried, leaping down. "What were they doing with Winnsome?"

"It was the king," said Nathaniel, struggling to master himself. "The king put his arms around Winnsome and—she struck him!"

"That was all?"

"He kissed her as she fought—and I yelled."

"She struck him!" Neil cried. "God bless little Winnsome, Nat! and—God bless her!"

Neil's breath came fast as he caught the other's hand.

"I'd give my life if I could help you—and Marion!"

"We'll give them together," said Nathaniel coolly, turning down the corridor. "Here's our chance. They'll come through that door to relock us in our cell. Shall we die fighting?"

He was groping about in the mud of the floor for some object.

"If we had a couple of stones—"

"It would be madness—worse than madness!" interposed Neil, steadying himself. "There will be a dozen rifles at that door when they open it. We must return to the cell. It is worth dying a harder death to hear from Marion and Winnsome. And we will hear from them before night."

They retreated into the dungeon. A few minutes later the door opened cautiously at the head of the corridor. A light blazed through the blackness and after an interval of silence the jailer made his appearance in front of the cell, a pistol in his hand.

"Don't be afraid, Jeekum," said Neil reassuringly. "You forgot the door and we've been having a little fun with the jury. That's all!"

The nervous whiteness left Jeekum's face at this cheerful report and he was about to close the door when Nathaniel exhibited a handful of gold pieces in the candle-light and frantically beckoned the man to come in. The jailer's eyes glittered understandingly and with a backward glance down the lighted corridor he thrust his head and shoulders inside.

"Five hundred dollars for that note!" he whispered. "Five hundred beside the four you've got!"

"Jeekum's a fool!" said Neil, as the door closed on them. "I feel sorry for him."

"Why?"

"Because he is accepting the money. Don't you suppose that you have been searched? Of course you have—probably before it came, while you were half dead on the floor. Somebody knows that you have the gold."

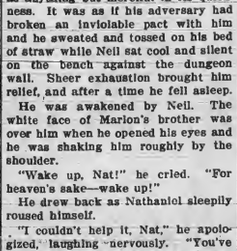
"Why hasn't it been taken?"

For a full minute Neil made no answer. And his answer, when it did come, first of all was a laugh.

"By George, that's good!" he cried exultingly. "Of course you were searched—and by Jeekum! He knows, but he hasn't made a report of it to Strang because he believes that in some way he will get hold of the money. He is taking a big risk—but he's winning! I wonder what his first scheme was?"

"Thought I'd bury it, perhaps," vouchsafed Nathaniel, throwing himself upon the straw. "There's room for two here, Neil."

A long silence fell between them. The action during the last few minutes had been too great an effort for Nathaniel and his wound troubled him again. As the pain and his terrible thoughts of Marion's fate returned to him he regretted that they had not ended it all in one last fight at the door. There, at least, they might have died like men instead of waiting to be shot down like dogs, their hands bound behind them, their breasts naked to the Mormon rifles. He did not fear death. In more than one game he had played against its hand, more often for love of the sport than not, but there was a horror in being penned up and tortured by it. He had come to look upon it as a fair enemy, filled, of course, with subterfuge and treachery, which were the laws of the game; but he had never dreamed of it as anything but merciful in its quickness. It was as if his adversary had broken an inviolable pact with him and he sweated and tossed on his bed of straw while Neil sat cool and silent on the bench against the dungeon wall. Sheer exhaustion brought him relief, and after a time he fell asleep.



He was awakened by Neil. The white face of Marion's brother was over him when he opened his eyes and he was shaking him roughly by the shoulder.

"Wake up, Nat!" he cried. "For heaven's sake—wake up!"

He drew back as Nathaniel sleepily roused himself.

"I couldn't help it, Nat," he apologized, laughing nervously. "You've lain there like a dead man for hours. My head is splitting with this damned silence. Come—smoke up! I got some tobacco from our jailer and he loaned me his pipe."

Nathaniel jumped to his feet. A fresh candle was burning on the table and in its light he saw that a startling change had come into Neil's face during the hours he had slept. It looked to him thinner and whiter, its lines had deepened, and the young man's eyes were filled with gloomy dejection.

"Why didn't you awaken me sooner?" he exclaimed. "I deserve a good drubbing for leaving you alone here!" He saw fresh food on the table. "It's late—" he began.

"That is our dinner and supper," interrupted Neil. He held his watch close to the candle. "Half past eight!"

"And no word—from—"

"No."

The two men looked deeply into each other's eyes.

"Jeekum delivered my note to her at noon when he was relieved," said Neil. "He did not carry it personally, but swears that he saw her receive it. He sent her word that he would call at a certain place for a reply when he was relieved again at five. There was no reply for him—not a word from Winnsome."

Their silence was painful. It was Nathaniel who spoke first, hesitatingly, as though afraid to say what was passing in his mind.

"I killed Winnsome's father, Neil," he said, "and Winnsome has demanded my death. I know that I am condemned to die. But you—" His eyes flashed sudden fire. "How do you know that my fate is to be yours? I begin to see the truth. Winnsome has not answered your note because she knows that you are to live and that she will see you soon. Between Winnsome and—Marion you will be saved!"

Neil had taken a piece of meat and was eating it as though he had not heard his companion's words.

"Help yourself, Nat. It's our last opportunity."

"You don't believe—"

"No. Lord, man, do you suppose that Strang is going to let me live to kill him?"

Somebody was fumbling with the chain at the dungeon door.

The two men stared as it opened slowly and Jeekum appeared. The jailer was highly excited.

"I've got word—but no note!" he whispered hoarsely. "Quick! Is it worth—"

"Yes! Yes!"

Nathaniel dug the gold pieces out of his pockets and dropped them into the jailer's outstretched hand.

"I've had my boy watching Winnsome Croche's house," continued the sheriff, white with the knowledge of the risk he was taking. "An hour ago Winnsome came out of the house and went into the woods. My boy followed. She ran to the lake, got into a skiff, and rowed straight out to sea. She is following your instructions!"

In his excitement he betrayed himself. He had read the note.

There came a sound up the corridor, the opening of a door, the echo of voices, and Jeekum leaped back. Nathaniel's foot held the cell door from closing.

"Where is Marion?" he cried softly, his heart standing still with dread. "Great God—what about Marion?"

For an instant the sheriff's ghastly face was pressed against the opening.

"Marion has not been seen since morning. The king's officers are searching for her."

The door slammed, the chains clanked loudly, and above the sound of Jeekum's departure Neil's voice rose in a muffled cry of joy.

"They are gone! They are leaving the island!"

Nathaniel stood like one turned into stone. His heart grew cold within him. When he spoke his words were passionless echoes of what had been.

"You are sure that Marion would kill herself as soon as she became the wife of Strang?" he asked.

"Yes—before his vile hands touched more than the dress she wore!" shouted Neil.

"Then Marion is dead," replied Nathaniel, as coldly as though he were talking to the walls about him. "For last night Marion was forced into the harem of the king."

As he revealed the secret whose torture he meant to keep imprisoned in his own breast he dropped upon the pallet of straw and buried his face between his arms, cursing himself that he had weakened in these last hours of their comradeship.

He dared not look to see the effect of his words on Neil. His companion uttered no sound. Instead there was a silence that was terrifying.

At the end of it Neil spoke in a voice so strangely calm that Nathaniel sat up and stared at him through the gloom.

"I believe they are coming after us, Nat. Listen!"

The tread of many feet came to them faintly from beyond the corridor wall.

Nathaniel had risen. They drew close together, and their hands clasped.

"Whatever it may be," whispered Neil, "may God have mercy on our souls!"

"Amen!" breathed Captain Plum.

DUG UP HIDDEN TREASURE

California Community Greatly Excited Over Mysterious Actions of Stranger.

The people of this community are wondering who was the mysterious stranger who visited the ancient adobe but a mile north of here a few evenings ago and dug up a box of can that had been buried there fifty years or more, says an Oakland correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle. It is supposed he carried away a large quantity of gold bullion that belonged to Glanville Swift, an early day miner who lived in this but while operating in the mines in the hills east of Chico, leaving in the early '60s with nearly $750,000 in gold, which took six weeks to weigh and required a pack train and strong guard to transport out of the country.

The stranger was seen loitering about the adobe but one evening, and a Mr. Fawcett, who lives near, tried to learn his mission, but failed. The next morning Fawcett found where a box or can had been dug up during the night. There were several stakes, showing that measurements had been made from a chart to locate the place to dig. Only one hole was made.

When Glanville Swift weighed his gold he found two or more large porter bottles of it missing. It is supposed they were stolen and buried and that this stranger learned of their whereabouts.

Longest Straightaway Bird Flight.

Perhaps the longest straightaway flight made by birds in their migrations is accomplished by some of the shore and water birds that nest in the islands of Bering sea and spend the winter at Hawaii and Fanning island, 2,200 miles away.

Inasmuch as some of these birds live entirely on the shore and are probably unable to rest on the surface of the water, it is thought that they must accomplish the whole distance in a single flight.

Yet, although there are no land marks for them upon their long journey over a waste of waters, they make their way to their destination with the precision of a rifle shot.

Only Too Glad to Pay Tax.

Inheritance taxes are not generally liked by those who have to pay them but the eldest son of the Swiss engineer, Herr Brandt, who built the Simplon tunnel and died in 1908, is paying $500,000 with the utmost satisfaction. The Swiss authorities discovered that Brandt possessed $3,000,000 worth of property in Russia which he had failed to declare in his will. The son, who was unaware of the existence of this property, is only too glad to pay the fine of $500,000 to secure a windfall of $2,500,000.

GOT THE BEST OF THE ELDER

Apt Quotations of Brer Reuben Saved His Mule and at the Same Time Rebuked Sin.

Elder Harris was making another attempt to induce one of the members of his flock to trade horses with him.

"Dat pony o' you'n, Brer Reuben," he said, "is jes' what I want, an' my big bay hos is jes' what yo' want. I kin git over de groun' faster wid de pony, an 'you kin haul a bigger load wid de hoss. Hit'd be a good trade fur bofe on us, 'ceptin' dat it'd be a leetle better fuh you dan it would fur me. You take de bay and give me 'de ches'nut sor'l."

"De pony suits me well 'nough, elder," averred Brother Reuben, for the twentieth time. "I don' keer t' make no swap."

"But I jes' natchelly got t' have dat pony, Brer Reuben."

"Elder," spoke the other, after a period of profound thought, "I been tinkin'."

"Well, what is it?"

"I know w'at one o' de 'posties says 'bout de law bein' done away with, but I ain't we still livin' undah de ten comman'ments?"

"Brer Reuben," solemnly averred Elder Harris, "we air."

"Well, one o' dem comman'ments says we mustn't covet anyt'ing w't b'longs t' our neighbors, an' you're covetin' dat fi'l chestnut sor'l pony o' mine, Brer Harris!"

Then the elder gave it up. Clearly the tenth commandment was against him.—Chicago Tribune.

It all happened on one of those few surviving pay-after-you-enter cars.

"Oh, I insist on paying, Gladys," said the brunette. "You paid coming down."

"No, I shall pay," declared Gladys with equal firmness. "What if I did pay coming down—didn't you buy that last package of gum?"

"Let me settle the quarrel, ladies," suggested the diplomatic conductor. "Why not use the denatured form of Dutch treat?"

"What's that?"

"Well, you each pay the other's fare."

Ended the Controversy.

On the steeple of an old Universalist church in Bath, Me., there is a wooden figure of an angel. It is not a remarkably fine specimen of art, and has always been somewhat laughed about, especially because of its high-heeled shoes. The Bath Enquirer recalls the story that a former pastor of the North Congregational church once accosted a devoted Universalist with the question: "Mr. Raymond, did you ever see an angel with high-heeled shoes on its feet?" "Why, no," answered Mr. Raymond, "I can't say that I ever did; but did you ever see one without them?"

Young Age Pensions.

Young age pensions! Why not? Titles, honors, riches, pensions and most other good things are, as a rule, postponed to a period of life when the capacity for enjoying them has been blunted. Australia was one of the first countries to adopt old-age pensions, and now a Labor member of the commonwealth parliament proposes a complementary scheme of young age pensions. He would start by pensioning the fourth child at birth. The fact that three had previously been born showed that the parents were doing their duty and deserving well of the state. The young age pension would "reward industry and encourage the birth rate."—London Chronicle.

The Risen Lord

"He Is Not Here, for He Is Risen"

CHRIST'S resurrection is the high water mark of divine power, and to the same level it will rise again to every Christian. The Lord, in the glory of his risen life, and in the riches of the gifts which he received when he ascended on high, is a pattern for us, and the power which fulfills its own pattern. The resurrection of Christ is the crowning work of redemption. All that preceded had a very vital relation to his resurrection. Without the resurrection of his body, all the prophecies concerning his redemptive work, would have proven a failure, and the whole plan of salvation would have suffered an inglorious defeat. the Father's purpose in human redemption from time immemorial would have been frustrated. But in the resurrection of Christ, prophecies are fulfilled, the purpose of God vindicated, the whole scheme of salvation remains intact, the world of mankind provisionally redeemed; and the enemies of Christ are confounded and eternally silenced, and Christ exalted and coronated as the Prince of Life and the Conqueror of death and the grave.

Lesson in Resurrection.

The resurrection of Christ is the divine seal of a gracious covenant, the covenant which God had made with his ancient people; and the resurrection of Christ was the consummation of that covenant, and the seal fixed upon its accomplishment. The covenant was made with the Old Testament patriarchs, and in the New Testament covenant, which is a covenant of blood, of expiation, of reconciliation, the former covenant having its fulfilment in the latter, the latter putting the impress or stamp upon all that the covenant involved, from its inception to its glorious consummation, in the vacated grave, in the world-conquest of mankind's Redeemer, has become a demonstrated fact. His death upon the cross was a federal offering, and it secured the blessings promised in that covenant; but that covenant became perpetually meritorious only as it had the ratification and God's unchangeable seal. The atoning death of Christ was a necessity not so much in a governmental sense, or of expediency, but rather as an absolute necessity, because of what God is in his divine nature as being just, and man in his nature as being sinful and guilty before him. So that the resurrection of Christ was a necessity for man's justification, even as his death was essential to man's reconciliation.

The resurrection of Christ is the voucher of the resurrection unto eternal glory of all his saints. "In Christ's resurrection we see what man may become, and what his followers must become." The pledge of the believer's resurrection is in the resurrection of Jesus Christ. The truth is lucidly and convincingly illustrated in Paul's matchless resurrection chapter, which chapter, Joseph Parker has significantly called "the thunderburst of the resurrection." Because Christ lives the Christian lives, because Christ conquered sin, Satan, death and the grave, the Christian likewise will be crowned even "more than a conqueror through him that love them."

GOD'S CALL ON HIS CHILDREN

Few Even of Those Who Seek Him Are Prepared When He Makes His Visit.

When we are expecting a friend to come into our homes, even if he is going to spend only a day or two, we are careful to put our houses in order, and exert ourselves to make him comfortable while he is our guest. If we have invited him, we owe it to him, and we owe it to ourselves, to entertain him to the very best of our ability. We give him the best room, the easiest chair, and neglect nothing that would add to his comfort.

We invite God to come into our hearts, and abide with us. We ask him to pour out his holy spirit upon us. We approach him with reverence and confidence, calling him "Our Father." When we feel that strange warming of the heart which heralds his approach, we hesitate, and shrink from the visit of God. If we would be quiet and open the door, he would come in and sup with us, and while he is here, we would hear the still small voice saying: "Peace, My peace I give unto you."

Sometimes we call upon God in faith, and yet when he comes we do not have time to receive him. When he knocks we are "busy here and there," and we do not hear him. We wonder why he does not come; he has promised: "Call upon me, and I will answer thee." We call again he comes again, but we could not watch and wait; we are asleep.

Sometimes God calls upon us. Sometimes he makes us an unexpected visit. Sometimes he comes, wooing us, saying: "Give me thine heart." If we respond cheerfully, and give him ourselves, we will establish a friendship which will lead to other visits. Some day when he calls to say to us: "It is enough; enter into the joy of thy Lord," happy, thrice happy will we be if he finds us ready to enter in through the gates to go out no more forever!—Mrs. Sarah Cannon Leamon, in Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

GOT HIS SOBRIQUET EARLY

"Honest John" Kelly Proved His Right to the Title Long Before Manhood.

There have been many stories about the manner in which "Honest John" Kelly, the ex-umpire, first got his nickname. Mr. Kelly himself, according to a New York letter, holds that it came to him naturally, for even as a small boy the purity of his soul shone through his face. "I think the first time I was ever called 'Honest John' was when I was quite a youngster," said Kelly. "A man engaged as an ambulatory salesman of tinware observed the ingenuous countenance I presented to the world and hailed me. 'You look honest, boy,' said he. 'What might your name be?' 'John,' said I, quite simply. 'John,'—just like that. 'Then hold my horse while I go in the saloon and get a drink,' said he. And so I held his horse while he went in the saloon and got a drink. But this was on lower Ninth avenue, in a day when the avenue's honors went to the man who could clean the most cops in a given time. By and by the gang came along and beheld that wagon full of tinware. The peddler was detained within by a sore thirst, and they took the tinware. And then they came back and took the cushions off the wagon. Eventually, becoming daring, they unhitched the wagon and took it away. True to my trust, I stood there, holding the horse. And by and by the peddler came out of the saloon and sized up the situation. 'Well,' said he warmly, 'you're Honest John, all right. You saved the horse.'"

GOT IT.
Got Something Else, Too.

"I liked my coffee strong and I drank it strong," says a Pennsylvania woman, telling a good story, "and although I had headaches nearly every day I just would not believe there was any connection between the two. I had weak and heavy spells and palpitation of the heart, too, and although husband told me he thought it was the coffee that made me so poorly, and did not drink it himself for he said it did not agree with him, yet I loved my coffee and thought I just couldn't do without it.

"One day a friend called at my home—that was a year ago. I spoke about how well she was looking and she said:

"'Yes, and I feel well, too. It's because I am drinking Postum in place of ordinary coffee.'

"I said, 'What is Postum?'

"Then she told me how it was a food-drink and how much better she felt since using it in place of coffee or tea, so I sent to the store and bought a package and when it was made according to directions it was so good I have never bought a pound of coffee since. I began to improve immediately.

"I cannot begin to tell you how much better I feel since using Postum and leaving coffee alone. My health is better than it has been for years and I cannot say enough in praise of this delicious food drink."

Take away the destroyer and put a rebuilder to work and Nature will do the rest. That's what you do when Postum takes coffee's place in your diet. "There's a Reason."

THE APPLICATION OF KNOWLEDGE

For the Relief of Suffering Is a Cardinal Principle of Philanthropy.

Before the discovery of Resinol, thousands of persons were living lives of torture and affliction who are now well and happy, and are doing what they can by telling others of their wonderful and complete cure with the use of this great remedy. Their experience and other data show that Resinol has cured numerous cases that were thought incurable. No matter what may be the nature or condition of the skin trouble, whether Eczema, Psoriasis, Herpes, Common Pimples or any eruption, a few applications will show improvement. Itching and irritation will cease immediately and a complete cure follow. The relief this remedy has given to sufferers from Itching Piles has caused thousands to write that they consider it worth its weight in gold. It gives relief instantly and cures permanently in a very short time.

If your face is easily irritated by shaving, use Resinol Medicated Shaving Stick. Its healing lather will be your greatest comfort.

These preparations are recommended and sold by druggists everywhere in all countries. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

ARTHUR'S PERIL

When the new teacher of room 20 was called away from her pupils for a few minutes the other day one little boy took the opportunity to "show off."

There was much excitement among the self-appointed monitors when the teacher returned. Fifty little hands shot up, waving and beckoning. Fifty little bodies wriggled in sympathy. All were eagerly demanding permission to tell what had happened during the teacher's absence. Contrary to their expectations, she seemed indifferent to disorder.

Suddenly one little boy in a back seat, remembering that the teacher had forbidden tattling and fearing that no explanation would be allowed, jumped to his feet and, still waving his hand, excitedly exclaimed: "Miss Boots, Arter, he wus makin' fistes when you wuz out o' de room."

"Huh! He does like dis here," said another boy, shaking his fist threateningly.

"That means he'll show you," interpreted a fair-haired little girl in the front seat.

"An den—"

Six excited and scandalized children began to relate in chorus the details of Arthur's misdemeanor.

"That will do," said Miss Booth, calmly arranging some flowers in her belt. "If you children had been doing your work you couldn't have seen Arthur. I shall count the whole room disorderly."

The children sank back abashed and disappointed. They looked at the offending Arthur, who sat stiffly erect at his desk, tightly clutching a reader from which his glance never wavered.

The teacher continued to prepare a writing lesson as if nothing had happened. Yet her eyes twinkled just a little bit, and the ghost of a smile twitched the corners of her mouth. Had they remembered similar occasions they might have recognized in the twinkle and the smile a danger signal for the offender.

In the meantime Arthur's fear gave way to astonishment. He had expected to stay after school, at least.

With a cautious glance to assure himself that Miss Booth was not looking, he jumped up beside his desk, which for the teacher's convenience was at the front of the room. Facing the other children, he rapidly darted his tongue forth and back several times, and finally megaphoned through arched palms a low, clear "Stung!"

The murmur of scandalized propriety which this new defiance aroused stirred him to fresh daring. Before risking a repetition, however, he turned warily about, only to look straight into Miss Booth's keen gray eyes. Slowly and meekly he slid into his desk and hung his head.

"Come here, Arthur," she said, quietly. "Stand here by me and do that again for the whole room."

Arthur came slowly and reluctantly forward and backed against the wall.

"Out here in front, where every one can see you," said the teacher, indicating a space by her desk. "You may make faces now."

Arthur hung his head.

"I'm waiting, Arthur," she said.

He twitched his sharp little nose feebly.

"Oh, no; that won't do. Make the same kind of face you made at Walter."

He twitched his nose more vigorously, and drew down the corners of his mouth.

"Are you sure that's right?" persisted Miss Booth, with a funny little catch in her voice.

This time Arthur squinted his eyes, puckered up his nose, drew down the corners of his mouth and darted out his tongue.

"Now, you may continue that for the next five minutes," said Miss Booth.

Then, turning to the other children, she asked: "How many boys in this room have strong muscles?"

Thirty right arms swung in the air.

"Have you ever noticed," she continued to the class, "what kind faces some people have and what horrid faces others have?"

"Yes, I saw a man the other day, and he had only one eye," interrupted an excited voice from the rear.

"But, I wonder," continued Miss Booth, "why some people have frowning wrinkles between their eyes, even when they are smiling."

"I know," said Walter. "Dat's cus dey frowned so much dere faces stays dat way."

"Yes, that's right. They have been using their bad face muscles so long that they have grown strong enough to pull their faces out of shape. Go on, Arthur; I didn't tell you to stop. Some old people, you know, have such sweet, kind faces. They have been using their good muscles all their lives, so their faces are always pleasant and kind."

"Yes'm, I know. I saw an old lady once—"

"Never mind, now, Willie. Go on, Arthur. You have three minutes yet. Little children can't frown at all," continued Miss Booth. "Don't you remember—"

A loud, convulsive sob from the front of the room suddenly startled every one.

"Why, what's the matter, Arthur?" asked Miss Booth, with suspicious sympathy.

"I d-do-on't w-want to spoil my face!" he blubbered, rubbing a grimy fist in each eye.

"Have you investigated those charges against Biggun yet?" asked the intimate friend.

"Not yet," answered the distinguished statesman who was a member of the investigating committee. "All we have done is to hold an informal meeting and decide that he isn't guilty."

BABY'S HAIR ALL CAME OUT

"When my first baby was six months old he broke out on his head with little humps. They would dry up and leave a scale. Then it would break out again and it spread all over his head. All the hair came out and his head was scaly all over. Then his face broke out all over in red bumps and it kept spreading until it was on his hands and arms. I bought several boxes of ointment, gave him blood medicine, and had two doctors to treat him, but he got worse all the time. He had it about six months when a friend told me about Cuticura. I sent and got a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. In three days after using them he began to improve. He began to take naps and to stop scratching his head. After taking two bottles of Resolvent, two boxes of Ointment and three cakes of Soap he was sound and well, and never had any breaking out of any kind. His hair came out in little curls all over his head. I don't think anything else would have cured him except Cuticura.

"I have bought Cuticura Ointment and Soap several times since to use for cuts and sores and have never known them to fail to cure what I put them on. I think Cuticura is a great remedy and would advise any one to use it. Cuticura Soap is the best that I have ever used for toilet purposes." (Signed) Mrs. F. E. Harmon, R. F. One week from today the Democratic member of the next House of Representatives will meet in Washington, D. C, to discuss matters that are of interest to the party. Champ Clark, of the show me State, will be the choice of the meeting for Speaker.

There is still great activity among those interested in the phosphate business, and the promoters are hustling to get leases on the various farm lands in the vicinity of Midway. The parties who have leased the farm belonging to Mr. Clinton Hawkins expect to have a $50,000 plant in operation on it by the first of next August. The deposits found on this farm are said to be richer and in greater quantities than elsewhere. The erection of a big plant for the preparation of the mineral for the market will mean much for the business interests of the community, as it will give employment to many laborers.—Blue Grass Clipper

A decision rendered by the court of appeals, last week, holds that only bona fide raisers of tobacco or the owner of the land on which it is raised, have a right, under the statute, to join a pool. A buyer, it is reported as holding, has no right to join a pool. If the above is a correct digest of the courts opinion the buying of tobacco by one member of the pool from another member cannot be indulged, because when a member of the pool becomes a buyer he ousts himself from the pool under the ruling of the court. This construction of the law may work a hardship on the tenant growers, but when the opinion is taken as a whole it may not be exactly as indicated by the above.

A movement has been started to change Thanksgiving day from Thursday to Monday, and good reasons are advanced. It is argued that the mid-week holiday is a decided interruption to business, also, that if the celebration was held on Monday, the holiday beginning on Saturday evening, would be twice as long and therefore, twice as beneficial. With only the one day's allowance from work the customary reunions are interrupted by the demands upon the average person. With Thanksgiving falling on Monday it would be posaible for those reunions to be held. The sense of hurry which goes with the one day off would be eliminated. More distant homes might be reached, and the longer rest would, collectively and individually conduce to convenience and happiness.

Why The 1911 Crop Should Be Cut Out

First, because, in the judgment of the men in the meeting at Lexington, after getting all the statistics and all the facts upon the situation as far as it was possible to get them, decided it ought to be done. They were sent to represent us, and that, in their judgment, was the only solution of the problem. We all realize there must be something done and done now, or the Trust will have our hands tied, and we will be powerless, financially, to make a fight.

Money matters are already close and to start in now to raise a crop of tobacco in 1911, how are we going to carry our tenants through another year to raise another large crop to add to what we already have on hand? The merchants and the banks have advanced a large sum of money on the tobacco on hand, and they do not feel like taking the risk to carry men through another year with prospect of having to sell that tobacco at a very low price. The probabilities are that it would be below five cents per pound. The merchants and the banks know at that price men can't pay their debts, so if we should raise a crop in 1911, would we be able to pool it and cut out the 1912 crop? We wouldn't have a dollar with which to carry our tenants through the cut out of 1912, where, if we cut out this crop the tobacco now on hand will be sold at once, the money returned to our banks. Men will be able to pay their outstanding debts and have money to carry their tenants while raising the 1912 crop.

Fellow farmers, do you realize the awfulness of the situation? It is in your hands. It is with you just now, at this time, for you to decide whether you will be free men or slaves. With a cut out we will have control of the situation. With a crop in 1911 the other fellow will have control. Which shall it be? If I had the time this morning I would give you in detail the proceedings of the meeting at Lexington, but no doubt most of the readers have gotten the main facts from the daily papers. More anon.

Very Respectfully,
C. C SLEET.

Good Price For Mules.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—A new record for the price of two-year-old mules has been hung up here. A pair of perfectly matched two-year-old mare mules were sold to Cliff Garrett, of the southern portion of this county, by Layne & Leavell for $325. They measured 16 hands 1 inch in height and weighed 2,100. They were black in color, with white points. There is some demand for mules for export trade. Prices range from $150 to $250 per head for good sound animals, while it goes as high as $.00 for especially fine individuals. The demand for horses is quiet, and this branch of the market is nothing like so active as is the other. Prices on horses range from $125 to $200.

Kentucklans In Missouri

Liberty, Mo.—Find enclosed one year's subscription for the Recorder. We don't care to miss any letters from Kentucky, and hope this will reach you in ample time to comply with the new postal law.

Geo. Smith, of Hathaway neighborhood, who is here attending William Jewel College, we see quite often. He is getting along nicely. There are a great many Kentucky boys here, and the Kentucky Club organized from the student body is one of the largest—in school. Before the holidays they gave a delightful banquet to the faculty and their wives and young lady friends of the members. This banquet is an annual event and surely bears testimony for Kentucky hospitality.

Prof. James McAtee, who is a professor here in W. J. C., for a time was given a scholarship at Chicago University, and began work there last fall, but was compelled to give up his work on account of his eyesight. We understand that the doctors recommend complete rest from his studies for about a year, when they expect his eyes to be alright.

Our family is getting along very well, except for occasional touches of the grip and colds, which seem to be very fashionable here just now.

For myself after spending all or part of six winters away from Missouri, I spent the entire winter at home last year and have remained here so far this winter.

My father, S. W Bruce, wishes to be remembered to you, and please continue the paper with his name and address as before.

Yours Respectfully,
CAMMIE E. BRUCE

On account of so many of those who was to take part in the coming minstrel show, having colds, the meeting set for last Friday night was called off.

Local Happenings.

For State Senator.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. James W Kennedy, of Union, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Sunday was a first-class March day.

Some tobacco has been stripped this week.

The first month of the year is nearly half gone.

The growing wheat is said to be looking very bad in this county.

Don't forget to attend the tobacco meeting which will be held at the court-house in Burlington next Saturday.

In this issue Sheriff B. B Hume has a list of property advertised for sale for the payment of delinquent taxes.

Taxes in the city of Rising Sun State, county and city, have reached the high rate of $3.14 on the $100 and $2.00 poll tax

After presiding over the destiny of the Lawrenceburg Press for two years, George J. Craven has sold the paper to Albert F. Geister

James Wilhoit, of Florence, and L. C Acra and L. S. Beemon, of Limaburg neighborhood, were callers at this office Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs James D. Cloud, who reside three miles west of Burlington, have been complaining considerably the past ten days.

A large auto brought a pleasure party of seven or eight men out from the city, last Friday evening. They took supper at the Boone Hotel.

Charles Birkle reports the shoeing of 190 horses in the last three weeks. His helper clinched and removed shoes only. That was shoeing a few.

In renewing his subscription J. D. Gaines, of Texarkana, Texas, writes: "Give my regards to all my old friends, but I'm afraid there are not many of them left."

Bert Smith, who recently entered the revenue service, will have a sale of personal property on the 21ist inst., at his home on Woolper creek, near Plattsburg.

James Thompson, of Petersburg, made a tobacco buying tour of Dearborn county, Indiana, last Saturday, where it is supposed he purchased a large quantity of the weed.

About this time of the year tobacco growers begin arranging to sow plant beds, but the demand that the 1911 crop be cut out will cause them to go very slow with that class of work.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never disappoints those who use it for obstinate coughs, colds and irritations of the throat and lungs. It stands unrivalled as a remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Sold by all dealers

If you believe that the 1911 crop of tobacco shuold be cut out you will attend the cut-out meeting to be held in Burlington, next Saturday, and sign the pledge to that effect. So far as the local growers have expressed themselves, they favor the cut-out proposition.

Mrs. Thomas Fowler, who keeps the books in the office of her father, Sheriff B. B Hume, is proving a first-class accountant. Her books are not only correct but as neat as a pin. She keeps a line on the several different funds that she handles.

One afternoon last week, when William Hughes, carrier on Burlington R. D No. 1, was on the Petersburg pike near Rev. E V. Brook's, one of his horses feet hung in a hole that had broken in the road. The animal was thrown, and one of its knees was badly injured.

D. M Snyder requests the Recorder to announce that he has resigned his position as deputy under Sheriff B. B Hume. Bad health caused Mr. Snyder to take this step. In fact he has been hardly able to be about for several weeks, but he thinks that he is now on the upward beat.

The heating system in the new school building was fired the first time last Friday, and at last accounts it was working nicely, the large rooms being made comfortable in a short time, which was very much to the liking of the carpenters who were engaged puteing up the finish.

Capt Hartman was for many years ferryman at this place and was well known to all of our citizens. The funeral services will take place from the St. Lawrence Church on Saturday morning. —Lawrenceburg Register.

HAVING SOME TROUBLE

In Making His Annual Settlement With The Sheriff.

Attorney Sidney Gaines, who was appointed by the fiscal court to make the annual settlement with the sheriff on account of taxes due the county for 1910, has been having considerable trouble preparing his report, but the extra labor required of him is not because of any of the sheriff's work he has done or has left undone. It is caused by imperfect work on the part of some who have made up the list of taxable property in the graded school districts, and is the result of taking the lists from the assessor's book. For instance: In Walton graded school districts B B. Allphin's list is copied from the assessor's book as lying in the Walton graded school district, when, in fact, a very considerable portion of his real estate is outside of that district and several miles therefrom. There are other erroneous assessments of the same kind in Walton graded school district. In Petersburg graded school district land belonging to the estate of the late Solon Early, lying outside of that school district is listed for taxing for school purposes therein. There are other errors of that kind but the mention of these are sufficient to illustrate the cause of the trouble suggested. The only way for the school board in graded school districts to secure a correct list of the real estate therein is to make a personal assessment each year just as the county assessor does. A correct list of the personal property can be obtained from the assessor's book, but in the matter of listing real estate grievous errors are bound to result as the real estate owned by a citizen of a graded school district may be made up of numerous parcels, some or all of them outside of the district.

A VERY BUSY SET

Was The Board of Supervisors Of Tax in Session Last Week.

Found Fourteen Hundred Canines.

The board of supervisors of tax which began its annual session at the court house on Monday of last week was a very busy set of men all week, it requiring lengthy night sessions in order for them to complete their work by last Saturday at noon. During the session several knotty questions came up for solution, which the board acted on promptly without fear or favor.

Last year being the first year that tobacco was listed for taxation the board was put to a good deal of trouble because of the neglect on the part of the owners of that specie of property to list it. Consequently the amount of a very large number of crops had to be ascertained and put on the tax duplicate.

Another source of considerable labor was the running down of many transfers of estate to ascertain to whom certain property belonged as of the first of last September. The investigation along that line caused one of the supervisors to remark to the Recorder that a great deal of property has been sold very cheap in Boone county during the past year, the consideration set out in the deeds being one dollar, love and affection, but the board was wise as to why consideration was thus stated and were not bothered by it in the least.

Assessor's Willis' round up of the dogs shows that there are 1,400 canines in the county which is decidedly the largest number of dogs any assessor has ever been able to find. A very considerable amount of revenue for educational purposes ought to result from that source.

When the supervisors had concluded its work Assessor Willis was not long in discovering that it had increased the amount of taxable property he had returned by over $25,000. This result was much more satisfactory to the assessor than had his amount been reduced.

The board adjourned to meet again next Saturday, at which meeting all those whose assessment has been raised will be given a hearing if they desire to show any cause why their lists should not be increased. The action of the board next Saturday will be final in so far as it is concerned.

Everything In Good Shape.

Charles Goodridge, Geo. McClasson, Thomas Rouse, W. E Waiton and J. C Revill composed the auditing committee of the Hebron Creamery Association which went over the books and accounts of the Association for the year 1910. Everything was found in good shape and the association made a good showing for the year. It has long since been satisfactorily demonstrated that a creamery is the farmers friend, and will always prove a source of revenue when it recelves a hearty support on the part of the community in which it is located. The people of Union and vicinity regard their creamery as the greatest institution that ever came down the road, and they ought to know whereof they speak as they have given it a thorough test.

Resolved to Do Better.

Having concluded to start with the new year right, Connie Rouse, of Burlington R. D 2, called in last Saturday and ordered a lot of envelopes and letter heads printed. This is something that all the farmers ought to do as the printed stationery costs them very little more than that which they have been using. The postoffice department at Washington is liable to rule any day that an envelope on which there is no printed return card is not mallable.

Makes Expenses Light.

Jerry Blyth's annual report to the fiscal court as superintendent of the county infirmary, in regard to the cost of running that institution for the year 1910 shows that the cost was $2,285. The average number of inmates was 29, which increased by the three members of his family brought the average up to 32, which made the average cost per person $71.25 This amount includes Mr. Blyth's salary as superintendent. It is evident that Mr. Blyth had reduced the expenses of maintaining the beneficiaries at the county infirmary to the minimum.

Lost A Good Horse.

A good horse belonging to E. B Kelly was found dead in his barn yard one morning last week. Mr Kelly fed the horse in the barn as usual the night before. It ate its corn and part of its hay, after which it bursted a plank or two off of the side of the barn and fell a considerable distance to the ground on the outside of the building. It had walked about the lot, but there were two or three places which showed that it had been down. Mr Kelly has no idea as to what was the matter with the animal. It was one of the white horses which he used to his produce wagon.

Some Smart Politicians.

The good roads convention held at Louisville, recently, was a perfect success in so far as talk is concerned, but developments have to be awaited in order to ascertain the benefits that will result therefrom. One thing, however, is very plain this soon after the convention, and that is that some of its most enthusiastic members have begun laying their lines for political preferment by means of the good roads movement should it prove popular in Kentucky. They hope that by having flaming records made of the fact that they took prominent part in the Louisville convention to be able in the future to successfully claim that they were pioneers in the good roads movement, and thus be benefitted politically. Some politicians are pretty cute, but the reading between the lines expose them in numerous instances.

NEW TOBACCO POOL

Organized By The Burley Tobacco Growers

No Crop To Be Raised In 1911.

Growers to Meet In Their Respective Precincts On February 4

To Name Delegates to Attend A Meeting at the County Seat February 6.

Lexington, January 6.—The second day of the convention of independent tobacco growers of the burley district was marked by the birth of a new organization, which has an apparent ambition to bring about a unity of all growers for the betterment of the condition of all persons engaged in the production of tobacco, and which, young as it is, is already striving for the speedy accomplishment of that ambition.

The convention's choice of a name for the new organization was the Burley Tobacco Union, and it was written into the articles of incorporation that were adopted and filed with the county clerk during the session this afternoon.

The headquarters of the Burley Tobacco Union are to be in Lexington, and its corporate existence is to date from this day. June W. Gayle, of Owenton, is President; James F. Middleton, of Shelbyville, Vice President; Christopher F. Chenault, Richmond, Secretary and Treasurer, to serve for the first 60 days. President Gayle appointed the following as an Executive Committee, to serve for the same length of time, as provided in the articles of incorporation. James F Middleton, of Shelbyville; C. E Tate, Stanford; A. G Turnipseed, Cincinnati; J. Lee Bridwell, Fairfield; J. M Crain, Hillsboro; A. W Hamilton, Mt. Sterling, and T. Scott Mays, of Springfield.

On Saturday, Feb. 4th, the growers of the various counties will meet in their respective precincts and name delegates to a meeting to be held in each of the county seats on Monday February 6th, which meeting shall name a man who shall be a member of the board of Directors. Monday, March 6th, the Board of Directors so elected to meet in Lexington and elect a President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, who are to succeed the officers named today, the succeeding President at the same time to announce appointment of an Executive Committee of eight members.

These officers of March 6th are to serve until December 1st, which month an election under the outlined plan is to be held in each year. The terms of all officers after the first year, shall be 12 months, but it is stipulated that the President and members of the Executive Committee may be removed at any time by the Board of Directors for cause.

The limit of indebtedness that may be incurred by the corporation is $1,000,000. There is no capital stock.

The convention adopted practically a resolution ordering a cut out of the 1911 crop, and another resolution calling upon farmers and tobacco growers to urge their Congressmen to procure through the proper channels governmental dissemination of statistical information concerning the amount of tobacco purchased, used and unused, by manufacturers after the manner in which statistics concernnig the amount of tobacco produced are gathered and disseminated by the Government.

Already there have been conferences between members of the new organization and representatives of the American Society of Equity and the Burley Tobacco Society, with reference to an amalgamation interests and unity in a working plan, and there is a possibility that within a comparatively short time all growers in the district will be moving under one and the same leadership irrespective of the organization with which they are now affiliating or in the future may join.

Clarence LeBus, as President of the Burley Tobacco Society, has not indicated his views with reference to an alliance, but there is a rumor afloat to the effect that he is disposed to hold his organization off until he can get a better line on how the growers as a whole are going to accept the 1911 cut-out order, for which the Burley Tobacco Society began a movement as early as last October, and until he can see just what roads are open to him individually as well as President of the older organization.

Many of the men in the new organization make claim that they were independents and dumped their tobacco because of the presence of LeBus at the head of the Burley Tobacco Society, and they do not appear to have lost any of their antipathy for him as an official.

It is stated to-night that, irrespective of the individual or official attitude of LeBus, the new organization will go out to gather in the old poolers as individuals; that they will try to show these old pool's their sincerity of purpose by creating a pool of the unsold 1910 tobacco, and by holding all of that crop off the market until the Burley Tobacco Society's 1909 pool is sold.

The tobacco growers in the Burley District are called to meet at the county seats of their respective counties, next Saturday to sign the "cut-out pledge" which is as follows: "I agree not to grow any tobacco personally, by tenant, or agent, nor to permit any tobacco to be grown on any land which I own or control during the year of 1911.

"This agreement shall not be binding unless in the judgment of the Executive Boards of both the Burley Tobacco Union and the Burley Tobacco Society a sufficient per cent is pledged to insure a successful cut-out of the crop of 1911, and unless said cut-out is officially declared by the Executive Boards of both the Burley Tobacco Union and the Burley Tobacco Society before the 15th day of February, 1911."

Clothes Do Not Make the Man.

Writing in his paper The Public Louis F. Post says: "Champ Clark is the present touchstone of democracy in democracy. Whoever of either party hates democracy, will plot against Clark's election to the speakership. By the growing weakness or strength of the opposition to him shall the people be able to judge whether the democratic party in congress is to make good or make bad. Pluck truly says, and bad. Puck truly says, and Puck's humor is impregnated with sense: "Clothes do not make the man; neither does the label, democrat, make of a man working force for democratic democracy. The announcement in a Washington dispatch that a number of democratic congressmen did not cotton much to the program of electing Champ Clark to be speaker of the house was not an overwhelming surprise. The surprise would have been due if they had advocated Clark's elevation to the speakership, for among the adherents of Cannon and Lanonism no members of the house, not even the most stubborn standpatters, were more steadfast in their loyality to all that should not be than these same 'democrats.' Champ Clark can get no better recommendation for the post of speaker than the opposition of such a crew."

"The latest insidious attack upon Clark by the interests is the statement that his election would be a bryan victory. We don't profess to know about that, but we are sure that nothing could be more gratifying to most genuine democrats to have it so, not anything so disheartening to all plutocrats."

Obituary.

Francis Elizabeth Sleet was born April 9th, 1847. She was united in marriage with Lafayette J. Riley Feb 23, 1865. To this union were born six children, Nannie Bell, Minnie May, Lou Emma, James Albert, Sleet William and John Woden. Nannie Lou and John early departed this life; the others with her husband and granddaughter, survive her. She united with New Bethel Baptist church at the age of 15 years, having lead a christian life until her death, at which time she was a member of Union Baptist church, having been one of the charter members of the organization. She departed this life Dec. 19, 1910, being 63 years, eight months and 10 days old. The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Reed, assisted by Rev. Wm McMillan, of Big Bone church, Dec. 22d, after which her remains were laid to rest in the old cemetery under the supervision of John Allison, undertaker.

Of Intrest to Farmers.

The best cows are never cheap, and are seldom for sale; so it pays to give the heifer calves the best of care.

—o—

Give the cows a chance to get under the shed every night now. If too cold, keep them in the stable.

—o—

Give the horses some carrots, apples or potatoes two or three times a week. Some people call this fussing, but it pays.

—o—

Don't let the breeding mare get down to skin and bones. It is bad for her and bad for the colt. Give her extra feed and care.

—o—

When a small bit of pork costs a day's wages, and even a ham bone so precious, there need be no fear of overstocking the hog market.

—o—

Heavy draft teams hauling heavy loads keep in good condition when kept at the fast walking gait and accomplish more than when trotted part of the time.

—o—

No animal on the farm will respond to kind treatment quicker than the hog. And kind treatment means a good deal in the accumulation of marketable meat.

—o—

Build the line fence strong enough to keep your and your neighbors stock on the right side, but do not have it so high that it will prevent you from being neighborly.

—o—

The sheep that both feeds and clothes us, besides adding tremendously to the fertility of the land is bound to be one of the biggest economic agriculture factors. Let us have fewer dogs and more sheep.

—o—

The farming business is now coming to a point where it is generally recognized as the most prosperous business going, offering the best future and the brightest prospects. This being so, there will be no trouble about keeping the boy on the farm for he will be keen to see that it is the best place to make money, gain the respect of his fellowmen and obtain that standing amongst men, which is the ambition of every right-minded boy. It is to gain these things that he has here-to-fore gone to the city; it is to gain these things that he will hereafter stay on the farm and that will send the youths of the cities to join him. All he wants to know is as to what pays best in the sum of human happiness and comfort and success. It is now being demonstrated that in all the things the farm offers the opportunities.—LaBelle Star

Bootleggers' Paradise.

Internal Revenue Collector, Munson, swooped down on the "bootleggers" in Williamstown one day last week and compelled 14 of them to take out a government license, it is reported. The Collector came to Williamstown some two or three weeks ago and made a quiet investigation. The investigation convinced him that not only was "bootlegging" being indulged in, but that it was being done by the wholesale. He caught one of the alleged "bootleggers" with the goods on him and informed him that he must take out a government license at once or he would be taken before the Federal Grand Jury to answer the complaint of selling whisky without government license. This "bootlegger" was a good natured sort of a fellow and a little tipsy at the time, and, thinking he was doing the other boys a favor, he took the internal revenue man around and introduced him to 13 others suspected of "bootlegging." The result was that the whole fourteen agreed to take out government license, and subsequently they did. Of course, all these sellers of whisky are now protected from arrest so far as the government is concerned, but the fact that they have a government license will be used against them when the grand jury convenes some three or four weeks hence, and it is not at all improbable that a big batch of indictments will be returned. Fourteen "bootleggers," each with a government license, ought to be sufficient to keep the average booze fighter in Williamstown and the surrounding territory pretty well supplied, and there must be a tremendous profit in the illicit calling of "bootlegging."—Grant County News.

"A visitor, who was being escorted through an asylum for the insane, came to a padded cell in which an unfortunate man was wailing, 'Susan! Susan! Susan.' In response to a query he was informed that the victim had been jilted by a girl named Susan, with whom he was madly in love. A little further on he came to another padded cell in which another unfortunate was wailing, 'Susan! Susan! Susan!' Once more he wanted to know why Susan was the burden of a maniac's lament, and the attendant said, 'This is the man who married Susan.'"

GOOD ROADS.

Comments On The Good Roads From The State Press.

Any attempt to enact into a State law a measure requiring a county to pay any part of the expense of road building undertaken in another county will result in failure of State-wide road building.—Mayfirld Mirror

The question of good roads is being agitated in almost every county in the State. We sometimes have such agitation here, but it usually precedes and never succeeds elections for county officers.—Beattyville Enterprise

We understand that Dr. W H. Hord, of Orangeburg, was once offered a very handsome price for the fine stallion, Neddie Connor, which died the other day of uraemic poisoning. The animal was valued at $20,000.—Maysville Bulletin.

The doctor who advises sleeping in one's clothes rather than undress and get into a cold bed at night, says he has tried it and found it a good time saver as well as healthful. But it would seem to be bad for trousers, this sleeping in them.—Frankfort News

W. O Bach has rented the Craig blacksmith shop at this place. The first day, being short of hands, he shod sixteen horses, drove several front nails, turned a lot of extra shoes, put three links in a chain and made other repairs. This was Bill's first work in a shop.—Frenchburg Agitator.

In less than a week twelve men have been shot or cut within the borders of our county, five of whom died and other deaths may yet follow. We want to withdraw all we have ever said about Breathitt county. It begins to look very much like we live in glass houses ourselves.—Mt. Sterling Advocate

We met a gentleman who is a member of the Legislature from one of the Ohio River counties and wants to be Senator, on a train the other day. He is opposed to the road tax. In our conversation it developed that he thought Gen. Humphrey Marshall and Thomas Marshall were one and the same person.—Winchester News.

How many good roads conventions have been held in Kentucky? How many times have the fatal defects of the taxing system of Kentucky been pointed out? And what did the Legislature do about it? Is it time for Kentucky to make a good resolution for the new year? Not at all. It is time for Kentucky to be up and doing things.—Owensboro Measenger

For more than a generation Clark county has been using economy in her county affairs in order that the bonded debt of nearly a hundred thousand dollars paid for our pikes might be paid off. If the mountain counties that are going to be the richest in the State in a few years will bond themselves thus heavily they will be able to build all the roads they need.—Winchester Demorat.

The tariff tax goes into the coffers of the trusts. A road tax would come back to the taxpayers in permanently improvered highways. The taxpayers would have something to show for their money, but the taxpayer wants to be completely bamboozled when he parts with his tax money. He doesn't want any visible results, except that of ——— while the taxes increase.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Never before has there been such manifestation of the ideas of the people of Kentucky for good roads, yes, better roads, as was shown at the meeting of the Good roads Convention in Louisville last week. There is a wonderful movement on for better roads all over the State and the Commonwealth will be asked to aid in building modern thoroughfares through the rough country where the cost would be more than the citizens can bear, and also give a little toward improving the roads in that part of the State where fairly good roads are now being maintained. We would give a dollar toward a good country road almost as quickly as we would toward a country school.—Richmond Climax

The Good Roads Congress which met in Louisville last week was distinctively a forward and progressive movement in Kentucky. It was a very representative body, accredited delegates being present from every section of the State. It was a body of a high order of intelligence, numbering among its delegates some of the most distinguished men of Kentucky. About half of the 203 delegates were County Judges and Magistrates, men directly associated and connected with road building, constituting probably the best posted men in the State on the subject. That this large body of citizens from the Purchase, the Pennyrile the Bluegrass, the mountains and cities should agree upon a State aid bill in the construction of roads with practically unanimity, only the county dissenting, indicates in an absolutely certain way that Kentucky is determined to follow after many other States and provide for State aid in the construction of county highways It meets the conditions and requirements of every section of the State and each section will be an equal beneficiary under its operations, if made a law. With such a bill, and such a unanimous sentiment from such a body of expert road men, the Legislature should pass it without amendment and by a unanimous vote.—Elizabethtown News.

DE LAVAL
CREAM SEPARATORS
Won First Prize
at the
California State Fair

The DE LAVAL machines were exhibited in competition with the half a dozen other makes and, as usual, the DE LAVAL carried off the honors, being awarded the first premium.

Wherever they have been exhibited the DE LAVAL Cream Separators have invariably been awarded highest honors at every important exposition or actual-use contest.

The DE LAVAL skims closer, runs easier, lasts longer and is easier to keep clean than any other separator made.

Sooner or later you will buy a DE LAVAL.

Jacob D. Doubman, one of our highly esteemed citizens, has been quite ill the past week, confined to his room most of the time, but we are glad to say he is now much better.

Having taken the agency for the largest and best bonding coming in the United States I am prepared to write any kind of a bond on the shortest notice. D B Wallace, Walton, Ky

The general distribution of about twenty-five per cent of the money of the 1909 pooled tobacco is to be distributed about January 28, and it will be a great help to the tobacco growers.

Rev. L A. Koehler of Cincinnati, filled his regular appointment at the Walton Christian church, preaching Sunday morning and evening, to good sized congregations in an interesting and entertaining manner.

Walton Lodge of Knights of Pythias spent a very pleasant social evening together last Thursday night, when a fine spread of all the appetizing deilicacies of the season were discussed in a most anjoyable manner. The Lodge is doing very well and has a good prospect for growth.

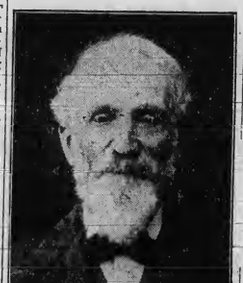
'Squire Frank Mann of Morning View, Wm. H Metcalfe and W. T Loomis of Kenton County, spent Saturday here threshing out some of the details of the Kenton Co. pooled tobacco interests. 'Squire Loomis came over in his fine automobile, and was the guest of his daughter Mrs. Jno L. Vest.

At a meeting of the directors of The Walton Bank and Trust Co. held last Wednesday R. C Green was re-elected cashier for another year, it being his twenty-first election to the office, since the organization of the bank. Mr. Green is a fine gentleman and a first class cashier, and is fully deserving of all the honors conferred on him.

The little son of Wm. O Jackson had a severe operation performed on one of his legs Tuesday, Drs. J G. Slater and B. K. Menefee doing the surgical work. The affected limb was so badly affected with poisonous matter that it was thought the leg would have to be amputated to save the boy's life, but he is now in a fair condition to recover.

Everett K. Stephens, our clever citizen, has been appointed by the state as Statitician of vital statistics for the Walton district. His duties require the doctors and the undertakers to report to him the deaths and births in the district, and such other statistics as pertain to the community in that particular. Failure to report makes the party so offending subject to a fine for each offense.

James Arnold, a tobacco dealer of Williamstown, was run over and killed on the Q. & C. Railroad near Bracht Station last Saturday night. No one appears to know anything about how Mr. Arnold came to his death, but it is supposed he was walking along on the railroad track and failed to note the approach of a rapidly moving train.



Later—It has been learned that Mr. Arnold fell off of the train

Roy D. Stamler has added another fine pool table to his pool parlor, making four tables he is now running. The nice manner in which he conducts his establishment has developed a large patronage from the very best class of people, and he is worthy of it for many reasons. The best of behavior always prevails and the pastime brings together a great many friends in a social way to spend a most enjoyable evening.

Arthur J. Williams of Elliston Station, spent Tuesday here with friends. Mr Williams is the telegrapher and station agent at Elliston and is enjoying his annual vacation of about a month. Mr. Williams has been the station agent of the L. & N Railroad Co. at Elliston for the past 42 years and in all that long period he has never had an accident or mishap on the railroad thru his instrumentality. He is considered one of the best agents in the employ of the railroad company and he is esteemed very highly by a large circle of acquaintance and his fellow citizens for his many estimable qualities of heart and mind.

B. R. Gaines, One Of The County's Oldest and Wealthiest Citizens Passes Suddenly Away.

BENJAMIN RICE GAINES

Benjamin Rice Gaines, whose death was announced in these columns last week, was one of the very old citizens of this county, where he was born and spent his long life. He was the fourth child of a family of eight children born to Richard and Judieth Gaines, who owned a farm near Bullittsville, this county, and on which they resided. He was born December 26, 1821, and died December 31, 1910, being 89 years and 5 days old. He was married May 6th, 1852, to Miss Eliza Graves, who died December 2nd, 1873. To them was born one child, W. A Gaines, who survives. On May 23, 1893, he married Miss Nannie Berkshire, who also survives.

Mr. Gaines began the battle of life in very moderate circumstances, but owing to his excellent judgment and ceaseless energy he accummulated more rapidly than any of the very thrifty farmers in this part of the county, and for many years he has been the wealthiest farmer in the county, whose possession were wholly the result of that vocation. From corn, hogs and cattle and the judicious investments in lands of the proceeds arising from the sale of the latter two, he continued to increase his holdings until at the time of his death he and his son owned about 2,000 acres, and this is only a single item going to constitute his great wealth.

For many years Mr. Gaines gave a large number of men employment on his farms, and some of them had been with him almost a generation. Occasionally one would conclude he could do better with some other landlord, but in nearly every instance a year or two was enough to satisfy him of his error, when, if he was a good man, in nearly every instance he was permitted to return. He was a man who did many charitable acts in a quiet way, and those in a position to know say he never failed to contribute to the needy and distressed.

In the matter of religion he was a Universalist, and was firm in his belief that the scriptures teach the ultimate salvation of all mankind.

On all questions pertaining to farming Mr. Gaines was considered excellent authority and long will he be quoted in this county, where the correctness of his ideas were so clearly demonstrated.

After the funeral services which were conducted at the residence on the 2d inst., at 10 a. m. by Rev. R H. Carter, Christian, and Rev. S J. Bradley, Methodist, the remains were taken to the Petersburg cemetery and deposited in the vault to await final interment by the side of his wife who was buried there in December 1873.

Mrs. Lacy Kirtley Gaines.

Mrs. Lacey Kirtley Gaines, wife of Wm. Gaines, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Francea Kirtley, on High street, of tuberculosis last Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock, aged about 30 years.

She had been with her mother who has charge of the school at Eagle Station, and came home the evening before, driving thru in a carriage, and that night expressed herself as being greatly refreshed by the journey, therefore her death came without warning and as a great surprise.

Miss Lacey Kirtley taught in the schools here and at Ghent before her marriage, about three years ago, to Mr. Wm Gaines; she was a beautiful and intelligent woman and was beloved by her pupils and parents and all who knew her.

Short services will be held at the home of her mother and the remains will be interred at Bullittsville, Boone county.

The services will take place this—Thursday—morning at 7:30, and the remains will be placed in the vault at Bullittsville until the arrival of her husband next Saturday.—Carrollton News

Mrs. Gaines was a daughter of the late Dr. Robert Kirtley, of this county, and was one of the two ladies who, in a popularity contest conducted by this paper, won a visit to the Jamestown Virginia, Exposition. Her bereaved mother, sister and husband, have the sympathy of many relatives and friends in this county.

Thomas Ross, whose body was fished out of a well in Scott county, near Georgetown, a few days since, by a negro, who was trying to recover a well bucket, was a brotherinlaw of Sheriff B. B Hume He had been missing since Christmas, and it is supposed that he fell in the well at night. His remains were brought to this county for burial. His wife who was a twin sister of Sheriff Hume has been dead for several years.

If the tobacco crop is cut out this year the farmers of this county will have a splendid opportunity to give their farms some attention. If the owners of land would only think so they can give their tenants work every day in the year, even tho no tobacco is grown, and at the end of the year they will be better off than if they had cultivated a large crop of tobacco upon which an average price would be realized. Many farms in Boone county have been allowed to grow up in bushes and briars and the fences rot because of the time that should have been devoted to them has been given the cultivation of tobacco. Taken as a whole tobacco has been a disadvantage to Boone county, there being hundreds of acres of land laid waste by it.

The Times has received a letter from a candidate for a State office, not even a personal acquaintance, asking if it will print for him gratuitously a two-column article in the interest of his candidacy. Now, why should the Times do this? Why should any paper in the State do it? What has this aspiring gentleman ever done for the Times? What would he ever do for it, even if elected? It is doing work like this that helps keep the country newspaper poor.—Georgetown Times

The Recorder is in receipt of a like communication, and entertaines the same opinion as that expressed by the Times. Further, local candidates pay the Recorder for their announcement and it fails to see why a stranger candidate should not do the same.

The nine banks of Boone county make a splendid showing, according to their statements published in these columns Dec. 29th, 1910. These statements show a total of $1,031,982.58 This does not include the statement of the Erlanger Deposit Bank, which, virtually, is a Boone county institution, owned and controlled by Boone county people, which ad d shows a total of $256,853.21, making a total of $1,288,935 in the ten banks. The nine banks in the county show an aggregate of deposits of $660,465.58, and loans of $770,772.16 Including the Erlanger Bank which has deposits of $186,203.75 and loans $176,601 14, makes a total of $846,669.33 deposits and $947,776.30 loans

So far as information has been obtained the tobacco growers of Boone county are very much pleased by the action taken by the growers who met in convention in Lexington, last week. The proposition to cut out the 1911 crop they appear to regard as the only salution of the tobacco problem as it now presents itself. If the growers in all the Burley territory outside of Kentucky will cooperate with Kentucky in the cut out move there will be no trouble.

It has been suspected for several days that an attempt would be made to pull the Flynn—Wurst prize fight off at the Constance club house, and County Judge P. E Casson and Sheriff B. B. Hume were holding themselves in readiness to suppress it.

1911 will be a great year in which to clean up the fence rows, thickets, and improve the farm. Every farmer has some corners that need cleaning up and getting into a high state of cultivation. No tobacco raised this year will leave every farmer time to repair his barns and clean up and fence the farm. A good fence around every farm in the county will add much to the comfort and wealth of owners. Clean off the meadows and put up plenty of feed.—Owen Democrat.

Never since the Boer War have mules been as scarce as they are at the present time in this country, said J. P Hudson, a stock dealer of Louisville, Ky., last night. Mr Hudson just arrived in the city after a trip over the country seeking the animals. He can assign no cause for "mule famine," which he claims is becoming constantly more marked.—Frankfort Journal.

There is little question that the coming primary will be fairly conducted in most of the counties in the State. The danger of unfairness is in the cities like Louisville, Covington and Lexington and in a few of the mountain counties, where the Democrats unfortunately have fallen into the habit of their Republican neighbors and stuff the ballot boxes without scruple.—Winchester Democrat.

SHIPS MADE STEAD.

Gyroscope Has Wonderful Effect on Vessel.

Engineer Tells Naval Architects and Engineers How it Stops Rolling Motion of Boats and How Applied to Compass.

New York.—The wonders of the gyroscope were hinted at by Elmer A. Sperry at the meeting of the naval architects and marine engineers at the Engineering Societies building. He told how ships could be made to keep an even keel in a heavy sea, and how the gyroscopic force was applied to the compass.

The meeting was the second day session of the annual gathering of the naval men for the presentation of their scientific papers on a wide range of subjects. Besides the gyroscope, such subjects were discussed as the reduction of loss by fire aboard ship, the use of producer gas as motive power, and coaling warships.

"When the motive power of vessels changed from an upsetting force (the sail) to one almost excusively of forward thrust," said Mr. Sperry, "the design of ships underwent quite radical changes in connection with lines affecting the stability, decreasing this factor and favoring decreased resistance, aiding the attainment of higher speeds. Now that stability may be imparted to a structure of naturally small righting movement, we are on the eve of even more radical changes in design.

"The problem is to hold the ship from rolling by neutralizing with the gyroscope each disturbing influence as it reaches the ship while availing ourselves of all the aid possible through the design of the hull and the disposition of the masses. . . . A great many ships as they now stand could with profit utilize the gyroscope steadying gear, which is at present available, and some important installations are now being contemplated."

Mr. Sperry told us seeing Russian warships constructed in Hamburg which were furnished with 350 to 400 tons of water slushing back and forth periodically in huge tanks to counteract the roll of the ship so as to make it possible to operate the guns on a level. The movement of the water has to be timed to the roll of the sea, and when it gets out of time it turns into a menace.

"The gyroscope, on the other hand, is not limited to any particular period of the boat; it simply responds to whatever motion the ship has, synchronous or non-synchronous," said Mr. Sperry, "the question is often asked: 'Why is a gyroscope better than a moving weight in a ship for roll quenching?' Every pound in the rotating mass of the gyro can be made to do the work of from 150 to 200 pounds, and directed in the desired line or plane, whereas when we use water or any other form of moving weight each pound represents a pound only and can do the work of only a pound and only in a vertical direction."

Mr. Sperry gave a very interesting, though strictly scientific demonstration of the peculiar faculty possessed by the gyroscope which made it possible to transfer energy "around a center." He compared a ship without a gyroscope to a ship with one. The model ship in a smooth surface is tilted to an angle of 25 degrees and then allowed to rock itself to an even keel. The diagram showed that the ship with the active gyroscope made about three rocks in each direction and then suddenly became so steady that a man could shave or play billiards, while the ship without it rocked too and fro, taking a long time to "let the old cat die."

Mr Sperry praised the work of Capt. D. W. Taylor in the Washington navy yard in respect to the gyro and said that his treatise on the subject was of immense value toward the understanding and practical application of gyroscopic energy.

The gyroscopic principles applied to the compass has proved invaluable, Mr. Sperry said. "This type of compass is not affected in the slightest degree by the steel of the ship or cargo, or any magnetic disturbance. It is also free from the influences of those disturbances technically known as deviation or variation."

Samuel D. McComb gave a paper embodying suggestions as to the prevention of loss by fire. He spoke of the harbor tugs, which are necessarily small for maneuvering, and yet must have high power. The result is that the engines must be made as large as the space will permit, and the walls of the boilers are put as close to the woodwork as the law will allow. Such a condition requires more careful watching than most tug masters give, and that explains the large number of fires aboard tugs.

GET FREE SNEEZING POWDER

Cement Works in New Jersey Town Scatter Dust That Makes Even Animals "Kerchoo."

New York.—Hunters about Bloomsbury, N. J., instead of shooting at game these days sneeze at the birds and rabbits. They do not get any by sneezing, but they are unable to shoot, and, besides, being sportsmen, they object to shooting a partridge that roosts on a fence rail, and, taking its head in one paw, holds onto the fence with the other while it sneezes until it is sick and tired.

The trouble is with the big cement works near the town. The fine dust, that has an irritating effect upon the nostrils, has been carried far and near. It lays over the dry leaves, and even the rain has not caused it to disappear.

Hunters going through the woods kick it up. Quails stir it, and rabbits cause it to rise as they go jumping through the underbrush. John Sylvester and William Fox went out hunting the other day. They came across a rabbit standing on his hind legs and sneezing.

"Don't shoot him while he is sneezing," said one. "Besides, a rabbit with the whooping cough isn't good to eat." And the pair waited. The rabbit recovered and jumped away. The hunters by this time were sneezing and unable to shoot.

Other hunters have gone through the woods sneezing so that they scared the game away ahead of them, or sneezed so that when they shot they were unable to steady a gun.

In addition to hunting being lifted from uncertainty and made a certainty that no one will bag anything, the dairy industry has been affected. The cows have come home night after night with cement in their ears and covering their backs until when it is scraped off a herd a farmer has a bucketful of it.

DOG'S SMILES HANG A JURY

Mute Witness, Charged With Having Bitten Boys, Saves Master From Heavy Damages.

New York.—In spite of his merrily wagging tail and his broad grin, Bang got a pretty bad name. Eleven-year-old Sophie Kann told Judge O'Dwyer in the city court that Bang had bitten her over one eye. Willie Silverstein fifteen years old, a student in the city college, exhibited a torn ear as another result fo Bang's viciouness.

Bang, who is a setter, came to court as star witness for himself in Sophie's father's suit for $2,000 damages against Hiram D. Phelps, 166 Thirty-sixth street and Willis avenue. Bang's owner. On taking the stand Bang looked pleasantly about the court room and genially remarked "Woof." Turning to the judge he announced "Garoof gur-r. " Then Bang made the round of the jurors, graciously letting each one scratch his head.

But tiny Sophie gave him a character far different from that he gave himself. She showed her torn forehead and told how Bang had done it. She and other children were playing in front of Phelp's office, she said, and went close to his auto. Bang leaped from the machine and bit her. Willie Silverstein said that two weeks before Sophie's accident Bang had bitten him under similar circumstances.

Louis Steckler, counsel for Phelps pleaded to the jury that the dog be allowed. "And all the evidence shows only one nip was taken," he added. After remaining out two hours the jurors were unable to agree and Judge O'Dwyer instructed them to bring in a sealed verdict.

BILLY GOAT THRASHES COP

Butting and Bucking He Sends Policeman Skidding—Animal is Finally Killed.

Pittsburg, Pa.—For assaulting a policeman, breaking his mace, crushing his helmet over his ears, tearing his clothes and making him the laughing stock of the community, Billy Clark was killed. Everyone in Woods Run—or at least around Harland avenue and Sarah street—knew Bill. He was a goat owned by Patrick Clark of 86 Sarah street, and the Clark children had him broken to harness.

At 9 o'clock the other night the goat broke out of its shed and went to Harland avenue, where it drove many young coasters up telegraph poles, etc. Officer Michael Redman was told that "Bill Clark was on another tear," and he hurried to the scene. Bill was holding Harland avenue.

"Come here to me, Bill," said the officer very sweetly, and he approached the goat cautiously with mace unsheathed. The goat "came" before Redman expected it and the officer sped for some distance along the icy pavement on the peak of his helmet and his stomach. As the policeman sat up and looked around the goat made another charge. Redman struck the animal over the head with his mace. The mace was shattered and a piece of it flying through the air broke a window, but it did not stop Bill.

The policeman then seized the goat by the horns. For the next three minutes the fight was even and spectators cheered. Finally Redman drew his revolver and killed Bill.

"CUT'ER OUT"

Is About What Boone County Will Say In Regard to The 1911 Crop.

The Cut Out Meeting Held In Burlington Last Saturday Small but Unanimous.

CANVASS NOW IN PROGRESS.

About thirty tobacco growers and land owners were present in the circuit court room at the court house last Saturday afternoon, when C. C Sleet, of Beaver, called the tobacco growers' meeting to order.

In an interesting address in which he related considerable that was said and done at the recent Lexington meeting, Mr. Sleet explained the object of the meeting then to be held, saying it was not for the purpose of seeing what can be done towards pooling tobacco, but to ascertain the sentiment as to the proposition to "cut out" the 1911 crop. He said, "this meeting is a family gathering, and the time has come when we must stand together. It is generally believed that the cutting out of the 1911 crop of tobacco is the easiest and quickest solution of the tobacco problem now confronting the Burley tobacco district. Many of those heretofore failing and refusing to assist their brother growers in their fight against the trust are among the most enthusiastic advocates of the 'cut out' proposition, some of whom took a leading part in organizing the Burley Tobacco Union at Lexington."

At the close of Mr. Sleet's remarks Lucien Clore was elected secretary of the meeting, when the chairman announced that the meeting would be pleased to hear from anyone who desired to talk. It was evident from the start the meeting was unanimously in favor of the proposed "cut out," but several questions were put to Mr. Sleet, all of which he answered in a manner very satisfactory to the propounders.

G. W Sandford, of Burlington, opened the speech making, and soon had his audience convulsed in laughter. He had been a hold out or "stand patter," but he is anxious to get in the band wagon, and assist all he can in bringing about conditions that will realize for the tobacco grower a profit on his labor. He considers his experience a dear one.

J. W Kennedy, of Union, made a short talk in which he urged the growers to act together and to think of no other plan than the "cut out" because only can results be obtained by unity of thought and unity of action. During the meeting Mr. Kennedy explained that the tobacco market quotations sent out from Lexington are misleading in that they do not give the very low price at which the greater part of the tobacco is sold. The high prices at which small quantities sell are the only ones heard of. Mr. Kennedy said, "I am not a grower of tobacco, but am a distributor of merchandise among farmers, and when they get a good price for their tobacco I am benefitted thereby, and I am thus interested in their behalf." Mr. Kennedy's speech was to the point throughout and made a good impression on his hearers.

To ascertain the feeling of the meeting on the proposition before it, all those who favored the "cut out" proposition were asked to raise to their feet, and every land owner and grower stood up, showing that the meeting was unanimous, at which showing the chairman was much gratified.

At this point Mr. Sleet addressed the meeting and said he had made up an estimate of what it costs to raise an acre of tobacco, that he had placed each item of cost at the very lowest figure and in some instances he believed too low. He then read his itemized list of cost, item by item, beginning with the burning of the plant bed and concluding with hauling the tobacco to market, the total of the items being $39.50

The meeting had now reached the stage at which a show down was necessary, and the chairman produced the "cut out" pledge, same as appeared in last week's Recorder, and read it to the meeting, and then asked all those who desired so to do to come forward and affix their signatures, and a general rush for the secretary's table was the result. In a few minutes all had signed.

Books containing the printed pledges were placed in the hands of persons who agreed to make a canvass of the precinct in time for a report to the February meeting in Lexington. The chairman gave those who took the books to understand, there was no provisions made for paying them for the work they were about to undertake, nor did he know that there ever would be, that they must consider that they are working for the good of the cause. This statement did not seem to dampen the zeal of those who had accepted the contract books.

Fifty books each containing 25 contracts had been sent to Mr. Sleet, and these he is aiming to place according to the amount of tobacco produced in the precinct, and, of course, some precincts will have more canvassers than others, and as a thorough canvass of the county is desired, those to whom the work has been assigned will have to make a business of it for a few days, and they should not delay it until the time in which it is to be done has about expired.

The meeting was fairly representative of the Burlington precinct, there being only two or three outsiders present, therefore the sentiment here can be said to be just about unanimously in favor of the cut out proposition, while it is claimed not a dissenting voice, on the proposition, can be found in the Beaver and Walton precincts, while from each of the other precincts in the county favorable reports come in, consequently it is safe to say that Boone county is largely, if not almost unanimously, in favor of cutting out the 1911 crop of tobacco.

The Late John P. Gaines.

In response to a request for information in regard to the late John P. Gaines, of this county, which Mrs. H Greene, of Honesdale, Pennsylvania, had published in the Recorder, a few weeks ago, J. D Gaines, of Texarkana, Texas, a nephew of Mr. Gaines, sends the following interesting brief sketch:

I see in last week's Recorder a notice asking for "Information regarding John P. Gaines, member of Congress," &c. As I am his nephew, I can give you considerable information about him. Although I was but a small boy when he moved to Oregon, of which territory he was Governor instead of Arizona. I have a fair recollection of him. He was a Major in the Mexican war, and while in a Mexican prison, as I recollect it, he was elected from your district, instead of 1835 which is an error, and was afterwards beaten by a man named Tibbatts, from Newport. After this defeat he was appointed Governor of Oregon by President Fillmore, and was removed by President Pierce in 1853, he being a Whig and Pierce a Democrat. One of his sons told me a long time ago Uncle John was once defeated for the State Senate by Gen. John Wallace, who, of course, you knew well. He died in Oregon about 1857 or 1858. His youngest son, Abner Gaines, was still living in Oregon, some three or four years ago, since which time I have not heard from him. If living he is at least 75 years old. When Uncle John moved to Oregon, my father, Archibald K. Gaines, bought his farm near Richwood church and lived there until his death in 1871. My grand father, Abner Gaines, who moved from Augusta county, Virginia, at or near Stanton, some time about 1800, lived about one and a half miles north of Walton, Boone county, and died there in 1840. My grandmother, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Mathews, died at my father's home near Richwood church, in 1861. Three, and perhaps four, of their children were born in Virginia, and the others, there were twelve of them, in Kentucky. My father was born at the home near Walton in 1808. George T Gaines, who formerly lived near Walton is now living, I think, in Chattanooga, and as he is some years older than I am could probably furnish more family history than I can. J D. GAINES.

The following is an extract of the report made to the Court by County Superintendent of Schools, Edgar Riley:

"The work of Superintending the schools of this county has more than doubled since the new school law has gone into effect. Not only has the work increased but the responsibility has been made almost three fold." His report shows that he has sent out 948 pieces of mail; number of days in the field, 56; number of days spent in the office, 66; days spent in examination and institute work, 19; addresses prepared and delivered in school rallies and in the interest of education, not including talks to children in visiting the schools, 11; about 700 reports have been sent out. The report says: "One item might be mentioned in the building of the school house alone 112 orders have been honored, which has made much extra work. The above item does not take into account the making of the report, and most of the check writing and correspondence, which has been done at home. Neither do I count the time spent in seeing to the High school building or in looking after Burlington school.

"Aside from the State fund, which amount is about $10,500, annually, I have handled $24,165.54 county tax and money borrowed to finance the County Board last summer before the time for the collection of taxes. Of this amount $7,500 was borrowed. About $4,500 was used in the teachers' fund. About $1,000 for coal, kindling and repairing coal houses. About $500 for incidentals such as apparatus desks, chalk, taking census, and the balance has been used or is being used for building and repairs. Of course the biggest item of this is the erecting of the county high school building.

"Your Superintendent has handled $39,234.25 or more than half as much as the sheriff handles, and for his services has received $510.20 Of this amount the actual expense of toll, coal, stationery and stamps was $46.47 If bond had been bought and the horse hired, there would have been an additional expense of $268 more on a total expense of $314.47

"The schools of the county are being put on a stronger basis. The teachers are better equipped and higher ideals are held up for the teachers in that the teachers are equipping themselves in many places for teaching as a profession and not as a means to some other work."

The Board of Education asked for the following amounts for school purposes for this year:

For buildings and repairs,.....	$6,000.00
For teachers' fund,.....	6,000.00
For furniture, fixtures, coal, etc,.....	$2,000.00

Leslie Sebree allowed $11.75 for work done on bridge.

W. W Conner allowed $30 for repairs on bridge.

Mrs. Ida Baldy allowed $30 for land on which to locate road.

Wm. McArthur allowed $93 40 for work done on the Dry creek bridge.

J. F Blyth paid into court $209 delinquent taxes collected.

Sheriff allowed 606 delinquent polls at $2 each and 125 delinquent polls at $1.50 each, and 140 delinquent dogs.

In the matter of the Superintendent of the county Infirmary the following order was made,:

It is ordered by the court that F. H Rouse be and he is hereby employed as superintendent of the County Infirmary for the year 1911, at a salary of $300 per annum, payable quarterly. The said Rouse is to buy all clothing and provisions at wholesale prices and haul the coal, break and attend the garden, attend the farm and the stock, bury all persons dying at the Infirmary, make full and complete reports quarterly to the court, all of which shall be done without expense to the county, and all services rendered the county shall be for the salary of $300. The superintendent may occupy the four rooms down stairs on the east side of the building, and the family shall consist of two persons only. He shall give bond for the faithful performance of his duties. The bond shall be delivered to the Judge of the court and be approved by him.

IN MEMORY OF

Mrs. Nancy F Noel, wife of John G. Noel, deceased, and daughter of James and Manda West, was born in Boone county, Ky., Oct. 8th, 1841 Boone county has always been her home, and here she had a great many friends. Few people had more or better friends than Mrs. Noel, and if she had an enemy in the world it is unknown to the writer of these lines.

In early womanhood on the date of December 21, 1863, she became the wife of John G. Noel For 13 years the sweet harmony of married life was theirs—for thirteen years their congenial lives flowed on together peacefully and sweetly like a beautiful river. On June 30th, 1875, the husband passed from life unto death. The faithful wife followed the remains of her companion to the grave, then returned and took up life's duties with the truest fortitude and Christian philosophy. The cares of a family were upon her, but she never faltered, and like the brave, noble, good woman that she was, she assumed the duties and acquitted herself so splendidly with the approval of God and of all that knew her faithful life.

Mrs. Noel was the mother of five children, four of whom are living: Mr. John Noel, Mrs Elizabeth Gordon, Mrs. Laura Wilson, and Mrs. Sally Powers

She has eight grandchildren. One of her sisters, Mrs. Eliza Moore, and two brothers, Mr. Enoch and Mrs. Thomas West, preceded her to the grave. She has living one brother, Mr. James West, and two sisters, Mrs. Nicholas Wilson and Mrs. Alice Moore. She has living three half brothers.

Mrs. Noel was always modest and unpretentious, but her gentle virtues—like the sweet fragrance of a flower, could not be hidden. The influence of her genial, practical, splendid life made its impress upon her family and upon all who came within her circle of friends and acquaintances. She always lived the plain, single, modest, gentle, upright, noble life of which her children and every friend can ever be proud.

Mrs. Noel became a christian early in life, became a member of the South Fork Christian church in Boone county. She lived a consistent christian life, and at the time of her death was one of the much loved and faithful members of the Beaver Lick Christian church. This church will greatly miss her presence and her ever helpful and faithful service.

Mrs. Noel's recent illness was not of long duration. Her family anb friends were apprehensive, but hoped for favorable developments. They were unremitting in their care and tender love. Gentle hands and loving hearts were about her bedside constantly, but human effort was powerless to save the life they so fondly cherished. On Nov 18, 1910, at five o'clock in the evening the gentle spirit of Mrs. Noel took its flight to the courts of Heaven. Her remains were laid beside her husband in the beautiful cemetery at Beaver Lick Christian church.

We will greatly miss her, but after her abundant labors of life and love she well deserves the "rest that remaineth to the people of God." Let us emulate her virtues and strive to acquit ourselves as nobly as she. Hers was a completed life, so fruitful of good. It is the sickle thrust into the ripe and golden grain.

She was the friend of all that needed a friend, and her memory will ever be cherished by the hundreds that knew her and honored and loved her.

The following resolutions of this auxiliary but feebly expresses our love for our dear departed one, and our sympathy goes out to her immediate family in this great loss and sorrow.

Whereas, Our beloved sister, Nancy F. Noel, has been called up higher to share in the rewards of the good and faithful,

Resolved, That we express hereby our sorrow in her loss, that we gather to her bereaved family and friends our heartfelt sympathy,

Resolved that the county paper be requested to publish this memorial.

Local Happenings.

For State Senator.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. James W Kennedy, of Union, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Big snow fell last Monday night.

No hard freezes so far this winter.

Born, on the 17th inst., to the wife of Ira Ryle, a girl.

January has twelve more days in which to cut up Jo Jack.

The weather, last Thursday, was very much like that of a spring thawout.

Mrs. M L. Riddell entertained quite a number of her lady friends at dinner, Tuesday.

The Boone County Medical Society met at Bullittsville, last evening, and was entertained by Dr. H H. Hays.

Mr. and Mrs Earl Walton, of Petersburg, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs Geo. G. Hughes, a few days last week.

The County Clerk will be very busy for the next several days with the assessor book. The work on that book is that official's big job of the year.

Elmer Conley killed one of a flock of owls he saw in the old cemetery, Tuesday morning. It was larger than a Screech Owl and smaller than a Hoot Owl.

Rue & Smith, trappers, have captured 33 skunks, 9 'possums, 6 coons and ane mink this season, the 49 pelts of which boughtr them about $53. The firm began business November 20th.

It seems that Russell Smith was well pleased with Florida, altho he did not tarry very long. The approach of the farming season hurried him home sooner than he really wanted to come.

It is said that there are several candidates for Representative who will hop out of the bushes in the next few weeks. Let the hopping begin, the Recorder is ready to assist them to hop.

Considerable tobacco was moving last week, owing to the very favorable weather for that kind of work. A considerable percent of the unstripped tobacco was put in the hand during the soft weather.

J. M Eddins says he dislikes very much to raise more corn in any one year than he can get in the crib that year, but he did that in 1910, owing to the unusual fertility of the soil he cultivated.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is not a common, every-day cough mixture. It is a meritorious remedy for all the troublesome and dangerous complications resulting from cold in the head, throat, chest or lungs. Sold by all dealers.

When C. G Riddell's store at Rabbit Hash, was broken into a few Sunday nights since, the safe which was unlocked, contained $60 in cash. It seems that the thieves were only hunting for something to eat and did not care to disturb the owner of the store nor his cash.

Have you a weak throat? If so, you cannot be too careful. You cannot begin treatment too early. Each cold makes you more liable to another and the last is always the harder to cure. If you will take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the outset you will be saved much trouble. Sold by all dealers.

In remitting for the Recorder Craig Baldon, of Carbondale, Colorado, writes: "like to hear all about old Kentucky, and hope to come back some day and see all the people there. We have had some real winter weather here. One morning last week it was twenty degrees below zero. We have not had much snow yet, about two inches is all so far. Will say so long now."

L. W Adams, son of the late Robert Adams, of Union neighborhood, was a caller at this office a few days since. Mr Adams is preparing himself for the legal profession and as a student of the Cincinnati Law School. He is endowed with unusual energy which will be invaluable to him in his determination to make good in the battle of life. He has a pleasing address and in a few minutes makes a stranger feel that he has met an old acquaintance. Mr Adams will make a success of life.

The new school house is about completed and it will be a structure to which Superintendent E. C. Riley and other members of the School Board can in years to come point with pride. The work on the building has progressed slowly, but that may be to the advantage of the structure, as a piece of work of that character that is rushed is very often slighted badly. There is yet considerable work to be done on the grounds surrounding the building, and when completed the entire property will present a very handsome appearance.

Now watch the tobacco buyers get busy again.

Some of the swift farmers will begin breaking land for corn as soon as conditions will permit.

Roosevelt has come to life again and assigned another prominent man to the Ananias club.

Mrs. H E. Miller, of Big Bone, purchased a fine $350 piano, recently, for her two sons, Chas. and Russell.

Elmer Conley could not make his delivery of mail last Friday on account of high water in Gunpowder creek.

The Chamber of Commerce disaster in Cincinnati, shows what terrible mistakes architects are capable of making.

There is yet to be considerable come out in the wheat if that crop amounts to anything in Boone county this year.

From the blow-offs that happen occasionally in Burlington it looks like the festive bootlegger is getting in his work occasionally.

J. F Blyth, ex-superintendent of the county infirmary has moved to his residence across the street from the Boone House in Burlington.

Are you testing your seed for germinating qualities? It is a simple matter, and the State Experiment Station will send you full directions for doing it at home.

The first epistle of James to the Philistines, the Kentucky Democratic Committee, has been published. He gives them some straight talk on the Senatorial primary.

The congregation of the colored Baptist church are very proud of the light plant they recently installed in their church building. They bought it of H C. Diers, of Walton.

Supt. Riley says that there will be a considerable increase in the attendance at the Boone County High School at the beginning of its next term, when it will be in its new quarters.

Herbert Kirkpatrick, who was at McVille during the storm last Thursday, afternoon, says he never saw such a downpour of water, while balls of fire held high carnival on the telephone wires.

Annual roll call at Sand Run Baptist church next Saturday morning at 10:30. This is the date for the first business meeting this year. Every member is invited to be present.

The Pastor.

According to the published accounts of the Adams county, Ohio investigation of corruption in elections, it is a more serious offense for a poor man to sell his vote than it is for a rich man to realize thereon.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a very valuable medicine for all throat and lung troubles, quickly relieves and cures painful breathing and a dangerously sounding cough which indicates congested lungs. Sold by all dealers.

A new variety of berry has been discovered in Logan county, Illinois; it is a cross between the red raspberry and the strawberry. It is of large size, grows on bushes three feet high, has a taste something like the mulberry, and is a good yielder.

As soon as possible those living on dirt roads should begin using drags on them, as it has been demonstrated that they are a first-class implement for use on the roads early in the spring before it is possible to do anyother kind of work thereon.

It is an agreed proposition that tobacco does well after corn and that much of the land of Boone county needs to be cultivated in corn. It is also a known fact that this county has for several years failed to raise enough corn to supply her and that many thousands of dollars have been sent out of the county for corn and meat. Why not put out a large crop this year and cultivate it well?

There has been a very great change for the better on the part of the owners of horses in this county in the matter of making these useful animals comfortable in bad weather. A few years ago horses driven to Burlington stood all day in the cold, no matter how severe, without the least protection, while their owners hovered close to a red-hot stove in some of the stores or county offices. But, happily, conditions have changed. Owners of horses have come, at least, to realize that these animals are worthy of some consideration, and make provisions for their protection. Very few horses are now let stand in the cold without being protected by a good blanket. Not one horse out of five is taken from home in bad weather without a blanket for its use. It does not cost much to thus protect a horse, but it took many owners a long time to discover this simple duty to their most faithful animal.

KNOCKERS' CLUB

Had Another Spirted Meeting—Some Important Matters Knocked Out—Knew Members Admitted.

Knockers' Club No. 1 held a very spirited meeting last Saturday afternoon, the chief officer presiding.

Among the important club business disposed of was the changing of the names of the two principal officers of the club, and hereafter instead of President and Vice-President they will be known as Big Knock and Little Knock.

Two applications for club membership were entertained, the applicants being unanimously elected. A committee was appointed to notify the new members of the honor that had been conferred upon them, and to take a note of any special knocks they wish to submit for consideration at the next meeting.

The first "knock" of the meeting was addressed to a certain land owner out on the East Bend road, who has thus far failed to haul and distribute a couple of thousand wagon loads of his surplus rock along the road between his possessions and the county seat. The land owner being a member of the club was present and defended his nonaction along that line in a vigorous, able and eloquent manner, and incidentally referred to Big Knock's failure in matrimonial pursuits, intimating he would have the road piked long before he, Big Knock, would want to drive his family carriage over it.

There was a disposition to take up the local political situation, but the arrival of the hour for adjournment precluded any further proceedings.

J. F Lambert, five miles out on the Belleview pike, sent to this office, a few days since, a sample of very fine tobacco which he raised on his farm. It has the length, color and body.

Joseph Sparks, son of William Sparks, of Verona, was tried by Judge Cason and a jury, last Saturday, and adjudged of unsound mind. He is 30 years of age, and his affliction is the result of a severe case of spinal meningitis he had seven years ago.

Mr. T R. Adams, of the Leeport neighborhood, has "taken the rag off the bush" in this season's hunting record. While out one day last week with dog and gun he killed a rabbit and three quail at one shot. The rabbit was running and the birds were huddled on the ground in front of it. Mr. Adams not seeing the birds when he fired.—Milton News

Milton Weldon, who lives with Jack Stephens, on the old Kendall farm south of Burlington, has been in bad health for some time, and last Thursday twenty-eight of his neighbors came in and stripped his tobacco for him. Such acts of kindness are what create a brotherly feeling among men, and every one of those who assisted, last Thursday, at Mr. Weldon's tobacco stripping, retired that night feeling happier because of having assisted in a good work that day. Mr Weldon appreciates the kindness of his friends.

To cut out the 1911 crop of tobacco as proposed by the growers' meeting at Lexington, is impractical. We know that in this county farms and sections of land have been rented by growers. In some cases $50 an acre is paid. Contracts have been made by the land owners with tenants that cannot be abrogated. The crop may be reduced, but it cannot be cut out entirely. Tobacco will be raised so long as it is profitable. If not in this section it will be produced elsewhere.—Winchester News.

Hogs For The Market.

It is during the fall of the year that selections are generally made for the breeding stock that will produce the stock of animals that will make up the larger portion of the pork hogs that will go to market next year. The profits on the stock next year will depend somewhat on the character of the brood sowa retained to become the mother of the pigs, as her influence on the young animals is far-reaching, much more so than the majority of swine raisers seem to realize, judging from the slipshod manner in which the selections are made. The fact should be kept in mind that to the mother we are to look for many of the desirable characteristics we wish our feed hogs to possess.

Important Decision.

The Court of Appeals rendered a deaision of great importance to tobacco people last week when it affirmed the case of the Commonwealth against Thos. Malone, from Mason county. Malone was indicted for selling some tobacco that he had bought and pooled after he bought it. The court says that the statute authorizing the pooling of tobacco and other crops, specifically states that the crop pooled must have been raised by the man on whose land it is grown before it is legally pooled that a mere buyer of tobacco cannot reap the benefits of the pool because he is not a raiser of tobacco as contemplated by the statute. Malone bought the tobacco and pooled it after he bought it, and, having no right to pool it, can not be punished for selling something he had no right to pool.

The School Tax.

The school tax in the State today is enough for the present. See that it is properly used.

There is an effort on the part of the leaders of education in Kentucky to get every citizen in the state to do something for the schools and school children.

There is not enough systematic effort put forth in our schools.

Today our people are not accurate enough. This must be taught in our schools.

We have a good school law with a little revision. We need more discipline in school. Getting an education is a business proposition.

The teacher who expects to succeed in Kentucky must keep up a course of study.

To get good work out of a class in school, constant reviewing must be the plan.—Owen Co Democrat.

To Secure Good Horses.

Several of the countries of Europe have for many years in some measure directed methods of horse breeding. This country has made two ventures in that direction through the Department of Agriculture which promises much. The government has much trouble in obtaining the horses of a standard required for its army purposes, and to overcome this leading government officials are now championing the establishment of breeding studs to raise 2,500 horses now annually purchased by the government for military purposes. The Government stud of American carriage horses at Fort Collins, Col., now numbers seventy-one horses and the stud of Morgan horses in Vermont contains thirty members. It is recommended that the government furnish the stallion service free and subsidize the foal to be purchased at a fixed price when the progeny is four years old. Such an arrangement would insure the government a supply of cavalry and artillery horses on contract demand and may become the system of ultimately supplying the army with its annual quota of horses.

Home Experiment Station.

Down in Oklahoma, the new State south of Kansas, some of the farmers have started a plan for home experimental work that seems very promising. Instead of waiting for their agricultural college experimental stations to work out problems for them they are preparing to do it themselves by means of farmers' clubs. The plan is something like this: Different members of the club agree to devote an acre of ground to a certain crop for experimenting, it may be with millet, sorghum, alfalfa, or vetch, or some new variety of oats or clover. He puts it in the best manner possible and gives it all needed attention and care and when the crop matures invites the other members to meet at his home for inspecting the result. They meet and compare notes and decide, each for himself, whether it is wise to grow the crop in a large way, or not. By this means all the members will get a satisfactory idea of the plant and its adaptability to his own soil. It seems a good idea, and may well be tried in other states. We would be glad to see such experimental clubs in numerous counties in Indiana, and would recommend vetch as worthy of trial by all of them.

HATES A STEAMSHIP

Mariner Who Is 102 Despises Steam-Going Vessel.

Captain Jackson Tells of Sailing Ship Days and of Fierce Storms That Swept Decks of Craft He Commanded.

London.—Nearing the close of his one-hundred-and-second year, Capt. Daniel Jackson gazed mournfully across the rain-swept gardens of the Tooting home for the aged as he compared the gale then raging, with the hundreds he experienced in the days when men went to sea in ships of wood. Strangely enough it was the present storm that had brought him his sorrow.

"It's only a little capful of wind," he said, "just enough to make a good craft swing along like a war horse. But it's brought me more trouble than any gale that has blown since I made my first voyage to Archangel, more than ninety-three years ago. It's only a little capful, yet it stayed [illegible] performing the last service my dear sister Maria will ask of me.

"She had sent me a message from the Wandsworth infirmary, saying that she wanted to see me very, very soon, because she had something to tell me. So I buttoned up my coat on Wednesday afternoon and started to walk over there, but the little capful was too much for me and the rain swept into my eyes. 'Never mind,' I said, 'I shall see her tomorrow.' Next morning they told me Maria was dead!"

Tears rolled from the tired old eyes as Captain Jackson's thin, twisted fingers beat upon the window pane, and it was many minutes before another word escaped him. He told of gales in many seas, fierce storms that had swept the decks of the ship which he had skippered when a boy of nineteen.

"Well I remember my first day of command," he said—and for the first time the droop of his lips lifted. "I was rigged in a new suit one of the owners had given me, with the pockets lined with $70 and a $75 watch in my fob. We sailed in ballast from Lynn to Sunderland, and when Mr. Taylerson, another of the owners, came aboard he asked me to direct him to the captain. That was the best day of all, I think, for when I made him really believe that I was the captain he chuckled for hours.

"Then he cracked me a hearty blow on the back and told me I must skipper a ship for him round the Horn to California. Thirty-eight times I sailed Mr. Taylerson's ships to California, but one day, when I was walking with him up the main street in Sunderland, he fell dead.

"My connection with the service ended soon afterward, but by that time I'd saved close on $5,000, and with that I became an owner myself. It was a sad day I bought my ship, for at my wife's desire I let her brother captain the vessel instead of looking after her myself. She was lost on the first voyage, and I hadn't a penny of insurance.

"I was a ruined man and getting on in years; so I settled down to be a landlubber as best I could. I came to Clapham in 1863 and set to work as a blindmaker. All went well for some [illegible] but by the time I had come to be seventy-five, I commenced doing odd jobs. So I worked on till my ninety-ninth birthday, when I came to live in this home, where every one is kind to me.

By now the captain's pipe was filled, and, puffing vigorously at his beloved shag, he offered his opinions on the sailors of today.

"Nice sailors they are to call these little squalls gales," he said. "It's the steamboats that have done it all. In my days a sailor was happiest when the seas swept the deck and his ship tore before the wind. I never could abide a steamer. I only once went to sea in one, and that was when I came home from Australia as a passenger."

A few weeks ago the delightful old captain met with an accident which would have proved fatal to most men many years his junior. Slipping, he fell backward against a piece of furniture and fractured two of his ribs.

"It hurt a bit at the time," he remarked, in the most casual fashion, "but I'm quite as strong as ever again. My chief failing is my sight. Till a few months ago the hours with a pipe and a paper were my happiest. Nowadays I must have the pipe only and let some one else have the paper."

"Beef Soul Celebration."

Seattle, Wash.—Steamer reports tell of the ceremony of the "beef soul celebration" which took place in Tokyo recently for the purpose of appeasing the souls of thousands of cows and oxen killed during the recent war to supply the army in Manchuria. It was estimated that 130 a day were slaughtered. A monument was erected "to prevent the souls of these slaughtered animals rising in retribution against the butchers."

$10,000 to His Sixth Wife.

San Bernardino, Cal.—Holding a wedding gift of $10,000 in one hand and leading his bride, who was his sixth, with the other, Edward Hicklein, eighty-one years old, advanced briskly to the altar and married his stepbrother's widow, Mrs. Bettie Hicklein, aged fifty-five years, who arrived an hour before from Texas.

C. L. Thomas, justice of the peace, made the couple husband and wife. It was his five hundredth wedding.

MEALS WILL COST ONE CENT

Miss Margaret McMillan, London Sociologist, Tells of Feeding Needy Pupils at Bradford, England.

Chicago.—The beneficial influence derived from furnishing substantial food to the school children of England was demonstrated by Miss Margaret MacMillan, a prominent sociologist of London, who is in America investigating social conditions. Her talk was given before the Woman's City club.

"Education, valuable, of course, in all departments of life," she said, "pays the most in the kitchen. The proper distribution in diet of proteids, glutens, nitrogen, sugars, etc., can only be determined by expert physicists, and their influence on the brain capacity is most marked. In Bradford, England, we are daily giving two meals a day to over 9,000 school children.

"Everything utilized at the nine different dining halls, variously distributed throughout the city, which has a population of 200,000, is prepared in one kitchen, and sent to the different places by wagons.

"The cost is a little more than two cents per head per day, and it is a [illegible] to supply children, who otherwise would do without it, with nourishing foods to prepare them for their life's work. The children of today are the mainstay of our governments in the future, and it is their right to be given every advantage to make them competent to take up the vast works which we will soon leave off."

The older children in the Bradford are taught to wait upon the smaller children, teaching them table etiquette, etc. According to Miss MacMillan, the proper handling of a knife and fork at table are as much manual training as being able properly to wield an ax.

CAT GHOST IN ALARM CLOCK?

Resident of New Jersey Town Has an Astonishing Experience With Timepiece.

Montclair, N. J.—Frederick G. Johnson, who lives at 9 Oxford street, thinks the ghost of a pet cat which he owned haunts his alarm clock. Up to a few weeks ago the clock behaved as well as any good domestic alarm clock should. On Nov. 13 the alarm clock, which had been set inadvertently for the noon hour, went off. The Johnson cat was dozing near where the clock stood and the noise awakened her. She dashed about in a frenzy. The kitchen door was open and through it the cat ran. That evening Johnson found the cat dead in the yard back of his home.

The next night the alarm clock began its strange antics. The timepiece switched suddenly into the Ananias circuit. The hands would suddenly jump forward for several swings about the face and the alarm would go off at all hours without any apparent cause. Johnson says he does not remember having wound the clock before these untimely capers.

The climax came Tuesday night. Johnson was sound asleep. He had left the clock on a chiffonier in his room. About two o'clock he was awakened by something striking him in the chest. When he got his bearings he found it was the alarm clock. The thing was ripping out alarms. Johnson says that when he went to sleep the clock was at least four feet from the bed. The clock was finally relegated to Johnson's cellars. The owner ascribes the strange actions to the transmigration of the spirit of his vengeful cat.

COST OF A YEAR AT OXFORD

Student at English College Said to Require a Minimum of $1,000 for Expenses.

London.—Lord Curzon's scheme for a poor man's Oxford will send back the minds of many Oxford men to their ferme bills. It is often said that a man requires a minimum of $1,000 to get through an Oxford year without confessing to exceptional poverty. Cecil Rhodes, who inquired not a little into Oxford expenses, allotted the Rhodes scholars $1,500 a year. In this sum vacation expenses were reckoned. The $1,000 covers a period of rather less than half the year.

There are besides capital expenses, afterward returned. The freshman is allotted a room, with the first glimpse of which he is probably charmed. To the poorer the charm vanishes a little when he finds on the table a valuation of $350 or so; that is paid on entering for the furniture. At every turn expenses that were not expected appear. The scout must have a minimum of $5 a term and the scout's boy $2.50.

All meals are the more expensive for the perquisites of the scouts. His battels or weekly bills for food are with difficulty kept below $10 a week. What with rent for rooms, tutor's fees and the rest, a term's bill very rapidly approaches $150 and may easily exceed it by a considerable sum. This sum does not, of course, include very large items in the general daily outlay.

It is unquestionable that Cambridge is on the whole very much less dear than Oxford. It would be interesting to see comparative tables of a year's expenditure at Oxford and Cambridge and at any good Scotch university.

Penalty for Shaving Self.

New York.—The Italian-American barbers of Jersey City organized a union the other day and in framing a schedule of prices agreed to charge 50 cents for every hair cut when the customer shaves himself.

RUINING OUR WOMEN

John W. Alexander Adds His Testimony to Dr. Sargent's.

American Woman's Figure Is Becoming More Masculine in Line Every Day—Outdoor Exercises and Life Blamed.

New York.—If the American woman persists in her undue athletic sports, there will soon be little difference between the masculine and the feminine figure.

So says John W. Alexander, president of the National Academy of Design. In this he agrees with Dr. Dudley Sargent, of Harvard, who said about the same thing. Mr. Alexander, one of America's foremost portrait painters has had ample opportunity to study women of every country and clime. In his home, at 116 West Sixty-fifth street, Mr. Alexander declared that the American woman's figure is becoming more masculine in line every day.

"Just where the beauty of such unnatural development comes in, I don't see," said the painter. "I don't see why any woman should be proud of losing that which constitutes her greatest charm, her womanly bearing and figure. But that is just what the American women of all classes seem determined to do.

"In no other country in the world do you see such masculinelike figures as the American women have. In France the woman is the personification of grace. In Germany the woman is not so graceful, perhaps, but she has that motherly bearing which gives her a lovableness that is not often found among our women. In England the stateliness and dignities of the women dissipate the slightest suggestion of the masculine.

"It has only been in the last few years that this change has been so decidedly marked among our women.

"If she continues her violent exercises and outdoor life, in a few years she will be so manlike in figure that she will look ridiculous in woman's attire.

"Up to a certain point this outdoor life and development is excellent. It gives the girl all that women of this country have been distinguished for abroad—a free, easy carriage, and an independence in movement and action that at once inspires confidence in her ability to meet a crisis. But this point has been overstepped and she is becoming anything but interesting.

"Take for instance, a woman who plays golf to the extreme. She has developed a large, muscular waist and a large, heavy arm.

"It is not an even training of all the muscles that the women are getting today, but an overdevelopment of some one set which will, in time, make them look more or less deformed.

"Athletic work is making women flat chested, large waisted, small hipped. This is the figure of a man, and that is one reason why many artists doing work along classical lines find it difficult to secure a model."

Doctor Sargent's views, which brought out Mr. Alexander's are to the effect that the feminine type is fast becoming masculine. The change, Doctor Sargent said, has come in the last twenty years. Women in the savage state, he added, were so like men in form that it was well-nigh impossible to tell them apart. Then, as civilization progressed, their especial feminine characteristics developed. Now the tendency is back to the savage type.

WOULD MARRY A "REAL MAN"

Yankee Girl Writes Governor of Texas, Stating There Is No Suitable Candidate in Jersey.

Austin, Tex.—"I would like to correspond with a nice young man," writes Miss Lillian Allen of R. F. D. No. 2, Millville, N. J., to Governor Campbell. "I am a northern girl and am unable to find what I call a real man here. I was informed that Texas is a state that has real men, so I have taken the liberty to write.

"I am a music teacher and a graduate of the Millville school. Hoping you will understand this and pass it to some young man who is worthy of its acceptance, I am, yours truly."

Miss Allen is one of the several who have advised the governor recently that they understand "real men" exist in Texas and that they would go to Texas if assured of a home and six-foot protector.

Rhymed Repartee.

New York.—"Gobble, gobble," called a young woman from New York who was visiting her grandparents on the old farm and who wanted to cultivate an acquaintance in the barnyard.

"Hobble, hobble," retorted the turkey, who was in no mood for light words, and besides didn't like the young woman's skirt.

Shortest Name in the World.

Cambridge, Mass.—Harvard has been inveigled into the short name contest. Aab, a special student of the university, hailing from Bangkok, Siam, is out with a challenge, open to the world, that says his is the shortest of names. Aab is a nomen, not a cognomen, for it is his first, last and middle name, all in one. Aab is satisfied with his name.

AN EXAMPLE IN DISCIPLINE

Joke Is Sometimes More Effectual Than Burst of Anger as Reprimand.

A reprimand which takes the form of a joke is sometimes more effectual than a burst of anger. Such an example was furnished by a Confederate officer, and described by T. C. Moore in his "Anecdotes of General Cleburne." The southern army, marching across the mountains of Georgia, had its supply trains cut off, and was obliged to live upon the country.

Apples, chestnuts and persimmons were plenty, but the army had strict orders not to depredate upon private property. One day I was trudging along in the rear of General Granbury's brigade, when I saw, down the road, General Cleburne sitting on the top rail of a fence, while below him lay five or six bushels of fine red apples. Near by stood a number of soldiers who looked as mean as men could look.

General Granbury saluted General Cleburne, who remarked:

"I'm peddling apples today."

"How's that?"

"These gentlemen," pointing to the soldiers who had stolen the apples, "have been [illegible]. They have gathered apples for me and charged nothing. I'll give them to you and your men. Now get down and take this one, and each of your men take one, only one, mind you, until all are gone."

The invitation was accepted, the men cheering for "Old Pat." When the apples were gone, the general made each man who had stolen the apples carry a rail for a mile or two.—Youth's Companion.

WILLIAMSON AND HIS WHISKY

Implied Accusation of Cheapness Was Too Much for Charitable Bartender.

George Williamson, who mixes drinks fit for the gods at Shoomaker's, where the politicians and diplomats foregather for a little nip now and then, is so polite and urbane that he would make the lamented Mr. Chesterfield seem uncouth and coarse. George is also possessed of a kind and charitable heart.

One afternoon, in the rush hour, a well-dressed stranger entered Shoomaker's and, leaning across the bar, said to George in a low tone:

"I'm a little short of money. Would you give me a drink of whisky for ten cents?"

"Certainly," said Williamson, and put on the bar a bottle of his finest.

The stranger fingered the bottle and the glass for a few moments. Then he said:

"I beg your pardon, but is this ten-cent whisky?"

The implied accusation of cheapness against the establishment was too much even for Williamson.

"Did you ever get any ten-cent whisky in this place?" he asked hotly.

The stranger admitted he never had.

"And you never will!" concluded Williamson, and with that he whisked the bottle off the bar, and the stranger got no drink at all.—Popular Magazine.

Secret Societies Abolished.

Secret societies have been abolished at Mount Holyoke college by a combined vote of the society members and the faculty. These [illegible] had been in existence in Mount Holyoke for more than twenty-five years. The Dramatic club of the college has bought the American rights of the pastoral play "Fair Rosamond," with a set of costumes and properties for production. This play was first given by Lady Archibald Campbell's Pastoral players at the Cannizaro Woods, Wimbleton Common, England. The American rights were later bought by Mrs. John V. Pruyn of Albany, who allowed the play to be given only when the proceeds were for some hospital work. After Mrs. Pruyn's death it was decided to sell the American rights and stage properties to some college organization rather than to a professional company. This play will probably be presented at the May day celebration.

Louise Colet.

It is just a hundred years ago that Louise Colet, the French poet, novelist and general writer, was born at Aix in Provence. It is now proposed to raise a bust in her memory. She was better known in life than to posterity not only by her writings, but from various little incidents with which she was connected. One of the most trying was when she intended to winter in the Isle of Ischia, in the Gulf of Naples.

No sooner was she established in this sea girt "auburn" than an epidemic broke out. The people thought it must be the stranger who had brought the trouble. She was threatened and narrowly escaped death by the devotion of a friend who got her away in a yacht. Strange as it may seem, when the "tenth muse" had left the island the fever disappeared.

LAST FROM TOLSTOI

Says War Against Capital Punishment Needs No Forcing.

Final Article Entitled "Effective Means," and Was Written by the Count in Optina Monastery, November 11.

St. Petersburg.—From Vladimir Tschertkoff, literary agent of Count Tolstoi, the last article written by Tolstoi has been received. It is entitled "Effective Means," and was written by Tolstoi in the Optina monastery, November 11, shortly after he began his self-imposed exile from home. The article was given out by M. Tschertkoff at the express wish of Count Tolstoy for dissemination to mankind. It says:

"I am naturally anxious to do all I can against evil, which tortures the best spirits of our time.

"I think the present effective war against capital punishment does not need forcing; there is no need for an expression of indignation against its immorality, cruelty and absurdity—every sincere thinking person, everybody knowing from youth the sixth commandment, needs no explanation of its absurdity and immorality; there is no need for descriptions of the horrors of executions, as they only affect hangmen, so men will more unwillingly become executioners and governments will be obliged to compensate them more dearly for their service.

"Therefore, I think that neither the expression of indignation against the murder of our fellowmen nor the suggestion of its horror is mainly needed, but something totally different.

"As Kantwell says, there are delusions which cannot be disproved and we must communicate to the deluded mind the knowledge which will enlighten and then the delusions will banish by themselves.

"What knowledge need we communicate to the deluded human mind regarding the indispensableness, usefulness or justice of capital punishment in order that said delusions may destroy itself?

"Such knowledge, in my opinion, is this:

"The knowledge of what is man, what his surrounding world, what his destiny—hence, what man can and must do and principally what he cannot and must not do.

"Therefore we should oppose capital punishment by inculcating this knowledge to all men, and especially to the hangman's managers and sympathizers who wrongfully think they are maintaining their position, thanks only to capital punishment.

"I know this is not an easy task. The employers and approvers of hangmen with the instinct of self-preservation feel that this knowledge will make impossible the maintenance of the position which they occupy, hence not only will they themselves not adopt it, but by all means in their power—by violence, deceit, lies and cruelty—they will try to hide from the people this knowledge, distorting it and exposing its disseminators to all kinds of privations and suffering.

"Therefore if we readily wish to destroy the delusion of capital punishment and if we possess the knowledge which destroys this delusion let us, in spite of all menaces, deprivations and sufferings, teach the people this knowledge, because it is solely the effective means in the fight.

$800 BLEW INTO HER HANDS

Woman's Dislike for Litter Causes Her to Pick Up Old Skirt Containing Money.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—It is the ambition of Mrs. James Connolly of No. 7 Spruce street to keep her neighborhood like Spotless Town. Because of her dislike for litter in the streets she picked up an old skirt which the wind blew against her as she walked. She was about to consign the skirt to an ash heap when a roll of $800 in bills dropped from its folds.

The money which came to her in such a surprising manner, Mrs. Connolly surmised, belonged to a neighbor, Mrs. Margaret Maher, who was burned out a few days ago and whose household belongings, including the old skirt, were carried outdoors. Mrs. Maher had not missed the money, but she readily identified it when Mrs. Connolly brought the roll in and dropped it on the table in front of her.

She is a poor woman and had been a long time saving the $800, and thought the skirt was safe in a trunk. Mrs. Maher will deposit the money in a bank.

Trained Rooster Dead.

Winsted, Conn.—"Jed," the famous Plymouth Rock rooster owned by Irving J. Woodward of Meadow street, was found dead the other evening. The chanticler had been "broke" to harness and taught to ride on a bicycle. "Jed" was given a respectable burial by young Woodward and his boy friends.

Collar Button Injures.

Los Angeles, Cal.—While trying to button a collar on a button that was too large, Thomas Cawley, a boilermaker, exerted himself too violently the other day and broke his collar bone. He was taken to the receiving hospital.

WOMAN'S [illegible]

Wifey does not always get the [illegible] it for possessing correct business instincts to which she is entitled. As a case in point, the New York Sun relates the following in its Live Topics About Town: "Again my wife's business instinct calls forth a tribute of praise," said the man. "On the face of it her latest transaction looked foolhardy. She had already prepaid express charges of $1.15 on her trunk, yet, when the driver delivered it at our town address he banged it down with a demand for 90 cents. I had the old receipt in my pocket and was about to produce it with an energetic protest, but my wife paralyzed me with a look and sweetly counted 90 cents out of her handbag. When the driver had gone she said: 'Now, let me have that receipt,' and before the wagon had turned the corner she had headed for the express office. She invited me to go along, but I felt she could adjust a delicate matter like that without me. And she did. She came back with $1.15. 'Of course,' she said, 'I could have refused to pay at this end of the line, and if they had charged more than that at the other end I should have refused, but when the discrepancy was in my favor I just paid at both places, then went down and demanded the larger sum. With both receipts to prove that somebody in the company was trying to cheat they just had to give me money back.'"

HONOR NOT FOR GEORGE SAND

Famous Author Might Have Been Crowned by French Academy if She Desired.

George Sand came very near being an academicienne, and had she cared for what would have been, especially in those days, an overwhelming honor it would almost certainly have been awarded to her, not perhaps so much because of her literary fame, but because of that finely tempered mental quality, that broad humanity, which made her equally dear to the Utopians and to the realists of her day.

When writing her a chaffing letter concerning the rumor of her possible election, Flaubert paraphrased Saurin's famous line to Moliere: "Rien ne manque a ta gloire; tu manquais a la notre." Innumerable French women writers have been "crowned" by the French academy. In the majority of cases the work so honored, especially if a novel, is judged from the ethical as well as from the literary standpoint; the honor sometimes carries with it a small sum of money, and always makes a considerable difference to the sale of the book.

Morgan, Sentimentalist.

The sentimentalist of the world of finance is J. Pierpont Morgan. He gives money widely and recklessly to help men who think they have some wonderful invention or other thing that will be a sensational benefit to the human race. A few years ago an electrical experimenter got some friends to obtain a hearing for him with Morgan. He had plans for the greatest of all inventions. He had no money himself; he had no backing. He went away with a fat check, but returned for [illegible] again and again. In the course of time he received $150,000 to perfect his wonder, but it was not perfected even then. He made a final appeal for $50,000 more. Morgan wanted to send it to him, but some of the other members of the firm induced the banker to shut down on the supplies until there should be more signs of making good.

Mrs. Browning's Youngest Brother.

The long gap of all but fifty years between Mrs. Browning's death, in June, 1861, and that of her brother, Octavius Moulton Barrett, in November, 1910, is partly accounted for by his being the youngest of the poet's ten brothers and sisters, while she (born in 1806) was the eldest of the family.

He first comes into the canvas of Mrs. Browning's charming letters when she is a woman of twenty-six and he is a boy of eight. They are living in Sidmouth, and Mrs. Browning is enjoying the sea stretches and the narrow green lanes—the birds-eye view and the moles-eye view, as she calls them. Hope End, with its wide green landscapes, had just been sold, but the great sorrow of Mrs. Browning's life, the drowning of her brother Edward at Torquay in 1840, was still in the future.

Doctor the Best Pie Maker.

Dr. Silas E. McDonald in Oak Park's star pumpkin pie maker. His recipe won the prize position in the Euclid Avenue Methodist Episcopal church's cook book.

He said his mother made good pumpkin pie, but his wife's was better, and he followed her plan. Here it is:

"To one quart of properly stewed pumpkin, pressed through colander, add enough good rich milk to moisten it, a teaspoonful of salt, one-half cup of molasses, one tablespoonful of ginger and one teaspoonful of nutmeg. Bake in moderate oven."—Chicago Tribune.

Dr. Harvey Robinson, of Lexington, spent part of the past week here at his old home, visiting relatives and friends.

Jacob D. Doubman who has been quite ill for a couple of weeks is much improved and able to sit up a part of the time.

Miss Gertrude Curley left Saturday for Akron, Ohio, on a visit to her sister Mrs. B W. Stallard who has been ill the past week.

W. H Powel, of Elgin, Kansas, is spending a couple of months in this neighborhood, the guest of his uncle, E F Napier, and other relatives.

Wm. Lunsford has sold his little farm near Walton to Barton Napier and is preparing to move back to Texas where his son went about a month ago.

Geo. W Maines, Chas. H. Young and D. B Wallace left Monday for Phillippa County, Arkansas, to look over some timber land Mr. Wallace owns in that quarter. They expect to be absent about a week.

R. W Carpenter of Richwood, was here on business Saturday

S. W. Bevarly, our popular station agent at the L. & N railroad depot spent part of the past week at Campbellsburg, visiting his parents, who have both been quite ill. Mr Bevarly was accompanied by his wife and children.

Miss Nannie Griffith spent Saturday in Covington with her mother, Mrs. Martha Griffith, who is making her home there for the present. Miss Nannie will go to Lexington, the latter part of the week to enter the Campbell-Hagerman college for the current year.

Henry C. Diers spent the past week in Pendlton county, selling nursery stock for the Farmers' Nursery Company, of Troy, O. He sold nearly 12,000 worth of nursery stock, and every man he called on gave him an order. This is new territory he has recently opened and he expects to spend the next month in that quarter.

Chris. Webster and son Lutie, and Al Baldwin of Folson, Grant county, were here a part of last week delivering about ten thousand pounds of tobacco sold ot O. W Slaughter and B. B. Allphin at ten cents per pound, and they were well pleased with the treatment received at the hands of Messrs. Slaughter and Allphin

D. W Hudson, who went from the Verona neighborhood about six years ago to Oregon, arrived here, last week, to visit his old home and friends. Mr Hudson is located in the Hood River country, and is very much pleased with that locality. He brought a number of fine specimens of apples grown in that locality, and for which Oregon has a world wide reputation, and states that the apple crop is the main product of that section and produces a prodigious sum of money annually. Mr. Hudson expects to remain in Kentucky for a couple of months.

There are to be some marked business changes in our town in the near future. Robt W. Jones will open a new drug store using his entire store building now being occupied by him as a grocery. He has already closed contracts for an elegant Soda Fountain and a complete outfit of Drug Fixtures, all of which will be installed as soon as they can be made up. He will, at once, put in a stock of fresh drugs and medicines of the purest and best that money can buy. Mr Jones is a registered Pharmacist, so this is not a new business to him, having been in the Drug business for several years at Independence. He will however always have in his employ a first class drug clerk. Mr Jones says that the contract price for the fixtures alone is $1,500, that he intends making this one of the most attractive and thoroughly up-to-date drug stores in the state, outside of the large cities, and to carry a complete stock of pure drugs and medicines, as well as an extensive line of sundries, toilet articles, &c. E K Stephens, his present clerk, will succeed him in the grocery business and will occupy a brick store room which will be erected at once by J. G Tomlin on his lot adjoining Jones' store. Mr Jones, however, will also continue the grocery business at present location until the new store room is completed, which the contractor promises in less than two months.

Hon. John W Berkshire, of Petersburg, was in Burlington, last Saturday, attending to some important business and feeling the public pulse incidentally in regard to the race for State Senator. He does not think there will be to exceed eight or ten candidates for the nomination, which will probably be made at the time the State primary election is held.

LYNCHED.

Three Negroes Hanged At Shelbyville.---Other State News.

Shelbyville, Jan. 15—A masked mob of fifty men captured the police officials of Shelbyville, turned off the electric light power, cut the telephone wires, battered down the jail and lynched three negroes early this morning, fulfilling threats that have been more or less publicly made on the streets for more than a week. The mob apparently had planned to hang all three men from the C. & O bridge over Clear Creek.

Half the city was aroused by the fusillade of shots fired by the mob, which apparently made no attempt to conceal its work. Citizens following the trail of the lynchers came upon the bodies of two of the victims before daylight. An all-day search failed to reveal the body of the third negro, but that he met a violent death no one here doubts.

The victims of the mob's fury are Gene Marshall, 25 years of age, convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of a negro woman; Wade Patterson, 29 years of age, accused of attacking two white women in the streets of Shelbyville on the night of Dec. 5th, and Jim West, 25 years of age, accused of flirting with a 14-year-old white girl.

Marshall's lifeless body was found hanging from the C. & O railroad bridge, a thousand or more yards from the jail, at the break of day, and was cut down two hours later. Patterson had nearly escaped the vengeance of the mob by reason of the rope breaking after he was swung from the bridge and made a brave run for his life, but was cut down at the edge of the creek by one of seventy-five bullets fired at him.

Later—One of the negroes escaped and at last account he had not been captured. The rope broke and he fell into the creek and he "licked his foot."

Catching fish in the mouth of the Big Sandy River is engaging the attention of a good many men and boys who are fond of the sport or who like to feast upon the members of the finny tribe. As many as a dozen boats and skiffs were observed at a single time, the occupants of which were engaged in taking fish from the river. The method of taking them is to row up to the lower side of the Government dam and then let the boat float down the river and watch for the fish to come to the surface of the water, and then the rest is easy, as all that is to be done is to just reach out and catch the fish in the hands and dump it into the boat. The fish appear to live entirely under the water owing to some cause unknown, and they will rise to the surface, where they may be taken.—Louisa News

There is an old German in Clinton county named Johnny Morg, who has reached his one hundred and twenty-fourth year, and at this time is quite active, his mental faculties unimpaired. Dr J. N. Page, of this place, is well acquainted with him, but thought he had long since passed beyond the veil, but a Clinton county gentleman was in his store a few days ago and informed him that "Uncle" Johnny was hale and hearty and was yet a very interesting man. The old gentleman was a soldier in the war of 1812 and is especially entertaining while relating events of hostilities that closed 100 years ago. When he enlisted he was 25 years old. When he first landed in Clinton county he was a trained boxer and no man could stand in front of him, though small in statue himself.—Columbia News

Mr. A G. Mitchell had the misfortune last week of losing his water tank during the cold weather. He had a fire around the pipe at the ground to thaw it, and in some way a spark was left and at night when his hands covered it up with straw it began to burn the frost box around the pipe acted as a flue and the whole thing took fire and burned the frost box and bottom of the tank up, and then the water put out the fire.—Smith Grove Times

Phoebe M. Palmeter, 89 years old, Brookfield, New York, pensioned by special act of Congress as the daughter of Jonathan Wooley, who served in a New Hampshire company, is the only pensioner on account of the revolutionary war remaining on Uncle Sam's pension roll, according to the annual report of Pension Commissioner Jas. L Davenport.

The last widow pensioner of that war was Esther S. Damon of Plymouth Union, Vt., who died Nov. 11, 1906, aged 92 years The last survivor of the war of the revolution was Daniel F. Bakeman, who died at Fredom, Cattaraugus county, New York, April 6th, 1869, aged 100 years, six months and eight days.

The last surviving pensioned soldier of the war of 1812 was Hiram Cronk of Ava, N. Y, who died May 13, 1905 aged 105 years and 16 days. The names of 338 widows of the war of 1812 remained on the pension roll June 20, 1910.

Over 50,000 pensioners of the United States died during the last year Commissioner Davenport says there is still a total number on the list of 921,083.

The snow began melting yesterday and the prospects are that a big river will be the result.

Uncle Bill Robinson has been carrying the mail for sixty-two years. Uncle Bill commenced the service in 1856, before the war, or before this country was blessed with any railroads, and has been continually in the service ever since. He first commenced the service when we had but one mail a week, and carried from Princeton to Madisonville, Princeton to Cadiz and Princeton to Eddyville each week. He is now old and still in the service carrying the mail from the post-office to the depot, making five trips a day rain or shine, cold or hot, for the meager sum of $208 per year. —Eddyville Herald.

WILL NEVER BE FORGOTTEN.

Little Wallace Mayo Aylor, son of Ira and Minta Aylor, born July 12th, 1910, died January 15th 1911, age six months and one day.

We cannot understand why little Wallace was called home so early and young in life, but we know it was for some wise and good purpose.

It was God's will, so let it be done, for all things work together for good to them who love God.

The little darling has gone to that beautiful, shining shore and passed thru the Golden Gates that stood ajar, where there is no more sorrow, no more pain. Little Wallace was a beautiful, bright little babe. Oh, how we will miss him no one knows. We can never hear that sweet little voice that calls mamma and papa. Those little foot steps are still and those loving little hands that clasp us with love, oh, how we loved him; we loved him dearly; we know the death of a little babe is sad, but we all are children of God, and must die; so let us all be prepared and be pure as a little babe, for we know not what hour he cometh. These are words of God and speaking words. Where the Lord speaketh let us be silent.

Uncle Harmon and Aunt Jennie.

TWO TYPES OF AIR CRAFT

Friends of the Aeroplane Say It Will Cross the Ocean First.

The airship has thus far kept just a few years ahead of the aeroplane in everything save speed. In the matter of speed alone, the aeroplanes have had the advantage ever since they first began to fly.

The interesting question now is whether the aeroplanes will shortly catch up with the airships on the only points in which the airships now have the advantage, that is, as to endurance in staying in the air and as to passenger capacity.

Whether the aeroplane will ever be able to keep up in the air as long as the dirigible does now is a doubtful question. So is the question whether the aeroplane will ever carry a score or so of passengers. Aeroplanes depend on their fuel to lift the weight that they carry. The further they go the more fuel they need. The fuel itself is a great element of weight. The longer the journey the more seriously the weight of the fuel counts. There is, therefore, a limit to the possible distance that the best of conceivable aeroplanes can fly without alighting. That limit is the utmost distance that the greatest amount of fuel possible to lift with the most economical engine will get over. How far will gasoline sustain itself? That once answered, aviators will know the limit of flying possibilities save with some still undiscovered fuel.

Aviators are talking confidently of a time soon to come when aeroplanes will cross the Atlantic. Such a flight on the mere consideration of distance is not regarded as visionary, though the elements of wind and weather make it more difficult to predict. Friends of the aeroplane, however, are inclined to think that there is a chance of the aeroplane crossing the Atlantic before the dirigibles do so. Limited as its nature is, the aeroplane needs no ballast, no vulnerable gas bag and so equilibrator.

Boy's Marvelous Nerve.

At a sugar mill on the island of Barbadoes the men in attendance were shortening sail, when a native boy, who did not let go soon enough, was carried aloft by the great 45-foot sail. He fortunately had all his wits about him and managed to get his feet around a bar of the sail and to hold on to the one above. In this position he was carried around, the mill revolving with increased rapidity, as the man whose duty it was to feed it had rushed out at the first alarm. A cry was raised to choke the rollers with cane and thus stop the mill, and this was done at the imminent risk of breaking some of the machinery and so releasing the sails altogether; but after six complete revolutions, the mill was stopped, fairly choked by the bundles of cane thrust into its jaws, leaving the sail, to which the boy still clung, uppermost, and he 90 feet from the ground. With marvelous nerve he proceeded to climb down that perilous ladder and reached the ground. It is estimated that he traveled nearly 1,800 feet in his aerial journey, and half that distance with his head downward.

Most Congested Blocks in World.

The census taken by the department of education of children of school age in Manhattan shows that in the two blocks bounded by Madison, Cherry, Scammel and Jackson streets there are enough children to fill a school. The department found there 2,424 children of school age.

In the block bounded by Madison, Monroe, Jackson and Scammel were 1,236 children, and in the block to the east 1,188. These two blocks are the most congested not only in the city, but probably in the world.

Out or In.

"What's that noise?" asked the visitor in the apartment house.

"Probably some one in the dentist's apartments on the floor below getting a tooth out."

"Ah! then it's probably the Popley's baby getting a tooth in."

AND SILENCE THEN ENSUED

Pompous Chap Makes Life Miserable for Passengers Until Tillotson Steps In.

E. G. Tillotson was traveling the other day with a pompous chap who made life miserable for his fellow-travelers by delving into natural history, chiropody and politics. He dwelt particularly upon the ability of the fly to walk up and down a glass plane.

"Of course," he said, "that is made possible by the fact that the glass, despite all its smoothness, is in reality rough, as you may see with the aid of a powerful microscope. However, they have discovered a process of so rubbing down the glass by machinery that not even a fly can walk on it."

"Good!" exclaimed Tillotson, with an air of relief. "I'll have one of those machines installed at once. Just what I want."

"But, my dear sir," replied the bore, "you can't do that, you know. That's only done in a laboratory in Germany. Besides, what would you want it for?"

"Well," said Tillotson, "I've got a fly at home that is bothering the life out of me, and I want my window panes so fixed that he'll fall off and break his neck."

There was silence during the remainder of the trip.—Cleveland Press.

CENSUS QUIZ JARS GERMANS

Subjects of Kaiser Perplexed by Some Searching Questions—Total May Be 65,000,000.

Berlin.—Germany is in the throes of a census which will not end for many weeks. When it is over the fatherland expects to wake up and find itself the possessor of 65,000,000 souls, or a gain of 4,500,000 since 1905. The German population experts are deeply impressed by this week's announcement that the United States has over 90,000,000 inhabitants. The American rate of increase during the last ten years is double the rate at which Germany is growing.

The census of Germany is not taken by official question askers, as in the United States, but by means of a series of intricate blanks which every householder in the country is obliged to fill out. Millions of otherwise intelligent Germans spent last week wrestling with the mysteries of the census forms.

These are some of the searching questions which the kaiser's perplexed subjects had to answer:

"If you don't know the exact date of your birth, how many full years old are you?"

"What's your main occupation in life?"

"Were your babies nursed on their mother's breast or by wet nurses, or from a bottle?"

"Are you subject to epileptic fits?"

"How many of your house windows look out on the street?"

"What was your mother tongue—German, Dutch, Friesan, Danish, Wallonian, Polish or Lithuanian—and what are the names of the various rooms in your dwelling?"

"What is the religion of your servants?"

"How many bathrooms have you?"

"Do you cook with gas or other fuel?"

"What rent do you pay?"

German economists cherish ambitious hopes for the future of Germany's population. One authority says there will be 150,000,000 by 1980. Another expert, Prof. von Schmolter of the University of Berlin, peers into the distant future as far as 2135, when he sees a vision of 208,000,000.

"Such increase," he writes, "should, will and must come if we wish to remain a great and powerful nation, but we must have fruitful colonies abroad to take care of the surplus."

HIRE THEIR FURS AND WRAPS

Brand New Enterprise Has Developed in London—Use of Perfumes is Prohibited.

London.—Furs are so very much the rage in London this season that a brand new enterprise has been started, that of lending wraps, boas and muffs at a moderate price to those whose means do not admit of their buying what they wish outright. For instance, if a woman is going on a motor trip and wants to wear a warm and rich looking fur coat, yet has not money to invest in one, she can hire one for whatever time she wants it at so much a day. Of course she must give unimpeachable references, for the woman who is running this business is not taking any more risks than she has to. Already the idea is meeting with great favor among middle class women who cannot resist paying $25 to wear a $2,000 coat for a short time. The ordinary $100 fur cloak is most in demand, however, and such a one can be had for an afternoon's motoring or an evening at the opera for $2.50.

One stipulation the proprietor of this fur renting establishment always insists upon is that no perfume shall be used on the furs, as she declares that it is months before the scent fades away from furs, and she finds that the perfume one woman likes is obnoxious to another woman, who will not rent the coat because of its odor. Muffs and boas of chinchilla ermine and sable are in great demand, and there are women who come regularly to the establishment to hire the same set of furs in which to make calls or go to matinees.

COSTS $4,000 TO FEED CATS

Port of London Pays That Sum Annually for Milk Supply for Rat Chasers.

London.—It costs the port of London $4,000 a year to buy milk for the cats that kill the rats that would otherwise eat the malt that lies in the dock warehouses of London. There is always $45,000,000 worth of tobacco in the warehouses at the docks. More than $500,000,000 worth of goods pass through the docks every year. The port pays $6,250,000 in wages every year to its servants, $750,000 in rates and taxes, and five per cent. interest on the debt on the docks, which amounts to $115,000,000. These are some of the interesting figures given in a report by Harry Gosling of the London county council, and the port authority.

"The Matrimonial Egg."

London.—A new weekly paper which has made its appearance in London recently and which is exclusively devoted to the interests of women has started a novel feature in English journalism. On one page, entitled "The Matrimonial Egg," it records society engagements (the white) marriages (the yolk) and divorces (the shell). In its first number there are seven of the first, six of the second and four of the third category—not a bad percentage to begin with.

ROLFES & WAHCS, Reliable Clothiers

No. 1 Pike St., Cor. Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

The Recorder's photographer, who is loose in the county, took the above picture a few days ago just as the parties who appear therein were leaving a country store where they had been discussing the tobacco situation. Some of these men have tobacco in the 1909 pool, while some have not, but have their 1910 crop on hand. The present situation was pretty thoroughly gone over, and the crowd agreed at every point, hence that satisfied look on their faces.

The Poultry Farm.

Keep the dust box supplied with nice clean dust, and see that the grit box is never empty.

—X—

Keeping many breeds is a poor way to succeed. Get down to one or two varieties and give them the best of care.

—X—

If the hens were compelled to work a little harder these days for what grain they get, it would be a good thing for them.

—X—

As the new corn gets dry and hard it is safe to feed more than when it was soft and green. It is more easily digested and gives better results.

—X—

Never feed meat scraps that were made of rotten meat. Good pure feed is the only thing that ever ought to be fed to a fowl of any kind.

—X—

During winter the drinking vessels must be emptied each evening, it is much easier to do that than it is to break a solid cake of ice in them the next morning.

—X—

If it possibly can be done, clean up the droppings each day. It is work that well repays one. Never allow this cleaning to be delayed longer than a week.

—X—

Leave the birds to fight their own battles against lice and other enemies may save some work, but it will cost some eggs; and eggs are worth money these days.

—X—

Do not delay any longer the job of culling out the poor stock. It is a mistake to keep even a single unprofitable fowl. Have the stock up in quality rather than in quantity.

—X—

If the hens are fed hot corn for supper, they will go to bed happy these cold winter nights. Feed it just as hot as they can eat it comfortably. Shell some in a baking pan and stir and heat it in the oven.

—X—

As the weather grows colder, increase the supply of corn. It is a heating food. But never feed it alone. A good grain mixture for winter is two parts whole corn, one part each wheat and oats; all well mixed.

—X—

Start up the trap nests. They are invaluable in pointing out the productive hens as well as the drones. They make it possible, by picking out the poor layers, to get more eggs from a fewer number of hens. That is economy—it saves feed and it gives the workers more room.

—X—

It is a good rule to keep fowls indoors during rainy, snowy or windy weather. While the rains during the summer will do no harm to the fowls, the cold rains of winter are injurious. Exposing fowls to bad weather is but to invite sickness. Therefore, the more room in the hen house, the more contented will the fowls be when confined.

We Like to be Humbuged.

Richard W. Sears, of the firm of Scars Roebuck & Co., sold his half interest in the business for $250,000,000 and will retire to a farm which he owns at Grays Lake, Ill. Several years ago Mr Sears was a telegraph operator at Redwood Falls, Minn., at a salary of $50 a month, and there conceived the idea of a mail order business which has permitted him to retire from active business at the age of 45 years with a princely fortune.

These mail order houses are vertiable gold mines for their owners, for the reason that they get good prices for their goods and cash always, and as long as they fool the people with a show of low prices on occasional special articles they will continue to thrive.

Here's the whole thing in a nut shell. These mail order houses are vertiable gold mines for their owners, and yet they make the common people believe that they can buy themselves rich in their establishments.

Like the big life insurance nabobs the mail order men can live in palaces, own yachts, and travel in private cars and the dear people that they humbug to death pay the freight. Doesn't it beat all how these fellows by sheer force of advertising keep their big graft going?

How we people here in America, pretty nearly all of us, like to be humbugged. If we didn't the big mail order houses would go out of business in a hurry.—Ex

BUBBLES AND BARTER.

Half the marriages in the world are nothing but bubbles and barter. A man wants a wife to hug and kiss. He casts about for an equal exchange. In a year he is tired of his bargain. In five years love is dead, and cold-browed tolerance inherits love's garments. In twenty years tolerance is at its grave, and hate reigns supreme. The wife is naggy and prickly and peckish. The husband is dogmatical and reticent and mean. But there they hang together on the bough, like two gnarled and frosted apples, until the winds of death dislodge them and away they go. The only way to be rid of bubble marriages—marriages that turn out emptiness with one drop of water as the residum, and that drop a tear—is to educate our boys and girls to something higher than playing with pipes and soapy water. Give them something more earnest to do, and see that they do it. Compel men and women to choose their life companions with at least a tithe of the solemnity they bring to the selection of a carriage horse or a ribbon.

HOW THEY STAND

On The Proposition to Cut Out The 1911 Crop of Tobacco.

A Majority of The Counties Favor The Cut-Out Plan.

Following is the result by vote by counties on the proposition to cut out the 1911 crop of tobacco.

Bath county—Big meeting and 145 growers pledged 922 acres to the cut-out and county is expected to be unanimous.

Bourbon county—Split on the vote, with those voting to grow a crop in 1911 in the majority, but definite action postponed until February.

Boyle county—Rejected the cut-out and favor a pool.

Clark county—Growers were unable to reach an agreement and took no vote.

Fayette county—Voted for the cut-out.

Franklin county—Voted for the cut-out and voted to put solicitors in the field.

Garrard county—Vote for cut out with opposition. 137 growers signed cut-out pledges and twenty books of pledges were put into the field and the workers hope to make cut-out unanimous.

Grant county—Voted solidly for the cut-out.

Henry county—Voted for the cut-out.

Jessamine county—Voted for the cut-out.

Lincoln county—Had a big meeting and voted unanimously for the cut-out.

Madison county—Voted unanimously for the cut-out, a hundred signed the cut-out pledges and forty volunteered to canvass for more pledges.

Mason county—Voted for the cut-out.

Mercer county—Independents refused to sign the pledge and the proposed cut-out hung fire.

Montgomery county—Voted for the cut-out.

Nicholas county—Voted for the cut-out.

Oldham county—Rejected the cut-out.

Owen county—Voted strongly for the cut-out and 2,500 acres were pledged at the meeting.

Pendleton county—Had a big meeting and voted for the cut-out but want the blue grass counties in it.

Scott county—Postponed the vote until January 16.

Spencer county—Voted unanimously for the cut-out.

Trimble county—Rejected the cut-out and favored reduction of acreage and a pool of the next five crops.

Nelson county—Not heard from.

GALLATIN COUNTY.

(From Warsaw Independent.)

Richard Hendren of Sugar creek, finished delivering his crop of tobacco the first of the week to W. M Carver for which he received 11 cents.

The revival at the Methodist church, which was inaugurated two weeks ago, still continues with an increased manifestation of interest on the part of Warsaw people.

The court day stock sales held here Monday were well attended and a great deal of live stock changed hands as a result of the sale. Three stock buyers from a distance were present.

A reduced acreage in tobacco is the assured thing for Indiana tobacco growers this year. And the same thing should be assured in Kentucky if the growers expect to reap anything like an adequate reward for their labors.

D. B Wallace left Monday for a hunting and business trip thru Arkansas. Mr Wallace was accompanied by some prospective purchasers for timber lands he owns in Arkansas, his property in that State consisting of about 700 acres of virgin forest, and the wood alone of which will be very valuable. Mr Wallace also expects to enjoy a hunt while there, and while no one expects him to kill a bear, still he expects great enjoyment from his vacation, and will not doubt, come back with a good bear story, anyway.

Some talk in river circles of the Lee line of steamers entering the Cincinnati and Louisville trade. They will be welcome, and not alone will they be welcome, but they will be given the liberal support and patronage of the traveling public. Freight rates on the boats of the Cincinnati and Louisville Packet Co., under the benefient (?) management of philantropist (?) H. A. Laidley have climbed to that point where shipping by rail is preferable because, on many articles, it is cheaper. And when the condition of things arrives at that point when railroad freight rates are cheaper than they are by boat, then something is radically wrong—not with the railroad, but with the steamboat management. For this and various sundry reasons the coming of the Lee Line will be appreciated.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They do the work whenever you require their aid. These tablets change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, gloominess luto joyousness. Their action is so gentle one don't realize they have taken a purgative. Sold by all dealers

Monday was a bright day, but the snow disappeared very slowly.

TWO TYPES OF AIR CRAFT

Friends of the Aeroplane Say It Will Cross the Ocean First.

The airship has thus far kept just a few years ahead of the aeroplane in everything save speed. In the matter of speed alone, the aeroplanes have had the advantage ever since they first began to fly.

The interesting question now is whether the aeroplanes will shortly catch up with the airships on the only points in which the airships now have the advantage, that is, as to endurance in staying in the air and as to passenger capacity.

Whether the aeroplane will ever be able to keep up in the air as long as the dirigible does now is a doubtful question. So is the question whether the aeroplane will ever carry a score or so of passengers. Aeroplanes depend on their fuel to lift the weight that they carry. The further they go the more fuel they need. The fuel itself is a great element of weight. The longer the journey the more seriously the weight of the fuel counts. There is, therefore, a limit to the possible distance that the best of conceivable aeroplanes can fly without alighting. That limit is the utmost distance that the greatest amount of fuel possible to lift with the most economical engine will get over. How far will gasoline sustain itself? That once answered, aviators will know the limit of flying possibilities save with some still undiscovered fuel.

Aviators are talking confidently of a time soon to come when aeroplanes will cross the Atlantic. Such a flight on the mere consideration of distance is not regarded as visionary, though the elements of wind and weather make it more difficult to predict. Friends of the aeroplane, however, are inclined to think that there is a chance of the aeroplane crossing the Atlantic before the dirigibles do so. Limited as its nature is, the aeroplane needs no ballast, no vulnerable gas bag and no equilibrator.

Boy's Marvelous Nerve.

At a sugar mill on the island of Barbadoes the men in attendance were shortening sail, when a native boy, who did not let go soon enough, was carried aloft by the great 45-foot sail. He fortunately had all his wits about him and managed to get his feet around a bar of the sail and to hold on to the one above. In this position he was carried around, the mill revolving with increased rapidity, as the man whose duty it was to feed it had rushed out at the first alarm. A cry was raised to choke the rollers with cane and thus stop the mill, and this was done at the imminent risk of breaking some of the machinery and so releasing the sails altogether; but after six complete revolutions, the mill was stopped, fairly choked by the bundles of cane thrust into its jaws, leaving the sail, to which the boy still clung, uppermost, and he 90 feet from the ground. With marvelous nerve he proceeded to climb down that perilous ladder and reached the ground. It is estimated that he traveled nearly 1,800 feet in his aerial journey, and half that distance with his head downward.

Most Congested Blocks in World.

The census taken by the department of education of children of school age in Manhattan shows that in the two blocks bounded by Madison, Cherry, Scammel and Jackson streets there are enough children to fill a school. The department found there 2,434 children of school age.

In the block bounded by Madison, Monroe, Jackson and Scammel were 1,236 children, and in the block to the east 1,188. These two blocks are the most congested not only in the city, but probably in the world.

Out or In.

"What's that noise?" asked the visitor in the apartment house.

"Probably some one in the dentist's apartments on the floor below getting a tooth out."

"Ah! then it's probably the Popley's baby getting a tooth in."

AND SILENCE THEN ENSUED

Pompous Chap Makes Life Miserable for Passengers Until Tillotson Steps In.

E. G. Tillotson was traveling the other day with a pompous chap who made life miserable for his fellow-travelers by delving into natural history, chiropody and politics. He dwelt particularly upon the ability of the fly to walk up and down a glass plane.

"Of course," he said, "that is made possible by the fact that the glass, despite all its smoothness, is in reality rough, as you may see with the aid of a powerful microscope. However, they have discovered a process of so rubbing down the glass by machinery that not even a fly can walk on it."

"Good!" exclaimed Tillotson, with an air of relief. "I'll have one of those machines installed at once. Just what I want."

"But, my dear sir," replied the bore, "you can't do that, you know. That's only done in a laboratory in Germany. Besides, what would you want it for?"

"Well," said Tillotson, "I've got a fly at home that is bothering the life out of me, and I want my window panes so fixed that he'll fall off and break his neck."

There was silence during the remainder of the trip.—Cleveland Press.

CENSUS QUIZ JARS GERMANS

Subjects of Kaiser Perplexed by Some Searching Questions—Total May Be 65,000,000.

Berlin.—Germany is in the throes of a census which will not end for many weeks. When it is over the fatherland expects to wake up and find itself the possessor of 65,000,000 souls, or a gain of 4,500,000 since 1905. The German population experts are deeply impressed by this week's announcement that the United States has over 90,000,000 inhabitants. The American rate of increase during the last ten years is double the rate at which Germany is growing.

The census of Germany is not taken by official question askers, as in the United States, but by means of a series of intricate blanks which every householder in the country is obliged to fill out. Millions of otherwise intelligent Germans spent last week wrestling with the mysteries of the census forms.

These are some of the searching questions which the kaiser's perplexed subjects had to answer:

"If you don't know the exact date of your birth, how many full years old are you?"

"What's your main occupation in life?"

"Were your babies nursed on their mother's breast or by wet nurses, or from a bottle?"

"Are you subject to epileptic fits?"

"How many of your house windows look out on the street?"

"What was your mother tongue—German, Dutch, Friesan, Danish, Wallonian, Polish or Lithuanian—and what are the names of the various rooms in your dwelling?"

"What is the religion of your servants?"

"How many bathrooms have you?"

"Do you cook with gas or other fuel?"

"What rent do you pay?"

German economists cherish ambitious hopes for the future of Germany's population. One authority says there will be 150,000,000 by 1980. Another expert, Prof. von Schmolter of the University of Berlin, peers into the distant future as far as 2135, when he sees a vision of 208,000,000.

"Such increase," he writes, "should, will and must come if we wish to remain a great and powerful nation, but we must have fruitful colonies abroad to take care of the surplus."

HIRE THEIR FURS AND WRAPS

Brand New Enterprise Has Developed in London—Use of Perfumes Is Prohibited.

London.—Furs are so very much the rage in London this season that a brand new enterprise has been started, that of lending wraps, boas and muffs at a moderate price to those whose means do not admit of their buying what they wish outright. For instance, if a woman is going on a motor trip and wants to wear a warm and rich looking fur coat, yet has not money to invest in one, she can hire one for whatever time she wants it at so much a day. Of course she must give unimpeachable references, for the woman who is running this business is not taking any more risks than she has to. Already the idea is meeting with great favor among middle class women who cannot resist paying $25 to wear a $2,000 coat for a short time. The ordinary $100 fur cloak is most in demand, however, and such a one can be had for an afternoon's motoring or an evening at the opera for $2.50.

One stipulation the proprietor of this fur renting establishment always insists upon is that no perfume shall be used on the furs, as she declares that it is months before the scent fades away from furs, and she finds that the perfume one woman likes is obnoxious to another woman, who will not rent the coat because of its odor. Muffs and boas of chinchilla ermine and sable are in great demand, and there are women who come regularly to the establishment to hire the same set of furs in which to make calls or go to matinees.

COSTS $4,000 TO FEED CATS

Port of London Pays That Sum Annually for Milk Supply for Rat Chasers.

London.—It costs the port of London $4,000 a year to buy milk for the cats that kill the rats that would otherwise eat the malt that lies in the dock warehouses of London. There is always $45,000,000 worth of tobacco in the warehouses at the docks. More than $500,000,000 worth of goods pass through the docks every year. The port pays $6,250,000 in wages every year to its servants, $750,000 in rates and taxes, and five per cent. interest on the debt on the docks, which amounts to $115,000,000. These are some of the interesting figures given in a report by Harry Gosling of the London county council, and the port authority.

"The Matrimonial Egg."

London.—A new weekly paper which has made its appearance in London recently and which is exclusively devoted to the interests of women has started a novel feature in English journalism. On one page, entitled "The Matrimonial Egg," it records society engagements (the white) marriages (the yolk) and divorces (the shell). In its first number there are seven of the first, six of the second and four of the third category—not a bad percentage to begin with.

ROLFES & WAHCS, Reliable Clothiers

No. 1 Pike St., Cor. Madison Ave., COVINGTON, KY.

The Recorder's photographer, who is loose in the county, took the above picture a few days ago just as the parties who appear therein were leaving a country store where they had been discussing the tobacco situation. Some of these men have tobacco in the 1909 pool, while some have not, but have their 1910 crop on hand. The present situation was pretty thoroughly gone over, and the crowd agreed at every point, hence that satisfied look on their faces.

The Poultry Farm.

Keep the dust box supplied with nice clean dust, and see that the grit box is never empty.

—X—

Keeping many breeds is a poor way to succeed. Get down to one or two varieties and give them the best of care.

—X—

If the hens were compelled to work a little harder these days for what grain they get, it would be a good thing for them.

—X—

As the new corn gets dry and hard it is safe to feed more than when it was soft and green. It is more easily digested and gives better results.

—X—

Never feed meat scraps that were made of rotten meat. Good pure feed is the only thing that ever ought to be fed to a fowl of any kind.

—X—

During winter the drinking vessels must be emptied each evening, it is much easier to do that than it is to break a solid cake of ice in them the next morning.

—X—

If it possibly can be done, clean up the droppings each day. It is work that well repays one. Never allow this cleaning to be delayed longer than a week.

—X—

Leave the birds to fight their own battles against lice and other enemies may save some work, but it will cost some eggs; and eggs are worth money these days.

—X—

Do not delay any longer the job of culling out the poor stock. It is a mistake to keep even a single unprofitable fowl. Have the stock up in quality rather than in quantity.

—X—

If the hens are fed hot corn for supper, they will go to bed happy these cold winter nights. Feed it just as hot as they can eat it comfortably. Shell some in a baking pan and stir and heat it in the oven.

—X—

As the weather grows colder, increase the supply of corn. It is a heating food. But never feed it alone. A good grain mixture for winter is two parts whole corn, one part each wheat and oats; all well mixed.

—X—

Start up the trap nests. They are invaluable in pointing out the productive hens as well as the drones. They make it possible, by picking out the poor layers, to get more eggs from a fewer number of hens. That is economy—it saves feed and it gives the workers more room.

—X—

It is a good rule to keep fowls indoors during rainy, snowy or windy weather. While the rains during the summer will do no harm to the fowls, the cold rains of winter are injurious. Exposing fowls to bad weather is but to invite sickness. Therefore, the more room in the hen house, the more contented will the fowls be when confined.

We Like to be Humbuged.

Richard W. Sears, of the firm of Sears Roebuck & Co., sold his half interest in the business for $250,000,000 and will retire to a farm which he owns at Grays Lake, Ill. Several years ago Mr Sears was a telegraph operator at Redwood Falls, Minn., at a salary of $50 a month, and there conceived the idea of a mail order business which has permitted him to retire from active business at the age of 45 years with a princely fortune.

These mail order houses are vertiable gold mines for their owners, for the reason that they get good prices for their goods and cash always, and as long as they fool the people with a show of low prices on occasional special articles they will continue to thrive.

Here's the whole thing in a nut shell. These mail order houses are vertiable gold mines for their owners, and yet they make the common people believe that they can buy themselves rich in their establishments.

Like the big life insurance nabobs the mail order men can live in palaces, own yachts, and travel in private cars and the dear people that they humbug to death pay the freight. Doesn't it beat all how these fellows by sheer force of advertising keep their big graft going?

How we people here in America, pretty nearly all of us, like to be humbugged. If we didn't the big mail order houses would go out of business in a hurry.—Ex

BUBBLES AND BARTER.

Half the marriages in the world are nothing but bubbles and barter. A man wants a wife to hug and kiss. He casts about for an equal exchange. In a year he is tired of his bargain. In five years love is dead, and cold-browed tolerance inherits love's garments. In twenty years tolerance is at its grave, and hate reigns supreme. The wife is naggy and prickly and peckish. The husband is dogmatical and reticent and mean. But there they hang together on the bough, like two gnarled and frosted apples, until the winds of death dislodge them and away they go. The only way to be rid of bubble marriages—marriages that turn out emptiness with one drop of water as the residum, and that drop a tear—is to educate our boys and girls to something higher than playing with pipes and soapy water. Give them something more earnest to do, and see that they do it. Compel men and women to choose their life companions with at least a tithe of the solemnity they bring to the selection of a carriage horse or a ribbon.

HOW THEY STAND

On The Proposition to Cut Out The 1911 Crop of Tobacco.

A Majority of The Counties Favor The Cut-Out Plan.

Following is the result by vote by counties on the proposition to cut out the 1911 crop of tobacco:

Bath county—Big meeting and 145 growers pledged 922 acres to the cut-out and county is expected to be unanimous.

Bourbon county—Split on the vote, with those voting to grow a crop in 1911 in the majority, but definite action postponed until February.

Boyle county—Rejected the cut-out and favor a pool.

Carter county—Voted unanimously for the cut-out.

Clark county—Growers were unable to reach an agreement and took no vote.

Fayette county—Voted for the cut-out.

Franklin county—Voted for the cut-out and voted to put solicitors in the field.

Grant county—Vote for cut out with opposition. 137 growers signed cut-out pledges and twenty books of pledges were put into the field and the workers hope to make cut-out unanimous.

Grant county—Voted solidly for the cut-out.

Harrison county—Voted strongly for the cut-out.

Henry county—Voted for the cut-out.

Jessamine county—Voted for the cut-out.

Lincoln county—Had a big meeting and voted unanimously for the cut-out.

Madison county—Voted unanimously for the cut-out, a hundred signed the cut-out pledges and forty volunteered to canvass for more pledges.

Mason county—Voted for the cut-out.

Mercer county—Independents refused to sign the pledge and the proposed cut-out hung fire.

Montgomery county—Voted for the cut-out.

Nicholas county—Voted for the cut-out.

Oldham county—Rejected the cut-out.

Owen county—Voted strongly for the cut-out and 2,500 acres were pledged at the meeting.

Pendleton county—Had a big meeting and voted for the cut-out but want the blue grass counties in it.

Scott county—Postponed the vote until January 16.

Spencer county—Voted unanimously for the cut-out.

Trimble county—Rejected the cut-out and favored reduction of acreage and a pool of the next five crops.

Nelson county—Not heard from.

GALLATIN COUNTY.

(From Warsaw Independent.)

Richard Hendren of Sugar creek, finished delivering his crop of tobacco the first of the week to W. M Carver for which he received 11 cents.

The revival at the Methodist church, which was inaugurated two weeks ago, still continues with an increased manifestation of interest on the part of Warsaw people.

The court day stock sales held here Monday were well attended and a great deal of live stock changed hands as a result of the sale. Three stock buyers from a distance were present.

A reduced acreage in tobacco is the assured thing for Indiana tobacco growers this year. And the same thing should be assured in Kentucky if the growers expect to reap anything like an adequate reward for their labors.

D. B Wallace left Monday for a hunting and business trip thru Arkansas. Mr Wallace was accompanied by some prospective purchasers for timber lands he owns in Arkansas, his property in that State consisting of about 700 acres of virgin forest, and the wood alone of which will be very valuable. Mr Wallace also expects to enjoy a hunt while there, and while no one expects him to kill a bear, still he expects great enjoyment from his vacation, and will no doubt, come back with a good bear story, anyway.

Some talk in river circles of the Lee line of steamers entering the Cincinnati and Louisville trade. They will be welcome, and not alone will they be welcome, but they will be given the liberal support and patronage of the traveling public. Freight rates on the boats of the Cincinnati and Louisville Packet Co., under the beneficent (?) management of philantropist (?) H. A. Laidley have climbed to that point where shipping by rail is preferable because, on many articles, it is cheaper. And when the condition of things arrives at that point when railroad freight rates are cheaper than they are by boat, then something is radically wrong—not with the railroad, but with the steamboat management. For this and various sundry reasons the coming of the Lee Line will be appreciated.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They do the work whenever you require their aid. These tablets change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, gloominess into joyousness. Their action is so gentle one don't realize they have taken a purgative. Sold by all dealers

Monday was a bright day, but the snow disappeared very slowly.

Take the Recorder.

For State Senator

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. James W Kennedy, of Union, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. John W Berkshire, of Petersburg, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. S W. Tolin, of Burlington, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For Representative.

The Recorder is authorized to announce G. Elsworth Carroll, of Walton, as a Democratic candidate to represent Boone county in the General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

A Vermillion county, Ill., farmer last year raised 60,000 bushels of corn on 2,200 acres. Most of this corn is of such high quality that it will be sold for seed.

"Just what is a blowfish?" asks the New York World. Never heard of it, but perhaps a sucker who talks about dividends he is going to get on a ground floor purchase of mining stocks.—C. J.

A Hardin county school boy in writing a composition on Patrick Henry said: "He married when he was quite young and then made a speech in which he said: "Give me liberty or give me death."

Indiana holds on to the center of population with great tenacity. The last three or four enumerations of population of this great country has located the center of population within her borders.

An exchange has discovered that between running the Democratic caucus and keeping the Democratic majority of the next House in order, Ollie James has enough to do without running for Senator in a Kentucky primary.

In this issue G. Ellsworth Carroll, of Walton, is announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination to represent Boone county in the next General Assembly of the State. The Recorder will tell its readers more about Mr. Carroll next week when it presents them his picture.

In this issue appears the announcement of Hon. S W. Tolin as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator in this Senatorial District. His announcement was not handed in until the article in regard to Hons. James W Kennedy and John W. Berkshire was in type and too late for the preparation of the short bigoraphy which will appear next week.

The Pendleton county "Drys" make life miserable for illicit whisky venders, and last week Barney Koch, politician and vender of soft drinks was fined $1,200 at Falmouth for the alleged selling of liquor without a license. It is claimed that he ran a place equal to an open bar. A. A Wood was also fined $1,200 for the same offense. Both men were placed under bond not to violate the law in the same manner again, the bond being fixed at $1,000.

James J. Hill, the great railroad builder says of Theodore Roosevelt. "Theodore Roosevelt, poor fellow—I know him well. He has no control over himself. He has always been pleased to get a big crowd together to hear them shout and hurrah. Facing one of these cheering crowds he loses hold of himself absolutely. In fact I do not believe Roosevelt has had continuous control of himself for a week at a time since he became a national figure, but he simply can't help himself."

Taking Adams county, Ohio, and some other localities in the country as points from which to view the present day politicians, a person is prone to denounce them as the most demoralizing element in the country, and the time has apparently arrived when the public is going to get rid of their corrupting influences or fill the penitentiaries with members of their ranks. Often public sentiment is slow to become aroused sufficiently to begin a crusade against an evil, but when it does come to the front in opposition to it it rights the wrong in short order. It looks very much like the people's day up has begun.

Political Greed and Poverty.

Judge Blair, of West Union, O., who has been conducting the trials of the numerous vote sellers indicted in Adams county, was interviewed as to the cause and said: "Had it not been that the people of this county are so poor and their politicians so greedy to secure their votes, we would not now have any of these election bribery cases which have turned the eyes of the world towards Adams county and caused it to lift up its hands in holy horror. Poverty is the root of this evil and we are finding it many times as hard to get the men into court for this reason."

Treading On Dangerous Ground.

Banks in Kentucky which pay more than 4 per cent. on time deposits and which pay interest on daily balances are to be regarded as treading on dangerous ground, declares Dr. Ben L Bruner, Secretary of State and supervisor of banks. He says the bank which pays more than 4 per cent. will be watched carefully. Dr. Bruner says it is not possible for a bank to pay more than 4 per cent. on time deposits and exist and he does not see how any bank can pay interest on deposits subject to check, except in rare instances. The statement regarding the banks was called forth by a letter from a banker who wanted to know if it was legal to pay more than 4 per cent.

Every Little Helps Just Now.

Next Saturday will be distribution day for the Burley Tobacco Society, and at that time 20 per cent. of the proceeds of the 1909 crop will be distributed among the poolers. Necessarily the amount each pooler will receive will be small. However the aggregate sum of money to be handed out all over the Burley district will be a large sum, and will be of some help in easing the financial stringency, now so apparent over the district. The greater part of this money will go to holders of certificates, who bought them from their original owners—the growers—but still a great many of these pool certificates are yet in the hands of their original owners and on the part of these the distribution will be especially welcome.

Another Political Sensation.

The city attorney and sheriff of Vermillion county, Ill., have confessed to buying votes in Danville, Speaker Cannon's home city in the last two campaigns. Jones promised to go before the grand jury and make a clean breast of the alleged vote buying and selling in Vermillion county, but the Sheriff declares he will not make any statement before the grand jury, contending that it would be impossible to obtain a jury in the county to [illegible] an of buying vote. The two confessions have created a sensation in political circles, and it is believed others will follow, in an effort to secure immunity baths. Jones has started a plan for a mass meeting of all successful and defeated candidates and ward workers at which it is proposed to adopt a resolution that all go before the grand jury and give as many names of those who sold votes as possible.

A Hot Time In Old Boone.

It now looks like Boone will have a warm contest on her hands for the nomination of the next Democratic candidate for State Senator, provided Gallatin and Owen counties agree that to Boone alone will be left the choosing of the next candidate for that office. According to the plan of rotation heretofore agreed upon by the three counties composing the Senatorial District, Boone is entitled to the State Senator for the next term, and upon that agreement is based the belief that to her will be left the honor of selecting the candidate. As the race is made up to date Boone cannot improve upon it as regards the two gentlemen who have entered it—Messrs. J W. Kennedy and J. W. Berkshire. They are Democrats from the ground up, men of both business and political experience, and can grasp a proposition readily, and always ready to make an able defense of the position they take in regard to any measure. Their interest is identical with that of the farmers, who can confidently rely upon either of them to render them the best of service in the State Senate. The canvass in which these two gentlemen will engage will be clean, and the strong following each has in the county will see to it that he gets his full strength at the polls.

TO THE TOBACCO GROWERS OF BOONE COUNTY.

We are now starting out again to try to eliminate the many objections that has been found to the Burley Tobacco Society that made the people of Kentucky many dollars.

We have now a new born babe, pure and undefiled, but how long will it be until some one will attack its management for the purpose of having an excuse not to comply with the wishes of the many who have seen their mistake and are now willing to put their shoulders to the wheel of progression and help up the hill? We hope that we may once be mistaken and that while Boone county has had a few that for some cause has or did lose the faith, will come to the front immediately and announce their willingness to affiliate with us and make a solid band of coworkers for ourselves and our neighbors. We should not live just for self alone, but ought to be willing to give a little of our time to help our friends and neighbors. We that have fought hard and long through the several years are weary and feel discouraged. We feel that we have fought a good fight and have done it in a way that was fair, and the best plan that had ever been tried. Now, if there is a better way, that's what we want, and while we that have been repulsed and forced to retreat under the heavy fire of the American Tobacco Company, are fatigued and need rest, yet we are ready to stand by our guns and fight for our freedom and for an opening for our loved ones that are coming on.

The people of Walton precinct have been loyal in their support, and we hardly feel like asking them to out out to save myself or others that have bought (for I have heard the echo of such a sentiment by some that have sold,) but it is up to you, dear friend to protect your hard labor by not blocking the cut-out for this year.

There has been a few in the county that have never pooled or helped in any way, but have continued to raise and sell, which helped to break down the society. It is these people we appeal to—won't you help us this time? If you don't the time will come when you will regret it. You, perhaps, have never seen your way clear, but, you certainly see it now. We have been divided in the past, but the time for the union has come. Do not forget the time for your precinct meetings, go and exercise your rights to helping to choose some one that will do to trust and help to lead us on to victory and not for a pitiful salary.

The order has gone out to cut-out the 1911 crop; so let every grower be a committee to that effect, and lets clean house and get ready for 1912.

How To Restor Root-Bound Sods.

Root-bound sods do not produce the forage that they otherwise would, neither is the hay tonnage what it should be. The remedy for this is to reseed old pastures and meadows with a disk drill. The proper time to do this work is when the sod is [illegible] ring from the frost leaving the ground. Clover is one of the best natural fertilizers and enrichers of the soil. Many farmers, therefore use a mixture of timothy and clover or alsike and red top. Clovers must have moisture and this is why it is best to do the work in the spring. Experience shows that this work not only increases the hay yield, but also provides abundant pasture when pasture is short in July and August. Do not attemp to broadcast the seed on sod land. Get an Empire Disk drill manufactured by The American Seeding-Machine Co., Incorporated, Richmond, Ind. This drill provides the way to do the work right by conducting the seed from the grass seeder through the grain tubes and placing the seed in the rows made by the disks. This disking relieves the sod if root bound. The Empire Drill will sow all kinds of seed—no seed too large and no seed too small that the Empire will fail to sow it right. Empire Drills are made in many different styles and sizes—plain and fertilizer. So no difference what your seeding conditions may be or where you live, you can get an Empire that will do your work in the best possible manner. Write the manufacturers for an empire catalogue. Then go to your implement dealer and insist on seeing an Empire Drill, which is guaranteed to you in such a way as to protect your interest.—Ex

TOBACCO TRUST TWISTS.

Tobacco and oil are making a mighty fume in our Supreme Court.—Richmond Virginian.

A Kentuckian has sold his tobacco for 21 cents a pound, but those who use the weed never include it in complaints of the high cost of living.—St Louis Globe-Democrat.

If it be true, as reported from Washington, that the tobacco trust has admitted that it restrains trade, why proceed further with the hearing?—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The tobacco trust, declares one of its attorneys, has no enemies. Evidently he takes the view that the Kentucky night riders are merely its friends in disguise.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

It is now announced that the use of tobacco wards off spinal meningitis. The tobacco trust should have learned of this in time to number it among itsarguments before the Supreme Court.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The tobacco trust has been paying more for tobacco this year than last year. Wi cause of the case in the Supreme Court and for the fear of the North Carolina Legislature.—Raleigh, N. C, News and Observer.

When that old fashioned Kentuckian, Justice Harlan, digressed the other day into some personal strictures on the present bad quality of chewing tobacco, it must have made the trust's counsel a little uneasy.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

"With solemn visage and pious mien, they would sugar the devil himself," declares Mr. Wiersham concerning the tobacco trust manipulators. No doubt; and already was the sugar that the sugared devil was sugared with.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Tobacco trust pleads that consumers haven't had to pay more for tobacco since the trust was organized. Pretty near correct, but look at what we've been putting up for alfalfa, cabbage leaves timothy, etc.! No man knoweth what he smoketh and cheweth now-a-days.—Shreveport Times.

EXCHANGE CLIPPINGS.

Fred Bassett says Montgomery county gained only thirty-four in population during the last ten years and they have already killed six of them, leaving a net gain of twenty-eight.—Cynthiana Democrat.

Many hundreds of people from all over the state seem to be emigrating to Texas and other Western States, which no doubt accounts for the decreasing population in many counties of Kentucky.—Flemingsburg Gazette.

This sounds to good to be true. Wizard Burbank has created a new strawberry (which tastes like a pineapple, strawberry and cream combined, and each berry weighs an ounce. Work of The Split Drag.

The Knottsville branch of the Green River Tobacco Association held its monthly meeting a few days ago and discussed the good roads question. As expressive of the unanimous sentiment of the gathering it formulated the following conclusions:

First—That the roads are now in a deplorable condition.

Second—That the system, at least the method pursued under the system, has proved a dismal failure.

Third—That there is going to be a change for the better, or we are going to know the reason why.

Before the adjournment of the meeting a committee was appointed to build a split drag. The Knottsville correspondent of the Owensboro Inquirer says the drag has been completed and tested and "everyone who saw it at work was enthusiastic in its praise, as it gives promise of great things in road work."

The tobacco growers of Knottsville evidently are in deadly earnest, and speedy improvement may be looked for in the roads in that section of Daviess county. Experts in such matters assert that the split drag can do wonders in the way of improving ordinary dirt roads. It is simple in construction, is easy to operate and has been successfully tested on hundreds of roads. It is rather remarkable that its use has not been more extensive in Kentucky.

When the people of any community make up their minds that they are going to have better roads "or know the reason why" the battle for good roads is more than half won. The spirit manifested in the Knottsville meeting is the sort that should animate the farmers in every section of Kentucky where there is crying need of highway improvement. The system of road working in most counties is bad and it will not be any better until the masses of the people resolve, like the tobacco growers of Knottsville, that "there is going to be a change or we are going to know the reason why."—Courier Journal.

Unique Card of Thanks.

A newly made widow sent this card of thanks to her home paper for publication: "I desire to thank my friends and neighbors most heartily in this manner for the united aid and co-operation during the illness and death of my late husband who escaped from me by the hand of death on Friday last while eating breakfast. To the friends and all who contributed so willingly toward making the last moments and funeral of my husband a success, I desire to remember most kindly, hoping these few lines will find them enjoying the same blessing. I have a good milch cow and roan gelding horse, five years old, which I will sell cheap. 'God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform; he plants his foorsteps on the sea and upon the storm;' also a black and white shote, very low."—Ex

Local Happenings.

Miss Laura Frances Riddell is visiting her aunt, Mrs. E K. Stevens, at Walton.

A new lock has been placed on the door at the postoffice for reasons satisfactory to the postmistress.

The weather the past two weeks has been hard on the turnpikes over which heavy hauling was done.

It has been some time since farmers could do any work with their teams on account of the ground being so very soft.

The weather has been too bad for some time for Lawrence Phipps to venture out on the mail route with his automobile.

The ground has not been frozen very deep this winter, consequently some expect that plowing will be heavy work this spring.

Miss Mary Furlong went to Covington, last Saturday, for a visit of a few days with her brother, John Furlong and wife.

Prof. E L. Dix attended a teachers meeting in Newport, last Saturday and heard the lecture delivered by State Superintendent Reganstine.

Everett Cason was a visitor at this office Monday. He reports his venerable father, uncle Alfred Cason, as getting along nicely this winter.

A large eagle was killed, one day last week, on the farm of J. S Asburry, near Idlewild, that measured seven feet and 2 inches from tip to tip.

G. T Gaines was a caller at this office Monday. He is one of those farmers who likes for work to begin going forward by this time of the year.

Miss Nellie Martin was a most pleasant caller at this office Monday morning, bringing a generous supply of that article a sufficient quantity of which makes millionaires.

Dogs made a raid on J. S Atburry's flock of sheep one night last week, killing four and badly injuring seven or eight. Mr Asburry recently moved to the Chambers farm near Idlewild.

Peter Hager, of East Bend, was a caller at this office, last Friday. He did not have much information in regard to the tobacco situation in his locality, saying he had very little to say in regard thereto.

According to the weather prophets the snow schedule for this winter has just passed the half way point, and there are yet fourteen snows to come. The farmers could possibly get along with one-half the number.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never disappoints those who use it for obstinate coughs, colds and irritations of the throat and lungs. It stands unrivalled as a remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Sold by all dealers

T. C Masters, of Petersburg mail route, was among last Friday's callers at this office. When questioned as to the proposition to cut out this year's crop of tobacco Mr. Masters said he had rented out all of his tobacco land.

Jerry Beemon, of Limaburg, one of the Recorder's stand-bys, dropped into to renew acquaintance, one day the past week. Mr Beemon is one of the prosperous men in the Limaburg community, having got there by honest, hard labor.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a very valuable medicine for all throat and lung troubles, quickly relieves and cures painful breathing and a dangerously sounding cough which indicates congested lungs. Sold by all dealers.

Joseph Graves is completing a handsome residence at Erlanger, while his brother, Alonso, of Covington, is just beginning one there. They will add much to the looks of the town as it is approached from the south on the Lexington pike.

Lieutenant Walter H. Lassing writes the Recorder to address his paper to Philadelphia, Penn., to which place he has been transferred from Blue Fields, where Uncle Sam had stationed for a considerable time the battle ship which Lieutenant Lassing is on.

Have you a weak throat? If so, you cannot be too careful. You cannot begin treatment too early. Each cold makes you more liable to another and the last is always the harder to cure. If you will take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the outset you will be saved much trouble. Sold by all dealers.

R. J Underhill, who resides out on Gunpowder, was in a few days ago, and was much concerned about his brother, Jerry, who was taken to a Cincinnati hospital, last fall, on account of what was reported to be a slight injury resulting from a street car colliding with a wagon he was driving. Owing to the time he has been detained at the hospital his brother Richard thinks his injury was serious.

Groundhog.

One week from today is ground hog day, on which day the question of the weather for the next six weeks will be settled.

So Far Very Healthy.

This has been a very healthy winter so far in this county. Some have been afflicted with colds and sore throats but not seriously, it is a pleasure to state.

Chore Man Sick.

Ward Coleman, the colored man of all work about town, has been knocked out with a cold for several days, and has been missed by those who depended upon him to do their chores.

Corn Cribs Full.

The teams belonging to Chas. Westbay, O. P Phipps and Albert Conner hauled considerable corn from Erlanger, last week, Early & Daniel having shipped a car load to that point for Burlington purchasers.

Tenants On The Move.

Tenants who will change landlords this spring are beginning to think about making the move. If no tobacco is raised this year their hurry to get into their new homes will not be as great as is usually the case.

A Useful Book.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction has sent out a book containing various plans and specifications for county school houses, showing just how to build them, the cost, how they will look when completed and much other valuable information.

A Kind Act.

Geo. Blyth, a suburban resident was in town early on the morning of the deep snow, last week, with his snow plow equipment, and cleaned the snow off of all the most used sidewalks and street crossings, a favor very much appreciated by the town people.

A Grass Saver.

The Hazel Green Herald says: A farmer in this county last year refused to allow his tenant to raise turkeys, and when the tenant asked the reason he replied: "I gad, sir, your turkeys would eat up the grasshoppers and there'd be none left for mine; no, sir, yer can't raise turkeys on my place."

Got What It Needed.

The road leading from Jerry Delph's to the Burlington and Florence pike at Jerry Tanner's, was put in good condition last Saturday, when several who use it mostly turned out and gave it a good dragging. It is hoped that considerable of the same kind of work will be done on other roads in the county.

Looping The Loop.

The loop on Wm. Gaines' rural route was looked after several days last week by his sub, Chas. A. Gaines, which made the work of the regular carrier much lighter. Mr Gaines is making a splendid carrier and takes a pleasure in serving the people along his route in any way possible that is not incompatible with his duties as rural carrier.

Must Sign Your Name.

Hereafter, persons other than the neighborhood correspondents for the Recorder, who write articles for these columns, must sign their real names for publication. This rule has become necessary in order to avoid offending friends of the paper, who desire to know the name of a contributor, under certain circumstances.

Forced To Pool.

Ransom Ryle and Wm. Carpenter, of Locust Grove neighborhood, were delivering tobacco to Wingate & Thompson in Petersburg, one day last week. When they reached Burlington on their return their teams were so badly fagged that they put both to one wagon for the remainder of the trip, leaving one wagon in Burlington.

Something Unusual.

If good weather does not come with somewhat of a suddenness the farmers will soon realize that they are behind with their spring work, as conditions have been such, so far, that it has been impossible for them to do anything towards preparing for the 1911 crop. There is yet considerable of the 1910 crop of corn in the field, something unusual with many of the farmers.

His Friends Not Surprised.

They do say that ex-County Judge C. C Roberts has become so fasainnted with rural life since he has been sojourning in the neighborhood of Walton, that he cannot be induced to leave the farm even for a few hours at a time. It has long been claimed by his friends that he was infatuated with the vocation of farmer, and the report above mention is no surprise to them.

One of The Old Citizens.

It was a pleasure to grasp the hand of Dr. W H. Blantou, when in Erlanger, last Saturday. He is one of the old citizens of this part of the State, and bids fair to be with his people several years longer. The doctor led an active life when in his prime, being one of the prominent physicians of this county, doing a large country practice that was exceedingly laborious.

How It Looks in Owen County.

The meeting of Owen county farmers at the court house on last Saturday was one of the largest ever held in this county, and reminded one of the early days of the pooling movement. All available space in the large court room was occupied. Mr G. W. Suter made a motion to take a vote of the crowd to ascertain the sentiment in favor of or against the cutting out of the 1911 crop of tobacco. Mr Gayle objected to the motion being put in that way, saying that this meeting was called for the purpose of getting signers to the cut-out contracts, and that those who opposed the proposition could indicate that opposition by refusing to sign.

The crowd grew extremely noisy, and it became apparent to Chairman Walker that an attempt to divide it would result in confusion. The room was crowded and it would have consumed a large part of the afternoon to secure an accurate count. Mr L. T. Doty, an opponent of the cut-out proposition, mounted a chair and asked for an aye and nay vote on the proposition. When both votes were taken there was declared it his opinion that the house was about evenly divided in sentiment.

When the object of the meeting was explained to Mr. Suter, a bedlam of noise and Mr. Doty he withdrew his motion, stating at the same time that he would refuse to sign the contract. At this juncture the house was quieted and the chairman asked all who favored the cut-out to come forward and sign the contracts. A rush for the stand was then made by the non-poolers, they having agreed to sign first. Then the crowd came forward in large numbers, and before the meeting adjourned 2,237 acres had been signed on the cut-out sheets. After the meeting adjourned, other signers ran the number up to more than 2500.

Some objected to the cut-out proposition because they believe an effort should be made to pool the 1910 crop first or at the same time.

The opinion is held by those who are close to the officials of both organizations that an effort will be made to pool as soon as a cut out is assured.—News-Herald.

For John's Sake, Cut'er Out.

Two or three of the correspondents in this issue state that in case the tobacco crop is cut out this year that an effort will be made to construct some turnpikes in their neighborhoods, and in one instance a call for a turnpike meeting is noted. If cutting out the tobacco crop will result in the building of turnpikes every sane person ought to declare in favor of the cut out by all means. Building of pikes would furnish work for many of those who have heretofore depended on the tobacco crop for their money, and would be a most profitable manner in which the public could bridge over the cut-out.

Favor The 1911 Cut Out.

R. S Wilson, of the extreme northern part of the county, was in town Monday. He had just delivered his tobacco to Johnnie Hogan, of Hebron neighborhood at 15 cents round. He reported the sale of Albert Grenet's crop at 12 cents round, a few days since. Mr Wilson reported the growers in his neighborhood as being in favor of cutting out the 1911 crop.

Test Your Seed Corn.

You ought to be testing the corn which you expect to use as seed this spring. A few hours put in along that line of work at this time of the year will be as remunerative as any you devote to the labor of cultivating your crop. A good stand of corn is very essential to a good yield.

Can Keep Out of the Mud.

A good board walk has been built from the new school building to the pike, consequently there will be no excuse for the pupils getting in the mud and loading their feet with it to carry into the building, which they should take a pride in keeping clean.

The Recorder's Mistake.

The Recorder was mistaken last week when it said Dr. H. H. Hays entertained the Boone Co. Medical Society. Mrs Ida Baisly entertained the society at her delightful home on the pike a short distance west of Bullittsville.

Money for Sheep Killed.

The county clerk has received from the State Treasury the money with which to pay claims for sheep killed in this county last year. The amount received is $737.16, which will pay $40 98 on the $100.

Anxious To Hitch Up.

Farmer Earl Smith is becoming very anxious to get between the plow handles. If he has not done considerable plowing by the end of January he expects a failure of his corn crop.

Deputy For Constance.

Sheriff Hume has had a deputy appointed over at Constance, and his duties will be to prevent the pulling off of prize fights and cock fights at the club house recently built there.

KEEPS HIS TIMEPIECE FAST

British Monarch Deliberately Has Watch Set Ahead—Father Addicted to Same Habit.

London.—Modern human beings have an extraordinary predilection for "fast" time.

Even the late king gave way to this little weakness, and every timepiece, including the church clock, at Sandringham was kept deliberately half an hour fast. This custom, in fact, still is kept up by King George.

This "fast" time habit is, in the opinion of a well known medical man, a form of self deception and "a praiseworthy, but often unconscious, attempt to rectify a very common fault—unpunctuality."

"The number of clocks and watches in England that are kept fast is extraordinary," he said. "A slow watch or clock is uncommon, and usually the result of an accident. But everywhere fast time is to be seen—outside railway stations, in railway refreshment rooms, in public-houses, and in private residences.

"In my opinion the psychology of this habit is as follows," continued the doctor. "A man distrusts his ability to be punctual, and to rectify this advances his watch, or allows it to remain fast, deluding himself that after a short time he will have forgotten that his watch is fast, and so will unwittingly be punctual.

"Again, a man acquires a sort of subconscious feeling that he could never hope to be punctual unless his watch were fast. He feels that he can keep up to time when he is calculating by a fast watch, but never if he has to calculate by a correct watch."

Numerous persons admitted having watches that were fast.

Said one man—"I always keep my watch fast—anything from five to twenty minutes—as I am terrified that it may get slow should I put it back to the right time."

Another: "My watch always gains a few seconds a day, and I let it go on gaining for about a month or so. Then I put it back to the right time. Why don't I always try to keep it right? Because it is too much bother, and because I have grown accustomed to having it fast and feel strange when it is right."

A well known business man said that he always kept his watch exactly two minutes fast, first, because it had a tendency to lose, and, second, because it made for greater punctuality and avoided the risk of missing trains by half a minute or so. Most business men of his acquaintance did similarly, he added.

The secretary of the Magneta Time company, limited, which has control of 60,000 clocks in the United Kingdom, said that in his experience almost every one preferred to keep their clocks fast and requested that they should be set for this purpose.

RATTLER AVENGES ITS MATE

Pennsylvania Hunter Who Kills Snake Is Bitten by Second—Captures Entire Family.

Newburgh, N. Y.—Arthur J. Serventi of this city went to Pike county, Pa., in quest of deer. When a short distance from Eldred, while following deer tracks, he came across 16 rattlesnakes sunning themselves on a rock. As he approached the two largest started up. Serventi shot the foremost and, in endeavoring to get away, he fell. The snake, which was near him, at once struck his right hand, puncturing his forefinger at about the second joint.

Serventi realized the situation, and as soon as he could get to a safe distance he took his hunting knife, cut open his finger and sucked out the poison. He hired a rig, drove to Eldred and had his hand treated by a physician. By this time the hand and arm had swollen to great size.

A day or two afterward, with his guide, he visited the rock, found the snakes in the sun, killed the big snake that had bitten him and captured the entire family of 14 small snakes, which the guide says are about six months old. The young snakes are on exhibition and Serventi's hand is further proof of the truth of his story.

PROPOSAL OVER PHONE WIRE

"Hello" Girl Receives an Offer of Marriage Intended for Some Other Woman.

Kansas City, Mo.—A telephone operator at the Union depot had a proposal from a man she never saw and doesn't even know his name. Although she didn't reject him, there is little likelihood of a wedding.

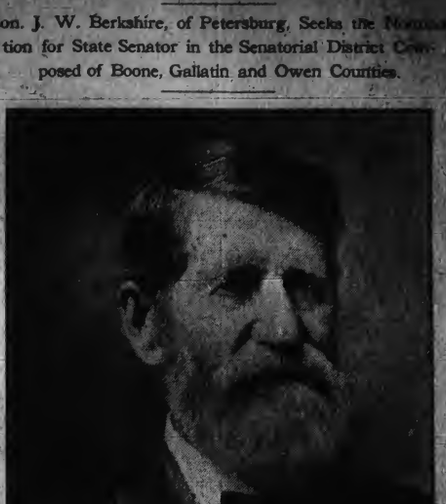
A woman had just been in a booth and had hung up the receiver. The person at the other end of the line still was waiting. The girl operator "went in" on the line to tell that the party at her end of the line had hung up.

"Won't you marry me, then?" asked a masculine voice at the other end.

"Hadn't thought of it," was the answer. "I'm the operator."

"Oh."

And the man hung up suddenly, probably afraid that "central" would hear him blush.



Youngster Travels Far Alone.

Columbus, Mo.—Lewis Moscow, fifteen years old, arrived in Columbia the other night, completing the entire journey from his home in Macedonia alone.

Attached to his coat was a card which read: "Please, Mr., direct this little boy to the following address, Columbia, Mo., U. S. A. He cannot speak a word of English."

ANNOUNCES FOR STATE SENATOR

Hon. J. W. Berkshire, of Petersburg, Seeks the Nomination for State Senator in the Senatorial District Composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen Counties.

HON. JOHN W. BERKSHIRE.

In this issue Hon. John W. Berkshire of Petersburg, is announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of the counties of Boone, Gallatin and Owen. Mr. Berkshire is now Boone County representative in the lower house of the State Legislature, this being his second term. Mr. Berkshire is well posted in the matter of legislation and his two terms' experience especially fits him for the work of a Senator, being now familiar with many of the important bills that will come up for consideration during the next session of the General Assembly. His democracy, like that of his opponent, is of the very purest type. Mr. Berkshire is known to about every voter in the county, and the canvass in which he and Mr. Kennedy will engage will be conducted on a high plain.

Marks of Muddy Feet.

A lady received the following reply in answer from another to the question why she allowed her children and husband to "litter" up every room in the house, and the sentiment will find lodgment in the heart of every home-loving person in the land: "The marks of little muddy feet upon clean floor can be easier removed than the stain when those little feet go down into the mud of the highway of evil. The prints of little fingers on the window pane cannot shut out the sunshine half so much as the shadows that darken the mother's heart over that one who is but a name through the coming years. And if my John finds his home a refuge from care and trouble and his greatest happiness within its four walls, he can put his boots in the rocking chair and hang his coat on the floor every day of the week. And if I can stand it and he enjoys it, I cannot see that it is anybody else's business."

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Titles to hundreds of thousands of acres of land in Kentucky was affected by the decision of the Supreme Court of the U. S holding against the Eastern Kentucky Coal Land Corporation, which claimed the property under so-called Virginia grants. The Kentucky Union Company also met with defeat in its attempt to protect its title of 49,000 acres of land claimed on grants similar to the Eastern Kentucky Coal Lands Corporation.

Following the Revolutionary War the Commonwealth of Virginia made large grants of land west of the mountains that was later the Commonwealth of Kentucky. These lands were settled upon by the pioneers, many of them not cognizant, it is said, of the Virginia grants. PRESIDENTIAL VOTE

Abstractor Jas. H Ewbank has handed the Register a well-written sheet found among the archives of his office showing a memorandum of the votes cast for President in Dearborn county in the election of 1840. Although Dearborn county at that time included the principal part of the territory now embraced in Ohio county, there were in all only thirteen townships as follows: Randolph, Union, Center, Caesar Creek, Clay, Sparta, Laughery, Manchester, Lawrenceburg, Miller, Logan, Kelso and Jackson. The vote is shown by townships and the most remarkable fact is that each of the nine members of the electoral college in the respective parties received exactly the same number of votes, every man casting his ballot having voted a "straight" ticket. There were three Presidential tickets in the field, Harrison and Tyler representing the Whig party, Van Buren and Johnson the Democratic and Birney and Tazewell the Abolition. Another matter of interest is shown in the results the Whig party polling 1771, the Democrats 1583 and the Abolitionists 3 votes, the last being cast in Manchester township.—Lawrenceburg Register

NEWS FROM FRANKFORT.

Col. Noel Gaines, of Frankfort, announced that he is now an inspector of the United Agency, a confidential detective and secret service agency. This agency, he says has confidential agents in every walk of life and in every profession, furnishing information to the inspectors on which they may act. He says his connection with this agency has enabled him to get information on which he brings suits for taxes and penalties which are due to the state. He says it is in connection with this agency that he appeared before the grand jury and furnished information regarding the alleged bribery of legislators during the last session of the General Assembly. He says the detective informers get their pay by dividing with the inspector who makes money out of something that they are put "next to."

The decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of the Title Guaranty & Surety Co. vs Commonwealth for use, etc., from McCracken county, will be of wide interest to County Clerks and lawyers. Hiram Smedley was Co Clerk of McCracken county, and in indexing a mortgage he put it Stevens instead of Stephenson. When attorneys came to look up the title to Stephenson's property that he was selling, they found no mortgage on it in the County Clerk's index of mortgages The property was sold and the purchaser found he had bought a $2,100 mortgage along with the property. He sued to compel Smedley's bondsmen to make good the loss occasioned by Smedley's mistake. The court below gave judgment for the full amount asked for, and that judgment is upheld. In plain terms the decision means that if a mistake of the clerk causes a purchaser of property a loss the clerk or his bondsmen must make good the loss.

DE LAVAL
CREAM SEPARATORS
Won First Prize
at the
California State Fair

The DE LAVAL machines were exhibited in competition with the half a dozen other makes and, as usual, the DE LAVAL carried off the honors, being awarded the first premium.

Wherever they have been exhibited the DE LAVAL Cream Separators have invariably been awarded highest honors at every important exposition or actual-use contest.

The DE LAVAL skims closer, runs easier, lasts longer and is easier to keep clean than any other separator made.

LITTLE MEXICAN CAT

Pretty Animal Makes New Yorkers Hold Noses.

Mystic Zone of Wrath-Making Odor Around Central Park Sets Monkey House in Uproar—Somebody Vents Spite.

New York.—If one happened to be passing early the other day in front of the row of mansions on Fifth avenue that overlook Central park arsenal, and had a bad cold, one would have noticed butlers and footmen were acting strangely.

A front door would open and a stately figure in yellow plush emerge to take bearings on the weather. The stately figures would suddenly assume a startled attitude, sniff, clap his flat on the offended nasal organ and leap backward into the house. A footman or two ventured down to the curb, sniffing all the time, then turned and bolted within. Bedroom windows facing the park went banging down in a volley.

Singularly and impressive as all this was, if one had ventured nearer the arsenal there were yet stranger sights. Policemen patrolling their beats marched swiftly along, their noses buried in handkerchiefs. Keeper Snyder could be seen making his rounds of the animal houses with one hand over his nose and the other bearing a burning joss stick. Nurse maids who passed within the mystic zone suddenly clasped their aprons to their noses and pranced away.

All the while there was a terrific din in the lion house. Lions roared and tigers spit and hissed; panthers snarled and leopards howled. The prairie dogs were digging furiously in the frozen ground with an evident desire to escape from something that made them snarl peevishly.

Passing into the lion house attention would be drawn instantly to a cage in which a pretty spotted cat was curled up purring contentedly. Opposite the cage in which the pretty feline reclined in such demure contentment, two Bengal tigers and one Nyanza leopard were engaged in frenzied efforts to beat down their bars. In the cages at either side two families of lions seemed utterly bereft.

Every few minutes a keeper would burst out of a door, rush down in front of the little cat's cage and shake his fist frantically; that is one fist, the other being clapped across his face.

"What has the handsome little animal done?" one visitor with a horribly bad cold asked Head Keeper "Bill" Snyder, after Snyder had conducted himself like a maniac.

"Done!" roared Snyder. "Don't you get it? He's a Mexican tom cat ocelot. Come up back of the bear dens where the wind's blowing, and I'll tell you about it."

Having arrived back of the bear dens, Snyder said:

"If you didn't happen to have that cold, which has caused the suspension of your olfactory sense, you would have back-somersaulted out of that lion house the minute you got your nose in the door. The Mexican Ocelot is to a skunk what a glue factory is to a rosebud."

"Why don't you get rid of him?" was asked.

"Can't," replied Snyder, "till we get orders through regular channels. Somebody down in Mexico who hates the United States, sent that thing to a woman in Yonkers. When it came the customs people refused to pass it. The woman notified Commissioner Stover that we could have it. The commissioner had me to go and get it.

"We went with a dray and cage and found the thing in the hold. All the rats had died. We got it into the cage all right, but tixted ourselves when we'd finished the job. But it did not begin to do its best work until we got it in the lion house. We sprayed it with gasoline, which only made it worse. We burned feathers, but that proved no antidote.

"If I don't get it out of Central park tomorrow there's going to be rioting. We started to put it in the monkey house, but we no sooner got it in the door than the monkeys began to faint."

CARROT IN PLACE OF EGGS

Teacher of Minneapolis Cooking School Finds Excellent Substitute Saving in Cost.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Carrots are being used as a substitute for eggs in the evening class of the public cooking school.

The teacher, Miss Frich, has been obliged to curtail the use of eggs as the price has soared. She got along nicely until the approach of the holidays season, when all the students wanted to learn how to cook English plum pudding. Lots of eggs are needed in plum pudding, and Miss Frich found she could not afford to teach the students a plum pudding course unless she found a substitute for eggs.

After a long series of experiments Miss Frich solved the problem. She found that mashed carrots are an excellent substitute for eggs. The results are equally satisfactory. The man who eats the product does not know the difference, she declares, and the saving in cost is wonderful.

Local bartenders have "caught on" and "mashed carrot nog" and milk punch with a carrot attachment are all the rage.

HITTITE DEITY IN BRONZE

Statuette of Goddess Is Discovered in Egypt Which May Be of the Time of Joseph.

From Cairo comes news of the discovery of a bronze statuette which may be of the time when Joseph was sold into Egypt. It seems to be the first discovered specimen of a Hittite deity executed in the round.

It represents a goddess standing upon the back of a lion, whose tongue is protruding and tail turned up. The goddess wears the Cappadocian or Hittite style of tiara and carries in her arms an infant held to the breast.

No features of the work denote an Egyptian artist, but all point to Syria, and it is almost a precise copy of the Hittite reliefs upon the ruined palaces at Beghas, Kanet and elsewhere, in which the gods stand upon the backs of animals. The proportions given to the body and the arrangement of the hair are also Syrian, but the shoes have not the upturned toes usual with Hittite figures.

Should this statuette be accepted as of Hittite workmanship it will give support to the Old Testament statements as to the existence of Hittites in southern Palestine and will tend to show that the Hyksos or shepherd kings who reigned for centuries in North Egypt were Hittites or of an allied race.

FAMILY BIBLE OBSOLESCENT

Publisher Says the Trade in That Once Popular Form of the Sacred Book Is Dying Out.

A Philadelphia publishing house that makes a specialty of the sacred book says the family Bible trade is languishing. The Bible continues to be the best seller, but it is no longer the immense volume that stood on the parlor center table, and contained marvelous steel engravings of the tower of Babel and the fall of Nineveh, and had room for all the family records. The thing now is a thin paper student edition with flexible covers, concordance and notes and all suited to the overcoat pocket. It hasn't room for any family history, but it can be introduced into a stingy city flat without crowding the family.

The passing of the family Bible is significant of an interesting change in the keeping of vital statistics. Records of births, deaths and marriages have ceased to be a family and become a state function. It is done better and more completely than in the old days and the records are more useful to the public. That fact need not prevent our dropping a tear at the passing of an old cherished institution.—Success Magazine.

That Did It.

"The hardest audience in the world to play to is an audience of typical first-nighters," said the theatrical manager. "The first-nighters are mostly deadheads, and those who pay their way are of the blase type, hard to enthuse. I have in mind one man in particular who never misses a first night, and who, to hear him talk, gets about as much enjoyment out of it as he would out of an attack of mumps. I put on a comedy last season that was one of the big money makers of the year. The first-night audience regarded it as mourners attending the obsequies of a dear departed. I met this particular one I speak of in the lobby after the performance.

"'Well, what did you think of it?' I said. 'Pretty funny, eh?'

"'One of the funniest things I ever saw,' he admitted. 'In fact, it was so funny I had to read the jokes on the program to keep from laughing.'"

Gladstone and the Heckler.

Mr. Gladstone was altogether intolerant of the heckler. During his last Midlothian campaign he was questioned by Sir, then Mr., John Usher of Norton, who had once been Gladstone's chairman of committees, on the subject of the Irish proposals, which sundered so many political friendships. To one or two inquiries a curt reply was given. "Am I to understand"—Mr. Usher was beginning. "Understand!" The old statesman leaped to his feet. "I am responsible for the understanding that the Almighty has put in this skull of mine," tapping his forehead. "I am not responsible," pointing his finger at the questioner, "for the understanding that he has put in that skull of yours." The effect of this rebuke was overwhelming. Mr. Usher sank speechless into his seat.

Names in Samoa.

Travelers visiting Samoa are puzzled at first by the fact that many boys bear feminine names, while girls as frequently have masculine names. The visitor learns after awhile, however, that this confusing use of names instead of being due to ignorance is in reality the result of a native custom which is highly poetic.

Thus if a girl is born soon after the death of a brother the latter's name is given to her in the belief that his spirit and all his good qualities have been transferred to her. On the other hand, if a boy is born after the death of a sister he takes the latter's name and, as the Samoans believe, all her lovable traits become his.

Drew the Line.

"Maybe she won't like me any more, but I can't help it."

"What happened?"

"Her pet poodle was under the mistletoe and I failed to take the chance."

AGE ON MATRIMONY

Speaker Recommends 21 Years as the Limit.

President of Eugenic Society Explains to English Royal Commission His Views on Marriage—Certificate of Fitness.

London.—The eugenic view of matrimony, including the proposal to establish a new age limit for marriage, was explained to the royal commission on divorce by Mr. Montague Crackenthorpe, K. C., president of the Eugenic Society.

In this view, he said, marriage was an institution designed, amongst other things, for the continuance of the human race. It should, therefore, be regulated by the community, which had a great interest in the children born into it.

One-half of eugenic teaching was concerned with the production of the fit, the other with the elimination of the unfit. So when certain defects were present before marriage in one of the intending parties the marriage should not take place, and if they developed after marriage it should be dissoluble at the instance of the unblemished party.

As to insanity, though in a sense a spouse was taken for better or for worse, to propagate children "for worse" was a wicked and selfish act that must hinder the community's progress.

It is absolutely cruel that a man should marry a girl of whom he knows very little—except that he has met her in society and regarded her as a charming object—and shortly after marriage she should show herself of unsound mind and has to be put away, and that man is made a celibate against his will.

As to the equality of the sexes, it was contended that there should be perfect equality, but biologically the sexes were not and never could be made equal. The sexes started equal, but with adolescence they differentiated and nature had ordained that.

The sexes were not equal, for you must consider consequences. If a single act on the part of a man be followed by the same legal consequence as misconduct on the part of a wife divorce will be made too "easy," for a little collusion would always bring about a divorce.

"Marriage," continued Mr. Crackanthorpe, "should only be permitted after a certificate of fitness for matrimony had been obtained.

"Moreover, no man should be allowed to marry before the age of twenty-one and no woman before the age of eighteen."

Witness said that, in suggesting these rules, the Eugenic Society had not forgotten that marriage involved questions of sex instinct and passion. These rules might have been found impracticable in every age, race and country in the past, but "what may not be practicable in one age may be practicable in another."

"Banns," he continued, "were inadequate as at present published. They should be published in an official 'matrimonial gazette.'"

He was followed by F. W. Mott, of Charing Cross hospital, and pathologist of the C. C. asylums. He had been nominated by the Eugenic Society, he said, to give evidence on insanity and inebriety.

He dealt first with heredity and insanity. There were twenty thousand lunatics in London asylums. Two thousand who had been in the asylums in the last two years had relatives in asylums. He advocated divorce in cases of chronic, incurable insanity as beneficial to the individual and to society.

Drink, he went on, had a pernicious effect on mentally unstable people, and caused the sending of many to asylums. A very small quantity made them anti-social and insane. He did not find that the children of drunkards were feeble minded, but if the influence existed for two or three generations disease manifested itself.

Dr. Chambers, joint editor of the Journal of Mental Science, said that the remedy lay not in making insanity a ground for divorce, but in preventing the marriage of the unfit. The knowledge that insanity was a ground for divorce would have a prejudicial effect on the mental health of some people, and would distress the minds and retards the recoveries of many of the insane who were under care.

The last witness of the day was Dr. G. H. Savage, the famous mental expert, who has forty years' experience in the treatment of the insane. He had written to medical officers of asylums asking whether insanity was a justifiable ground for divorce, receiving eighty-two replies. These were: Yes, 51; no, 29; indifferent, 2.

He himself thought that, despite the existence of a very large number of cases of individual hardship, there was no ground for immediate action.

Warm Current Is Found.

St. Petersburg.—The Russian expedition under Geologist M. Russanoff has discovered a warm ocean current around Nova Zembla, but not passing through the Kara sea, where Nansen and others sought for such a current. It is expected that in consequence of the discovery the maratime route to the mouths of Siberian rivers will henceforth be north instead of south of Nova Zembla.

SNAKE LADEN SHIP ARRIVES

Vessel Carrying Many Reptiles, Apes and Dwarf Elephant, Has Exciting Voyage.

New York.—Carrying snakes by the dozen, none of them under twenty feet in length; red faced apes, huge lizards, a "dwarf" elephant of three-foot height, and with a record on its log of having saved twenty-one persons from suicide, the British freighter Muncaster Castle from the Orient arrived the other day.

The rescue occurred three months ago, just before the Muncaster Castle left the waters of the far east, when twenty men and a girl were taken from a dismasted vessel that had been adrift seventeen days, for six of which none on board the derelict had anything to eat or drink. The derelict had drifted 1,200 miles and all on board were ready to cast themselves into the sea, crazed by their sufferings.

"The twenty-one told us they had just decided to drown themselves," said Lieutenant W. J. Donohue, chief officer of the Muncaster Castle. "Six vessels had passed them without paying any heed to their signals and all were on the verge of insanity when we came within hailing distance. There was four feet of water in the hold of the derelict.

"After the twenty men had been taken off we found a girl of 16 years huddled in the cabin. We saved her and then landed the survivors on the Malabar coast in southwest India."

Nearly 400 feet of phython set sail on the Muncaster Castle, but only 240 feet survived the voyage. The snakes, lizards, small animals and the tiny elephant had a bad time of it when huge seas battered the freighter, tumbling over the crates and cages and causing an uproar in the jungle passengers' section.

In the straits of Malacca one of the Chinese stokers saw the snakes. He rushed on deck, peered over the side, shouted that sharks had no terror for him and dived into the sea. A volunteer crew rescued the Chinaman.

HORSE GETS INTO TROUBLE

Sugar and Apples All Right, but When He Bit Into Matches Hot Time Ensues.

Groton, Conn.—Poor Bill! His whiskers are gone! And he is learning that vanity is folly and that no perfect gentleman bites.

Bill is a large, ambling, equine structure that is harnessed daily to the grocery wagon belonging to Loren Perkins. Bill is not much to look at except that he has a set of uncommonly fine teeth and beautiful whiskers—lace curtains, as some irivacious mood have called them.

And Bill is conceited. Hardly a day goes by but that he does not try to attract a crowd on the sidewalk before the Perkins place by nonchalantly baring his teeth, as it were, and looking around for something in which to set them.

Bundles are his specialty. Many a package of sugar or pile of apples placed carelessly on the sidewalk by Perkins has fallen to ruins under the dental dexterity of Bill. And no amount of beating has had any effect on him.

But Bill's time came. He had an unusually admiring crowd the other day and he looked for something novel in the way of showing off. He spied a small, oblong, stiff looking package near at hand and reached for it. He bit into it. There was a crack and a blaze and a snort of surprise from Bill. He had set his exquisite molars into a box of matches. He whined in pain as he saw the tiny tentacles of his whiskers sizzle up to his quivering chin in flame. He put out a long, pink tongue and tried to lick the flames away. Then somebody gave him a whack in the mouth and the fire was out.

WASPS LACK COMMON SENSE

Foolish Insects Aid the Work of Injurious Parasites, Says a French Scientist.

Paris.—Animal instinct is not always infallible, Professor Bonier told the French Academy of Sciences the other day. As an example he described investigations carried out recently by Professor Roubaud in the life of wasps.

They have, it seems, a parasite, or tiny gnat, which deposits its larvae in the cells inhabited by the wasps. The larvae destroy the wasps' own larvae. The dead larvae are then devoured by the wasps themselves and by that they free the parasites, which would otherwise die off.

To that error the wasps add another; the parasite gnats in their turn have an enemy in a microscopic insect which lays its eggs in the gnats' larvae. The wasps do not seem to be able to distinguish between friend and enemy; they destroy these eggs which would have produced valuable allies for them in the struggle for life.

2,500,000 More Subjects of Czar.

St. Petersburg.—This year's census of the Russian empire adds another 5,000,000 to the population as enumerated in 1908. The czar's subjects now number 160,0000,000 and increase every year by 2,500,000 despite wars, epidemics and internal disturbances. As there is no lack of cultivated soil in Russia there seems no reason why this big annual increase should not continue.

SELECT AMERICAN ARTISTS

They Are the Best Ones to Paint Portraits of Americans, as General Sheridan Discovered.

Americans are learning that the men to paint portraits of Americans are American portrait painters, although the number of foreigners who come over here and succeed in getting commissions, mainly through dealers who exploit them shows no signs of diminishing. It is being borne in on the minds of the sitters and their families, however, that the artist of another people is likely to make his sitter look like a type of his own land, rather than of the sitter's land. They are beginning to realise that the old portraits which they admire were painted mainly by artists of the same blood as their sitters. A sculptor commenting on the matter recently said:

"Some people learn that very quickly, but the others have slow eyes. Yet to show you that it does not at all take an artist to perceive it, let me tell you what Gen. Phil Sheridan said to me. I was going to make a bust of him. Said he:

"'I've been painted, it seems to me, by everybody, and what have they done to me? I've been painted by an Italian and he made me look like an Italian. I've been painted by a German and he made me look like a German. I was painted by a Jew and he made me look like an Israelite. Now do I?'

"You see, the general learned the lesson quickly—but maybe that's why he was a general."

REFUSED TO CUT HIS RATES

Kentucky Livery Stable Proprietor Wouldn't Rent a Rig to Any Man for Less Than a Quarter.

William D. Campbell is a business man through and through. Coupled with his business instincts is a horror of being charged extortionate prices by country livery stables.

He stopped one day in a small town in Kentucky and concluded that he would like to take a drive. He also made the mental reservation that he would pay no unreasonable price for the horse and buggy. "Look here!" he said to the owner of the livery stable, the only one in town. "I want to take a little drive; but I am not a drummer, and am not a millionaire. I want that drive; but I think you might make a reasonable arrangement about the price of the rig." Understand that clearly!"

"This ain't no cut-rate town in the livery business," responded the proprietor. "I won't cut rates for nobody."

That sounded threatening to Campbell; but he thought he would take a chance and inquire the amount of the charges. "Well," he said soothingly, "what do you think is a fair charge for an hour's drive?"

The proprietor looked him over carefully. "I tell you, stranger," he said hesitatingly, as if doubting whether Campbell would come across with the figure named, "I won't hitch up for no man for less than a quarter!"—Sunday Magazine.

Ruffs and Reeves.

A nurse told a child of mine some time before the middle of the 60's of the last century, that her mother had seen fairies dancing on Brumby Common in the northwest of Lincolnshire, near the Trent, says a writer in Notes and Queries. When this fanciful story was repeated to me I had no difficulty in supplying its interpretation. The woman had assuredly not told a wilful falsehood, but what she had seen, and felt sure were fairies, were ruffs and reeves dancing on a dry hillock in a solitary place, where they were almost sure to be free from interruption. They have, I believe, often been engaged in this sport; but now these beautiful and interesting birds are almost, if not entirely extinct, though they were common before the days of the great inclosures, when there was a long stretch of uncultivated land on the eastern bank of the Trent, which wild birds and mammals had nearly to themselves.

Mow Machinery Breathes.

An English writer on engineering subjects, Mervyn O'Gorman, calls attention to the fact that a piece of machinery, such as an automobile, laid aside after being used, is in danger of internal rusting through a kind of respiration which affects cylinders, gear boxes, clutch caambers, interspaces in ball bearings, and so forth.

Every inclosed air space "breathes" by drawing in air when a fall of temperature contracts its walls, and expelling it when the walls expand through heat. The moisture introduced with the air is deposited in the cavities, and may produce serious damage through rust. The popular belief that oil will protect the inaccessible parts of unused machinery is fallacious, since nearly all oils take up about three per cent. of water in solution.—Youth's Companion.

The Ocean.

Of all natural stores of water the ocean is, of course, the most abundant, and from it all other water may be said to be derived. From the surface of the ocean a continuous stream of vapor is rising up with the atmosphere, to be recondensed in the upper regions and precipitated as rain, snow and sleet. Some eight-elevenths of these precipitates return directly to the ocean; the rest, falling on land, collects into pools, lakes, rivers, or else penetrates the earth, perhaps to come to light again in springs and wells.

AIRSHIPS TO BE USED

That Is the Plan of the [illegible] Bill Now Before French Chamber of Deputies.

Paris.—A project for the use of aeroplanes with which to frighten the natives of the French colonies in Africa into submission has been introduced in the chamber of deputies in the form of a bill providing for an appropriation of $80,000 for "colonial military aviation." It seems probable that the measure will be passed in view of the recent defeat of the French by the tribesmen of Ouadai, when Colonel Moll, commander of the French forces, was among the slain. Deputy Gasparin, who is a strong advocate of the plan, said today:

"Would the sad events at Ouadai have hapened if Colonel Moll had as his disposition a few aeroplanes? Perhaps not. Anyway, in the desert regions, where the means of transportation are very meager, the aeroplane could be used to carry orders. Certainly the sight of a great white-winged airship sailing overhead would be sufficient to inspire the natives with a salutary fear and tend to calm their warlike feelings. They would understand that they had no chance against the power of France and would submit to its domination loyally.

"Yes, there should be aeroplanes not only in West Africa but also in Indo-China, the Kongo and Madagascar. The last named country offers superior conditions for experiments. The inhabitants have long demanded a railway connecting Tananarivo with the west coast. Instead of devoting immense sums to this work and burdening the colony with heavy debts, why not consider an aeroplane service? I understand that M. Picquie, governor of the island, is actually studying the question of using aeroplanes for carrying the mails. Undoubtedly French prestige will be tremendously increased when the natives behold the first aeroplane skimming over the capital of Madagascar."

WILD DEER CHASE IN TOWNS

Inhabitants of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, Given Most Exciting Experience.

Chester, Pa.—An unexpected deer hunt took place in Delaware county, and the huntsmen who participated in it say they had the chase of their lives. It is the first hunt of its character that ever took place here.

John F. Yarnall, formerly the leading "whip" for the Lima Fox Hunting club, went out with several friends for the purpose of shooting their hounds for the fox hunting season. The hounds had several brushes with sly Reynard, and on the George Wood farm, at Wawa, in Middletown township, in clear view of the riders, a half-grown deer jumped in front of the pack.

For a time it was bewildered, and at the baying of the hounds evidently scented trouble, for the fleet-footed animal and its pursuers started at a fierce pace across the country. The chase led up into Aston township, along the Baltimore Central railroad. The hounds were gaining fast on the deer, and the riders were doing their best to keep the hounds back.

The deer was pressed so hard that it took to the underbrush in the Chester Heights camp meeting woods. The riders and hounds were quick to follow, and it was not long before the deer got out into the open and made its way past Chester Heights on into Conrad township, and as darkness came on the deer was lost in Upper Chichester township, going directly toward the Delaware river.

Mr. Yarnall says that it is the first wild deer he ever saw in this county. He and the other huntsmen are at a loss to know where the deer came from, or how it came to be in this section. The huntsmen say that the deer was almost white.

SAYS NO STORK AFTER 2015

Then Only Babies That Come Will Be Imported, Declares Cornell University "Prof."

St. Louis.—There will be no children in the United States under five years of age in the year 2020. Babies accordingly will have disappeared from this country as early as 2015. This is the mathematical conclusion of Prof. Walter S. Wilcox of Cornell university, after exhaustive study and comparison of the birth rate during the last century.

Professor Willcox addressed his associates in the American Statistical association on the subject of "Comparative Fecundity in the United States and France." The only possibility of seeing babies in the United States after 2020, according to Professor Willcox's calculation, is through importation from France. France, he says, will continue to have babies 30 years after the United States has quit.

An endorsement for the stork was recommended to the association by George E. Howard, professor of sociology in the University of Nebraska, in an address on "The Social Control of Domestic Relations," he declared the state should endow mothers.

Manicure Parlor in School.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A manicure parlor is the latest addition to the appointments of the shower bath room in the Blaine public school. By order of the building committee of the board of education one corner of the [illegible] room will be partitioned off and [illegible] so used for manicuring purposes.

Geo. W Griffith has moved his box ball alley from Walton to Dry Ridge, as business in this quarter had gotten very poor. Mr. Griffith's family will remain here for the present.

The directors of the Boone County Consolidated Company will meet at the company's office in Walton on Wednesday, February 8th, to transact business pertaining to the Company.

Trains on the L. & N railroad were considerably delayed yesterday by a wreck of ten freight cars at Bank Lick Station. No lives were lost but the property lost was considerable.

Mrs. B W. Stallard of Akron, Ohio, who has been ill, came home here last week to spend a couple of weeks with her father Thos. F Curley and family while her husband Dr. Stallard was in Louisville on business, and he may locate there.

Robert Chambers has two farms for sale, situated near Walton, one of 50 acres, and one containing 100 acres. Mr Chambers has arranged to sell one of his farms of 102 acres near Bank Lick to Enoch Williams, expecting to give possession March 1st.

J. D VanLandingham of near Demossville, Kenton county, was here Monday on business. His son Bryce VanLandingham is very ill with pneumonia but it is believed he will recover as he is only 14 years of age and possessed of a vigorous, robust constitution.

Information has been received here of the loss by fire of the home of Mr. and Mrs Berry Noel, in Sandford, Fla. Their loss was light as they saved their household effects. Mr and Mrs. Noel were formerly of Walton, and her father, A. W. Smith, is their guests.

Chas. C Sleet, of Beaver Lick, spent Tuesday here the guest of Mr. and Mrs John C. Bedinger, going from here to Lexington to attend a meeting of the tobacco growers, in whose interests Mr. Sleet has done some excellent work, and contributed some most convincing articles to the Boone County Recorder.

Miss Gertrude Curley returned home last week from Akron, O., where she went to visit her sister Mrs. B W. Stallard, who accompanied her home for a visit. Mrs. Stallard has been ill but is much better. Dr Stallard has resigned his position at Akron and went to Louisville last week to take charge of a dental office.

Thos. A. Stephenson, who is employed at the carpenter's trade at Dayton, Ohio, spent the past week here and while here sold the J. J. Stephenson farm of about fifteen acres in Kenton Co., near Walton, to Nich Matthews for $825, possession to be given March 1st. This farm was bought by Mr. Stephenson from the heirs shortly after the death of his father J. J Stephenson several months ago.

George B. Powers, representing the Burley Tobacco Society and Union, has been busy this week getting signatures from the tobacco growers to cut out the crop of tobacco for the year 1911, and he is receiving many signatures and much encouragement. A mass meeting of the tobacco growers has been called to meet at Walton, Saturday Jan. 28th, at 2 o'clock p. m and everybody is respectfully invited to attend and assist in the success of the movement.

G. E Carroll of near Walton, has concluded to make the race for the Democratic nomination for Representative of Boone Co. in the next General Assembly of the Kentucky Legislature. Eliz is not only a popular citizen but a level headed thinking citizen who would reflect honor on the position and strive to advance the best interests of the people generally. Mr Carroll has received much encouragement in his ambition and will enter the race to win. He is a clever, public spirited citizen and would make a good representative.

Rev. E B. Atwood, who has been taking a post graduate course at the Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, passed the examination for the Th. D degree at that institution last week, and the Western Recorder of Jan. 19th states that it is understood that Rev. Atwood's examination was the best in the history of the Seminary of any one who has ever applied for the Doctor's degree. Rev Elmer B. Atwood married the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D M. Bagby of this place and was a visitor here recently. He is a native of Clinton, Ky., and is visiting his parents at that place, and with his wife and children expects to go to El Paso, Texas, next week, where he takes charge of the Highland Park Baptist church. For several years' past he has been the pastor of the Baptist church at Alpine, Texas. Rev and Mrs. Atwood have many friends in this quarter who note with pleasure his success in his particular calling and his elevation to the charge of such a splendid field and church of high standing, as El Paso is one of the best charges in Texas.

Bishop's Busy Day.

Discarding his horse and buggy Bishop Abram Herr of New Danville, Lancaster county, found it necessary to procure the service of an automobile in order to marry five pairs who lived in different sections of the county, according to a correspondent of the Philadelphia Record. Bishop Herr is a minister of the Mennonite faith, and the weddings were so scheduled that he scarcely had the time to eat a morsel of food at the big feasts that always follow a country wedding.

He married the first pair at his home and then jumped into the auto and was driven to Salunga, where he performed another wedding ceremony. From there the marrying parson was whisked to East Lampeter township, where two pairs were married. He solemnized [illegible] in the evening at Mountville.

Treasure Added to Art World.

The lost Velasquez, discovered lately to the Castle of Schwartzau, near Steinfeld, Austria, has been identified as the Fraga portrait, painted in 1644, which it had been supposed had perished. It is now in London, where it is to be exhibited shortly at the rooms of the Agnews, who bought it. The Times of London says of it:

"It is a marvel of portraiture and a marvel of color and, absolutely untouched as it is, it shows at every point the unmistakable hand of Velasquez himself. . . . When this has been done (relining and varnishing) this portrait of Philip IV. will impress all who see it as being one of the most complete and also one of the most attractive of the pictures left to the world by the founder of modern portraiture."

Saving Them for Her Funeral.

The wife of a prominent southern statesman tells a story of her ancient colored cook, who took a liking to every article of apparel in her mistress' wardrobe. It was "please give me this" and "please give me that," until the lady took a trip to St. Louis and laid in a generous supply of hosiery and underwear and outer garments for the old mammy. The gifts were received with gratitude, but presently the cook was at her old tricks, asking for stockings, aprons and wrappers. "What did you do with all those things I brought you from St. Louis?" demanded her employer.

"Why, missie," answered the woman, "I couldn't use them things. Not for nothing. I am saving them all to be buried in."

Slow.

Innkeeper—Going to make an early start to see the glacier today, I see. Do you know, it moves at the rate of only one foot an hour?

Tourist—Yes, but my wife is so slow getting ready that I'm afraid we'll miss it after all!—Puck.

Lloyd C. Weaver sold a fine two year old mule to Edgar Crop per for $200.

J. W Rouse sold 8 nice, thoroughbred pigs to W. L Kirkpatrick for $60.

J. W Rouse and wife spent Saturday and Sunday with W. J Tanner and family in Cincinnati.

Miss Marie Stephenson narrowly escaped a severe attack of pneumonia, last week.

Ed Johnson, of Indiana, was the guest of his uncle, J. T Stephenson and family, last week

J. J Tanner and family entertained a few of their neighbors, last Saturday evening, with flinch and carums.

Mr. and Mrs Milton Beemon and Uncle Robert Beemon who have been quite sick during the past week, are better.

Several of the farmers who are interested in good roads have been dragging the mud roads near their homes.

Joe Ryle returned to his home in Ohio, Sunday, after a visit of a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P A. Ryle, near here.

Earl Garnett, one of Miss Jennie Lee Castleman's pupils took the examination last Friday and Saturday to qualify for the Burlington High School.

Several who went to Burlington, Saturday, to receive 20 per cent of their tobacco money were very much disappointed because of the failure to distribute the same.

Uncle Albert Beemon purchased W. L Kirkpatrick's farm, last week, and Mr. Kirkpatrick will build upon his beautiful property near Burlington, which will be more convenient for his business interests.

DEVON.

Mrs. Theodore Groger was the guest of Mrs Ben Surface, Monday.

Eugene Northcutt, of Woodlawn, Ohio, was the guest of friends here Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Pattie Callahan, of Verona, and Miss Hazel Vallandingham, of Walton, will be guests of Miss Jane Bristow, Saturday and Sunday.

Several from here attended the 20th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs Jos. Groger, Saturday evening A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present.

In a recent decision the Court of Appeals says that under the statute which requires the Fiscal Court of a county to make an annual appropriation to care for and light and heat the court house, clerks' offices, jail and other public buildings at the seat of justice, the appropriation should include the expense necessary to care for and to light and heat the halls and all the offices in the courthouse that have been set aside for and are used by the county officers in the discharge of their official duties.

Were Disappointed.

Quite a number of growers who have tobacco in the 1903 pool came into town last Saturday expecting to receive a partial payment on their crop, but the money was not ready for distribution and they were somewhat disappointed, but returned home very well satisfied when they were assured that it would be on hand in the next few days.

IS TROUBLE BREWING?

Lexington, Jan. 30—Chairman Bradley Wilson, of the Burley Tobacco Union's 1911 Cut-Out Campaign Committee, charges in a statement issued to-night that the buyers for the American Tobacco Company in the local market are "resorting to a desperate scheme to keep the Executive Board and other leaders of the Burley Tobacco Society from indorsing a cut-out of the 1911 crop." He says that prices paid for tobacco belonging to President Clarence LeBus and C. C Patrick, a member of the Executive Committee of the Burley Society here to-day convince him of this.

"For reasons best known to themselves," he says, "the buyers to-day paid 7 cents per pound for LeBus's tobacco, the usual price for tobacco of that grade for 12 1-2 cents a pound. The grades that usually bring 8 to 10 cents sold for 16 to 18 cents, with a general average, I am told, in the neighborhood of 13 cents. Tobacco that was last week put up on the loose leaf floors by Mr. Patrick, and for which he rejected 8 cents a pound, today brought 12 1-2 cents per pound."

Chairman Wilson asks the supporters of the cut-out movement to "make such a showing of strength that it will be up to the Executive Committee of the Burley Society in no unmistakable terms to indorse the cut-out at the conference that is to be held here February 6th."

A CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY CLERK.

In this issue appears the announcement of W. R Rogers, as a candidate for County Clerk. As all know he is now filling by appointment the vacancy occasioned in that office by the death of his brother, Jameson H. Rogers, who, at the time of his death had not held the office a year. Mr. Rogers and his friends feel that under all the circumstances he ought to be allowed to at least fill out his brother's term, a successor to whom will have to be elected at the regular election in November, 1911. Mr Rogers and his sister, Miss Lizzie, are giving the public a very satisfactory administration of the office, which, to take from them so soon, would be a hardship, as they have gone to the trouble to prepare themselves for the work and to render to the people a service of which there can be no complaint. As to the democracy of W. R Rogers there can be no question, in confirmation of which assertion it is only necessary to state that he is a son of W. M Rogers, of Walton, one of the county's oldest citizens and best men and Democrats.

To The Tobacco Growers.

Do not fail to hold your precinct election Saturday, Feb. 4th, to elect a delegate to go to Burlington, Monday, Feb. 6th, to elect delegates to go to Lexington upon call to decide upon the cut-out of the 1911 crop of tobacco. Meet and organize with a chairman and secretary, and keep up your organization whether the tobacco is cut out or not. We need to keep in touch with the situation as it exists, and we can not do this without an organization. The cut-out proposition is gaining in favor every day. Let Boone county come up solid with contracts signed. If all of the hill counties would sign up solid, and then refuse to put in our contracts until the Blue Grass counties show their hand, and that they mean business, then we would have the majority over the blue grass counties, when it would come to the controling of the 1912 crop. We hope by that time to pool up the farmers and limit the acreage to meet the demands. Now, all shoulders to the wheel. Victory is in sight if we are only faithful to our trust,

The Boone County Democratic Executive Committee is hereby called to meet at Burlington on Monday, February 20th, 1911, at 10 o'clock, a. m for the purpose of fixing the time and manner and to arrange details in nominating a Democrat State Senator and Representative from Boone County, and also a County Clerk to be voted on at the regular November election 1911. The Committee will also act on any other business that may come before them at this meeting. All members of the Committee are requested to be present.

AFRAID OF REVOLVING DOOR

Lucinda Encounters Nice [illegible]dy Waiting for Company In Her Passage.

"Did you know," said Lucinda, "that there are people who are afraid of revolving doors? No? Well, they are, old people mostly. I met one yesterday, a nice old lady.

"She was standing at the inner side of one of these doors in a store, and I thought she was waiting her turn to step into one of the compartments as the door revolved, and so I stood there for a moment waiting for her to step in; but she let three or four leaves and chances go by, and apparently she wasn't going to step in, so finally I brushed by her as gently as I could and stepped in myself, and then as I stepped forward with the door I felt somebody in the same compartment with me and I was sure it must be the old lady I had seen by the door when I came up, and then I knew it was she and that she had been standing there waiting for a chance to step in behind and with somebody else, and the next moment she was saying to me:

"You don't mind my coming in with you, do you?' and of course I said 'Certainly not!' and then I stepped along carefully and deliberately so as not to hurry her, and I held on to the bar in front so that nobody else in the door could hurry it and so hurry her, and then a moment later we both came out free and all right, clear of the door on the sidewalk in front. And the old lady said to me:

"'I am very much obliged to you. I am always afraid of those revolving doors,' and then she smiled on me and went away.

"That was a real experience, but I have known other people," said Lucinda, "who were afraid of the revolving doors."

"DAS RANOSCEROUS" TOO BIG

Swedish Steerage Passenger Could Not Produce Evidence for Immigration Inspector.

Every alien who comes to New York in the steerage is transferred from the steamship to Ellis Island soon after the liner docks. There are some aliens, however, known as the "bird men," who are not sent to the immigration station on arrival.

They are not aviators, but attendants who care for the big consignments of canaries that are shipped by the thousands to this country from Germany.

Inspector McGregor, one of the boarding inspectors of the immigration service, was sitting in the saloon of the steamship Pennsylvania recently checking up the aliens of the second cabin.

"You say you are not to go to Ellis Island?" he asked of a man who stood before him.

"No, I am not," replied the man; "I am a bird man."

"How do I know you are a bird man?" asked McGregor. "Go below and bring me up a bird so I will have some proof."

The man went below and returned in a few minutes with a fine Belgian canary.

"All right," said McGregor, "you may stay aboard with your birds."

At this remark a husky Swede began to fidget nervously.

"Well, are you a bird man, too?" asked McGregor.

"No," replied the Swede. "I bane come over on das ship to tak care of wan ranoscerous, but, by golly, he's too dam big to bring up here in das cabin."

His Kind of Comfort.

John R. K. Scott, the lawyer, who is an ardent automobilist, tells a story of a man he met while on a trip about thirty miles outside of Philadelphia.

While driving out a little-frequented road the lawyer says he came upon a car that evidently was brand new, and which at the same time, was evidently out of commission. Seated on the step was the driver, properly gotten up in the style considered most correct by the auto fashion magazines. The new auto, the ultra rig and the man's evident helplessness all proclaimed the beginner.

Scott brought his machine to a stop beside the idle car, and noticed that its driver held in his hand a sheet of printed paper which he had been reading.

"Are you reading what to do next?" inquired the lawyer, pleasantly.

"No," replied the stranger. "I'm taking comfort."

"Taking comfort?" repeated Scott, puzzled.

"Yes," said the other. "You see, this is my chauffeur's license, and it certifies that I am competent to drive a machine. I just thought if I would read it I would feel better."

Exit the Plow Horse.

Within ten years approximately 8,000,000 acres of farm land in the United States and western Canada have been taken away from the horse and turned over to the steam and fuel engine to be plowed.

The farmers of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and other parts of the corn belt are beginning to follow the example set by the owners of larger farms in the newer prairie sections. The improvements made within the last few years in the smaller traction engines using gasoline or oil have also solved many of the problems presented in the "boiler" district of soft soils and small farms which the old and larger steam traction engines could not meet.—National Magazine.

FIRST OF ENCYCLOPEDIAS

It Was Published in Queen Anne's Reign and John Harris Was Its "Onlie Begetter."

Encyclopedias are an English invention. I hasten to add that they owe a great deal of their early and later development to Scottish brains. The earliest true encyclopedia was published in the second year of Queen Anne. John Harris, the "onlie begetter" of this remarkable work, was born in the year of the great fire of London, and Shropshire piously claims that he was a Shropshire lad. He passed through Oxford to the vicarage of, Ickleham, Sussex, to which he added the care of Winchelsea parish. London preferments followed, and a Fellowship of the Royal Society, and a good deal of London religious controversy. For the rest, we know that Harris lived in a house in Amen Corner, and that he there received and boarded pupils. We know also that he gave free lectures in mathematics at the Marine Coffee House in Birchin Lane. The Marine Coffee House has not been much noticed by London topographers, Mr. H. B. Wheatley has unearthed a curious advertisement proclaiming that [illegible] to be had there every morning from six to eleven o'clock. The announcement proceeds: "Tis not yet generally known; but there comes such company as drinks usually four or five gallons in a morning."—John o' London in T. P.'s Weekly, London.

NATURE'S WONDERFUL COLOR

Their Shades and Tints Never Yet Have Been Duplicated by the Manufacturers of Paints.

Nature paints in the most striking colors and shades and tints with a delicacy never achieved by the brush in the hands of the artist. The highest ambition of the manufacturer of paints is to produce colors which look like nature's. They have never succeeded. Grass has a green of its own. So has the leaf and so has the distant ocean. None of these has ever been reproduced and put in cans with a price label on them.

Honor awaits the man who can combine colors to produce the tints of red of the Baldwin and Northern Spy. They come pretty near it, that is all. The same is true of the colors with which October first touches the maple leaf.

If all the paint grinding works in the world were multiplied 10,000 times they couldn't turn out pigment enough in a year to do what nature does in a change from season to season.

Nature's brush is busy everywhere all the time. In the life of a leaf it applies the brush day by day, following with its tints from budding time until it flutters from the branch. It touches the valleys and the hills, the growing grains, the flowering plants. Never is it idle.

Interminable Job.

The new pastor was a stickler for ceremonial observances. He could read his share of the responses with one eye and watch the congregation with the other. Each member was expected to take part in the reading, and the person who shirked that responsibility was detected sooner or later and brought to account. On the first three Sundays of his new pastorate he noticed a man in a front pew who sat silent throughout the service. The third Sunday evening, although in a hurry to reach the bedside of a sick parishioner, he took time to let the delinquent know he had been found out.

"I am sorry to see," the pastor said, "that you have never read the responses."

"F-f-f I had d-d-d-done th-th-that," said the silent man; "ab-b-bout what t-t-time d-d-ddo you sup-p-pose you'd have g-g-got through p-p-preaching?"

The Harshness of Napoleon.

In the service and in the intercourse with his officers he was cold, almost repellant, severe and inflexibly just. One day Gen. Guvion Saint-Cyr, afterwards marshal, appeared at the emperor's morning audience at the Tuileries. Napoleon said quietly to him: "You come from Naples, general?" "Yes, sire, I relinquished my command to Marshal Perignon, whom your majesty sent to relieve me." "And no doubt you have leave of absence from the minister of war?" "No, your majesty; but I had nothing else to do in Naples." "Unless you are on your way to Naples within two hours, you will be shot on the plain of Grenelle at 12 o'clock precisely," said the emperor, returning his watch to his pocket.—Kielland, "Napoleon's Men and Methods."

Sentimental Juries.

Maitre Henri Robert, the most famous advocate in criminal cases at the Paris bar, told an audience almost entirely composed of ladies that before any jury a woman with some youth, some looks and a pretty voice has 50 chances out of 100 of being acquitted, whereas a man would only have one. If she knows how to shed tears at the right moment she need not worry—a verdict of not guilty is a dead certainty.

Licenses To Fish.

A bill providing for the licensing of fishermen at the rate of a dollar apiece designed to raise revenue for restocking the creeks of the state with fish, was simultaneously introduced in the house and senate Thursday by Representative Buennagel and Senator Hauck.

The license also entitles a man to hunt being in this respect a combination fishing and hunting license. The state licenses hunters now but this is the first effort to license fishermen.

The bill provides that the father of a family is not required to take out but one license for himself and family, provided he has no boy over eighteen years of age, in which case the boy or boys must have separate licenses.

At present the hunting license fees go to pay the expense of the fish and game commissioner's office. The new bill will provide an additional revenue which the fish and game commissioner is permitted to spend at his discretion for the perpetuation of hunting and fishing privileges.—Lawrenceburg Press.

Want Quarantine Raised.

At a meeting of the State Live stock Sanitary Board, held at Lexington, Commissioner Rankin ruled in the case of Inspector Goddard, of Mercer county, that the county inspector, as the interpreter of the law, be the authority to declare a quarantine on all sheep in the county and to notify owners and dealers not to move until properly inspected all sheep presumed to be infected with scabies until inspected and certificate issued. This interpretation of the law will be put up to Atty-General Breathitt at once for an opinion.

A strong effort will be made to eliminate disease by May 1, so that application can be made to Federal authorities to lift Federal quarantine on sheep in Kentucky which became effective last September.

Commissioner Rankin also advised that where county inspectors were not allowed sufficient salary by county Fiscal Courts they proceed with the work of inspection, and if necessary bring suit for reasonable compensation.

The Best Hour of Life

is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N C. when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had. I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful Cold and Cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Its the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hay Fever any Throat or Lung Trouble. 50c $1.00 Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Household Pointers.

Hang up a pincushion in the kitchen.

One keep-clean is worth a dozen make-cleans.

Apply a drop of oil to the door hinges to keep them from creaking.

A cork soaked in oil makes a good substitute for a glass stopper.

Try a little baking soda and hot water when cleaning kitchen utensils.

Rub ivory knife handles that have become yellow with age or with No. 00 sand paper or fine emery.

Green blinds that have become faded may be renewed by rubbing them with a rag saturated with linseed oil.

The most effectual remedy for slimy and greasy drain pipes is copperas dissolved and left to gradually work thru the pipes.

Refrigerators should be thoroughly cleaned once a week, everything removed, shelves and racks washed in warm soda water, wiped dry, then sunned if possible.

Kitchen tables may be made "white as snow" if washed with soap and wood ashes. Floors look best scrubbed with cold water, soap, and wood ashes.

The mica windows of coal stoves can easily be cleaned with a soft cloth dipped in vinegar and water. This should be done when putting the stove up.

Knives should never be dipped in hot water, as it loosens the handles. The blades may be placed upright in the water in a mug, by which plan the handles will be kept dry.

To sweeten a musty cask throw in burning coals, and then cold water. The brewers wash their casks with lime and water, mixed nearly to the consistency of paint; this remains until nearly dry, when it is washed well with water.

Preserve the wings of turkeys, geese, and chickens. They answer for dusting the stove or range, or to clean the furniture, and are the best things possible for washing and cleaning windows, leaving no lint, as cloth does.

Steel knives that are not in general use may be kept from rusting if they are dipped in a strong solution of soda one part water to four parts soda. Then wipe dry, roll in flannel, and keep in a dry place.

Add to the covered brick used as a door stop a strip of the covering sewed strongly to the sides and raised just enough to admit the foot, then lift it by the toes and save stooping.

To clean a porcelain kettle, fill it half full with hot water and put in a tablespoonful of powdered borax; let it boil. If this does not remove all the stains scour with a cloth rubbed with soap and borax.

To purify the air of the cellar and destroy parasitical growth place some roll brimstone in a pan, set fire to it, close the doors and windows as tightly as possible for two or three hours; repeat every three months.

KENTUCKY POLITICS.

How would it do for our candidates for Governor to discuss the things which pertain to the future greatness of Kentucky instead of their own past records? Elizabethtown News.

The other gubernatorial candidates seem to have retired from the field, leaving the race to McCreary and Johnson. After the 27th of May the latter will also be on the retired list.—Falmouth Pendletonian.

We hear many people denouncing newspapers for publishing sensational news, such as the reports of salacious divorce trials, and other court proceedings like the recent Schrenck case. But we notice these same people generally want these papers containing the most concerning such. If the people desire a reformation of the press they must first reform their own tastes.—Blue-Grass Clipper.

We would like very much to be informed why Congressmen Ben Johnson insists upon a joint debate with Senator McCreary. He is a comparative stranger and could not profit by the abuse that would be, by force of habit, heaped upon him while McCreary's record of fifty years stands as a bulwark of honesty and to assail him means loss of prestige to his assailant.

The Chronical has talked to many farmers in the vicinity of Augusta, as well as several from other points in the county, and as far as we have been able to learn the sentiment seems to be almost unanimous against cutting out this year's crop. Our people feel like it would be useless for the farmers of Bracken to aluminate the tobacco crop and let other counties raise the weed, as well as having the territory vastly increased by a cut-out.—Bracken Chronicle.

IN KENTUCKY.

At the sale of the effects of the late Barton Coyle; just over the line in Fayette county, one of the features was the disposition of a pack of fox hounds which brought an average of $15 each.—Georgetown News

An example of what progressive farming means was shown by Mr. Boyd Browder, of R. F. D. No. 1, brought a coop of fine black Orpington cockerels to Fulton and sold them in a short time at $1.25 apiece, and sold two more at home.—Fulton Leader

A new high record price was set in the mule market in Hardin county Saturday afternoon when Rod Warfield purchased two carloads of mules from Bond Bros., at an average price of $260 per head. There were a few over sixty head in the lot, making the bunch bring $16,000 or thereabouts.—Elizabethtown News

"Uncle George Hise, the old colored man of Sugar Grove, who is 110 years of age, raised a crop of tobacco this year and sold it at Bowling Green and came all the way to Morgantown to pay an account due Mr. J S. Gillum. "Uncle George" is thoroughly honest, and is in fine health for a man of his age.—Morgantown Republican.

We have several times spoken of the fact that it will pay some enterprising young farmer to make a business of raising improved seed corn. To illustrate our position we notice that McKee Bros., of Versailles, refused $50 for the bushel of seed corn that won the sweepstake prize at the Lexington corn show recently.—Winchester Democrat

J. T Beck, of the Gatesville community, dropped into the Leader office Wednesday and told us the remarkable record of one litter of twelve pigs. These pigs, of the Poland China stock, before they were nine months old, were sold by Mr. Beck for an aggregate sum of $207. The largest weighed 230 pounds, net; the smallest weighed 225 pounds, gross.—Princeton Leader.

The Fayette county grand jury has advertised in the Lexington papers inviting anybody who wants to report any violation of law to appear before them. The notice not only asks that violations be brought to their notice, but states that it is the duty of every citizen to help them in this way to return indictments. One grand jury meets next Monday and if they will resort to the same measure in prohibiting violations of law here the Herald will insert the advertisement free of charge.—Harrodsburg—Herald.

Freak of Figures.

A curious freak of figures in series, in the date lines, as ordinarily written on business letters, is afforded by this year, as four different times only the figure one will be used.

New Year's day was 1-1-11, and in January we have 1-11-11, while November comes in for two more similar dates, as 11-1-11 and 11-11-11.

There will be no more single figured dates until 1922 when there will be two instances, 2-2-22 and 2-22-22. Then at intervals of exactly 11 years, 1 month and one day, another serial, the digits up to 9 will each have one date line, and the same combination will be repeated, in the same order every century.

Lent comes late this year, Ash Wednesday, its beginning, being March 1st. This brings Easter on April 16th.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Bertha Underhill, &c., Plffs.

Commissioner's Sale.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

W. A. Gaines, plaintiff, vs Equity
H. P. Marshall defendant.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the Dec. term, thereof 1910, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the court-house door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder at public auction, on Monday the 6th day of February, 1911, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout, being county court day, upon a credit of six and twelve months, the following described property, to-wit:

Two tracts of land in Boone County, Ky. First tract bounded thus:—Beginning at a Sugar tree, a corner of James Ryle, sr., in a line of the heirs of Elizabeth Garnett; thence with their line n 16 w 61 poles to a stone at the side of the Burlington road; thence n 62¼ w 49 poles to a stone; thence n 20¼ e 47½ poles to a stone on the north side of a branch; thence down the general direction of said branch n 67 w 49 poles to ja stone in a line of Fielding Utz; thence with said line n 6 e 74 poles to a Beech tree near a branch in the lines of Michael Clore and Jonas Clore's purchase; thence s 82½ e 138 p. to a large Beech in John Marshall's line; thence with said line, passing his corner, and continuing with a line of James Ryle, sr., s 7 w 157 poles to the beginning, containing 113 acres, and being the land assigned to Mrs. Joanna Clore as dower in the lands of Gideon Clore, deceased, in a division among his heirs at law.

The second tract is bounded thus:—Beginning at a Hickory and Sugar tree in William Presser's line, and corner of James Willis; thence with a line of said Willis, s 2½ w 17½ poles to a stone in said line, a corner of lot No. 6; thence with a line of same s 75½ e 230 thees to a stone on the southeast side of the Burlington road, thence n 36 e 15½ poles to two Sugar trees in a line of Stephens' 2000 acre survey; thence n 57 e 7½ poles to a stone, corner of the dower lot; thence with a line thereof n 62½ w 49 poles to a stone; thence n 20½ e 47½ poles to a stone on the north side of a branch; thence down the branch following its general direction n 67 w 49 poles to a stoue in a line of Fellding Utz; thence with said line s 8 w 66½ p. to two Sugar trees, corner of said Utz; thence with another of his lines, passing his corner, and continuing with a line of William Presser n 75½ w 160 p. to the beginning, containing 42 acres, and being lot No. 7 in said division.

There is excepted out of the above described land 2.11 acres sold by said Harvey P. Marshall, after the execution of said mortgage, to Mrs. Elizabeth Aylor, Eugenia Clore and her husband, John S. Clore, by deed of date September 4th, 1909, recorded in Deed Book No. 44, at page 188 89, Boone County Records, to which reference is made for particular description of said land.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and have the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be made by sale, $2 411.83

Southern hens got industrious about the middle of last month and furnished such a lavish supply of eggs on short notice as to produce a collapse in the egg market, entailing a heavy loss on many who had a large stock on hands.

Rising Sun is a dry town, but they see things over there all the same. The Local says: "A lone robin was seen in Grasshopper ward last Saturday, and on Thursday morning of this week a snake was killed on First street by George Harris. These are harbingers of spring.

Governor Wilson has formerly decided that Henry Youtsey killed Goebel. All the rest of the accused have been pardoned by him owing to his formal decision that they had nothing to do with the killing of Goebel. And to think that Kentucky went thru the farce of trying to get at the facts by law and evidence, courts and juries!—Louisville Times.

The Court of Appeals reversed the judgment of the Boone Circuit Court in the case of McWethy against McCright. The court says: "A child cannot question or ask for an accounting of bonds or money given her mother by her father before she died, unless the will be attacked and broken. The opinion says this is not a similar case to those where a creditor of the deceased asks for an accounting.

Owenton Ky.—What is probably the matrimonial record of Kentucky is held by Mrs. Benedict Reynolds, who becomes a bride for the seventh time when she, then Mrs. Cassie Kelley, was united in marriage to Benedict Reynolds here last week. The muchly married bride is 64 years old, while the [illegible] former wife died only last November. Of Mrs Reynolds' six former husbands three died and from three she was divorced. One of her husbands was her stepson.

F. J Waldo, the venerable editor of the Rising Sun Recorder, reached the eightieth milestone on his journey through life Wednesday, Jan. 25 Mr. Waldo received a "postal card shower" from his numerous friends, all extending good wishes. He spent the day working at his desk in the office and with his good wife at their home on High street. Mr Waldo is probably the oldest newspaperman in Indiana and it is the wish of his many friends that it will be a long time before he is compelled to lay aside the pen and pencil.—Rising Sun Local.

Louis Bennor, Addyston business man, attracted by noises in his hen house, ran out with a shot gun and when he saw a man escaping toward the river, he fired several times after the fugitive. He then notified Marshal Hess, who with the aid of a lantern, tracked the man for some distance by his footprints. The trail was lost at the Big Four railroads tracks. It is thought that the man escaped across the river into Kentucky. Blood spots on the snow that lay along the man's path of escape lead to the belief that he was badly wounded.

The decision of the Supreme Court regarding the pooled tobacco of 1907 is of vital interest to tobacco growers. The court has ruled that the Burley Tobacco society is entitled to 20 per cent of the price of all pooled tobacco shipped out and sold. That is, if a man pledged his tobacco to the pool and then sold it on the market, he contracted to the Society still held and can claim 20 per cent of the price the tobacco brought. As this decision of the highest court the Burley Society is going to bring suit against all [illegible] growers.—Herro Joburg Her-who is a candidate for the Legislature, was born on a farm between Walton and Beaver, this county, 45 years ago. When not attending to his duties on the farm he attended a county school where he received his education. For several years he was engaged as clerk in a general country store at Beaver from which place he moved to Walton, his present home. Mr Carroll is a brother of Mrs. B B. Hume, has been a member of the Baptist church for many years, and has taken a great interest on the part of the farmers in their fight against the tobacco trust. He is a clear, quick thinker, comprehending readily a proposition in all its details, a great advantage to the man who is a member of the Legislature. His morals are of the best and his democracy of the purest type. If nominated and elected he will make the county a good representative.

Local Happenings.

There have been numerous thunder storms this winter.

J. L Riley, of Ludlow, was transacting business in Burlington, Monday.

Bert Sullivan, overseer of roads in this district, dragged about all his roads, last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs John Botts and son Carl, of Petersburg, were Saturday night and Sunday guests at Dudley Blyth's.

Mrs. Laura Clore and her brother, Jesse Kelly, of Waterloo, have been the guests of their brothers James and E. E Kelly, of Burlington, the past few days.

S. C Buchanan, for many years engaged in the drug business in Petersburg, has moved to Morris, Indiana, to which place he has ordered his Recorder sent.

Rev. Robert Carter, of Petersburg, was a caller at this office Tuesday, and arranged to add to his happiness by having the Recorder make him a visit every week.

E. Mannin, of Hebron, was among the Recorder's Monday callers. He said it took him three hours to make the trip over, a distance of a little over four miles.

Benjamin Roberts, from down on Mudlick, was a caller at this office, last Saturday. His daughter took the examination, last Friday and Saturday, for common school graduation.

Mrs. Dudley Rouse has presented the Boone County High School with a handsome nation flag, the result of her own handiwork. It will be floating over the new building in the next few days during school hours.

Adam Dolwick, of Pt. Pleasant neighborhood, was a caller at this office, last Saturday afternoon. His daughter was one of the class that took the examination, last Friday and Saturday, for common school graduation.

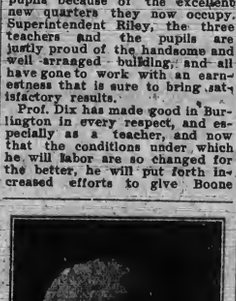
BOONE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

Now Occupies Its New And Commodious Building At Burlington,

Of Which It Took Possession Last Monday.

PUPILS PRESENT THE FIRST DAY.



The Boone County High School building at Burlington was occupied for the first time last Monday, the High School taking possession of the two large rooms on the second floor which can be thrown into one room when it is necessary, and the Burlington common school occupying the west room on the lower floor.

EDGAR C. RILEY.

In taking possession of the handsome and commodious building there was no display made by the teachers and their pupils, the only variation from the heretofore daily rotine being a well timed address delivered by County Superintendent Edgar C. Riley on Higher Education, followed by Professor Dix in a talk in which he set forth what would be required of the pupils because of the excellent new quarters they now occupy. Superintendent Riley, the three teachers and the pupils are justly proud of the handsome and well arranged building, and all have gone to work with an earnestness that is sure to bring satisfactory results.

Prof. Dix has made good in Burlington in every respect, and especially as a teacher, and now that the conditions under which he will labor are so changed for the better, he will put forth increased efforts to give Boone county a High School that will be second to none in the State, and one of which the county will be proud.

It must be kept in mind that Burlington does not lay claim to the school as a local institution but recognises that it belongs to the entire county, which should act in harmony in sustaining it.

The pupil who graduates from the Boone County High School will be qualified, so far as an education is concerned, to enter any of the business walks except such as require an especial training. Consequently when a parent intends to have his or her child pursue a course of learning it cannot receive in the common school, the Boone County High School should receive consideration.

Following is the roll of High School pupils taught by Prof. Dix, ably assisted by his wife, and who were in attendance last Monday:
Reuben Hager.
Wilbur Rice.
Ray Popham.
Harold Crigler.

PUBLICLY ADVOCATED

A Non-Partisan Tariff Commission Fourteen Years Ago

Did Col. G. C. Graddy, of Petersburg.

Petersburg, Ky.,
Jan. 25, 1911

Editor of the Recorder:

Fourteen years ago today, I had the inclosed article published in the Commercial Tribune, in which I advocated a permanent Tariff Commission. Before delivering the manuscript to the editor, I asked Gov. J. B. Foraker to examine it and advise me as to publishing it. He read it carefully and said he indorsed it fully, but I was ten years ahead of the times. He said in ten years the minds of of our statesmen would become interested in your views and eventually our government would establish a permanent Tariff Commission. I asked him if he advised me to have it published. He said by all means do so.

With all due modesty I claim that the inclosed true copy of the original was the first public advocacy of a Tariff Commission. I claim further that the idea was not borrowed. It is the most permanent question engaging the minds of the American people today. I believe that the commission will be permanently established by the present Congress. We shall have in this permanent Tariff Commision a new and vital principle in American fiscal legislation, and I believe that the party which opposes its creation will lose more than it will gain. Without the commission the Democrats will be no better qualified to frame a tariff bill that will be just and equitable to all, than were the Republicans, and may meet disaster in the same way.

The tariff should be taken out of politics, and the best way to accomplish it is to provide for a board which will give Congress an intelligent basis for action.

Bullittsville, Ky.,
Jan. 25, 1897

To the Editor of the Commercial Tribune:

One month ago today I had published in your paper a communication in which I advocated a non-partisan Tariff Commission to draft a new and permanent Tariff Commission, not wishing to occupy too much space in your paper, I simply stated the proposition, hoping that some leading patriot would second the proposition and discuss it more elaborately. I wish in this communication to state briefly why I advocate this plan of enacting a new tariff law. The tariff has been an issue between the two great national parties since the foundation of our government. The period in our history has been reached when it should be taken out of politics and firmly established by nonpartisan legislation. Our business interests have become so great that we can not afford to have them disturbed several months prior to each presidential election on account of the uncertainty of the tariff policy of the party that may gain control of the government.

There is really no issue between the Republican and Democratic parties today on the tariff. Both parties favor a tariff that will produce sufficient revenue to meet the current expenses of the government, and all patriotic citizens of either party desire to see the tax so imposed that it will enable the industries of this country to pay a liberal reward for labor, and at the same time compete on equal terms with importations from foreign countries.

Let the law makers in the two branches of congress eliminate this question from politics and pass a nonpartisan tariff law that will establish the business interest of this great government on a firm basis—one that will not be disturbed every four years on account of the presidential election.

I can conceive no better way of accomplishing this than to appoint a non-partisan tariff commission, and let them put their patriotic heads together and draft a new tariff law that will be acceptable to patriots of all parties. Then woe to the political party that attempts to drag the issue into politics.

I fear the average congressman is incapable of settling this great question. It takes men who have made it a lifes study to know just how to distribute the tariff to make it just and equitable to all, at the same time to raise a sufficient revenue to meet the current expenses of the government.

There should be but two motives governing the actions of this commission one to raise sufficient revenue to meet the expenses of the government, the other to so distribute the tax imposed that American industries can pay a liberal reward for labor and at the same time compete with foreign importations of like industries.

EDUCATORS

To Meet in Louisville, March 29 in The Interest of Better Educational Facilities.

March 29 was fixed for the date of the conference of Kentucky educators, to be held in Louisville in the interest of the movement for educational reform in this State by the Rural School Development Committee of the Louisville Commercial Club. On that date it is expected that State and county officials from every part of Kentucky will assemble in Louisville to perfect plans for an active campaign in behalf of the modern and up-to-date school system throughout the State.

At the meeting in Louisville it is said that many committees will be appointed and assigned to exploit the movement for better schools in various districts thruout Kentucky. This, it is said, is considered one of the most important steps, because if reliable and sincere workers workers are not chosen, the success of the plans will be problematical. However, those who are leading the movement for improved educational facilities here, declare that they are sure of their ground, and last week expressed the utmost confidence in those who have thus far enlisted for the cause.

A law by which every county in the State may issue bonds not to exceed $50,000 to establish the consolidated school system, will likely be worked on at the conference in Louisville and at the next session of the General Assembly presented for passage.

State Press Clippings.

That the iniquitous tax system should be abolished and a just and equitable system established in its place goes without saying.—Owensboro Inquirer

The people of Kentucky are taxed to "death," not in high taxes, but by the way in which assessments are made which make it hard for the taxes to be paid. The resources are continually getting weaker and will continue to do so until a new system of assessment is adopted.—Jackson News.

We once knew two farmers. They lived on adjacent land of equal value. One worked hard and kept his buildings in repair and improved his land. The other was lazy; he was also a good customer of the saloon in town. His buildings went to rack and his land washed in gulleys. The first farmer had to pay taxes on $15 an acre more than the second. An extra tax on his own labor. We are all ready to say this is not right, but where is the remedy? There is none under our present system of assessment and taxation.—Winchester News.

J. T Boyer in New Castle Local: I give here an illustration of our iniquitous system I have allowed on purpose, this instance to come squarely before the people of Henry county, being willing to pay the penalty for it as a part of my contribution toward securing a better system of taxation. In the Local of December 9th, my farm at Pendleton was advertised to be sold in January for the taxes of 1910, amount of $67.80 Let me compare this to a former bill on same property. Three years ago, for instance, the bill was $18 and a few cents. Last year I bought the property for $4,000 cash, $200 less than it was sold for 17 years previous, when land was at its lowest value. The tax law fixes the assessment at 80 per cent. of the sale price when cash is paid, a little less when part is credit. The law further allows the State Board of Equalization to add a libitum, a per cent. of increase in assessment, which was done in this instance. If the taxes are not paid by December 1st a 6 per cent. penalty may be added, which has been done, and the property advertised at once and a chance added for the ad. which has been done The 6 per cent. penalty is good interest in Kentucky for a full year. The State, then, under the present iniquitous system, charges at the rate of 72 per cent. a year The increase of taxes in the instance here given is over 375 per cent. of the amount of three years ago.

Here is the story of how Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, who has got a half Nelson on the speakership of the next house got his name. He tells the story himself:

"My parents named me James Beauchamp Clark," he said. "They didn't christian me because they were Campbellites and didn't believe in it. I hand not been noticing things very long before I discovered that there was a J. B. Clark at nearly every postoffice in the United States. One day I went down into Kentucky to a place where as usual, there was a J. B Clark. Nearly all my mail went to him. He opened my letters and sent them back to the writers. I then and there decided to change my name.

"The first thing I did was to drop off the 'James.' I thought it would be a nice thing to be called Beauchamp Clark; but the first thing I knew they were calling me Beechamp and every other kind of a 'champ' Nobody could pronounce it right. I never was certain that I could either, so I just dropped off the first part and kept the "Champ."

Anyway, whenever the Democratic mule flaps its ears now, the country sits up and takes notice.—Washington Herald

LARGE OCEAN SHIP

Immense Vessel Has Five Decks Above Main Deck.

She Will Have Features That Have Never Before Been Introduced, Including Most Powerful Marconi Apparatus.

Stettin, Germany.—With five decks above her main deck and a series of balconies stretching across the front of her superstructure like the pillared facade of a temple, the world's largest ship, the Europa, the keel of which has been laid here, draws all eyes of those who gaze seaward in anticipation.

Scarcely had the world become accustomed to the Mauretania as the synonym for the largest and the latest in marine architecture than the Olympic and Titanic were laid down. No sooner was the Olympic shoved into deep water than the owners of the Mauretania published the plans of even a longer ship.

In black and white the comparison shows as follows:

Vessel.	Length.	Tonnage.
Mauretania	790 feet	32,500
Olympic	860 feet	48,000
Europa	900 feet	50,000

The floating island of steel will have a displacement of 70,000 tons. To express the equivalent idea in other terms, the new liner will be fashioned of materials weighing 140,000,000 pounds. It would require the entire population of Philadelphia, about 1,400,000 persons, each carrying 100 pounds, to handle this material. The steel and wood and brass and woven fabric would fill a train of freight cars forty-four miles in length, stretching across the Isthmus of Panama by way of the canal. The combined capacity of the largest three hotels in New York is 3,285 guests, while the Europa will carry 4,250 passengers.

She will have nine decks above the water line, equal to the height of the largest apartment houses. Her capacity will exceed 5,000, reckoning in the crew.

The builders have ordered from the forests of Oregon 2,000,000 feet of fir for her decks alone. This lumber has been "kilnning" near Portland. Only clear, vertically grained wood has been accepted.

With so much space available features are possible that have never before been introduced. There will be a choice of dining rooms, a Ritz-Carlton restaurant, grill, tea room, tea garden, rathskeller, palm gardens, convertible in winter into sun parlors; women's salons in different decorative periods and national styles, "universal" telephones, the biggest gymnasium yet, running track of tank bark, trainer rubbers, squash court, swimming pool, Turkish and Roman baths, submarine signals and powerful air pumps to waft below currents of the purest air and afford equable temperature throughout.

The most powerful Marconi apparatus ever set up at sea will be installed, the unusual height of her masts making it possible to receive or transmit messages across the broad expanse of the Atlantic ocean. The Europa will always be in direct communication with either the ... continent or America.

The biggest ship of the seven seas will be here in 1912.

SEEKS FLYING SCIENCE LAWS

French Savant Aims to Put Aviation on Dependable Basis—Acrobatic Feat Now.

Paris.—M. G. Eiffel, the well-known engineer, is at present engaged in studying what he calls the scientific laws of aviation. Until now flying machines have been built and worked in the dark, as it were, without any definite mathematical knowledge of the laws of the air. He believes that, by careful scientific experiments, certain laws may be worked out which will no longer leave the act of flying, as it is accomplished at present, a mere acrobatic feat.

The laws of the resistance of the air in given circumstances and at given angles on a certain surface ought, according to him, to be scientifically known, so that a machine of certain dimensions, and with a certain amount of essence and motor power, ought to be able to accomplish a certain flight which could be calculated in advance, and which would no longer depend merely on the ability of the pilot. Aeroplanes thus constructed ought to be able to fly in all winds and weather conditions, except in a hurricane, and a number of instruments should be added to guide working with mathematical precision. M. Eiffel has already submitted a preliminary study, which will be examined by the Academy of Science.

Iowa Sets Corn Record.

Des Moines, Ia.—The final report of the Iowa weather and crop service for the year 1910, issued by George M. Chappell, shows a decided gain over the previous year's report.

The average corn yield was 39.7 bushels per acre, and the total output for the state was 354,506,500 bushels. This is the largest yield, with one exception, ever credited in the state.

The average yield of oats was 38.9 bushels per acre. Total crop, 166,328,970 bushels. This shows a net increase over 1909 of 11.9 bushels per acre.

SNEEZER IS BARRED OUT

No Place for Him in Good Orchestra, No Matter How Good Performer He Is.

Even high-class musicians are not above indulgence in practical jokes, according to a story told in Live Topics About Town of the New York Sun. But played too oft they may become a matter of serious import to the player, using the term in its broadest meaning. Nobody can dispute the sincerity of the players in a big orchestra like the Philharmonic or the New York Symphony. Most of the time they take their work seriously, but sometimes the men break loose and play tricks on one another, as though they were youngsters in school. Of course, the audience knows nothing of these things; they're usually perpetrated in rehearsals. The red-pepper trick is the commonest. The joker scatters it where the bassoon and trombone players are likely to suck it up. The result is chokes and sneezes. Sometimes the epidemic reaches even into the strings, but of course the players on the wind instruments get it worst. As a matter of fact, the jokers are playing with fire. "A confirmed sneezer can't get a job in a good orchestra, no matter how good a performer he may be," said a consistent concert-goer. "Think of the effect of a rousing sneeze on a pianissimo! Why, it would spoil a whole concert, one sneeze would. A conductor has to guard against a sneeze as he does against inebriety."

MAKE FAST TIME ON SKATES

French Engineer's Invention Permits of Speed of Over Thirty Miles an Hour.

A new form of roller skate, the invention of M. Louis Marchand, a young French engineer, will shortly be seen on this side, a large quantity of them having been imported for the present season.

These skates, which resemble nothing more than miniature bicycles, weigh 25 pounds each, and work automatically. They have thick pneumatic tires and the wheels, of which there are two on each skate, are 12 inches in diameter.

Thirty miles an hour can easily be made by an unexperienced skater with these skates. The skate is clamped to the shoe, and when the foot is raised a spring is automatically wound up around a specially constructed gear attached to the rear wheel. When the foot is put to the ground the pressure releases the spring, unwinds the gear, and revolves the rear wheel at a great rate. Nearly 900 revolutions a minute are thus produced.

What He Had to Say.

Every once in a while a new campaign story yet bobs up in Washington. This one is on Ralph Cole, Ohio member of congress, who did his best to make his district go Republican, but who cannot point to any particular howling success in that regard. At one town in his district he was to divide his time with a local spellbinder. The local man spoke first, and was to have kept going for half an hour, but he made it an hour and a half. When he got through he made an apology for encroaching on Cole's time.

"It reminds me," Cole said, as he faced his audience, "of what I once heard in a Cincinnati court. The defendant had been found guilty of a criminal charge. The judge sentenced him to 15 years. 'Have you anything to say?' demanded the court of the prisoner. 'Nothing but this,' was the reply. 'I think you're mighty damned liberal with another man's time.'"

Then Cole turned loose and coaxed back the departing audience by the flow of his wonderful oratory.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

"Snapping" the Caribou.

In this country when you see a tree, you know perfectly well it isn't a tree; it's the horns of a caribou lying down. An unusually large affair of branches appeared on an island in the channel to Aylmer. I landed, camera in hand; there was a tuft of herbage 30 yards from him; another 20 yards. I crawled to the first and made a snapshot; then, flat as a rug, sneaked my way to the one I estimated at 20 yards. The click of the camera alarmed the buck; he rose, tried the wind, then lay down again, giving me another glance. Having used all the films, I now stood up. The caribou dashed away, and by a slight limp showed that he was in sanctuary. The 20-yard estimate proved too long; it was only 16 yards, which put my picture a little out of focus.—Ernest Thompson Seton in Scribner's.

New Style in Names.

Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke urges patriotic Americans to name their children after the states and the nation. He commends, in this respect, the South Americans, who use Columbia, America and many attractive Latin derivatives of famous names connected with the history of the western world. The president of Ecuador has three daughters, and they are called America; Quito, the feminine of the capital city of Ecuador, and Castilla, after the ancient race from which the Latins are proud to derive their origin. Years ago Alabama, Mississippi, Missouri, Indiana and other euphonious names were popular for girls. Now such a name seldom is heard. A decline of patriotism and state pride, thinks Doctor van Dyke.

BUCK SNOW IN WEST

Plow Used in Huge Machine Made of Steel.

Despite Its Enormous Power Rotary Sometimes Gets Stuck and Then Men Shovel It Out and Another Run Is Made.

New York.—In the Middle states, where six inches is a heavy snowfall, getting it off railway tracks is about as easy for an engine as cleaning it off the sidewalk is for the small boy.

A snow plow, which is nothing more than a gigantic scraper, with perhaps an enormous horn or plowshare in front, is pushed down the track by an engine and scrapes and pushes the accumulated clogging white mass off the track to either side.

But in the northern, and particularly in northwestern states—where, when it makes up its mind to snow, everyone knows it; where the falls are feet in depth and in the east only inches; where the railway runs through open plains on which the relentless sweep of the wind drifts the white crystals into hills and valleys, humps and hollows so large that they seem large even to a steam car—something more effective than mere pushing must be employed.

This "something," says a writer in St. Nicholas, "is the rotary snow plow, an invention which is in use on every railway on which large drifts collect in the winter and where snowsheds and snow guards—fences built in exposed places to keep the snow from drifting on the track—are ineffective.

The snow plow is a huge machine, as big as a freight car and built of steel. On the forward end is a monster wheel with powerful blades of steel, looking like an overgrown electric fan, so arranged that their angles can be changed.

This wheel, which is perpendicular to the track and revolves at right angles to it, is inclosed in a casing or drum, also of steel and with sharp steel edges. The top of the drum is supplied with a pipe or chute. Inside the snow plow is a steam engine, which drives this huge fan wheel at from 100 to 250 revolutions every minute.

Behind the snow plow are coupled from one to three or even more powerful engines, and behind these a car. On the cars are many men with shovels, for despite its enormous power even the rotary gets stuck at times and has to be ignominiously dug out.

Perhaps the snow is but four or five feet deep and the plow as soon as it strikes the snow bores through it at a great rate. Wonderful to see, the snow eaten away from the bank by the whirling blades is tossed out of the chute at the top of the drum or casing in a solid stream, to fall in a curving arch and with a thunderous roar from 100 to 200 feet away. This arch is frequently thirty and even more feet high. Billows of snowdust fill the air and the most beautiful rainbows surround the falling cascade of snow.

When the plow gets stalled the men tumble off the car and shovel it out of its prison. Then the whole train backs off a couple of hundred yards and takes a new start. Down the track it sweeps, gathering speed and momentum with every puff-puff of the exhaust, and smash! it goes headlong at the drift, mighty fan-wheel whirling, engines pushing, men yelling, snow scrunching, and over all the roar of the falling stream of snow and the blinding, cutting clouds of ice particles it sets free.

The drift may yield to one bucking, in which case the men congratulate themselves at having an easy time of it. But more often even the mighty rush of the train, engines, plow and car is stopped by the drift, which looks so soft, but is in reality so tough. Then it is shoveled out again and backs off for another rush.

WAY OF SAVING OLD BOOKS

German Chemists Succeed in Compounding Preparation Which Protects Manuscripts.

Berlin.—Chemists of the Royal Prussian laboratory in Gross-Lichterfelde near Berlin have succeeded in compounding a preparation which protects ancient books and manuscripts from decay. The new preparation is described as a cellite-solution and is now being manufactured in bulk by an Elberfeld chemical firm.

All state archives and libraries throughout Germany have been notified that the new substance should be adopted for the preservation of valuable records and documents. As an illustration of German thoroughness it may be mentioned that the laboratory chemists previously tested every grade and kind of paper in the market with the solution before recommending it for general adoption.

Freak Horns on Deer.

Chesaw, Wash.—Many freak deer fell before the guns of hunters in the season recently closed.

Several deer had antlers deformed into odd shapes, and one set resembled the horns of a ram. One hunter killed a doe with antlers, while another got a buck with antlers on one side only. Deer have been plentiful this season, due, it is believed, to being routed from their customary haunts by the forest fires the last summer.

THAT SHELBYVILLE MOB.

Frankfort.—So far from knowing where Jim West is, Gov. Willson says he doubts if the negro really escaped from the mob at Shelbyville and is alive. In order to set at rest the repeated reports that he knows of the where abouts of West, Gov. Willson gave out the following statement:

"I do not see why the Governor should keep giving out statements about the Shelbyville case but as someone who is surely irresponsible or malicious has imposed, even on Eastern papers, with the story that the Governor told a grand juror on the train that he was going to send West to Shelbyville with a guard to tell the grand jury who were in the mob, and as the correspondents ring the telephone and door bell after midnight about these dispatches, in order to expose the man who is making up these rumors and causing so much useless care and work, I wish to say that I have never known anything about West or his where abouts except what I have read in the papers.

"I did not see nor talk with any member of the grand jury and was on the cars only the Monday the grand jury met, when of course, the members were at Shelbyville and not on the train, unless for the few miles in the county from its borders to Shelbyville, and as no sensible man would buy a seat in the Pullman car, in which I rode, for a ride of ten or twelve miles, the story should be given no credence.

"I wish to say, however, in the interest of justice, that if West will come in and stand his trial he will be protected from any danger of the mob, and that if he is arrested and the Governor knows of it in time he will send ample protection on the way to jail and while he is incarcerated, and if he tells who were in the mob and renders the State the service of helping to punish this extraordinary crime against the law and honor of Kentucky, the Governor will consider it a service to the State of serious weight in considering any punishment for any wrong he has done, and he will be interested in the reward of $100 each for every member of the mob who shall be caught and convicted.

"I do not know that West is alive. I doubt it, but if he is alive I hope he will come in or will be arrested and that I may be advised in time to make sure that no further dishonor in this matter is brought upon Shelby county or the State."

Very Similar.

—o—

The course of Jailer Thompson who sat upon the keys while the [illegible] Shelbyville, and that of Gov. Willson, who will not offer a reward for the arrest of the negro, Jim West, have points of similarity.

Gov. Willson virtually sits on the keys and leaves the grand jury to hammer on the locks. The difference between the conduct of Jailer Thompson and Gov. Willson is that there was no kind of doubt as to the ability of the mob to smash the locks on the jail doors, while there is considerable doubt as to whether the grand jury at Shelbyville can ascertain the identity of the members of the mob without the presence of West. There is no question about it being much more difficult to proceed without West as a witness than it would be with him.

Jailer Thompson had his reasons for sitting on the keys. They were not sufficient, and his admissions constitute a confession of unfitness. But Gov Willson has no excuse whatever for squatting upon the key of the prosecution. His explanations are quite as unsatisfactory as those of the jailer.—C-J.

Kentucky leads all of the twelve Southern states in the production of corn as to yield per acre according to the government report. In 1910 the state produced 104,075,000 bushels an average yield of 28.6 bushels per acre which is a 4. loss yield per acre than in 1909. Tennessee has the next best yield with Virginia a close second to Tennessee. The average yield in Texas this year was 20.2 bushels per acre while last year it was 15. In Oklahoma the average yield is given out by the government to be 16 bushels in 1909. Notwithstanding the crop yield in Kentucky's favor hundreds of people leave the state each year and go to the two last named states.

NATIONAL CORN EXPOSITION.

At the National Corn Exposition to be held in Columbus, O., from January 30 to February 11, one day is to be celebrated as "National Corn Day." Discussions of importance will comprise the morning and afternoon programmes, and at night there will be a banquet at which the menu will be made up of corn products.

As the Secretary of Agriculture aptly remarked in his recent annual report, "the corn crop is a national asset." When the people of a country produce a bumper crop, therefore, it would seem to be entirely appropriate to do some celebrating. In the year 1910 the United States raised 2,127,280,000 bushels of this great cereal, which constitutes the leading crop of the country. It was the largest ever reported in the United States, and when Secretary Wilson told about it in his annual report to the President he said:

"While the value of this corn crop is below that of 1909 and also of 1908, its amount belongs to stories of magic. It can hardly be reckoned at less than $1,500,000,000 a sum sufficient to cancel the interest bearing debt of the United States, buy all of the gold and silver mined in all of the countries of the earth in 1909, and still leave to the farmers a little pocket money."

It requires a big lot of corn to feed the people of this country and to have some to spare for the hungry in other countries. In order that there may be enough to go round we shall have to raise bigger and better crops in the future, and one of the objects, the prime object, in fact of the National Corn Exposition is to bring about that desirable condition of things. The champion corn growers of every State are invited to bring the best specimens of their products and enter them in competition at the exposition.

Kentucky has been rather indifferently represented in these annual exhibitions in the past, but it is to have a goodly space at Columbus for the display of her corn and other field products. Kentucky is considered one of the great corn-growing states, and experiments have shown that no State can produce better corn. The boys' clubs, the State and county fairs and corn shows are causing wide-spread interest in an increased production—more bushels to the acre—and there is a determined effort on thousands of farms to raise the average. This means more money for the farmer and greater inducements for the country boys to stay on the farm.

Kentucky has just closed a high ly creditable State corn show and is in good shape for winning some premiums at Columbus. If she may not win ribbons she at least may see what others are doing and may join in celebrating old "King Corn" in advance of the time when forty bushels to the acre shall be the rule rather than the exception.—Courier-Journal

KEEP THE "MEN FOLKS" BUSY.

This is the season of the year when the "men folks" have to sit about the fire during stormy or cold days and it is well not to let them get lazy. In every household there are locks that will stick, doors that "hang," or sag, hinges that creak, castors that refuse to turn, drawers that will not open and shut, hooks that are unstable and [illegible] of the too numerous class that can be made as good as new by the hand skilled in the use of hammer, plane, screwdriver and saw.

A minute here and there devoted to this work, doing a little at every idle time, will add greatly to the comfort of the family as well as to the life of the material. Much of this could be done by the housewife if she possessed the right mechanical skill, or the time to employ it; but not every woman can drive a nail or handle a plane. For the hanging drawers, sometimes a little laundry soap rubbed on the edges will help; but the use of the plane and a bit of sandpaper will avail. Sometimes the surplus may be rubbed off by the use of a coarse file. For the creaking hinges, a few drops of coal oil is good, and this treatment will also ease up the stubborn lock; the sagging door generally calls for the carpenter with either plane or the saw. A few drops of oil will also help out the reluctant casters, but it must be used with care and a newspaper slipped under to keep any surplus from dripping onto the carpet. Attention is sometimes demanded by the shelves becoming unsafe; many pieces of furniture need a toning up with the glue-pot and paint or varnish brush, while there are always "loose ends" somewhere that must be tightened, or missing pieces that must be replaced.

Nearly every man is mechanic enough to attend to these jobs and it is to his interest to look out for them. Don't forget that no housewife ever has too many shelves and the less closet room there is the greater the need of well built-in shelves that may be screened with curtains and serve like charity, to hide the multitude of unsightly though necessary things.—American Homestead.

At the next meeting of the Democratic State Executive Committee it will be urged, it is said, to rescind the order calling a State primary election and order a convention. The committee was as well informed as to the wishes of the people on that subject when the primary election was called as it will be when it meets again on the 4th inst.

AS THEY SEE KENTUCKY

A Kentucky [illegible] admits that Kentucky has good roads, but asks if the State can afford them. Well, it can afford bad ones.—Courier-Journal.

When Kentucky substitutes electrocution for hanging, that state will be able to boast the smallest electricity bills in the union.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Some observant editor declares that "men live longer on the average in Kentucky than in any other State." From this we infer that "average" in Kentucky is the regulation mint-and-Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The chief executive of Kentucky has refused a pardon to Henry Youtsey, a young man who has spent several years in the penitentiary and wants out. There seems to be a good deal of prejudice against him, considering that he was charged only with killing a Governor.—Dallas News.

A Kentuckian claiming to be 134 years old says he served in the War of 1812. As Hiram Cronk, the last pensioner of that war, passed seventeen years ago, the old gentleman seems to have overlooked a bet—or maybe he deserves a pension for his moderation.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Secretary of State Bruner, of Kentucky, has refused to issue a charter for a bank at Cross Roads, that State. He felt that a check drawn upon the Bank of Cross Roads would look too much like a financial swindle. The people of Cross Roads are in need of a real name for their hamlet.—Columbus Dispatch.

Now, more than at any time in the history of Kentucky, it is necessary for capable men to be sent as Representatives to Frankfort. The old time rule that any man, "just so he is a good fellow," would do to represent a county in the Legislature has passed, and the sooner the people of the State realize this fact the better. It is related of one wise solon who was sent as a Representative to Frankfort that he could not be induced to mount the steps leading to the second floor of the Capitol because he had been elected to the lower house." Such ignorance is inexcusable and the stigma of sending such men as Representatives should rest with the people who are responsible for their election. Send men to Frankfort who are progressive and intelligent and who will be in a position to discharge the duties of the position in a manner befitting the Representative of an intelligent citizenship. Now is a good time to create this new order of things.—Paducah News-Democrat.

NEW COMMITTEES IN CONGRESS.

Mr. James is now on the greatest committee in the House and has the placing of our Congressman and the following is the distribution:

Following is the list of the reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States, which is now being considered by Congress:

The United States gets duty free from Canada wood pulp and print paper. New Eniand fishermen are relieved of the Canadian tonnage tax. Mica and gypsum come in free.

Canada gets duty free, cottonseed oil and fruit from the Southern States, and fruits from the Pacific Coast States.

Both countries put on the free list tinplate and barbed wire fencing.

Both countries put on the reciprocity list, which means the lowest duty either charges the following: Wheat and other grains, fish, eggs poultry cattle, sheep, fresh and canned meats bacon, ham, lard canned vegetables, flour, clocks and agricultural implements.

Canada reduces tariff 45 cents per ton on coal and 11 cents per hundred weight on cement.

United States gives Canada a special tariff of 10 cents per ton on iron ore and special rates on aluminum and dressed lumber.

A man was arrested in Louisville who had drunk one pint of corn, one pint of rye, some bourbon, some absinthe and six bottles of beer. As Shakespeare would have said: "His thirst, was ample, and the elements mix'd in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man.'"

Sidney Poor, who has been employed at Indianapons, arrived here Saturday on a visit to relatives and friends.

J. A Bracht of near Dry Ridge was here last week delivering a large crop of tobacco raised on his farm near Dry Ridge.

Col. Wm Martin of Covington, the popular traveling salesman for a Cincinnati footwear house was a visitor to his friends here last Friday.

Robert W. Jones and Thomas F Curley, two of our clever business men, spent part of last week in Cincinnati on business for their stores.

Prof. C O. Morgan has been sick several days the past week, and his sister, Mrs. Jessie Barry, of Kenton county, spent Saturday at his bedside.

Howe Cleek has purchased the farm of Edward M. Johnson consisting of about seventy-five acres in Kenton county, near Walton, for $3,500 and will take possession March 1st.

Joseph Finley of Georgetown, was here a part of last week buying mules. Mr Finley speaks of moving to Walton as it is an attractive business center.

Geo. W Maines, the saw mill proprietor, spent a part of last week in Scott county, near Georgetown, looking at some timber with a view to purchasing.

Mrs. Wallace Garrison entertained with an elegant dining at her home Jan. 24th, the guests being Mrs. J C. Bedinger, Mrs. W. Lee Gaines, and Miss Nannie Violette.

Mark Benson has bought the house and two acres of land known as the Crawens property near the Southern depot, from W. E Vest and Wallace Garrison, for $2,000 and will move into it at once.

Mrs. Celia Ann Marshall, wife of Alex. Marshall, died at her home near Bank Lick last Friday, of old age and grippe. Mrs Marshall was the mother of thirteen children and most of them and her husband, survive her.

Wm. L Norman has accepted a clerkship in the store of Wood R. Miller and will move to town from the farm. His father E H. Norman will move back to his farm from Indianapolis where he and his wife spent the past year.

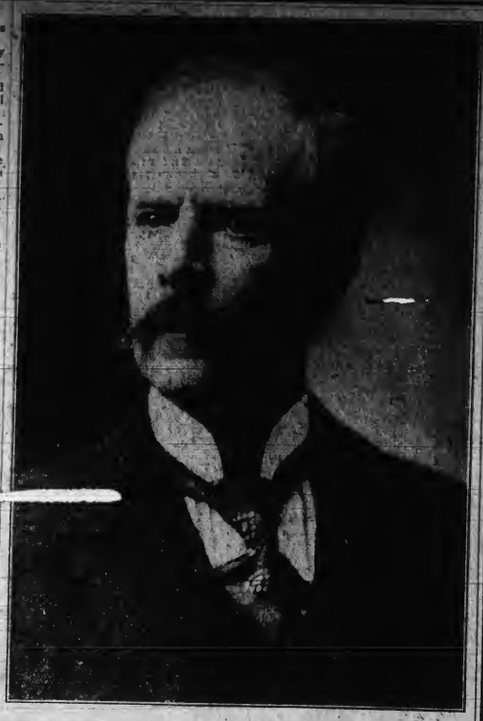
Rev. and Mrs Will B. Campbell of Williamstown, spent Saturday here with their many friends. Rev. Campbell was formerly pastor of the Walton M. E church, and is now in charge of the church at Williamstown, where he is very popular.

Cecil C. Watson, one of our bright and progressive young men, who recently graduated from a Cincinnati business college, has received his diploma showing that he passed his studies with honor, and he is now arranging to take up mercantile pursuits.

Mrs. J B. Harris of Lexington, is spending the week here with her parents Mr. and Mrs W. R. Rouse. Her husband Rev J. B. Harris who is the pastor of the Epworth M. E church at Lexington, is accomplishing a great work and is very popular with his congregation.

O. M Rogers, a prominent attorney of Erlanger, was here last Friday on business pertaining to the drug store business of A. W Smith the latter having named Mr. Rogers as his assignee in the adjustment of his business interests. The drug store stock is being invoiced. Dr C. C. Metcalfe conducting the work.

Wilber Z. Wade and wife left Saturday for Moriarty, New Mexico, where they may make their home, and where Mr. Wade has 160 acres of land homesteaded. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs Wade which took place July 19th, at Newport, has just been made public. The bride was formerly Miss Mattie May Underhill of Beaver Lick, and Mr. Wade was a resident of Kenton county.



Mr. and Mrs Rivolette DeMoisey have moved back to Walton from Ludlow and occupy Mrs. Adams-Rouse property. Mrs DeMoisey has been quite ill for some time and her physician Dr. E. K. Menefee advised moving to better her condition. She has many friends here who are glad to have Mrs. DeMoisey with them again, and hope for her early return to health and strength.

Lloyd Aylor, who recently moved to Texas, and is here visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Will Aylor, will probably remain in this quarter as her husband Everett Aylor who is now in Nebraska visiting his father writes that he expects to return here shortly. Mr and Mrs. Aylor went to Texas last year but did not like the country. He was very badly afflicted with rheumatism when he left here but has completely recovered.

The case of Benj. B Allphin against the Loyal Legion Life Insurance Co., of Waverly, New York, for $5,000 on the life of his son James Allphin, was affirmed in the Court of Appeals last Friday. The case was taken up on an appeal from the Boone Circuit Court. Jas Allphin died in New Mexico and the insurance company tried to get out of the payment of the policy. All here are glad of Mr. Allphin's success because he was justly entitled to the insurance money.

Francis E. Fischer and Miss Virgie Cluster were united in marriage, Wednesday, Feb. 1st, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs J. W. Cluster, near Walton, Rev. H C. Wayman of the Baptist church performing the ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs Joseph Fischer and is an excellent young man of the highest moral and industrious habits. His charming bride is one of the most popular young ladies of this section and the young couple is most happily mated. Their host of friends extend best wishes.

Last Saturday a large and enthusiastic meeting of the tobacco growers of this locality was held at Walton for the purpose of discussing the tobacco situation. Chas C. Sleet was elected chairman of the meeting and Thos. F Curley, secretary. J. G. Tomlin made an able address of the farmers' organization and cutting out of the 1911 crop, and to reduce the acreage of burley tobacco so as to give more consideration to the preservation of the land. D B. Wallace also spoke in favor of the farmers' interests generally and emphasized the necessity of them forming a strong organization for their protection against the trusts and kindred evils. He also favored the cutting out of the 1911 crop. John L Vest also delivered an able address in favor of cutting out the 1911 tobacco crop, and the organization of the farmer. Chairman Chas Sleet in an interesting talk, reported the proceedings of the meetings of the Burley Union at Lexington, last week, and gave much valuable information. The general disposition seemed to favor cutting out the 1911 crop, and over 200 acres were reported by the landlords as being cut out if it was decided to raise no tobacco in 1911.

The above is a picture of S. W. Tolin, candidate for the State Senate, Twenty-third Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Boone, Gallatin and Owen.

He was born and raised on a farm in this county, educated in the best schools the county then afforded, taught school, read law in the office of Green & Riddell in Burlington, graduated in the Law Department of the University of Louisville; at once began the practice in Burlington and has been in the active practice continuously ever since. But few important cases have been tried in the courts in this county in the last thirty years that he has not appeared on one side as counsel.

He held the office of County Attorney, and in 1900 was elected to fill out the unexpired term of Dr. J. G. Furnish in the State Senate. He was active in that body in obtaining for Kentucky her war claim from the Government, amounting to about one million dollars which went to build the new State House without an increase of taxes.

He is an untiring worker, knows the wants of the people, safe and conservative in his views, and if elected to the place to which he now aspires, he will always be found at his place of duty, the humble servant of all the people.

HOW DO YOU STAND?

The People Want To Know How The Candidates Stand.

The temperance Democrats held a meeting in Burlington, Monday, Feb. 6th, 1911, to take action in regard to uniting on candidates to the General Assembly of Kentucky, who are favorable to temperance Legislation.

Rev. B M. Nelson was elected Chairman of the meeting, and J. C. Bedinger, secretary.

The chairman was instructed to appoint a committee to prepare questions to ask the present candidates, so that the people may know just where they stand on Temperance Legislation.

The committee, after discussing the matter, decided to ask the one simple question: "ARE YOU IN FAVOR OF THE COUNTY AS A UNIT in the local option elections, and will you support all practical temperance bills before the legislature?"

The secretary was instructed to send this question to each candidate and ask him to answer YES or NO, and have them send in answers at once.

Adjourned to meet here next county court day.

J. C BEDINGER, Secty.

Dogs made a raid on R. O Ryle's sheep, one night last week, and crippled several and frightened the remainder of the flock considerably.

John D. McNeely lost a nice two year old colt, one day last week. It was crowded into a manger by some other young horses in the stable with it. It was found lying on its back and had worried itself to death by struggling to get out of the manger.

Johnnie Sullivan found the gold watch which Dr. Y F. Hopkins lost about four years ago on his farm on Gunpowder. The case was in a fairly good condition while the works were about ruined by the dirt and water to which it had been exposed.

FRANCESVILLE.

Zeke Aylor and wife, entertained Mr. Reitman and wife, Sunday

Chas Beall, sr., may be seen sometimes driving a double team now.

Miss Anna Henry, of Bullittsville, was visiting her uncle, Mr. Bruce Henry and family, last week.

Mrs. Manlius Goodridge was a guest of her brother, Harry Kilgour, last Thursday.

Mrs. Clint Riddell, of Hamilton, Ohio, is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs Chas. Scothorn.

We are not blaming our road overseer for the bad roads, for he does all he can to keep them good.

Stanley Graves, of Hebron, was calling on his mother near here, Sunday afternoon. He has recently purchased a team of good horses.

Mr. Bruce Henry has been on a visit to his son, Dr. Omer Henry, of Minerva, Mason county, and reports that Jack has a fine practice there.

We saw a notice in the Times Star last week of the death of Robt M Jones. He was a Boone county boy, and those who attended the late A. G Winston's school in 1857-8 and 9, will remember him as one of the brightest pupils there. He died in the Confederate Soldiers' Home at Pee Wee Valley. The remains were conveyed to his home in Covington.

GUNPOWDER.

P. J Allen and wife broke bread with this scribe, last Sunday.

H F Utz and wife visited at Devon, last Sunday, guests of B. C Surface and wife.

Moses Rouse and family, of Limaburg neighborhood, visited his parents, J. W Rouse and wife, last Sunday.

MIDWAY.

Aunt Sallie Cleek has pneumonia and owing to her advanced age her friends fear the worst.

Rev. Vaught, P E., of this district, held his quarterly meeting at Big Bone, last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Laura Riley, of Sparta, Gallatin county, is here visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Ryan and other relatives.

Rev. and Mrs B. M. Nelson gave the young folks a supper and social, one night last week, which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Bates Carroll, of Crescent, and G. E Carroll, of Walton, spent last Thursday night at Big Bone Springs, guests of their sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Big Bone M. E church, held a very interesting and profitable all day meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. H F. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs O. A. Slaypack entertained at dinner on Thursday of last week. Mr. and Mrs Joe W. Cleek, Mrs. G W. Ossman, Mrs. J. M Jack and little daughter, Martha, and the writer and his wife.

Wm Dempsey, of Gorham, Kansas, who has been here the past three weeks visiting his brothers, leaves today for Terre Haute, Ind., where he will call on friends for a few days before returning home.

G. E Carroll, candidate for Legislator, passed through here one day last week enroute to Big Bone. Being asked if he was out electioneering he said, "no not exactly," however if he saw a rail off the fence he would try to lay it up.

W. F Moore is moving his personal effects to his Lakeside farm at Sherman, Grant county, recently purchased by him from O. F. Schriever, of Cincinnati Mr. Moore has lived in this community but a short time, yet he has many warm friends here who very much regret his departure.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. B Ross gave them a granite shower on Jan. 25th, that being the eleventh anniversary of their wedding. They were the recipients of a number of beautiful as well as useful presents A delightful day was spent and at night the young folks were given a party, which was an enjoyable affair, consisting of graphophone music, two-steps and barn dancing.

The very bad condition of the dirt roads is causing considerable pike talk at present. A pike from Beaver to Waltons is being strongly agitated. This road is badly needed and would be easily built as it is already graded and has all the bridges and culverts necessary, except where it crosses Mud Lick creek. At this point an iron bridge is badly needed, but aside from the building of this bridge, the hauling and the breaking of rock would be about all that would be required.

Another of our old and highly respected citizens has passed away. Aunt Sally Underhill, who lived up on the headwaters of Big Bone creek, died January 25, aged 93 years, 3 months and 17 days. She had been enjoying good health until about 3 weeks ago, when she fell and sustained a fracture of the hip. From the effects of that accident she suffered greatly until the death angel came to her relief. The funeral took place on the 27th from the Beaver Baptist church, of which she was a constitent member. Rev McMillan, of Big Bone, delivered an appropriate discourse. After this the remains were interred in the Beaver cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs Wm. Clore spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Sam Helm who has been sick for some time.

Vernon Tupman and wife, of Ludlow, and Miss Alice Tupman, of Constance, spent Sunday with Wm McGlasson and family.

Mrs. Nora Aylor and daughter went to Sanders, Ky., last week, to attend the funeral of her aunt. They will return this week.

There will be a pie social next Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Joseph Bullock, for the benefit of the church. Everyone is invited to attend.

Miss Jennie Hafer entertained her young friends with a play party, Saturday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Allie Walton. It was well attended and all had a most delightful time.

The Boone Library Association will meet with Dr. and Mrs Pendicord tomorrow evening. All members should try to attend as an interesting program is arranged for.

State Press Clippings.

The people of Kentucky are more interested in what the candidates for State office think about roads and schools than what they think about the tariff. —Elizabethtown News.

—o—

The time has come when the people demand a "square deal" in politics as well as in any other business. Honest elections and a fair count will go a long way toward putting the State in the Democratic column.—The Georgetown News.

—o—

Louisville wants one of the big political conventions to be held next year, and as that city is in every way capable of taking care of such a gathering we see no reason why it should not be able to land one of them.—Paducah News-Democrat.

—o—

Seems like old times in Kentucky to look over the editorial pages of our exchanges and note that our "well-known citizen Mr. 'Zeke Hallowell,' is a candidate for Jailer." There is a "Zeke" in every community, and affairs political are warming up a bit. —Paducah News-Democrat.

—o—

Some things we need. Better roads, greater population, more factories, more houses, new school buildings, more boosters and more knockers to help boost; more civic pride and less prejudice. This is not a dream. It's possible of reality. Caldwell county can have it all if the people say so.—Princeton News

—o—

Some of the papers are mentioning Judge Lewis L. Walker in connection with the Republican nomination for Governor. No better timber could be found in that party, and Eighth district Republicans and in fact a great number in this section of the State, would undoubtedly be behind him if he decided to run.—Stanford Interior Journal.

—o—

Glasgow.—After the funeral sermon had been preached over the body of Mrs. Jane Pitcock, an aged woman of Gamaliel, Monroe county, the undertaker removed the lid of the coffin to allow the friends to take a farewell look at the dead woman. The crowd were horrified to see the supposed corpse raise both hands above her head and sit upright in the coffin. The room was crowded with friends, all of whom were frightened so badly they made a rush for the exit and in a few seconds the house was empty. Physicians were called and she was removed from the coffin to her bed, where she was given medical attention. However, on the evening after the strange occurrence she passed away.

—o—

Our farmers are paying more money for dirt roads in taxes and in being hampered in moving their crops and in having to provide extra teams and in loss of valuable time every year than the cost of rock roads, and once the rock roads are built the expense is comparatively small to maintain them. Some will say they are in favor of rock roads if every road in the county is to be rocked, and are opposed to them unless every road is rocked. The county will never get rock roads that way, and the useless expense and waste will continue to be a burden upon our farmers until they wake up and get a public sentiment aroused in favor of starting the work where it will do the most good and gradually extending it from year to year.—Madisonville Hustler.

—o—

If the pessimistic pests who are opposed to good roads could travel over some of our worst highways and get a coat of blue mud that would last as long as their shoes, we believe the cry for good roads would be just about unanimous. Our roads are awful. The mud is there in every consistency, color and kind. Blue mud, black mud, red mud, gray mud, brown mud, lead-colored mud, and several other varieties. If the roads of Bullitt county were the only highways leading to paradise, there would not be seven souls saved in eleven centuries. This is no time to build good roads, but a most opportune time to cuss bad ones, and everybody is doing it to a frazzle. We have rock, we have gravel and all the things necessary in road building, and what we want is the roads. With enterprise and intelligence, patriotism and labor we can get them.—Shepherdsville News.

—o—

It is strange that you cannot get men to see the necessity of looking after a new road. When a small chuck-hole appears in a new macadam road it ought to be filled up at once and thus save a great deal to the county for if it is allowed to go it will soon be a great big mudhole. Last fall a number of holes presented themselves in the new road between here and Clyffside. The Independent yelled itself hoarse in demanding that they be fixed before winter came on, but nothing was done. Now these little chuck-holes that could have been repaired for 50 cents apiece have grown until they are nearly a city square long and as wide as the roadbed. Instead of taking 50 cents to repair them it will now take $50 per mudhole. And the public pays the bills in addition to the inconvenience of having such obstructions upon one of our main thoroughfares. How long, oh Lord, how long will we have to endure these things? —Ashland Independent.

When a citizen of a locality becomes authority on local ancient history, he begins to realize he is aging.

Cotton in Georgia, Tobacco in Kentucky.

A one-crop system is never good for any section. In Georgia and the other cotton states, that staple is generally the one crop. All labor and credit are expended on the production of cotton to the detriment of other crops for market, home use and bettering the land. In some counties of Kentucky the same condition prevails in the growing of tobacco. New lands are purchased, notes given for payments or mortgages are placed on homes in order to raise a one crop, tobacco. All energies are expended, credits stretched, old fences neglected and weeds and briars allowed to take possession of corners, new fencing postponed, because all hands are needed in the field or barns, with the one [illegible] crop of the weed. And when the crop is ready for market, nine times out of ten, prices are low. A merchant in an interior town recently stated that he had been compelled to renew many thousands of dollars in notes because the tobacco had not been sold, and at present outlook it was blue for both merchant and farmers. He said this would not be the condition if the farmers raised diversified crops. Tobacco can be raised at as good a profit as cotton can, if it is made, not the main crop, but a money crop. The idea of farmers owning the best land in the country, land that will produce good yields of all the cereals, capable of feeding hogs and cattle, and yet put all their eggs in one basket, of planting a one-crop system, and that one crop having a precarious valuation, seems preposterous. Yet that is being done by many in Kentucky today, as is the case in the cotton belt.—Our Country.

Buying Poultry for Breeding.

Get the best if they cost big money. It is better to purchase a $5.00 bird than a one dollar one. It costs the breeders much time and money to establish a strain of fowls that will breed true. It is worth money to a buyer to pay a long price, $25.00 or more, to get such birds. If it is eggs one wants, make your purchase of a breeder who guarantees a strain bred for this quality. A setting of eggs for $5.00, or a cock bird for the same price, are well worth the money in order to procure a strain that is established by a well known breeder. Why do such men as Fishel, Kellerstrass, Wilber Bros., and others charge such high prices for their eggs and stock? Simply because their stock is worth the money and the people who buy these valuable birds are always more than satisfied. They appear costly at first sight, but are the cheapest because they are the best. Fortunes have been spent in developing them and fortunes can be made and are being made out of them. Always buy the best

Champion Liar.

The members of the next General Assembly will be well entertained if the plans of Colonel Green R. Keller, editor of the Carisle Mercury, Confederate veteran and champion story teller, do not miscarry. Colonel Keller has announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the Nicholas-Robertson District. Colonel Keller's friends do not believe that he would have announced his candidacy if he did not have good reasons to believe that he could be nominated. Consequently they are expecting him to be in the next Legislature. Green Keller is one of the champion story tellers of the state. It would be a difficult matter to pull off a session of the Legislature with Colonel Keller absent. He has been on hand at every session for many years. He has been there as a member of the House and as Chief Clerk. When not in office he has just attended "to see how the boys were getting along." If he is nominated he is quite certain to be elected, as both the counties are Democratic.

Olive Oil as A Food.

It has long been observed that those who treat olive oil as a common article of food and use it as such are healthier than those who do not. The American housekeeper has still to learn that there are many ways of using the oil besides in salads. It may be used with good effect as a substitute for butter in compounding the ordinary brown and white sauce. A teaspoonful of oil added just before taking up, to every quart of split pea, bean, potato or other soup lacking fat greatly increases its richness as well as flavor. A child soon learns to like the taste of olive oil on bread in the place of butter, while any kind of cold meat that is to be recooked is improved by having a little oil poured over it at least half an hour before heating.—Globe-Democrat.

BIG CHICAGO FIRES

Beginning With 1871 City Has Suffered Heavily.

Iroquois Holocaust That Cost 600 Lives, Occurred During Holiday Season—Sixty Killed in Burning of Crib.

Chicago.—Chicago in its short history has endured many trials by fire. The great conflagration of 1871, which takes rank as the greatest fire of modern times, burned over about three and one-half square miles of ground and destroyed 17,450 buildings. Two hundred persons lost their lives, and 98,500 were made homeless. The loss was $196,000,000.

The fire started Oct. 8, in the rear of the property owned by Patrick O'Leary in the vicinity of Jefferson and De Koven streets. It spread with irresistible swiftness, leaping the river and continuing its work of destruction on the South and North sides, wiping out some of the finest business and residence properties in the city.

So staggering was the blow that for a time it was doubted whether Chicago could recover from it. Food and clothing and vast sums of money were sent to Chicago from all parts of the country. The spirit of the inhabitants rose to meet the disaster, and on the ruins of the old city was reared the more splendid Chicago of today.

Two of the three other great fires since the conflagration of 1871 occurred in the winter season—the burning of the Iroquois theater, Dec. 30, 1903, in which more than 600 lives were lost, and the disaster at the Seventy-third street crib, Jan. 20, 1909, in which sixty men were killed.

The other fire, which had more in common with the stock yard disaster, was July 10, 1893. Fifteen firemen on the afternoon of that day, were trapped in a lofty tower of a cold storage warehouse on the world's fair grounds. Cut off by fire, they leaped seventy-five feet to their death.

The Iroquois theater fire was the most horrible in the history of Chicago, and one of the worst in the annals of modern times. It started during a matinee performance of a Christmas burlesque. In the space of a few moments the theater was converted into a smoke-blackened morgue.

The fire originated on the stage. A spark from a defective spot light was communicated to the flimsy draperies. A thin thread of flame, sped by a draught, ran along the proscenium arch. The cry of fire was raised. Panic seized upon the audience. A stampede for the exits ensued, in which many were trampled under foot and left senseless on the floor. Some of the exits were locked; others were heaped high with a barrier of bodies, and behind this human debris the survivors battled desperately for life. For a time the enormity of the disaster daunted the rescuers, but in the theater itself many anonymous deeds of heroism were performed.

The whole city was plunged into mourning for the dead. No visitation so terrible had been experienced in the annals of the world since the destruction of the Ring theater at Vienna, when 700 lives were blotted out.

Only last year the burning of the Seventy-third street temporary crib cost Chicago sixty lives. The flimsy structure of wood above the ice-waters of the lake housed 125 workmen employed by the George W. Jackson company, inc., when the fire started. It was supposed that one of the workmen had entered the powder magazine with a lighted pipe in his hand. There was a muffled explosion, and flames enveloped the structure. The laborers, roused from sleep, found themselves struggling as in an oven. Some of them leaped into the lake, where they perished from cold and exposure. Others remained in the crib, whence their charred bodies were later removed in gunny sacks and tumbled into a common grave at South Chicago. Most of them were buried unidentified.

The catastrophe at the world's fair was witnessed by 50,000 pleasure seekers who watched the firemen drop to their death.

On the day of the fire flames were discovered near the crown of the stack. Assistant Battalion Chief James Fitzpatrick led his men to a platform thirty feet below the flames with a lead of hose. While they were fighting the fire above it ate rapidly down the stack under them and Fitzpatrick saw that they were trapped. He ordered his men to jump, and they were seen shaking hands on the tower when a coil of rope was hurled to them from below. It was no sooner secured, however, than it began to burn, and as the men slipped down its length they plunged into a fiery pit below.

Late in March of last year fourteen lives were lost in a fire in the furniture store of L. Fish at 1908 Wabash avenue. The victims, mostly young girls, were penned in the upper stories of the burning structure.

The latest fire was that of December 21, which destroyed the Morris & Co. plant at the stock yards, in which Fire Chief Horan and twenty-five other firemen and three civilians lost their lives.

SYMBOLS MARK IRISH CHILD

Cross in Red and Letters "I. H. S." Found on Girl's Arm After Dream—Died Freely.

Mayo, Ireland.—An extraordinary story of a child marked by the symbols of the Passion in Kilfinnagh convent, County Mayo, is told by a representative of the News of this city.

A girl, aged thirteen, has been a boarder in the convent for the past three or four years. She is described as a docile, affectionate child, and is a great favorite with the nuns. About three weeks ago one of the sisters heard this child screaming during the night, and when she questioned her the girl told her she had a fearful dream, in which she saw Christ on the cross and a soldier driving a lance into his side. The nun comforted the child, who fell asleep.

In the morning the child complained that her wrist and arm were sore. On examination it was found that her forearm was marked with a cross in red. Underneath the cross were the letters "I. H. S." A few days later there appeared below the letters a crown of thorns. Two or three days later there appeared above the cross, and surrounded by a scroll, the letters "I. N. R. I." A few days subsequently there appeared beneath the crown of thorns a chalice surmounted by a host sending forth radiations in red, and after the same period there appeared a flower-shaped drawing, near which was written the word "Lily."

The marks extend from the wrist to the upper arm, and have been examined by Father O'Hara, P. P., Kilfinnagh; Dr. Madden, Kilfinnagh, and very many others, including several Protestants.

A remarkable feature of the occurrence is that the stigmata bled copiously. A careful inquiry is being instituted by the religious authorities, who, while admitting the strikingly wonderful nature of the phenomenon, refrain at present from any expression of opinion as to its origin.

The evidence in proof of the occurrence is said to be of the clearest and most indisputable kind. Dr. Madden and other gentlemen who have seen the marks are quite positive that they are not self-inflicted.

FAN EMPTIES A COURT ROOM

Fresh Air Loving Jurist in New York Allows Bald-Headed Juror to Keep Hat On.

New York.—Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard has designed an electric ventilator. He has been shifting it from one court room to another, where he is called to preside.

The ventilator consists of a small electric fan set in a piece of board, with a hole in the middle to let the fan revolve. The board can be fitted to any window. The fan is set in motion by attaching an electric light wire to any electric chandelier.

Justice Gerard was presiding over part V the other day, the first blizzardly day this season. He had his fan working at a mile-a-minute clip and seemed to enjoy the refreshing breeze. Clerk Brady of this part of the court, sat slapping his hands to keep them warm. A baldheaded stenographer, who had entered the room and noted the cold draught, quickly excused himself and sent in another stenographer who had a thick mop of hair.

Soon a juror, who was in the line of the fan's operations, arose in the jury box.

"Your honor," he said, "I'm very susceptible to colds and I haven't any hat on here."

"You may put one on then," the court remarked. The juror promptly donned his headgear and sat the rest of the session with his hat on.

During the afternoon session the little electric ventilator was shifted to another window. This time the cooling current of air swept the seats that were occupied by the spectators. Within fifteen minutes after the fresh air struck the visitors' benches there was no one on them to enjoy the fresh air.

LIQUID NERVES ARE FOUND

New Discovery With Regard to Phenomena of Sense of Sight Announced by Scientists.

Manchester.—A new discovery with regard to the phenomena of the sense of sight has been announced by Dr. F. W. Edridge-Green, an eminent authority in visual research. He has found by an interesting series of experiments and tests that the process of vision is not the simple transmission by the optic nerve to the brain of objects photographed on the retina.

The discovery, in non-technical language, amounts to this: In front of the retina there is a small chamber or sac of clear liquid which is in constant motion of currents or eddies. Doctor Green finds that this liquid itself contains distinct perceptive nerve power which plays an important part in conveying impressions to the brain.

In other words, this wonderful liquid contains liquid nerves, so to speak, which transmit to the understanding a considerable part of the impression it receives of color, form, etc.

Meat Shipments Large.

Sidney, N. S. W.—Shipments of frozen Australian mutton during 1909 amounted to 1,683,042 carcases, an increase of 359,838 carcases on the preceding year. Ninety-two per cent of the mutton was sent to the United Kingdom.

HUNT BUFFALO IN AUTOS

Enraged Bison Escaping From James J. Hill's Farm is Run Down.

The screams of school children barricaded in a district school seven miles from Anoka prevented a charge through a window of the building by the enraged buffalo that escaped from James J. Hill's farm 20 miles away, and gave the clue to the whereabouts of the beast that led to its death, says a Minneapolis dispatch to the New York World.

Reporters ascertained in their chase of the animal that it really was a full-grown American bison. In an automobile the reporters began the hunt for an animal now almost extinct.

Even the skeptical people of the country, who scouted the first reports of farmers, who were terrorised by sight of the beast, are convinced that it really was a buffalo.

Early the countryside was roused and the chase renewed. After an exciting hunt the animal was located in the heavy timber a quarter of a mile from Barney Monlon's place, on the State road. County Attorney H. Pratt and Lee Giddings left the automobile, in which they had been pursuing the beast and hastily entered the timbert tract. On the other side of the woodland Pratt made out the creature dashing through a field of stubble. Though it was a long shot, Pratt fired. This was followed by a volley from Giddings, and together the men hastened in the direction of the clearing. A trail of blood was found, and another glimpse through the farther thickets showed that the animal was hampered in his rapid flight by a slight limp. Later in the day the buffalo was shot and killed by a posse.

DRAMA, DUKES AND DUCATS

Some American Actresses Who Have Made Brilliant Matrimonial Alliances.

In a list of American actresses and chorus girls who have married men of wealth or members of the aristocracy the New Idea Woman's Magazine puts Edith Kingdon, now Mrs. George Gould, first.

Then comes the marriage of Oscar Lewishon by Edna May, and of his younger brother, Jesse, to Edna McCauley. August Belmont and Eleanor Robson are now a happy married couple, and Ethel Barrymore, "the most engaged on the stage," became the bride of Russel Griswold Colt.

Two more actresses who married rich men are Millicent Willson, the wife of William Randolph Hearst, and Minnie Ashley, who married William Astor Chanler. Amy Busby married Eugene Lewis, a New York lawyer, and Gladys Wills married Samuel Insull, who is at the head of Edison's electrical enterprises in the west, and is a very rich man.

In the matter of titles, the American actress has proved equally irresistible. Camille Clifford is now the Hon. Mrs. Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, and some day she will be Lady Aberdare. Connie Gilchrist, Sylvia Storey and Rosie Boote are now addressed as the Countess Poulette, the Countess of Orkney and the Marchioness of Headfort. Anna Robinson became the Countess of Rosslyn a few years ago, and Eva Carrington wedded Lord de Clifford. Frances Belmont, one of the famous "Floradora Sextette," is now Lady Ampthill.

Six Quills to a Novel.

The use of quill pens is by no means confined to government offices and the gentlemen who point with them at unhappy witnesses. A habitual writer, for instance, confesses that he never willingly used a steel pen since he was out of the control of schoolmasters. He always used quills until the triumphant fountain pen provided him with a reasonable substitute, and that more because of its convenience than its efficiency. Several well-known novelists still stick to the quill; it is, indeed, the only writing implement with any personality—if it is refractory you can coax it. The mending of a quill does not require much practice, and you can buy, for a small sum, a little machine that does it for you beautifully. You may easily write 15,000 words with one quill, mending it four times, which gives six quills to the novel. So the cost of novel writing is small—stated in terms of quills.

A Half-Cent Coin.

The lack of the half cent in our money undoubtedly costs the consumers of the United States millions of dollars every year. Competition has become so keen in business that producers and middlemen figure their prices down to the finest point. The difference of a half or even a quarter of a cent in the cost of such things as flour, sugar and soap means in the aggregate thousands of dollars to them. And that fraction of a cent is as valuable to the buyers as to the sellers. Yet when a certain cloth is advertised for sale at 37½ cents a yard and a woman buys three yards of it, she pays $1.13, because she cannot hand over $1.12½. With eggs at 45 cents a dozen, she pays 23 cents for half a dozen. The odd half cent goes to the seller. Never does the purchaser get the benefit of it.

Willing to Please.

"These stocks of yours are worthless."

"I don't care," said the woman. "The broker is very accommodating. He has exchanged them four times."

HOME AND SCHOOL.

Many teachers fail to teach their pupils to write and read numbers.

A boy of average mind should know something of mathematics. Yet we see boys every day who know nothing even of oral arithmetic.

An idle mind is said to be the devil's workshop. He certainly has many workshops.

The school people of the state are making an effort to increase the number of graduates from the public schools.

The Kentucky Educational Association will be held at Owensboro, June 27, 28 and 29. Prof T. J. Coats is president, and is one of the ablest educators of the State.

Sup. Regenstine is having the census blanks mailed out. The school census will be taken in April. Reginstene is one of the best superintendents the state ever had.

The jailer of Christian county recently advertised a gallows for sale. It was a good gallows, made of steel and only slightly used. The county never had much use, for it at any stage of the game, though the oldest inhabitant has a faint recollection that a negro was "ushered into eternity" by means of it at some period since the close of the Civil War. It has been retained, however, as a horrible example to other colored persons of whom Christian county has what most of the Kentucky counties would regard as a surplus. Now that the State of Kentucky is threatening to electrocute somebody at the Eddyville penitentiary, steel gibbets have been relegated to the category of last year's birds' nests and Christian county is willing to sell her gallows at a great reduction.

Most of the States in the Union have abandoned the gallows habit, and the only offer the jailer of Christian county has had for his instrument of death comes from a college up in Michigan. The college doesn't want to hang anybody, although Michigan is not lacking in first-class hanging material. Indeed, there is room for suspicion that the college folks are under the impression that the jailer is offering a pair of suspenders for sale as they write: "We wish to place them on the college campus as a relic of good old Kentucky." However that may be, the Christian county jailer is not without a keen sense of the eternal fitness of things, and he doesn't propose to have "them" gallows displayed as a souvenir of Kentucky. He has written to the college to say that he has some conscientious scruples against letting his death machine be used for any such purpose, and in the course of his letter he says:

"It is a fact, that until recently the barbarous practice was employed in this State in executing criminals, yet I am informed that we have about kept pace with our sister States in abolishing the practice, and we are not anxious that the youth of your great section be impressed with a false notion of our earlier citizenship. To say the least of it, if you teach to them the history of our nation, they will know the founders of our civil institutions were the nation's builders and defenders, and the object lesson on your campus would indeed be contradictory and confusing."

Score one for "good old Kentucky." She may have her faults, but she doesn't look upon a gallows as typically representative of her civilization of the past or the present, and she doesn't think very much of the article as an ornament for a college campus. Doubtless there will be some disappointment in Michigan at the failure to land "them" gallows as an educational exhibit, but if the jailer's letter is duly pondered the effort will not have been all in vain. If the mild rebuke is read and heeded some pinheaded individual connected with the college aforesaid will receive a lesson more valuable than any he is likely to find in the curriculum of his institution.—C-J.

TOBACCO MEETINGS.

Boone County Board of Control Held Interesting Meeting At Court House Last Monday.

Delay In The Distribution of Boone County's Twenty Per Cent. Accounted For.

Another Distribution to Follow In The Near Future.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING.

The Cut-Out Meeting Was Attended by Many Growers From Over the County.

Fifteen Hundred Acres Pledged to the Movement.

C. C. Sleed Chosen Delegate to The Lexington Meeting.

Boone County Secretary Reports 460 Hogsheads Sold.

NUMEROUS SPEECHES MADE.

Quite a good crowd was present in the circuit court room last Monday when Mr. C. C. Sleet, of Beaver, called the tobacco meeting to order. After some preliminaries Mr. Sleet proceeded to place before the growers the progress that has been made in the county in the cut-out movement and was given the strictest attention which showed that his audience was intensely interested in the subject.

Every precinct in the county was represented in the meeting, and the cut-out movement was reported immensely popular in each, but in some precincts the pledge-bearers had not made a thorough canvass, and did not come up with anything like as many signed pledges as their verbal reports indicated could easily have been obtained, which is rather an unfortunate circumstance, as there is a larger element of growers in some localities that are from the show-me State on the cut-out proposition, and are awaiting a show down on the part of the Burley Tobacco Union which is advocating the cut-out plan for 1911, and signed pledges will be the only evidence they are likely to accept. The pledges signed showed an agreement on the part of the growers in the county to cut-out something over 1,700 acres, which is about half the number of acres grown last year in Boone county, but when the rising vote was taken in the meeting last Monday, on the cut-out proposition every man save one in the meeting rose, but when the converse of the proposition was put no one rose.

The meeting, Monday, was fairly representative of the county, and indicated that a very much larger acreage ought to have been pledged to the cut-out move than that reported to the meeting.

Numerous speeches were made during the meeting in the interest of the cut-out movement, and the meeting can be truthfully reported as enthusiastic.

C. C Sleet, of Beaver, was unanimously chosen to represent the county at the State meeting to be held in Lexington on the 20th of this month.

Mr. R W. Carpenter, B. C. Secretary, asks the Recorder to make the following announcement: "The Burley Tobacco Society has sold 460 hogsheads of tobacco that were pooled, and it brought $51,669.28."

That N. W. Barnes knows how to raise good tobacco and a great number of pounds to the acre is evidenced by the fact that he had this year on about an acre and one-half of ground 3650 pounds or about 1800 pounds to the acre. He sold this tobacco at home for 14 cents a pound. It was grown on the south hill side and was second year land. This is another evidence of what proper cultivation will do. Nathan has a reputation for raising good tobacco and it appears that he is entitled to it.—Trimble Democrat.

Many counties in Kentucky have decided to cut out the 1911 crop. It is well. What they want to raise is less tobacco and more turkeys; more hogs and less hell; more Leghorns and less litigation; less scandal and more school houses; pay more attention to potatoes and less to peanut politics, and more to good roads than to rum. Try this for a year and see a better Kentucky.—Big Sandy News.

Sent To Lakeland.

Mrs. Lucy Gifford, who, with her husband, resided on Milton Souther's farm near Idlewild, was tried a few days since and adjudged insane. She was sent to Lakeland Asylum. She had been there once before.

For Sale—Pair medium sized coming 4-year-old mules; also pair coming 3-year-old colts that will weigh 1,150 pounds each. Apply to S. B Scott, McVille, Ky.

For Sale—Two fresh cows. Apply to Harvey Utz, near Gunpowder.

The Boone County Board of Control of the Burley Tobacco Society met at the court house Monday before noon with the president, J. C Hughes, presiding, and the secretary, Thomas P. Curley, at his desk. Several matters of importance to those who have tobacco in the pool were discussed, the most important being the delay in the payment of the 20 per cent to which those in the 1909 pool are entitled under the distribution which has been made from the headquarters of the society in Lexington the past week. Mr Hughes explained the delay by stating that the grade sheets from this county had not all been received at Lexington, and it had, therefore, been impossible to make out the checks for the payment of the 20 per cent. He is confident the checks for the money will be received in the next few days. He stated further, that owing to the recent sale of a considerable quantity of the pooled tobacco another distribution of 20 per cent will be made in the very near future. The assurance given the poolers by Mr. Hughes relieved in a great measure the restlessness occasioned by the disappointment at not having received their money as they had expected several days since, and with the prospects of another distribution near at hand they went home in much better spirits.

NOT SATISFIED

Was LeBus With The Cut-Out Showing

Made By The Burley Tobacco Union at Lexington Last Monday.

And Withholds The Burley Tobacco Association's Endorsement.

The Executive Committee of Burley Tobacco Society made the following reply to the cut-out proposition submitted to them by the Burley Tobacco Union. The reply was submitted at the meeting of the Burley Union Committee held in Lexington, Monday.

"Committee of the Burley Union: Gentlemen—At the present time, from your reports, we do not see our way clear to recommend our people to take any action as to the 1911 cut-out. Respectfully, "EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE BURLEY TOBACCO SOCIETY.

"Clarence LeBus, Lester Witherspoon, C. C. Patrick, U. G. Sanders, V. S. Taylor, S. A. Shanklin, A. N. Slaughter."

When the call of counties for pledges was made at the Lexington meeting, last Monday, the following counties responded as follows: showing the acreage pledged to the cut-out:

Boone.....1,400 Franklin..2,800
Bourbon...1,400 Bath 3,241
Carter.....4,300 Fayette...1,300
Grant.....1,500 Harrison..3,000
Henry—cut-out Madison...1,000
Mason....3,500 Montgo'ry.2,194
Nelson.... Owen 3,406
Woodford.1,500 Mason.....8,000
Shelby—no pledges.
Jessamine—no pledges.
Clearmont, Ohio—no pledges.
Brown, Ohio—3,000.

The Burley Tobacco Union will continue its work of securing pledges to cut out this year's crop.

It is about time for the annual distribution of garden seed from Washington, D. C., to begin. Some claim that the best seeds they can get come from the Agricultural Department, while there be those who will swear they are n. g. Great minds have always differed in regard to small matters.

The Standard Oil Company is preparing to locate a large plant at North Bend. The company has secured an option on a tract of ground located at the division of the Big Four and B. and O. S W. railroads. The tract comprises about twenty acres. It is said that deeds for practically all of the land desired have been made. It is also stated that when the deals to the various pieces of land were made nothing was said to the owners that would indicate that the Standard Oil company was the firm interested.—Lawrenceburg Press.

An attack of the grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which to many proves a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used and with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies had failed. Sold by all Dealers.

SURPLUS OF $17.000

Has Boone County as Shown By The Fiscal Court's Settlement With Sheriff.

Property Tax Levy Reduced Five Cents On The $100 For 1911.

Poll-Tax Increased Fifty Cents More--Making It Easy for The Rich and a Hardship On The Poor.

Heating Plant For Court House Being Considered By The Fiscal Court.

The Boone County Fiscal Court held a special session, Tuesday, with County Judge Cason presiding and the County Attorney and all the Justices of the Peace present.

The settlement with the Sheriff was filed and shows that the county has on hand a fund slightly in excess of $17,000.

The delinquent poll tax list was sold to J. F Blyth for $205.

The court subscribed $400 to assist in opening two miles of new road between the Rabbit Hash and Gunpowder roads to the Rising Sun and Union Grade road. The citizens are to open the road 30 feet wide for public travel without further expense to the county.

Since the court of appeals has decided that fiscal courts must make the necessary appropriations for heating, cleaning and lighting the court house, the halls and offices, it will be necessary to install a heating plant in the court house.

The tax rate for the county for 1911, was fixed as follows:

School tax,	20 cents.
County tax,	3 cents.
Road tax,	5 cents.
Poll tax for school,	$1.00
Poll tax for county,	$1.50

The rate of tax on property for county purposes is 85 cents for 1911, while for 1910 it was ninety cents on the $100.

The poll tax was increased 50 cents per poll for school purposes, and the poll tax this year will be $2.50 instead of $2.00 as in 1910.

The court subscribed $500 a mile to assist in building a pike from Verona to the Lexington pike near Bracht.

Ben Johnson's ill-timed and ill-advised letter has stirred up a considerable commotion among the Kentucky Democrats, and has given him a prominent position as the Ananias Club, Judges Nunn and Lassing, of the court of appeals deny Johnson's charge that they had said they would not vote for a Catholic for Governor.

The following from the Bowling Green Times-Journal is good advice:

"Now that the primary method, which, by the way, is by far the fairest and most Democratic manner of selecting candidates, has been chosen to name both State ticket and a United States Senator, let's all go to work and act in the interest of the party's best welfare."

The idea of having a patriotic or general "chip in" primary to nominate Democratic candidates for State office, is as fallacious as it is fruitless in design. The hot air of enthusiasm is a costless thing and you can generally get all you want from almost any party man, but when it comes to digging down into the jeans for dollars, that is quite another thing, and the average voter talks right there. It is up to the candidates to pay their own way.--Hartford Herald

Death of Mrs. Jacob Bethel.

Another one of our loved ones has departed to the world where sorrow is not known. Mrs Lucinda Bethel died Jan. 27, 1911, of heart failure. She was buried at Ghent, Ky., on the 30th of Jan funeral preached by brother Scott at her home. She was born on Feb. 12th, 1841, died at the age of 69 years, 11 months and 15 days. She was the granddaughter of Col. Dorchester Mirick. She was united in marriage with Jacob Bethel Jan. 30th, 1866. They lived together until death seperated them—45 years on the very day she was buried. She lived a noble life, being kind and good to all, especially to the poor, and to know her was to love her. She was a christian woman, being united to the Universalist church forty years ago. Her husband and many friends are left to mourn her absence.

DEAD AT RIPE AGE

Well Known Throughout The County Was W. M. Rogers,

Who Died at His Home Near Walton Last Sunday Morning.

WILLIAM M. ROGERS.

William M. Rogers died at his home near Walton at about 10 a. m, last Sunday, in his 82nd year. He was a son of John and Sheba Roberts, his father being a native of Ireland. He was bord in Montgomery county, Dec. 19, 1829. He was one of a family of ten children, only one of whom, Mrs. Lucy Holton, survives, and was Mr. Rogers' senior Mr. Rogers spent most of his life in the Walton and Verona neighborhoods where he engaged in farming with the exception of several years which he devoted to the general merchandise business at Verona.

In about 1878 he became agent for the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boone County, and to his earnest and efficient work was due mainly the high rank that institution took in insurance circles early in its career. He served the company so faithfully that it was loath to dispense with his services a few years ago after age had made it necessary for him to retire from active life.

He was, all his life, a prominent man in the county, and for many years was known by nearly every man, woman and child there in.

In religion Mr. Rogers was an Old School Baptist and never was there a person more firm in his belief in that doctrine, and his greatest pleasure was in hearing his preachers expound the teachings of the Bible.

William Rogers was a most excellent citizen, a desirable neighbor, a devoted husband and a loving and indulgent father, his whole life being worthy of emulation. Surviving him are one son, County Clerk W. R Rogers, and three daughters, Mrs. C C. Roberts, Miss Lizzie, who is deputy county clerk under her brother, W. R Rogers, and Miss Sallie, who lived with her father.

In the death of William Rogers the county has lost one of its oldest and most beloved citizens whose memory will long be cherished.

The children, who have drunk deep and often of the cup of sorrow in the past few years, have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

The funeral at 10 o'clock yesterday was in charge of Edwards Bros., of Walton, and the sermon was preached by Elder J. S Steers, of Dry Ridge, Grant county, at Salem church near Walton, after which the interment took place in the family lot in the Salem cemetery.

(Tribute of a Friend.)

I have known Wm. M Rogers ever since I have been old enough to know anyone. We were born within about one mile of each other, went to school together, were in the same classes, and I never knew him to be guilty of a mean, low down act. He stood for everything that was ennobling and honorable. In his death his family has lost a kind and affectionate father and grandfather and the county a good and highly esteemed citizen.

Oscar Gaines.

AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS

Benjamin C. Cason Passes Away at His Home on Middle Creek.

Benjamin C. Cason, son of Alfred Cason, died at his home on Middle creek, last Saturday night after a brief illness of cancerous ulcer of the liver. Mr Cason had not been feeling well for several weeks, but did not give up until a week or ten days before his death. He was a quiet and most excellent citizen who will be missed greatly by the neighbors among whom he had lived so long, and whose esteem he had won by manly traits of character. He was in his sixty-second year, and besides his wife is survived by nine children, Carl, Ralph, Stanley, Thomas, Misses Anna, Leona, Eunice, Mrs. O P. Phipps and Mrs. G W. Sandford. Mrs. Cason was a daughter of the late Thos. and Roxanna Roberts. The funeral was conducted at the Burlington Baptist church, Monday, at 11 a. m, by Rev. Allie Stith, after which the remains were deposited in the I. O. O. F. cemetery to await interment.

The directors of the Consolidated Telephone Company held their regular meeting in Walton, yesterday.

Personal Mention.

Ben Crisler, of McVille, was a visitor to Burlington, Tuesday.

W. C Hensley, of Ashby Fork, was transacting business in Burlington, Tuesday.

Mr. A E. Deeterich, representing the Campbell Commercial School, Cincinnati, was in Burlington, last Saturday, in the interest of the school.

Leslie McMullen and wife, who had been in Denver, Colo., several months, arrived home one evening last week. No place like that Old Kentucky Home, you know.

Miss Charlotte Hall, who has a position as stenographer with a Cincinnati firm, spent from Saturday night until Monday morning with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F A. Hall.

A. C Riggs and wife, of Crescent Springs, Kenton county, were guests of Mrs. Riggs' aunt, Mrs George G. Hughes, last Thursday While here Mr. Riggs called at this office and ordered bills advertising a large sale of personal property on the afternoon of the 15th inst, an advertisement of which appears in another column. Mr. Riggs will move to the city to engage in business.

W. R Rouse and Dr. F. L. Sayre, of Hebron, were transacting business in Burlington, last Friday afternoon, having walked the distance, four miles. They made the Recorder a brief call, said, by the way, Mr. Rouse says the recent allowances published in the Recorder as made for repairs on the Dry creek bridge were for work done on the fills and not on the bridge proper, which he repaired some time ago, since which time it has not called for the expenditure of money.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Rouse entertained, last Wednesday, quite a number of their friends with a six o'clock dinner. The table was handsomely laid with decorations of ferns and narcissus. Among those who were present and partook of the elegant menu were Mr. and Mrs B. W. Adams, Mr. and Mrs E. E. Kelly, Dr. and Mrs. F L. Peddicord, Prof. and Mrs. E L. Dix, Mr. and Mrs. M. L Riddell, Mr and Mrs. F. A. Hall, Misses Annie and Pinkie Cowen and Nellie Martin.

A Narrow Escape.

Bert Sullivan had a narrow escape from being seriously hurt last Friday. He was riding a horse to which he had another hitched to lead. The one he was riding hung one of its feet in a shoe and fell, throwing Mr. Sullivan into the ditch at the road side, and pulled the other horse over on him in such a manner as to mash him into the soft ground considerably. In his effort to release the hitch rein of the horse that was being led and to free himself, Mr. Sullivan was in a manner disrobed, but, fortunately, received only a few light scratches. Recognizing this perilous situation Mr. Sullivan called loudly for help, but by the time W. J Rice and Albert Conner, who chanced to hear him, arrived he had succeeded in extricating himself.

Dragging the public roads is becoming quite popular in this county, and in every instance where that kind of work has been done it has given satisfaction in that the condition of the road is improved thereby. It smooths the surface and prevents the accummulation of water, which readily finds its way to the side citches, where they are properly constructed. If someone would devise a plan for a drag that would work the dirt to the center of the road all the time, it would materially assist in maintaining the road high in the center, and at the same time facilitate the labor of sustaining side ditches, which two features are the more important in good road working.

A game of kick as kick can foot ball furnished considerable fun for Burlingtonites, last Saturday afternoon, for some time. A large number of men and boys took part in the recreation, which was especially lively when Superintendent Riley lined the contestants up in regulation order and the sport proceeded a la Yale-Harvard. The Supt was the center of hostilities, but succeeded in leading his eleven to victory in an exciting rush. Supt Riley will, in all probability, be the coach for the High School team to be developed later on. Because of an injury to one of his ankles C. M Ralston was not able to come to his store Monday.

Some Points About Chickens.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

As spring is near at hand and the chicken question will be the topic for conversation, especially with the ladies, I will give some of my experience with them. Some fancy one breed and some another, which is all right. I have bred several kinds and am breeding the Single Combed Buff Orpingtons and the Mottled Anconas. The Orpingtons are a beautiful buff, healthy, and early to mature, and large, the roosters weighing from 10 to 12 pounds, and in my opinion, they are the best all-purpose chickens I have ever bred. The Anconas is mottled with small, black and white spots; are of the Leghorn type, therefore, smaller than Orpingtons. Ancona males weigh from 6 to 8pounds and the hens from 4 to 5. What they lack in size they make up in egg production, and the profit is there. They are the best layers I ever had anything to do with, are the healthiest chickens I ever bred. Both varieties are highly bred—as horse men say, they are bred up in the purple. I have no chickens to sell, but will sell eggs of either breed at one dollar for 15 eggs. Anconas are a regular egg machine. W T. Stott, Petersburg, Ky.

Fine Belgian Stallion.

E. J Aylor and Walter Riddell are highly pleased with the way their handsome two year old Belgian stud has come through the winter. He is 16 1-2 hands high, weighs 1,600 pounds and has fine action. They claim that he will be a successful prize winner at the fairs next fall.

County Court Orders.

Following were orders made in the county court last Monday,

A BRIEF HISTORY

Of Burlington as Compiled By Members of The Local Library Association.

[Paper by Miss Laura Porter.]

As this history takes us back to many, many years ago, I think it well to begin this story as the writers of old begun theirs: So, once upon a time, several years before 1800, a man by the name of John Craig, who came from Virginia, with men to help him, came to this part of Boone county, to enter a grant of land for ownership. To do so, it was necessary he should survey and stake it off. He found this a wilderness, and upon looking around for a place to camp, he struck a fine spring which is now a well, located on what is now the lower lot of W. L Riddell's residence property.

He drove forks and covered them with the boughs of trees for his camp, and thus at that early day and for years afterward, this location was known as Craig's Camp.

Early in the year 1801, John Craig and Robert Johnson, conveyed seventy-four acres to the town of Wilmington, hence, we conclude that was the date of the beginning of this town.

It is said that one of the first buildings in the town of Wilmington, was a long double log hotel, occupying the site where W. L Riddell lives.

Even at that early date they held court here. While there was no court house it was held in the different residences. On such a day, the landlord of the hotel was wont in lieu of a bell, to mount a stump at 12 o'clock, and in a loud voice call, "Gentlemen, gentlemen, dinner is ready; the bar's meat and bread is now on the table."

In the year 1815, Craig and Johnson, thinking seventy-four acres was not enough for the town, gave fourteen acres more.

The next year, there being another town of the same name in another part of the state, it was deemed best to exchange the name of Wilmington to Burlington.

As Burlington had grown to a sufficient size, in 1817, the first Court House was built, since which time justice has been dealt out to the people of Boone county here.

THE FIRST COURT HOUSE.
Built in 1817.

The first legal hanging in Boone county was along about 1820, when a man named Clutter, was hanged for the murder of a man on a flat-boat on the Ohio river. The scaffold on which the execution took place was erected near the northeast corner of the Boone County Deposit Bank building.

Three other persons have been hung on a scaffold near Burlington, while Judge Lynch, without jury or license, has taken men from the jail and hung them on a walnut tree, on the edge of the Burlington and Florence pike.

[Where the three Lynchings Were Pulled Off]

In the year 1818 and for years afterwards Burlington was quite a trading town, the people coming from miles to trade at this point. In operation were two tanyards, two or three tobacco factories, three blacksmith shops and wagon makers, two cabinet makers, a hatter, a woolen mill, besides several grocery and dry good stores, supplies for which were bought at Philadelphia, shipped by the way of the river to Cincinnati, and hauled from there to Burlington in wagons, which practice of hauling goods from Cincinnati is still kept up.

On account of Burlington being inland, and having no railroad nor river facilities, I am sorry to say it has retrograded in every branch of business.

No healthier place can be found or a more law-abiding citizenship than there are in Burlington.

"THE STREETS OF BURLINGTON."

[Paper by Robert Gaines.]

Burlington, the county seat of Boone, is located near the center of the county, consists of 11 streets, fourteen alleys and is laid into one hundred and thirty-six lots.

The streets run north and south east and west, while the alleys run only east and west. The two main streets are Washington and Main. Washington running east and west, Jefferson north and south. These two streets are each 70 feet wide. The alleys are 20 feet.

Next to the court house street is Temperate street. This street is 66 feet wide, as are all the other streets of the town except Washington and Jefferson streets. South of Temperate running east and west, in order are Gallatin, Washington, Torrid and Orient streets running north and south, beginning at the most eastern street, are Orient Garrard, Jefferson, Nicholas and Ohio streets. These are all the streets of the town, except the street around the public square, which is called Union street. This street is 40 feet wide. Ohio street, a part of Orient and Torrid streets and a good many alleys are not in public use. If these streets and alleys were divided off and fenced it would give the town a better and larger appearance.

If one wishes to see the streets of Burlington when they are in their beauty they should visit the town in the summer months, when the large maple trees are in full leaf. These trees furnish an abundance of shade which make the streets a pleasant place to rest and to have a chat with, your friends.

While the streets of our town are not so large and beautiful as those of Cincinnati and other large cities, they have had many interesting and exciting events to happen upon them, which will long be remembered by the inhabitants of Burlington.

(To be continued next week.)

Alfalfa and Good Farming.

As a general thing, all farmers who raise alfalfa are good farmers, but it does not follow that all good farmers raise alfalfa. If they did they would be that much better farmers.

Near Bardstown, Nelson county, Kentucky, there are several farmers who have fields of alfalfa from which they cut regularly three and sometimes four crops each season. They have never plowed any of these fields and put them in other crops, being satisfied with present returns. Some sell their hay, getting $18 to $20 per ton delivered in the town; others sell in the shock in the field, receiving $14 and $16 per ton there.

Mr. G Hurst has on his farm a ten acre field which he sowed to alfalfa six years ago and from which he made four cuttings last summer. Most of this was fed on the farm to sheep and cattle. He gathers a little over a ton per acre each cutting. He did not inoculate his land, but manured it heavily for two years before seeding. The first year he raised a crop of corn but the second only plowed and fitted the land and in August sowed the seed without a nurse crop and had no difficulty in getting a stand. The land is naturally drained and has an abundance of lime.

Mr. Hurst is a scientific farmer, rotating his crops and using large quantities of barnyard manure for the betterment of his soil and has never used commercial fertilizers. He says he notices closely his neighbors and finds that by constant use of fertilizers that their lands are becoming sour from the acid phosphates, and while the land in his section is limestone, agricultural lime is needed to counteract the acidity and make clover grow on it. He has seen lime applied to such fields with good effect.

Wheat, corn, cattle, hogs and mules form the chief production of Nelson county, one car load of mules having sold there recently, for $210 per head.—Ex

"Toronto Jimmie" On Trial.

The Grant county circuit court began its February grind last Monday. "Toronto Jimmie's" trial for robbing the bank at Crittenden, several years ago, is set for this term. He was tried and acquitted of the charge of robbing a bank at Corinth, a year or so ago, and while awaiting trial for the Crittenden job, he escaped from jail, and was captured again a few months ago.

The Best Hour of Life

is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N C. when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had, I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful Cold and Cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Its the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hay Fever any Throat or Lung Trouble. 50c $1.00 Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

WHAT WATER WILL DO.

It will quench fire and melt ice.

It will stop a dog fight, cat fight, prize fight or any other kind of a fight.

It will break up a convention of hoboes or suffragettes.

It will stop a mule from kicking or a broncho from bucking.

It will clean a street and clean out a mob.

It will stop a street parade or funeral procession.

It will interfere with church revivals and stop a prayer meeting.

It will clean out any kind of a house, from a pig pen to a cathedral.

It will demoralise a temperance lecturer, or a distiller of alcohol.

It will stop a political convention or a county fair.

It has done more good and done more damage than all the powder that has been manufactured since Adam winked at the sun.

It has accomplished more for the benefit of mankind than all the words coined in all the languages of the world since Bibles were printed.

We are in favor of road building by taxation; 5 cents on the $100, and if that is not enough make it 50 cents, for if we had a good road system of roads in Clay county every foot of land now selling for $1 would be selling for $10.—Manchester Clarion

Louisville when he leaves his trip south next month.

The Indiana and Ohio legislatures have been having their troubles with local option measures.

The Court of Appeals got busy with Boone county cases recently and disposed of about all of them.

The Board of Conference of Claimants of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Chicago decided to devote $2,000,000 for the support of superannuated ministers.

There is no side-stepping the fact that the people of Kentucky are more interested in the welfare of the State than they are in the opinions of rival candidates of eachother.

In Kentucky hanging—that is under the law—has been abandoned as a relic of barbarism. The electric chair has supplanted the scaffold, and when you are to be electrocuted you will be taken to the penitentiary at Eddyville.

Of the several persons whose names were taken off of the Recorder's subscription list at the beginning of this year, very few have thought it worth while to remit what they owe the office. There is not one in the whole number dropped but who, had the Recorder owed him a like amount, would have been after it with a sharp stick long since. Some few have paid up what they owed and one year in advance, and have been reinstated on the subscription list, showing a good intention on their part, and they are recognized as true friends of the paper. Those whose names were dropped had been carried as long as could safely be done and avoid trouble with the postoffice department at Washington, D. C.

The Gallinger ship subsidy bill providing for South American and trans-Pacific subsidized mail routes had a close call in the Senate, being put through both the Committee of the Whole and the Senate proper by votes of 40 to 39. The deciding vote in each case was cast by Vice President Sherman after the call had been recorded The bill would not have passed but for the absence from the Senate of C. W Watson, the new Democratic Senator from West Virginia, which made the vote a tie and gave the chair a chance to cast the deciding vote.

Senator Watson would better go back to the West Virginia mountains if he has not ability enough to know when his presence is required in the Senate chamber.

The Burnham bill for the establishing of a parcels post has been unanimously reported by the House Committee on Post offices and Post Roads with the recommendation that the bill pass. This measure has been recommended by the postmaster general, and provides that beginning April 1911, the postmaster general may select the rural routes upon which the system is to be installed, and that eleven pounds shall be the maximum weight of a parcel, the rates of postage to be determined by him. The postoffice department states that the service can be instituted and conducted with little or no additional expense, and that no additional carriers or equipment will be necessary. This bill will probably pass the Senate during the present session, as it embodies the recommendations of both the postmaster general and President.

A reduction of the South's representation in Congress was defeated by the Republicans of the House of Representatives in caucus by a vote of 72 to 48. The Republicans met for the purpose of deciding whether there should be a reapportionment bill at this session. Representative Bennet, of New York, sprang a surprise in the caucus by offering an amendment to the Census committee bill which instructed the committee to report back to the caucus in five days how many negroes, and in what States were disfranchised. Representative Langley, of Kentucky, spoke against the proposed amendment reducing the South's representation. He was followed by Speaker Cannon, Representative Madden, of Illinois and Representative Gaines, of West Virginia, against the amendment. Representative Kiefer, of Ohio, urged the adoption of the amendment. The vote disclosed 24 majority against the amendment.

In the latter spoke of the withdrawal from the contest for the Democratic nomination for Governor, Congressman Ben Johnson, aims to do the party all the harm he can, but the probability is he is the one who will suffer from his ill-timed letter. Of the letter the Lexington Herald says:

"The record of Mr. Johnson's own life seems to us conclusive proof that in Kentucky membership in the Catholic church is not a bar to political preferment. At the moment we do not think of any man in the state as young as he who has had heaped upon him so many political honors. And worthily has he worn them. Not only is his own career a refutation of the charge that membership in the Catholic church is a bar to political preferment, but nearly every city and county in the state has given proof that political preferment is not determined by religious affiliations. Members of the Legislature, of the highest judiciary of the state, Mayors, Sheriffs, County Clerks, officers of every sort are elected in Kentucky, irrespective of whether they belong to the Catholic or to a Protestant church. It is true that members of the Catholic church are strongly inclined to vote for those who belong to that church; equally true that members of the Christian church, the Baptist church, the Presbyterian church, in many cases, are controlled in casting their vote by the associations formed and the friendship engendered because of church relations. It is also true that there are men who are opposed to any man who belongs to the Catholic church."

"We are too young, as is also Mr. Johnson to recall when the Know Nothing party gained temporary ascendency. But we are somewhat familiar, as is also Mr. Johnson with the fight for freedom made against temporarily overwhelming odds, which led to the destruction of that party. We have read with intense interest the accounts of those days, as we have also read the accounts of the debates between the representatives of Catholic churches and the representatives of the Presbyterian church preceding and following the rise and fall of the Know Nothing party.

"We of this day can but faintly realize the intense bitterness of those days. It is not the part of wisdom for a man of the ability, of the character, of the attainments, who has had heaped upon him the political honors which have gone to Mr. Johnson to do aught to rekindle the ashes of that conflagration."

WHY DON'T YOU ATTEND THE TOBACCO MEETINGS?

It seems impossible to work up any enthusiasm on the tobacco problem in the Burlington precinct, and very little attention is ever paid to calls for precinct meetings, and last Saturday afternoon when the hour arrived to hold the precinct meeting three our four of the local leaders and about as many growers were on hand. Burlington precinct produces considerable tobacco and there is certainly some local cause for such little interest being manifested at critical points by those for whose benefit the pool and cut-out propositions are extended. Burlington growers are supposed to be as wise as to what is to their advantage as are growers in other parts of the county, therefore, is it possible that the hundred or so growers in the precinct are willing that the three or four who reside in the shadow of the court house shall without instructions represent them on so important a question as one relating to whether or not they shall raise a crop of tobacco in 1911? Those who are taking the lead in the matter would very much prefer having instructions from their neighbors on such a grave subject, which would divide the responsibility with them upon any final action they may take in the matter.

Death closed the eyes of Mrs. Mary Eliza Burnes in that peaceful sleep that knows no awakening at her home, Saturday morning, Feb. 4th, and a most lovable woman has passed to her heavenly reward. Mrs Burnes was born August 19th, 1850, being the A busy life was hers, indeed, Green, of McVille, who have both preceded her to the better land. She was attacked by paralysis, Wednesday morning, and two days of suffering intervened, and her little barque of life passed over the river of death, peacefully and gently. The dipping of the oars were scarcely heard, for the Master was there and had spoken, "Peace, be still." She gave her life to God about 20 years ago, and became a member of the Methodist church in Petersburg, and was a consistent member until God called her spirit home. She was married to Steph en Burnes, Feb. 25th, 1874 To this union were born eight children, all of whom with her husband, survive. She devoted the last years of her life to her husband, who became blind several years ago, and she considered no sacrifice too great if he needed her. A busy life was her's, indeed, never faltering, never shrinking, however tired she might be. But her work is done here, and she is now busy on the hill tops of heaven. The severance of such tender ties always bring great sorrow, and were it not for the promise of an eternal reunion in the sweet beyond, there could be no solace to the sorrow stricken hearts. The funeral services took place Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the Methodist church, being conducted by Rev. Bradley, after which the remains were interred in the cemetery below town. Besides her husband and children, Mrs. Burnes leaves a brother, Robert Green, of Belleview, and a sister Mrs. Utzinger, of Garrison, and a host of grand-children and friends to mourn her death. May the Christ who said: "I am the light of the world, the risen and glorified Christ," soothe the sorrow and illuminate the mystery. C E. S.

I have before me a clipping from the Louisville Evening Post, Feb. 4th, giving an account of the 58th commencement of the Louisville Girls High School, held the previous evening in the auditorium of the school. It states that the Sophomore prize was awarded to Miss Georgia Carroll in a brief presentation speech by Mrs. John L. Woodbury, president of the Alumnae Club, donors of the prize. This prize was awarded her for having received the highest average in her class of thirty-six girls. This is good news indeed to her many friends here. We are always glad of an opportunity to note the praise which comes to Midway folks in other lands, and the case of Miss Georgia is no exception to this rule as we feel that she is well entitled to all the honors she has been crowned with.

The Piano and Expression classes of Walton Graded School will give an evening of readings and music Feb. 24th, eight o'clock, at the Walton school.

Dr. N S. Matthews and brother R. B Matthews of Williamstown, were here last Friday on business. The latter is negotiating for the purchase of the S. E Hogsett property at Crittenden, consisting of a very large frame house and about fourteen acres of land.

Miss Georgia Carroll, who resides at Big Bone Springs, and has been attending school at Louisville, making her home with her uncle Dr. W W. Smith, won great distinction in her school work, and received very high honorable recognition at the mid-winter examination at the Louisville Auditorium where the public exercises took place. Miss Carroll was so perfect in her studies every day that her grades were perfect in the year and a half she has been attending the Louisville schools, consequently she did not have to undergo examination. At the recent exercises the faculty gave her a special invitation to be present, and at the conclusion the professor escorted Miss Carroll to the stage and in a highly complimentary speech introduced her to the vast audience as a pupil who had made the best record during the entire history of the Louisville public schools, and that he was particularly proud of her work, and at the conclusion of his remarks made Miss Carroll a present of a ten dollar gold piece. The immense audience in token of its appreciation of such a meritorious work, and the splendid record achieved, gave Miss Carroll an ovation. She is a daughter of the late Meridith Carroll, and was born in this county, where bright and good people are the principal product.

Last Saturday night, our neighboring town of Crittenden, Grant county, was the scene of a bloody tragedy in which one man lost his life and two other men were thought to be mortally wounded. The colored population had a festival or entertainment in Crittenden and quite a number of the colored people of Walton attended. It seems that there is a bitter feeling between the young colored men of the two towns, and it was understood that the Crittenden boys expected to attack the Walton boys if they attended the entertainment. Cooper Coleman seemed to be the leader of the belligerent spirit, and it seems that he was stationed at the head of the stairway of the hall when several of the Walton boys entered, and he opened fire on [illegible] with a heavy revolver. His first shot took effect in the head of Ben Robinson, pro ducing almost instant death. His next shot struck Kirtley Steele almost in the mouth, tearing away a part of his jaw. Steele who was armed with a revolver opened fire on Coleman and two of his bullets took effect in his body. The shooting broke up the party and the wounded men were carried to their respective homes and given medical attention, and the dead body of Robinson was brought to the home of his father, Andy Robinson, near Walton, where the funeral took place Tuesday. Robinson was about 19 years old and was a quiet, inoffensive fellow, and when shot did not have even a pen knife on his person. Steele is at his home in Walton and is getting along as well as could be expected, and will recover but will be disfigured for life. Coleman is still in a critical condition at his home near Crittenden, but it is believed he will get well. The Grant county officers came to Walton and took a number of the colored people who were present at the melee, into custody to be used as witnesses, and it is expected that in the interest of the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth there will be a vigorous prosecution of all the parties implicated, and particularly those guilty of bloodshed.

The trouble arose over an effort to make the Walton negroes pay $1.00 admission when the price was only 50 cents.

The Democratic State Executive Committee did the proper thing—apparently under pressure, however, when it included the senatorial nomination in the State primary called for May 27. This should have been done in the first place, and thus prevented much unfavorable comment.—Hartford Herald.

It is strange how great men will differ concerning legislative matters. For instance, President Taft declares that the defeat of the proposed reciprocity with Canada would be the death knell of protective tariff, while Speaker Cannon says that its adoption will be the entering wedge to the downfall of protect ion in the United States.

Recent legislation on the whisky question has Indiana pretty well aroused. The State license fee will remain $200 as at present, but under the new law towns of no more than 500 population may have the privilege of maintaining a saloon, but not more than one. A population of 1,500 may have two, and one more may be added for every additional thousand population. The penalties for violation of the law seem heavy. A second violation calls for revocation of the license, beyond recall. The saloon keeper must, of course, be a man of good moral character.

S. L Craven, of Verona, member of the county school board, was a caller at this office, last Monday. Mr Craven is very much interested in educational matters, and is trying to arrange so the public school at Verona will be taught the same number of months as is the County High School at that place, which arrangement if perfected will be of great benefit to both schools, as they will proceed then as one school and will soon become so thoroughly merged as to be recognized as one institution. Parents in and about Verona have taken very active interest in educational matters for several years and having lost none of their zeal, will push any proposition calculated to advance the welfare of their schools.

The next General Assembly of Kentucky will be called upon to attempt the solution of several important problems. An effort will be made to further solve the educational problem by amending the school law in numerous particulars. The proposed work along that line will require considerable time, as the amendments will be good, bad, indifferent, consistent and inconsistent.

The tax system will come to the front again for a general remodeling and overhauling, and if a new system is evolved it will be about as good as the one now in force. A perfect tax system has never been enacted nor never will be, as long as there are so many interests that are diametrically opposed to eachother, and each capable of exerting a powerful influence on legislation. If the next legislature can improve the tax laws of Kentucky it will have to be possessed of more ability than any of its predecessors. It may be able to increase the schedule, but to equalize taxation so that the burden will fall on all alike there is very little probability that it will succeed.

The good roads measure will bob up early in the session, with nearly as many proposed laws as there are members. It will be a problem with which the average mind will not be able to cope successfully, as a law that would prove a success in one section of the State would not work at all in another section. To adjust a law so that each county in the State will be equally benefitted under its provisions will require hard and careful study, which will result in a final decision that such a thing under a general law in Kentucky, is impossible. The road question is one that of necessity requires considerable local legislation to accomplish which it will be necessary to enlarge the authority of the fiscal court in such a way that it may have almost absolute control of the public highways in its jurisdiction, if such can be done by the legislature.

The local option question is not to be handled to a better advantage by a local authority than under a law that applies to all parts of the State regardless of local conditions.

The loacl option question is not a dead issue by any means, and legislation bearing on that subject will, doubtless, be pressed again during the next session. Local option has been the paramount issue for several sessions of the General Assembly, and had considerable to do with the making and unmaking of local states men, and the chances are that it will cut some figure along that line again at the next session. It is a question that all the candidates for legislative honors would gladly side-step.

No message of the President has caused so much comment as that of President Taft recommending the enactment of a reciprocity treaty with Canada, whereby there is to be a wholesale reduction or removal of the tariff on bread stuffs. For instance poultry, both dead and alive, potatoes, cabbage, onions, tomatoes, apples, peaches, butter, eggs wheat, certain classes of fish and fresh meat, on which there is now a tariff, will be admitted free, with the exception of fresh meat, on which the duty will be 1-4 cent a pound, instead of 1-2 cent a pound while it is claimed that pound. While it is claimed that the cost of living will be reduced if the treaty becomes effective, it is argued that the arrangement is very onesided, in that it provides for free trade in agricultural products, while there are no compensating returns to the farmer.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture stated that he looked for stubborn opposition from some of the grain sections of the West and Northwest. He said that these people might conceive a grievance against the measure and he rather expected that they would. As for the California fruit growers, the Secretary was of the opinion that they should favor the treaty. He said that their market was expanded by it, and that they would profit heavily in his judgment.—Ex

The Library Association is having considerable work done on its building. Among other things the large post has been taken out of the center of the room. This is a very great improvement to the auditorium as the post was a great inconvenience, as it obstructed the view of the stage from certain points.

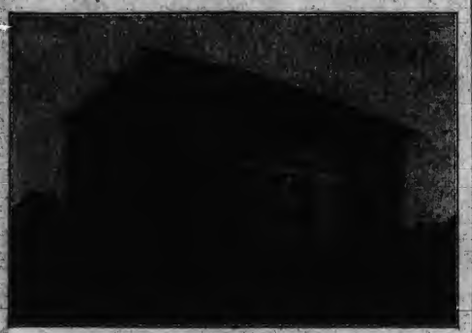
A BRIEF HISTORY

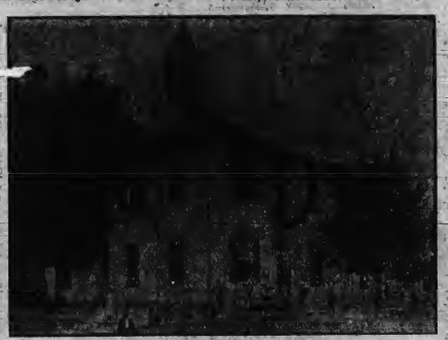
Of Burlington as Compiled By Members of The Local Library Association.



[Paper by Mrs. C. C. Hughes.]

Burlington, county seat of Boone county, was first known as Craig's Camp.

A court house was ordered built at that place. The name was soon changed to Wilmington and in 1816 again changed to Burlington. Our little village has been in existance more than a century.



Many of the houses now occupied as homes and as places of business, have been here nearly as long awhile.

Our first Court House and Jail were of log structures. They were both situated on the lower corner of the F. A Hall property. The old house standing there, at the present time has always been known as the Woodward property and was built early in the past century.

(A Type of Pioneer Architecture in Burlington)

These old log buildings were in use from the year 1799 until the first brick Court House was erected. The date of this is a little uncertain; some tell us in 1814 and others contend the date to have been 1817. That building was situated just where our present temple of justice rears its head. It was conceded to be one of the handsomest of its kind in Northern Kentucky.

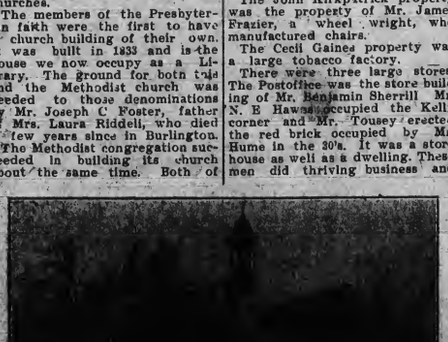
(The 1817 Court House as Remodeled)

County Court days were gala days, persons, both men and women coming from all parts of the county to meet and greet eachother.

Eighty years ago there was not a church building in Burlington, all public religious services being held in the Court House. The religion of that period was of much more emotional nature than at this time. However it was practical enough to build five churches.

The members of the Presbyterian faith were the first to have a church building of their own. It was built in 1833 and is the house we now occupy as a Library. The ground for both this and the Methodist church was deeded to those denominations by Mr. Joseph C Foster, father of Mrs. Laura Riddell, who died a few years since in Burlington.

The Methodist congregation succeeded in building its church about the same time. Both of these houses are very much as they were when first constructed. Both, however, have been remodeled to a certain extent.



In the year 1843 a brick church was erected where the present Baptist church stands. This was considered a very fine church in its day. In it was a gallery for the negroes, the only church in the town that ever afforded one. In the 80's this was torn away and the present pretty building soon occupied the old site.

The Christian church here was erected in 1848, but was condemned and taken down during the 70's.

Last of all the church buildings to be erected was that of the Universalists, which was built some where about 30 years ago.

At least three-fourths of the houses that compose the town occupy the same sites first made use of as a building points, many being almost as they were when first built. These were substantially put up and have furnished comfortable homes for the generations.

Our town is not progressive. If we have one really destructive trait, it is contentment.

(Present Court House)

(The Erastus Tousey House)

In endeavoring to learn of the earlier times we find that from the 40's to 50's Burlington was quite a business center. Many industries were at that time conducted here, of which nearly every trace is extinct.

There was a carding mill on the creek below Mr. Cyrus Cowen's place.

The John Kirkpatrick property was the property of Mr. James Frazier, a wheel wright, who manufactured chairs.

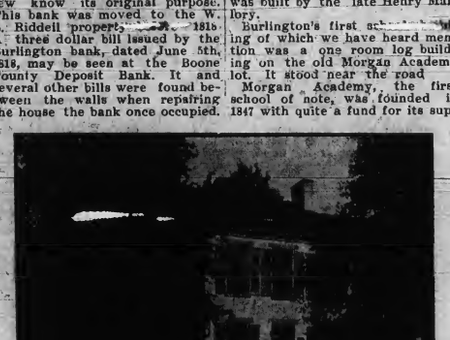
The Cecil Gaines property was a large tobacco factory.

There were three large stores. The Postoffice was the store building of Mr. Benjamin Sherrill Mr. N. E Hawes occupied the Kelly corner and Mr. Tousey erected the red brick occupied by Mr. Hume in the 30's. It was a store house as well as a dwelling. These men did thriving business and went twice a year to New York to buy their stock, which consisted of fine articles of merchandise as well as staples.

We are told that the Cowen property, the Westbay home, the old Red house lately razed by Chas. McKim and the Big Jim Calvert house of which but one room is left standing, are the oldest dwellings in the community.

The Calvert house is on the property of W. L Riddell, and is known to be 125 years old. It was built by Mr. Robert Chambers, a grandfather of the late Joseph C. Chambers, of Cincinnati.

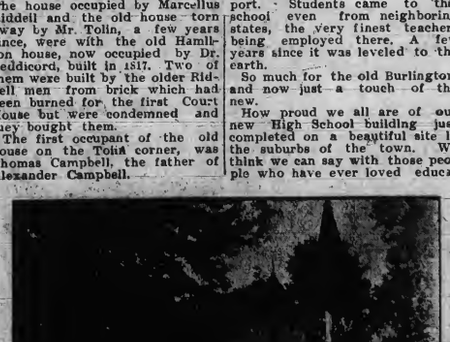
The first hotel in the town was a long, low, log structure, occupying the Buckner corner. The court at that time fixed all rates of charge for both man and beast when there accommodated.



The house now owned by Mrs. Fount Riddell was erected in the early 20's by General Fowler, the great grandfather of Miss Mamie Hawes. It was then considered as fine a hostelry as was in this part of the state.

The Collins place now owned by Mr. Revill, the Chas Chambers place, where W. J Rice lives, the Kirtley home, built by Mr. Joel Kirtley, and now owned by Ever

(The Collins Place)



The oldest brick dwellings are the Sandford house and W. L Riddell's home. They are fully a century old. The first bank in Burlington was established on the Sandford property. A vault was built in the wall for the bank's use. It is still there, though but few know its original purpose. This bank was moved to the W. L. Riddell property [illegible] 1818. A three dollar bill issued by the Burlington bank, dated June 5th, 1818, may be seen at the Boone County Deposit Bank. It and several other bills were found between the walls when repairing the house the bank once occupied.

(Where N. E. Hawes Sold Goods.)

The house occupied by Marcellus Riddell and the old house torn away by Mr. Tolin, a few years since, were with the old Hamilton house, now occupied by Dr. Peddicord, built in 1817. Two of them were built by the older Riddell men from brick which had been burned for the first Court House but were condemned and they bought them.

The first occupant of the old house on the Tolin corner, was Thomas Campbell, the father of Alexander Campbell.

(Present Baptist Church)

ett Hall, the J. M Runyan place—these with the property owned by Homer and Roy Clutterbuck, are called the old houses of Burlington and were all built by 1835. The stairway in the last named is considered even today to be a grand piece of architecture, and was built by the late Henry Mallory.

Burlington's first school of which we have heard mention was a one room log building on the old Morgan Academy lot. It stood near the road

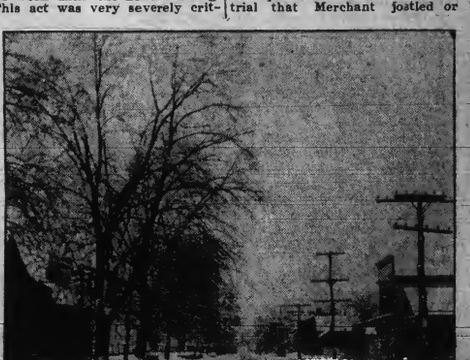
Morgan Academy, the first school of note, was founded in 1847 with quite a fund for its support. Students came to this school even from neighboring states, the very finest teachers being employed there. A few years since it was leveled to the earth.

So much for the old Burlington, and now just a touch of the new.

How proud we all are of our new High School building just completed on a beautiful site in the suburbs of the town. We think we can say with those people who have ever loved education, "It is the house of many hopes." May the work there done make for Burlington many educated, true and progressive citizens, and that thru its wide spreading influence the world of business prosperity will be brought to Burlington.

Paper by Wilbur Kelly.)

A large mob took Smith Williams, a strong burly negro, from the jail with great difficulty, as the negro was so strong he knocked the men down as fast as they came to him. The mob succeeded in getting into the jail by using hammers. Williams got away from the mob and, would have escaped had he not fallen over the court house steps, when a man struck him on the head with a hammer Some people think this lick killed him. He was taken to a walnut tree on the Florence pike about one and one-half miles east of Burlington and hanged.



(The Jail from which The Prisoners Was taken by Mob)

A negro named Scales was also taken out of the jail by a drunken, disgraceful mob, supposed to be organized by the Cincinnati daily newspapers, a reporter of one of which was indicted by the grand jury of this county, but was never arrested.

This negro was hung on a walnut tree five miles east of Burlington.

A mob secured the keys and took Lafedette, a white man, from the jail and hung him on a large Oak tree on the North Bend road, one-half mile north of Burlington. This mob was so well organized and proceeded so quietly that scarcely anyone knew of its work until the next morning. This act was very severely criticised by the citizens in general, as they thought it was very questionable as to whether the man committed a crime for which the law would have taken his life, or whether he committed any crime at all, for a number of people thought he acted in self defense.

The fights on the streets of Burlington have been numerous, not so much, however, since the people of the county cast their votes prohibiting the sale of liquor in Burlington. While liquor was being sold openly in the town there was scarcely a court day or any other public affair that there was not one or more fights. Only two however, were serious, one by which a man received an ugly cut that did not prove fatal. The other was a killing commit ted nearly in front of the Temple of Justice, when Weaver killed Merchant. The trouble that caused the murder originated during the time of the Civil War. Some Union soldiers in their ravage thru the country went to the residence of Weaver, assaulted his old mother and turned on him and beat him with a gun and left him unconscious, thinking he was dead. Weaver knew the leader of this band of soldiers, and made the threat that he would kill Merchant the first time he saw him. The first meeting of these two men after the war, was in Burlington, April court day, 1866, when the killing took place It was shown on the trial that Merchant jostled or brushed against Weaver, who turned, saw who it was, and drew his pistol and shot him dead. Weaver was indicted, and tried in the Boone county court, and acquitted by the jury.

Farmers and Good Roads.

A good Hopkins county farmer tells the Madisonville Hustler that he would be willing to pay as much as $20 or $30 a year for good roads. He feels that improved thoroughfares would be worth more than that to him—and they would. He rightly says that "the farmers are the ones who should be the most active in pressing the matter because they would reap the benefits."

Good roads, it is true, would benefit the farmer immensely, but the benefits do not stop with any one class. Under a systematic plan of improvement there are few farmers who would have to pay as much as $20 or $30 a year, out where is there a sensible farmer, living on a poorly maintained dirt road, who cannot figure out that he is losing twenty or thirty dollars a year, or more, by reason of the lack of good roads? It is a simple proposition in addition which does not require the services of a mathematical expert. It can be demonstrated with a piece of charcoal on the barn door or with a stub of a pencil on a cypress shingle.

The farmer, more than anybody else perhaps, need good roads. Doubtless he loses more money than anyone by reason of bad roads, but he has no monopoly in that loss. The businessman at the country town loses, whether he be merchant, banker, butcher, baker or candlestick maker. Everybody pays in some way a tax for bad roads in a county where there is indifference to improvement. In the nature of things the farmer pays the heft of it and he ought to be right at the forefront of every movement for highway betterment.—C J.

PATCHWORK AN ANCIENT ART

It Had Its Origin Many Ages Ago but Now Is Distinctly An American Institution.

The idea that patchwork had its origin in America is not founded on fact. A thousand years before the Christian era a queen of Egypt went down the Nile to her last resting place under a wonderful canopy of skins that were dyed and pieced together in a mosaic pattern. Years before this work had reached perfection and acquired a definite place among the arts. Then, too, patchwork quilts were made in England in the Eighteenth century, as witness the letter written by Cowper to a Mrs. King upon receipt of "A kind present of a patchwork quilt of her own making."

Patchwork is distinctly an American institution. In this big new country, where woman's work was never done, where even the few conveniences of the day were lacking, women had no time to spend on any but the practical things of life. The mothers of this nation left behind them no wonderful historical needlework, like the Gobelin tapestries of France and the beautiful laces of Italy. There were all too few to attend to the spinning and weaving and household duties in the homes where dwelt not only the large family, but the hired help as well.—Charlotte F. Buldtmann in Woman's Home Companion.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. James W Kennedy, of Union, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. John W Berkshire, of Petersburg, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Hon. S W. Tolin, of Burlington, a candidate for State Senator in the Senatorial District composed of Boone, Gallatin and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For Representative.

The Recorder is authorized to announce G. Elsworth Carroll, of Walton, as a Democratic candidate to represent Boone county in the General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For County Clerk.

The Recorder is authorized to announce W. R Rogers as a candidate for the nomination for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Recorder is authorized to announce G. M Allen, of Walton, as a candidate to represent Boone county in the General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

In this issue of the Recorder appears the announcement of G. M. Allen, of Walton, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination as Representative from this county to the next General Assembly. Mr. Allen, until the last few years has been a farmer and is well acquainted with their condition and needs. He is a straight from the shoulder Democrat, a clever gentleman and a good business man. If he is nominated and elected Boone's interest will be well cared for in the lower house of the next legislature.

At a meeting of the Democratic Senatorial Committee held at Sparta, Gallatin county, one day last week, it was decided that Gallatin and Owen counties would take no part in choosing the Democratic candidate for State Senator in this district, as under the rule of rotation agreed to by the three counties many years ago, Boone is entitled to the next Senatorship which begins with January 1, 1912. Consequently the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee will have the fixing of the time and manner of nominating a candidate for State Senator, which, no doubt, will be by a primary election held on the same day of the State primary, May 27th.

Demanding an explanation of the action of President LeBus and the other members of the Burley Society in refusing to indorse the proposed 1911 cut-out movement of the Burley Tobacco union, the old poolers of Mason, rendleton, Grant, Owen and Harrison held a mass meeting in Falmouth, Pendleton county, Saturday afternoon and appointed a committee to go to Lexington Monday and hold a conference with the executive board of the Burley Tobacco society and President LeBus in regard to the recent action of that body when the proposed cut-out was refused the indorsement of the Burley society. The refusal of the officials of the Burley Tobacco Society to give the cut-out movement their indorsement was a surprise to many of the members of the 1909 pool who thought that in as much as the 1910 pool failed the Burley Tobacco Society ought to assist in the new movement to maintain a good price for tobacco.

Last Saturday should have been pay day for the teachers of the common schools, but the day before Superintendent Riley received notice from the State Superintendent at Frankfort that there would be nothing doing because of the lack of funds, and they may not receive any more money before June. The State Superintendent said he had drawn his warrant on the State Tresaury but no money was forthcoming. Now the question is what has become of the State School Fund that should be on hand, especially as it has been only a few days since every Sheriff in the State should have made a full settlement and paid into the State treasury the remainder of the revenue coming from his county? An explanation of Saturday's default is due, as there can be but one of two causes; 1. The revenue has not been paid into the treasury as the law requires, or if the revenue has been paid the school fund has been misappropriated. The treasurer might be able to throw some light on the subject, as at this distance it looks like there is some official legerdemain being practiced at headquarters that is proving a great inconvenience to a large class of persons for whom the State is paymaster.

County Supt. of Schools Riley informs the Recorder that the total cost of the Boone Co. High School building at Burlington is $11,189.85 This amount he actually paid out on account of the building but he expects to reduce the sum several hundred dollars by the sale of material left on hand, such as scrapers, wheelbarrows, &, &c, The building, for which Mr. Ab Carter, of Erlanger, was the contractor, is pronounced a first-class job throughout by persons who have inspected it and are capable judges. Under the careful supervision of Supt. Riley the grounds will receive attention so soon as the weather will permit, and when the work on them is concluded the county will have an up-to-date high school building and campus of which it can be proud, and which will also be a credit to Supt. Riley and his school board, which is composed of T. J Walton and Charles Kelly, of Burlington precinct; Wm. Eggleston, of Bullittsville precinct, and S. L Craven of Verona precinct.

The advantages of this school fold and many of those who have objected so strenuously to the construction of the building will live to acquire benefits from the school that will cause them to volunteer praises of all those who have been instrumental in its founding. Pull for your County High School earnestly and you will recover with good interest all it has cost you. Will you pull?

Bert Smith, very recently called from the Recorder's force of correspondents, to help Uncle Sam out in the revenue service, writes thus interestingly from Carrollton, where he is located:

I have just been assigned to the old Darling distillery at Prestonville, on and after Feb. 13th. Walter Kelly has been assigned to go on duty et the same place at the same time. Mr Kelly lives in Carrollton, but I have not seen him, he having been on duty at Milton since I have been here. Carrollton has three loose leaf tobacco houses which have sold about a half million pounds of tobacco a week this season. One basket of tobacco sold yesterday for 46 cents a pound. This sounds pretty big in print, but if you will take the fact into consideration that there was only seventeen pounds of tobacco in the basket you will see that it was not a big deal after all. The tobacco market here has been overrun for the past two weeks, and it is predicted that the prices will be much lower if it continues to come. Tobacco comes here every day from all parts of Gallatin, Grant, Owen, Henry and Trimble, and Carroll counties, besides large quantities from Indiana. You can hear all kinds of opinions here about cutting out the 1911 crop. One man will tell you that everybody in his neighborhood are willing to cut it out and the next man will say, No, we are not going to cut it out —the people won't stand for it. I will close for I know you will be busy and will not have time to read any more of this. I hope this will find the entire Recorder force on the upward beat. Best wishes for all."

Card of Thanks—We wish thru the Recorder, to extend our heart felt thanks to all who so kindly came to our assistance, and to all who extended their sympathy to us, in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our husband and father, James Nelson Pearson. The summons came to him so suddenly, but in only a few minutes after we called the doctor, friends began coming to assist us and in a few minutes the news had spread and we were surrounded by a house full of sympathizing friends. Words fail when we try to express our gratitude for such kindness. The Family

"Tun" Rich, who owns the Eliza Garrison farm near Big Bone Baptist church, delivered his crop of tobacco to a Covington firm last week at a good price. Mr Rich is the largest tobacco grower in this county, and has some of the best land in this part of the State on which to grow the weed.

Herbert Kirkpatrick, local dealer in furs, met the Rich Bros. of the south end of the county, at Florence, last Saturday, and purchased their winter's catch of furs, which was a big one and a prime bunch of pelts taken as a whole. Rich Bros are successful trappers and handle the pelts taken in a manner that is very satisfactory to dealers.

Noah West, who has resided on Henry Clore's farm down on the East Bend road for many years, was a calier at this office, one day last week. Mr West is one of the Recorder's stand-bys. Col. John R Whitson, of Florence, was transacting business in Burlington, last Saturday. It is said he is undecided as to whether he will enter the political arena this year, and if he does, whether he will be a candidate for Representative or for Senator.

Stanley Crouch, of the Erlanger hardware merchant, was in Burlington, last Saturday. He is a hustler and has worked up a good trade in the few months he has been in business in Erlanger. Wanting anything in his line it will be well enough to give him a call.

John W. Rice, of Weatherford, Oklahoma, is spending a short time here with relatives and old acquaintances. He has been away from this his old home, 26 years, and is a typical westerner, but yet the John Wesley Rice of his boyhood. Everybody is glad to meet him again.

Atty. D. E. Castleman went to Owenton, Tuesday, to settle with the fiscal court of Owen county in regard to his fee as an attorney in the recent litigation of the county against several of its ex-officials. Large amounts were recovered, consequently Mr. Castleman's fee will be a liberal one as his contract with the fiscal court calls for five per cent. of the amounts recovered, besides a good retainer.

Henry Hoffman, who, a quarter of a century ago, was a citizen of this neighborhood, but now is a resident of the Latonia annex to Covington, has been spending several days with relatives and friends in the vicinity of Burlington. He is looking well, there having been little or no change in his appearance in the last several years, while that hearty laugh which is good to hear stays with him. He still pursues his trade, that of carpenter and can get about over a building or a scaffold with more ease than many of his working companions who are several years his junior.

Georgetown—William Frazier, a negro, was sentenced to the electric chair here after a trial, on charges of having assaulted and beaten a girl of his own race. The case is believed to be the only one in this State where such a crime, with only negroes concerned has resulted in the extreme penalty of the law.

Owenton—The Burley Tobacco growers of Owen county are being made happy this week by receiving 20 per cent of the money arising from the sale of the 1909 pooled tobacco. County Secretary, J. W Connelly has secured from the Burley Tobacco Head quarters at Lexington, checks amounting to more than $145,000 and is busy making a distribution of same.

—o—

Paducah—At a meeting of the Protestant Pastors' Association resolutions were adopted discouraging the practice of holding funerals on Sunday and proposing a discontinuance of the custom of remaining around the open grave while it is being filled. The pastors contend Sunday funerals interfere with the attendance at church and impose unnecessary physical and mental exeration on them.

—o—

Glasgow—Several head of livestock in Glasgow have been afflicted with hydrophobia this week. A valuable cow belonging to W. L. Porter died and a fine Jersey cow belonging to Jake Oliver is in a dying condition. Four valuable fox hounds belonging to Allison Trigg died this week from what was believed to have been rabies. Just when or how the cows became infected is not known and there is much uneasiness felt by the citizens.

—o—

Elizabethtown—Robert Jenkins, of this county, lost a cow by hydrophobia. The symptoms of this disease was not noticed until a short time prior to her death, and as the family was using her milk fears are entertained by the members of the family that they will contract the disease, as it is claimed that if tuberculosis can be contracted from the milk of a cow that hydrophobia can also be contracted. No symptoms of the disease have so far developed in the family.

Paducah—Dr. C E. Kidd, County Health Officer, probably will go into court to contest the action of the Fiscal Court in reducing his salary from $500 per year to $50. The statutes prescribe a "reasonable salary," and when Dr. Frank Boyd was Health Officer and he threatened to sue for $1,000 per year the matter was compromised by the Fiscal Court paying him $500, which it has been until this week. It is said the Court of Appeals has upheld a salary of $500.

Henderson, Ky.—Chester Fentress, who was given a life sentence in the circuit court on the charge of killing Town Marshal T. J. Skaggs, of Clarkson, Grayson county, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment for horse-stealing, and was given the indeterminate sentence of from two to ten years. This conviction was necessary in order that his captor could receive the statutory reward of $250. Two parties are making claim to this reward. J G. Skaggs, the father of the murdered man, is laying claim to this reward for his dead son's estate, and Constable Downey Billings, of this county, claims it because he captured Fentress after Mr. Skaggs was shot, and delivered Fentress to the jailer of Henderson county on both the charge of murder and of horse-stealing.

A man was on our streets selling lots in a city in Texas last Tuesday. Quite a large number were sold, but when the time came to receive the deeds only a few showed up. It is getting to be quite a craze to own lots in Texas, and we have to hand it to them for that purpose. [illegible] 50x 125 feet in cities to be built are sold at prices ranging from $3 to $6, according to location, and the people of this county fortunately all drew choice lots located mostly near city halls. The lots are probably in existence, but stop and ask yourself, what would you give for a lot in a city to be built on some thin tract of land in your own county? If the business is progressing as well in other towns as in this the whole State of Texas will soon be divided into city lots.—Springfield News-Leader.

If Congressman Ben Johnson wants to distinguish himself he had better get an appropriation to make our cave a national park where people could enjoy themselves to their hearts' content in the best town in the State of Kentucky. Mammoth Cave is a world's wonder, but Horse Cave has the most beautiful entrance in the world, and in its remotest recesses many wonderful discoveries have been made. Several who have been in both caves declare that the subterranean wonders of Horse Cave surpass those of the Mammoth Cave, and it is believed that the former is fully as extensive. Tourists do not have to "go back into the sticks" to find Horse Cave, which lies in full view of the outside world. The caves are so close together that one appropriation might do for both.—Horse Cave Gazette

KNOCKING KENTUCKY'S TAX SYSTEM.

The tax laws of the State are varied and curious and should be revised.—Murray Times

There is no doubt that our present tax system, if it be a system, is largely responsible for our low property valuation, and the poor showing we made in the last census.—Greenville Sentinel

There is no other agency so detrimental to progress in Kentucky as the present system of taxation, and no other reason argues so plain why so much capital is being withdrawn and so little invested.—Manchester Clarion.

One of the serious troubles with the whole matter is Kentucky has a system of taxation that not only invites taxdodging, but splits in and among the assessing and taxing authorities. And dodges and splits, and the loss of revenue will continue until Kentucky adopts a system not only easily understood, but just and equitable and a revenue bringer.—Owensboro Messenger.

Let the masses demand that the next legislature enact a law that will strike a death blow to taxdodging. If assessors were required to publish the names of all taxpayers, together with the return made by them upon their property in the newspapers of each county, then taxdodging would end. Agitate the matter and thereby assist in equalizing the burdens of taxpayers.—Valley View Argent

Gov. Deneen, of Illinois, in a special message to the legislature, recommended a change in the taxation system by the creation of a permanent commission, and the adoption of a special tax for intangible personal property—notes, mortgages, bonds, stocks, etc., to avoid further evasion of taxes. He says the collection of an ad valorem tax on the same basis as tangible personalty, and real property means the practical confiscation of such wealth. He wants the whole system of taxation adjusted and made equitable. This seems necessary in Illinois, whose wealth is much greater than Kentucky's, and where the Illinois Central Railroad nearly supports the State. How much more necessary then is the same kind of reform in Kentucky.—Paducah Sun

What Others Are Saying.

This Mexican fight has got to be a regular Breathitt county affair.—Atlanta Journal

The Kentuckians who postponed a funeral on account of the revival of the principal at the graveside were probably not reluctant. Funerals are common in Kentucky.—Dallas News

The two Maysville laborers who died in a whisky-drinking contest would probably have been considered heroes in Kentucky. Still, if they had been brought up in Kentucky, whisky would never have killed them.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Something needs to be done in such cases as the Shelbyville, Ky., and other similar lynchings. The rule should be adopted all over the country that when a peace officer loses his prisoner to a mob he also loses his job.—Tampa Times.

—o—

We are glad that the committee amended the call to include the senatorship. It will give the people a chance to express directly their choice. It may result in selecting the right man. Then it is a step toward the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people.—Maysville Independent.

A few minutes delay in treating some cases of croup, even the length of time it takes to go for a doctor often proves dangerous. The safest way is to keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and at the first indication of croup give the child a dose. Pleasant to take and always cures. Sold by all druggists.

Every Farmer Knows

That even the best regulated and well made machinery will sometimes get out of order and cause trouble. That's why we contract for and handle the best lines only, the kinds that have been tried and tested and proven to be the best. Have you never noticed this?

Soon you will have to deal with the feeding problem. If you have several head of Cows, Horses, Hogs or Sheep, and must keep a big supply of feed on hand, a SILO is the thing to have.

By the use of a SILO we can show you how to save about 100 per cent. on your feed bills in six months' time, the only outlay being $150 for a SILO. Write us for particulars. The greatest convenience—the most economical device every invented for the farm.

In other lines of machinery we handle Dick's Feed Cutters, Grain Drills, Gas Engines, and Roofing materials of all kinds.

The Business Principle

of successful lives is the habit of saving, depositing what can be spared in a good bank to meet the emergencies of the proverbial rainy day. A little at a time makes a snug sum in a short time. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., will accept any sum on deposit and pays four per cent. interest on what remains a year, or three per cent for what remains six months. Remittances by mail given prompt response and careful attention. This Bank has assets of over One Hundred Thousand Dollars. We qualify as administrator, executor, trustee, guardian, etc., of estates, which is much more satisfactory than a private individual in such capacity. Mail communications giveu careful attention. Your patronage solicited.

The value of advertising in the country papers is something with which many persons are not fully acquainted. A country paper that prints all the home news enters the lives of the country people far more deeply than the city paper injects itself in the lives of the city folk. An advertisement, brightly written and properly displayed in a good country paper is the magnet which will attract hundreds of readers and eventually draw them to the store of the hustling man who is responsible for the ad.

The Stolid Mule Scarce.

That the stubborn, stolid mule, prosiac, but valuable asset in the workaday world, is becoming very alarmingly scarce was revealed upon inquiry at a number of Louisville stables which annually sell large numbers of horses and mules The scarcity of mules in fact, nearly approaches a condition of famine, and the country over is being searched for a supply to meet the demand

The Kentucky mule has for a long while been recognized as a very superior article and constitutes a big item in the live stock trade Mules are used exclusively in the mines throughout the State where electric motors are not installed to haul cars from the mines With the development of the coal mines of the State the demand for mules has increased until dealers are forced to look beyond in order to supply the demand Railroad construction work, farm purposes and many other uses requiring animal power makes an increasing demand

One dealer, who is now in New Orleans rounding up a shipment of mules, has said that never since the Boer War have mules been as scarce as they are at present

The Kentucky Mule.

A Washington dispatch says the consular reports from South Africa indicate that Kentucky mules are in demand in that region Recently one hundred mules were imported from the United States, and the lot was so satisfactory that the denizens of South Africa are crying for more

According to the specifications of the consular reports a mule fourteen and a half hands high, of deep girth, good bone and short legs and anywhere between 4 and 7 years old, is good for something like $250 in South African currency Kentucky produces a large number of mules that answer that description. For many years she has been sending these long-eared animals to the South and to other parts of the country where the mule is regarded highly as a beast of burden It is to be questioned, however, if South Africa will get many Kentucky mules at $250 per It might have been possible some years ago, but in the vernacular of the alfalfa "mules has riz" It is not uncommon nowadays for a Kentucky farmer to pay $250 for a good specimen of mule flesh or $500 for a good span of mules

In Danville a few days ago 24 head of yearling mules were sold for $170 a head South Africa is not likely to get any of these eligibles when they advance from yearlinghood to the four-to-seven-year class Leastwise, South Africa will not buy them for $250 the animal The Kentucky mule is always in demand and Kentucky can scarcely raise enough of them to supply the plantations of the South If South Africa wants the best that is going in muledom she will have to raise her bid—or pay the freight, which will amount to the same thing

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there is no guess work in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, of Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used" Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years Its the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1 Trial bottle free Guaranteed by all druggists

Cigarette Smoking Expensive.

The town of Barbourville passed an ordinance fixing a penalty for smoking cigarettes within the town limits. Henry Hirchberg was arrested for violating the ordinance, He appealed to the Circuit Court which decided that the ordinance was not good, and he sued the city for five thousand dollars damages for false imprisonment. The Court of Appeals decided that the ordinance was not good but that Hirchberg cannot recover damages from the city because the Council in passing the ordinance was acting in the same governmental capacity as a legislative body acts.

When an Editor Dies in Kansas.

When an editor dies in Kansas, this is the way they write the obituary "The pen is silent; the scissors have been laid away to rust; the stillness of death pervades the very atmosphere where once the hoarse voice of the devil yelling 'copy' or 'what the hell's this word?' was wont to resound. The paste-pot has soured on the what-not; the cockroach is eating the composition off the roller, and the blue-bottle fly is dying in the rich folds of the printer's towel."

When the indictment against "Toronto Jimmie" in the Grant county circuit court for blowing the safe in the Crittenden bank, was called for trial, last week, the indictment was dismissed for [illegible] proof to sustain the [illegible] and the accused was delivered to the Cincinnati authorities who want him on the charge of having burglars' tools in his possession, and he is now in jail in that city.

Milton Oliver, confessed night rider, has arranged for the sale of his farm and plans to move from Kentucky as soon as the trials in which he is to appear for the State are concluded. He fears the promised vengeance of the men he seeks to convict.

TOBACCO QUIDS.

The pool is dead—the cut-out is dead—the tobacco market is dead.—Cynthiana Log Cabin

The suggestion of Geo. W McCormick that no tobacco be raised for five thousand years in meeting with considerable favor. —Mt. Sterling Advocate

A solution of the trouble would be attained if the growers would "get together" and "stick, 'but who ever heard of them doing such a thing?—Shelbyville Record.

It is becoming more evident all the time that the cut-out tobacco plan for 1911 will not go Madison county growers are almost unanimous in favor of raising a crop.—Richmond Pantagraph.

Few of our farmers are willing to cut out the 1911 crop of tobacco, most of them are willing to curtail the crop, some express a desire to cut it out entirely. One man said that he could well use the time taken to grow tobacco in fixing up his farm. How many others are in the same fix?—Bedford Democrat.

Farmers may just as well understand, as the Democrat has told them all along, that there will be no organized cut-out of this year's crop. However much it may be desired, it will not be. A success could not be made of it with affairs in a chaotic condition. Farmers should look the matter squarely in the face and go about their business, considering the tobacco question settled for this year.—Cynthiana Democrat.

The situation has apparently got ten back to its old level maintained before the day of the Burley Society, when anybody who wants to can raise tobacco, and when the American Tobacco Company will give the grower whatever they want to for the crop. As Mr. Duke, of that concern remarked at the inception of the pool movement. "You can't make the fool farmers hang together, anyhow." Time has proven the truth of his terse remark.—Richmond Register.

PLATOON.

Several Hartland, Children [illegible] children.

[illegible] is spending the [illegible] Jessamine county in the interest of his nursery firm.

[illegible] Tomlin spent Monday [illegible] business pertaining to some law cases he is interested in.

W. B. Thornton of Elliston, was here a day last week buying material with which to erect a new residence at Elliston.

Jno. L. Vest spent part of last week at Williamstown, attending the Grant circuit court, which will be in session all this week.

Geo. P Nicholson, our enterprising contractor, spent the first of the week in Covington, making some bids of several buildings.

Mrs. R F. DeMoisey who has been quite ill and recently moved back to Walton from Ludlow, is much improved in health with every indication of early recovery.

Frank B. Hamilton, a popular young gentleman of Verona, was a visitor here last Friday. He has been on the sick list but we are glad to note he has fully recovered.

Chas. L Griffith spent Monday at Elizabethtown, Ohio, on the border of Indiana, where he purchased a car load of very fine corn raised in the Great Miami river bottoms.

Clifford Rouse who is mastering the intricacies of railroad engineering in the L. & N Railroad yards at Louisville, serving at present as fireman, is spending a couple of weeks vacation here with home folks, the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs W. R. Rouse.

The Walton O. M C. C. (Old Maid's Candy Club) had a most enjoyable meeting at the residence of Dr. B K. Menefee last Thursday night. There were about fifteen present, and the evening was spent in a jolly manner, candy and jokes being the features of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs E. H. Norman who have been residing in Indianapolis the past year, have returned to their farm in Kenton county, near Walton. They were well pleased with Indianapolis, but liked the dear old home much better, and the many friends they have in this quarter are delighted over their decision to come back and be a part of this good community.

Card of Thanks—While our hearts are overwhelmed with sorrow and grief, we are not unmindful of the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown us in our sad bereavement in the loss of our dearly beloved wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Melisa Jane Houston nee Mullins. To our relatives, friends and neighbors, whose kind sympathy helped to alleviate our sorrow we tender our sincere thanks, especially do we wish to thank Rev. H C. Wayman for his consoling words, and also Mr. Edwards for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral.

The distribution of the twenty per cent of a payment on the pooled tobacco for 1909 began Tuesday. The amount to be distributed will be about sixty-five thousand dollars and checks are now being cashed on that fund. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., and the Walton Bank and Trust Co., are the treasurers for Boone county. Jos C. Hughes is the Chairman of the Board of Control and R. Wood Carpenter, the secretary. These gentlemen have discharged their duty in a most faithful and painstaking manner and are worthy of the gratitude of all who had tobacco in the pool.

Situated at the south end of Walton is the quaint little cottage home of Mrs. Ed Bristow, at which the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church South, was entertained last Saturday evening. With the president in the chair, the devotional part of the meeting was opened by reading the 23d Psalm. Prayer by Mrs P. H. Hoffman, our honored guest. Minutes read and dues collected, $3 20 Election of officers as follows; Mrs Alice Boothe, President; Mrs E Hudson, vice-president; Mrs A R Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Rand Rouse, treasurer After discussion of several minor topics, we closed by repeating the Lord's Prayer. The kind hostess honored the guests with a social hour at which she served light refreshments.

The B. Y P. U. social given at the home of Mr. and Mrs E. P. Northcutt Saturday evening, was a great success. Supper was served to 185 by the young ladies. The dining room was very charmingly decorated with hearts and cupids. The four tables consisted of a college table, Valentine table, Washington and Lincoln tables. The Lincoin cabin built by O. B Powers exhibited skilled workmanship and was sold for $1.25 After supper was served there was an old fashioned spelling bee, Miss Patty Callahan being the best speller was presented with a two pound box of candy. The B Y. P. U. realized 800 from the social which will go to Missions.

The new building in process of erection on the lot adjoining the Equitable Bank, will be occupied as a general grocery store by Everett K. Stephens, who has purchased the stock of goods of Robert W. Jones, the trade to be consummated as soon as the new building is completed so Mr. Stephens can move in, when Mr. Jones will open a drug store in the property now occupied by the grocery. Mr Jones states that he intends to have the finest [illegible] in the State, and that Walton [illegible] proud of, and [illegible] it the most [illegible] people [illegible] to any Benjamin Clutterbuck and Miss Stattie Waldon were married on Wednesday afternoon at Lutheran parsonage. Mr Clutterbuck then took his bride to his home where a large group of relatives had gathered to bid her welcome. An elaborate wedding supper was served and after a delightful social evening the many relatives and friends departed, wishing the happy couple a long and happy wedded life.

[illegible] was born April 14th, 1834; died February 16th, 1911, aged 76 years, 10 months and two days. He was married to Jane Barlow on the 1st of October, 1859. To this union were born 10 children, one dying in infancy, four sons and two daughters still residing at home; three married daughters, Mrs. Aylor, Mrs Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Ross, also one brother, Milton Beemon, all residents of the near community; these and other relatives with the sorrowing mother survive the father to cherish in sweet remembrance the influence of a long and devoted life. Bro Beemon united with the Hopeful Lutheran church during the ministry of Rev. Emerson, of which he was a member until his departure of this life, when his name was transferred to the enrollment of the innumerable host of just men made perfect. The funeral services were conducted at his residence last Saturday by Pastor Tomlinson, after which the remains were buried at Hopeful.

Richard Owen Beemon, son of Abel and Nancy Beemon, was born near Burlington, in Dec. 1841; died Feb. 17th, 1911; a little past 69 years of age. In Feb 1868, he married Malvina Youell, of Mo., who with their only daughter, Mrs. Emma Acra, and little grandson are greatly bereft by the death of one so near and dear to them. Five brothers and one sister, and many other relatives are also left to mourn his loss. The death of Mr. Beemon was a surprise and shock to the entire community; truly in the midst of life we are in death, and we know not what a day may bring forth. Mr Beemon was a devoted husband, a kind and loving father, sparing nothing that would add to the comfort and convenience of his family. He was also a good and [illegible] neighbor, ready to lend a helping hand wherever opportunity afforded. In his death the community sustains a great loss. The funeral services were conducted by Pastor Tomlinson last Monday; the remains were laid to rest in Hopeful cemetery. The family extend their heartfelt and sincere thanks to the friends who so kindly assisted during the death of their loved one.

Notice—The annual election of officers for the Boone County Wool Growers' Association will be held at the Court House in Burlington, on next county court day, March 6th, 1910. Everyone who pooled his wool last year is entitled to vote.

L. T Clore, Sect'y.

A well written but unsigned communication was received at this office a few days since, postscript at the bottom of which conveyed the information that the writer would continue to furnish news if stationary was furnished. Who wrote it, please?

Hard enough to sit for three weeks, without having to be gnawed all the time by insect pests. Look at your sitting hens once in a while and be sure they are free from enemies of this kind.

The rural mail carriers observed yesterday as a holiday, consequently they will have a heavy mail today.

At every public sale reported since the beginning of the year property has brought very high prices.

Supt. Riley purchased a combined horse at Lewis Jarrell's sale, Tuesday.

Personal Mention.

W. P Sullivan has been complaining some the past two weeks.

Miss Lizzie Rogers, deputy county clerk, was in Cincinnati, Tuesday on business.

Frazier Miscal, of Big Bone, was transacting business in Burlington one day the past week.

Mrs. Kirb Tanner visited her brother, John Furlong and wife, of Covington, the past week.

J. F Blyth has been very much indisposed for several weeks—scarcely able to be about.

C. M. Baldon, grocer, and O. S. Crisler, veterinary, were transacting business in Cincinnati, yesterday.

Leslie Goodridge and wife will move to south Erlanger, where he has rented a house and four acres of land.

C. W Myers, a hustling business man of Florence, was transacting business in Burlington, one day the past week.

Albert Conner and A. B Renaker were at Richwood, one day last week in the interest of the pooled tobacco at this point.

P. A Ryle, of R. D. No. 2, was a caller at this office, Tuesday, and if looks will do to judge by, he is wintering extremely well.

Mrs. Adna Hall was called to Covington Monday on account of the serious illness of her brother's wife, Mrs. H G. Clutterbuck.

Miss Ada Latham, of Joliet, Illinois, and Master Harven Latham, of Ft. Thomas, were visiting their sister, Mrs. L. A. Conner, the past week.

SOUND HEALTHY HORSES.

If owners of horses desire sound, healthy, efficient workers, they should provide clean, sanitary stables for them. A horse should never be asked to lie on a plank floor, or to repose in wet, filthy stables. Consider how different it would be with a human when he retired for repose after a strenuous day's work if he were shown into a damp room and told to rest in an atmosphere reeking with filth and dampness. How long could the individual maintain health under such conditions? He would soon contract either rheumatism or pneumonia and become a patient for some hospital rather than a healthy, efficient workman. Keep the stables clean, free from dampness and provide the horses with plenty of dry bedding to increase their comfort and health.

While it is often impossible to prevent an accident, it is never impossible to be prepared—it is not beyond any one's purse. Invest 25 cents in a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and you are prepared for sprains, bruises and like injuries. Sold by all dealers

The Old "Backlog" Fire.

Among the "old things that have passed away," we may reckon on the "fire on the hearth." But in these days of our older people, the open fireplace was the main comfort of the home. After the evening chores were done, the father would bring in the great backlog coated with snow, often of ampler girth than himself and fully breast high to him as he held it upright, canting it one way and another, walking it before him on its wedge-shaped end. He would perhaps stand it against the chimney while he took a breathing spell and planned his campaign, then the andirons were hauled forward on the hearth, and the bed of half burnt brands and live coals raked open the icy log was walked into the wide chimney, where a skillful turn would lay it over, hissing and sputtering with a cloud of steam, in its bed of hot embers. It seemed a thing alive and its vehement sputtering and protesting made a dramatic movement in the family life. The stout shovels and tongs, or perhaps a piece of firewood for a lever, would force it against the chimney back; then a good sized stick, called a "fore-stick was laid in front, and in the interspace smaller sticks were crossed, thrust and piled, and all quickly kindled by the bed of coals and brands. The flames went up the chimney throat with a roar, and the room was flooded by a glorious warmth and light, such as no other heating device could rival, or even approach. In very cold weather a fire was kept all night, some member of the family getting up once or twice to replenish it. In warmer weather, a good heap of coals were drawn together and covered with ashes at bed time or the backlog banked with ashes, and in the morning one had but to rake the embers out of ashes and built the fire as before. In many families, the fireplace served for cooking and many a delicious meal has been served from the longlegged pots, spiders and baking kettles that were used on the bed of glowing coals, or drawn from the ashes themselves, where they had been baked beautifully.—The Columbia Statesman.

Boys' and Girls' Schooling.

Write a good, legible hand.

Spell all the words in ordinary use.

Know how to use these words. Speak and write good English.

Write a good social letter.

Add a column of figures rapidly.

Make out an ordinary account.

Receipt it when paid.

Write an advertisement for a local paper.

Write a notice or report of a public meeting.

Write an ordinary promissory note.

Reckon the interest or discount on it for days, months and years.

Draw an ordinary bank check.

Take it to the proper place in a bank to get the cash.

Make neat and proper entries in day book or ledger.

Tell the number of yards of carpet required for the parlor.

Measure the pile of lumber in the shed.

Tell the number of bushels of wheat in the bin, and the value at current rates.

Tell something about the laws of health and what to do in case of emergency.

Know how to behave in public and society.

Be able to give the general principles of religion.

Have some acquaintance with the three kingdoms of nature.

Have some knowledge of the fundemental principles of philosophy and astronomy.

Having sufficient common sense to get along in the world.—National Educator.

NOTES ABOUT SHEEP.

The flocks would be graded up with better blood at their head were it not for so many losses by sheep-killing dogs.

The funds from public taxes to pay for sheep killed by dogs does not pay half the value of pure bred sheep of the flocks.

Cold rains are very hurtful to sheep and if the fleeces are once wet sheep should be put in open sheds to dry before shut up in close quarters.

Uniform breeding ewes are as essential in starting a flock of sheep as the selection of a good ram, although many beginners think the latter more important.

Sheep will not prosper when turned loose and not watched as a cow or hog might, but if given regular feed and attention it will be found that they respond possibly more quickly than any other animal.

Sheep owners of Dakota, Montana and Wyoming have imported their flocks considerably the last few years, and among great bands can be seen individual rams which would be choice enough to head many eastern flocks.

Ewes should be clipped as soon after the lambs are born as possible, and they will thrive much better. However, they must be kept from wet and cold for a few days after being shorn. The wool will have a better appearance.

More Litigation In Owen County.

The following from last week's News-Herald shows that another batch of big litigation is incubating in Owen county:

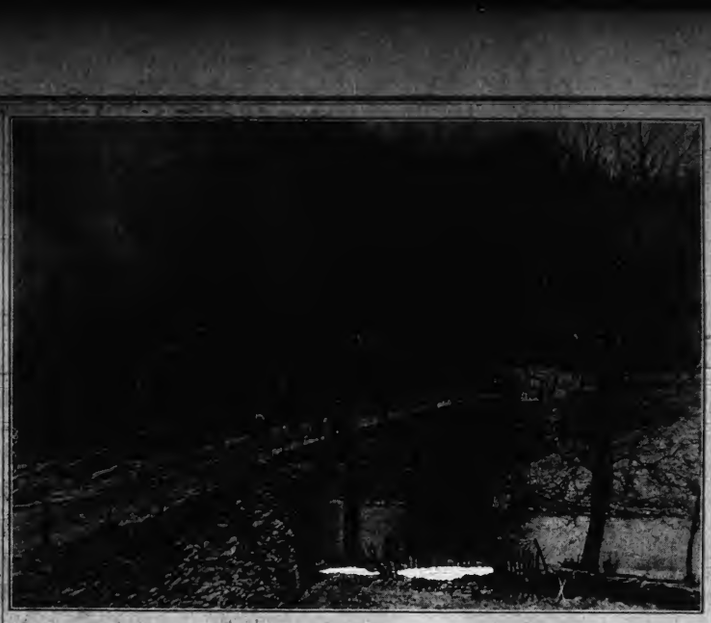
Suits aggregating many thousand dollars have been filed in the Owen Circuit Court by P. A. Alexander and W. P Swope against their deputies while acting sheriff of Owen county.

These suits are the aftermath of similar suits brought by the county against Alexander and Swope as a result of the investigation of the county affairs by the Fiscal Court.

In these suits the county obtained large judgments against these ex-sheriffs.

Now the ex-sheriffs come along and ask their deputies to share part of the blunt of these judgments.

P. A Alexander brought two suits one against L. P Alexander and his sureties, Scott Alexander and S. R Tandy, aggregating $8,000.00. The other suit is against J. E Lucas and his sureties, J. C. B Foster and Robert Ellis, aggregating $5,234.



Various items enter into these amounts. The plaintiff charges that the deputy was charged with a certain list, and that by mistake or fraud the list was too small. The deputy is also charged with what is familiarly known as "sleeper," with penalties, unlawful commission, interest and clerical errors.

One paragraph of the petition sets out the fact that the said sheriff was sued by the county and State and was subjected to a large expense on account of attorneys fees, etc., and the deputies are asked to reimburse the ex-sheriffs their reasonable part of same.

Ex-Sheriff W. P Swope makes J. W Lawrence a defendant in a similar suit to the amount of about $1,800.00

The following suits are now being prepared: one against S. D Duvall involving about $3,000; one against A. T Bromley and one against the personal representative of the estate of J. H Glass deceased, as soon as six months have elasped from his qualification.

Chas. Youell, who lives about two miles northeast of Burlington, built a large silo last season, and the results obtained have been so very satisfactory that he will build another this year. Mr Youell handles a large number of dairy cattle, and he finds that the silo is not only a convenience, but it is a food saver, while the provender is cheap and of the best quality for his stock.

This bridge cost $2,500 and is the offspring of Burlington rural mail route No. 1. The pike had been abandoned by the stock company that built it, and was about abandoned by the county to the charge of which it had been surrendered, until it became part of the rural mail route above referred to, which became very popular, and on account of the fear of losing their daily mail because of the dangerous ford at Plattsburg, the patrons were prompted to advocate the improvement of the road and the construction of the bridge. The county was appealed to for assistance, and the fiscal court responded with a liberal appropriation, and in a short time a good, substantial bridge materialized. It is an iron structure supported by four concrete piers, each inclosed in iron forms.

Including the approaches the bridge is over 150 feet long, the main span being about 100 feet.

The ford at this point has always been considered dangerous, and only a few years ago a colored man was drown there while attempting to cross the creek, and many years before a colored woman met a like fate at that point.

Two iron bridges have in the last twenty-five years spanned the creek at a point about two hundred yards below the new bridge. The first was swept from its piers by a freshet and reduced to a mass of twisted iron. The second was rendered utterly useless by high water tearing away a long dirt approach, so changing the course of the creek as to leave the bridge in another neighborhood. It was shortly after this that the pike company surrendered is charter and the road past to the county, which took the bridge down and moved it to Flickertown on the same road, where it now spans Ashby's Fork.

The new bridge is many feet above high water mark, and located between two bluffs that will confine the creek to its present bed.

The natural surroundings give the picture the appearance of having been taken in a mountainous section.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Carlisle Ryan-Ward.

Carlisle Ryan, the youngest daughter of John and Charlotta Ryan, and a grand-daughter of the late Rev. Samuel Webster of Maryland, was born in Ripley County, Indiana, March 4th, 1831. She departed this life January 26th, 1911, aged 79 years, 10 months and 22 days.

When a child she moved with her parents to Boone Co., Ky. At the age of 16, was united in marriage to Malby Smith of that State, who died shortly thereafter. At the age of 22 she married Joseph G. Ward, of Ironton, Ohio, who she survived about 40 years.

She was the mother of nine children, six of whom survive her, Mrs. J. R. Harris, Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. J. E. Harris, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. A. R. Dempsey, Mrs. E. C Kenner, Mrs. Edward Hunt, Rising Sun, Indiana, and George W. Ward, of Boone Co, Ky., all of whom are consistent members of the Methodist church.

During her childhood she became a member of the Christian church, but in 1856, united with the Methodist Episcopal church of Ironton, Ohio, of which she remained a most consistent member throughout the remainder of her long and eventful life.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Fletcher, of the Methodist church, Rising Sun, Indiana, and Rev. S. J. Bradley, of the same church Petersburg Ky., Jan. 29th, at the Riverside Hotel, Rising Sun, Ind., the late residence of the deceased. Burial in the beautiful Riverview cemetery, Aurora, Ind., there to await the resurrection of the just.

She was a most devoted christian mother, loyal to her Lord, to her church, to her home and to all the many obligations of a true christian woman. Assuming the duties of motherhood in early life, and being early berefit she was left alone to rear a large family, which, only, by the help of the God, in whom she continually trusted, she was able to do so well. The noble sons and daughters, whose devotion it was most beautiful to see, are the strongest testimonies of her sterling worth and her high moral christian character. For what greater legacy could be left to the world and posterity, than that greatest of all gifts,—good men and women,—whose monuments will be their good deeds engraved upon the immortal souls of their fellowbeings, and generations shall rise up and call them "Blessed."

When we think of her long and unselfish life, of service and devotion, of disappointment and sorrow, of joys and pleasures, of death and Heavens' prospect, of what she may or may not have done, we are reminded of the gracious words said by Him who was well acquainted with all human frailties, who well knew the good intentions of all hearts: "She hath done what she could," and "their work do follow them." "For precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his Saints."

Mrs. Mary Green-Burns.

Mary E. Green, next to the oldest daughter of Morton and Jane Green, was born August 19th, 1850. She departed this life February 4th, 1911, aged 60 years, 5 months and 18 days. She leaves an afflicted husband, Stephen Burns, who has been totally blind for the past six years, to whom she was married February 25th, 1874. Eight children were born to this union, 3 sons and 5 daughters, all of whom survive to mourn her loss—Hubert and Miss Lida who are at home with their father; Mrs. Bessie McCuns of this place, Cecil and Stephen, Jr., of Bullittsville, Ky., Mrs. Lula McCool, Lawrenceburg, Ind., Mrs Nannie Theetge and Mrs Jennie Black, Newport, Ky., There is also one brother and sister living, Mr. Robt Green, Bellevue, Ky., and Mrs Rena Utsinger, of Idlewild, Ky.

The subject of this sketch united with the Methodist church, of Petersburg, Ky., October, 1891, having been a member for more than 20 years. Although obliged to remain at home with her afflicted husband, who has been her constant care day and night for the past six years, she often expressed to her pastor her deep regret that she could not attend her church. Her motherly and affectionate care of her husband and family was most beautiful to see. Even in her last conscious moments she was asking if Pa was alright. Her solicitude for her two little grandsons, who had been with her for some time, was most pathetic indeed. Thus in the last hours of her greatest suffering, she was not thinking of self, but of others, therefore most beautifully exemplifying Christ life. Bequeathing to her devoted children, relatives, friends, and acquaintances a life of unselfish devotion and sacrifice, as her most precious legacy, the result of which can only be measured in eternity.

The writer with many others can never forget that happy scene which occured in her home only a few short months ago, the first Sunday in May 1910, when her blind husband was baptized and received into the church of which she had so long been a member. As the tears of her greatest joy flowed, because of the final union in that last pilgrimage, whose final destination would be "Heaven" that "Happy Home," she little thought that she was soon to precede him to that "Happy Home," and that God with his grace was thus preparing him for that severe ordeal through which he was soon to be called to pass.

His faith was beautiful to see, as he spoke words of comfort and hope to his sorrowing children. The Christ in whom he had trusted, sustained him thru all. He said, "although I have kind children to minister to my needs, none will miss Mary more than myself." Others said, "we have done all that we could, but our "arms are shortened," we cannot stay the hand of death, we must turn to the Lord." While we cannot understand Gods ways, "we know that everything works together for good to those that love Him." "We bow to his will and say, thine be done, not ours."

The funeral was conducted by the writer at the M. E church, Petersburg, Feb. 6th A large crowd of relatives and friends came to show their respect and to offer their sympathy. The writer spoke from the text—"Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." Ps 116:15. She was laid to rest by tender hands under a beautiful bower of flowers, in the beautiful cemetery at Petersburg, to await the resurrection call of the angel of God. S J. Bradley, Pastor.

DELIGHTED

Were The Members of The Boone County Medical Society With The Entertainment In Cincinnati.

The Boone County Medical Society met in the offices of Drs. Chas. Langdale and Gordon McKim, in Cincinnati, last Wednesday afternoon, as guests of the above named doctors.

The literary part of the program, which was held in the afternoon, was very interesting and instructive from a physician's standpoint. This part of the affair lasted until nearly six o'clock, at which time the hosts led the way to the Gibson House, where a most elaborate spread had been prepared, which was much enjoyed by all present, it being one of the most elaborate banquets it has ever been the pleasure of the Society to attend.

After the smoke of this battle had cleared away, we were conducted to one of Cincinnati's popular theaters, where we were entertained for the next three hours by a high-class vaudeville.

The Society feels very much indebted and very grateful to Drs. Langdale and McKim for the royal manner in which it was entertained, and the members shall ever remember this occasion with a great deal of delight.

The following physicians were present:

H. H Hays, Bullittsville,
B. K Menefee, Walton,

They have sprung a new kind of a deadly weapon to carry concealed in Williamstown, one the effectiveness of which as a destroyer of life cannot be questioned. The officers of the town are not aware they were up against such an ugly proposition until a few days since when they searched a party whom they had arrested in quelling a disturbance and found he had in his pocket a healthy looking stick of dynamite with a perfect cap and fuse.

HIS READY WIT WON PLACE

Under Prefecture in French Government Goes to Young Man With Smart Tongue.

There is now in the French Chamber as attache of one of the Ministerial departments a young man who owes his position to his native smartness. He went up to Paris with a letter of introduction to a minister and was received in the stereotyped fashion. He turned up at the department daily. At length the minister noted his pertinacity and by way of saying something asked the young man if he would like to have his photograph. The present was accepted and the minister overwhelmed with thanks.

After receiving the photograph the young man absented himself altogether from the bureau. Two months elapsed and then there was a chance meeting in the street. The minister smiling, asked the suitor the cause of his prolonged absence.

"Mon Dieu, monsieur le Ministre," was the reply, "I had your photograph and spoke to it, and that was enough for me." "And what did my photograph do for you? What favor?" inquired the minister. "Oh, nothing, absolutely nothing," was the quick reply, "exactly as the original, so I knew the resemblance was perfect."

The next day this youth of enterprise received his appointment, and he is said to be named for an undersecretaryship in the prefecture.

OCULIST'S NEW DISCOVERY

Theory of Process of Vision Is Changed as Result of Series of Experiments.

A new discovery with regard to the phenomena of the sense of sight has been announced by Dr. F. W. Edridge-Green, an eminent English authority in visual research. He has found by an interesting series of experiments and tests that the process of vision is not the simple transmission by the optic nerve to the brain of objects photographed upon the retina.

The new discovery in non-technical language amounts to this: In front of the retina there is a small chamber or sac of clear liquid which is in constant motion of currents or eddies. Dr. Green finds that this liquid itself contains distinct perceptive nerve power which plays an important part in conveying impressions to the brain.

In other words, this wonderful fluid contains liquid nerves, so to speak, which transmit to the understanding a considerable part of the impression it receives of color, form, etc.

Take Kaiser to Task.

Emperor William of Germany is in receipt of a singular petition forwarded to Berlin by the Passaic (N. J.) Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. It calls attention to the fact that "in the fine equestrian statue of your majesty erected at the entrance to the new railway bridge at Cologne the tail of the horse is docked." The petition sets forth that "your majesty is no doubt aware that the docking of the horse's tail constitutes one of the worst cruelties practiced on a dumb beast." It adds: "In our humble opinion it would be a mistake to leave the statue in its present form. A beautiful long tail might be put in the place of the stump. Such an alteration would not only add much to the beauty of the statue, but would also stop adverse criticism regarding your majesty's feelings toward a humane cause." The emperor has not yet replied to the petition.

Old Timber Stronger Than New

Which is the stronger, a piece of sound old timber or a piece of new? We think it probable that the majority of engineers would say that the new timber was the stronger. In either case, however, the opinions would be mere guesswork, for there has been hitherto, so far as we recall, no authentic information on this point. This lack is now supplied in a paper by Mr. C. P. Buchanan, in which he shows as a result of careful tests, that sound timber a quarter of a century old is materially stronger than new stock.

Mr. Buchanan's tests were made on white pine, but there is no reason to suppose that oak, hard pine or any other wood commonly used in building would behave differently. It is fair to conclude that all wood maintains its strength, except as decay weakens it or fire and mechanical abrasion destroy it.—Engineering News.

Lobsters Washed Ashore in Storm.

During the recent storm, which was the worst that has swept the New Brunswick coast in a number of years, thousands of lobsters of all sizes have been washed ashore on the North Beach at Rexton. For a distance of several hundred yards a reef was formed on the shore of all sorts of fish, including an immense quantity of rock eels as well as lobsters, which fishermen say are more than all the traps would secure in a season.

Thousands of birds of the sea were on the beach eating the soft part of the lobsters and leaving only the claws, which were strewn about in all directions. Although there have been many severe storms here in the past, no one recalls an event of this kind. A great many have visited the beach to watch the gulls and other birds ravenously enjoying the feast for them. —Lewiston Journal.

The Louisville Courier-Journal of yesterday contains an editorial on the tobacco cut-out which shows it is fearful of the results.

The more corn the more stock; the more stock the richer the land; the richer the land the more corn—and there you have the secret of a rotation that is sure to bring success.

A prisoner in the Covington police court was asked the other day by the judge, "who is your attorney," when he answered, "Jesus Christ is my attorney." He was tried and given a jail sentence, notwithstanding he was entitled to a continuance because of the absence of his attorney.

George [illegible] of Cincinnati, was indicted Tuesday on the charge of perjury. It is charged Mr. Cox swore falsely before a grand jury in 1906 in denying he had received any of the interest money alleged paid by banks to county treasurers as recompense for the deposit of county funds in these banks. Cox claims the indictment is a political move and alleges that the grand jury that brought the indictment was improperly drawn.

The way the Democratic Executive Committee is handling the primary election matter is getting to be almost a party scandal. Three meetings have been held and still the candidates who have not already quit the field do not know when the entries will close. At the first meeting the primary was called for May 27 for only a part of the offices and the statement was made that the candidates would not be held up. At the second meeting the primary was extended to the senatorial race and the candidates assessed $18,500. At the third but little was done except to increase these assessments 25 per cent. and leave the poor candidates in suspense, although it is less than 100 days until the election. What is the purpose of all this juggling?—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

It seems that W. R Rogers is to have no opposition for the Democratic nomination for County Clerk. The indorsement of County Judge P. E Cason's action in appointing him to the vacancy in that office caused by the death of his brother, J. H Rogers, was practically unanimous - on the part of the Democratic voters at the time, who believed Mr. Rogers was entitled to that portion of his brother's term which Judge Cason had at his disposal, and now they appear to desire to ratify the judge's act by giving to Mr. Rogers that portion of his brother's term which they have at their disposal, on the grounds that if he was entitled to the office from the death of his brother until the next general election thereafter, he is entitled to the remainder of the term following the general election, which is pretty good reasoning.

CUT-OUT CROP

Of 1911 Tobacco Indorsed By Burley Union Meeting.

The Meeting Was Attended By About 250 Growers From Various Parts Of The Burley District.

Lexington, Ky., February 20—The District Board of the Burley Tobacco Union this afternoon voted to cut out the 1911 burley tobacco crop. The meeting was attended by about 250 growers from various points in the burley district, and was presided over by Senator B. N Chipman, of Pendleton County.

Representatives from the counties named in the objection of President LeBus, of the Burley Tobacco Society, as not having shown sufficient acreage pledged to the cut-out movement to warrant the society's indorsement two weeks ago, were present. Bath County showed 3,800 acres pledged, Montgomery 2,915 acres, Madison 1,000, Lincoln 1,000 Garrard 800, Bourbon [illegible], Fayette 1400 Woodford, 1,800.

No acreage was reported from Boyle, Scott, Anderson and Washington counties, but representatives stated sentiment was almost unanimous for the cut-out, if indorsed by the Burley Tobacco Society.

M. H Bourne, of Owen County, was present for the Burley Tobacco Society, and reported to the Executive Committee of that organization, which was in session at its headquarters.

Chairman Bradley Wilson, of the Cut Out Campaign Committee, charged that members of the Burley Tobacco Society had inspired the movement for the organization of the independent growers, and that they had launched the movement to cut-out the 1911 crop. He said that members of the Burley Tobacco Society Executive Committee had authorized him to contract telephone accounts in forming the first convention of independent growers, out of which the Burley Tobacco Union was organized.

He said that he had counseled and advised with President LeBus up to a fortnight ago, and that he had constant encouragement and that he believed the Burley Tobacco Society was sincere in wanting the crop cut out this year. He said that when he found two members of the Burley Tobacco Society Executive Committee trying to block the signing of pledges at the Bourbon county meeting he had his first intimation that an indorsement would not be forthcoming.

"This fight could have been won two weeks ago with an honest effort on the part of President LeBus and his Executive Committee, and it can be won to-day," declared Mr. Wilson "I say to you that the sentiment of a vast majority of the tobacco growers in Kentucky, irrespective of any organization, is for no crop this year."

The following resolution, introduced by the representative from Bath County, was adopted with only three dissenting votes:

"Be it resolved by the tobacco growers and representatives of the Burley Tobacco Union:

"First—That the lack of organization among farmers and the low prices of tobacco are destructive to peace, happiness and prosperity of Kentucky and all burley growing counties;

"Second—That the only remedy suggested is a cut out of the 1911 crop;

"Third—That this convention, having considered carefully the reports from the various counties, both as to acres actually pledged and the general sentiment of the people, believes that there is a large majority in favor of said cut-out, and we hereby vote and declare that no tobacco should be grown this year;

"Fourth—That we advise and entreat all growers to refrain from making preparations for a crop and hereby request that any and all such preparations be reported to the headquarters of the Burley Tobacco Union."

R. M Redd, of Fayette County, said that in his opinion the resolution had a ring of war, where as he was for peace.

Bradley Wilson replied that the tenants and small farmers had in the past been too backward in standing for their rights. "The time has come," he said, "when you tenants have got to tell these blue-blooded aristocrats who own these broad and fertile acres what you want and what you are going to have. You had just as well make up your minds to take care of yourselves."

A number of the representatives remained to hear an address by R. L Barnett, of Paducah, organizer for the Farmers' Union, a secret organization which is gathering in many members in the burley district.

While the Executive Committee of the Burley Tobacco Society was in session this afternoon the following petition was put before President LeBus and his fellow officers:

"We, the undersigned pool men and members of the Burley Tobacco Society, petition the Executive Board to call a meeting of the entire State Board composed of members from Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, for the purpose of considering in conjunction with the movements along this line, a cut-out of the 1911 crop of tobacco, and respectfully ask that said call be made for February 27 or some earlier date." It was signed by M. H Bourne, of Owen County; C. C Sleet, Boone County O. H Lee, Franklin County; W. M. Hutchinson, Franklin County, and T. K Nicholas, Bourbon County.

It was stated by Mr. Sleet that similar petitions from old pool counties would be mailed here during the week.

The Executive Committee adjourned to meet again to-morrow, but President LeBus declined to say what had been done or might be done with reference to the cut-out question or the petition. He said that the committee might authorize some statement to-morrow.

FOX HUNTING.

Esq. B.-S. O'Neal Likes a Good Dog And Enjoys a Fox Chase Any Old Time.

No Music So Sweet To His Ear As That Made By A Dozen Or So Hounds.

No man in Boone county nor in Northern Kentucky for that matter, is a greater admirer of a trim, swift-footed fox hound, than is Esq. Ben S O'Neal, of Verona, and for many years his chief sport has been the following of hounds when in pursuit of reynard. To his ears no sound is so sweet as that made by a dozen or so hounds in a lively chase, and he stays with the chase until a capture is made or night drives him home. He knows all the crossings within 20 miles of Verona that reynard usually makes when pursued, and by that knowledge he is enabled to see the fox almost at will. He tells of many smart tricks he knows of foxes having pulled off after having became tired of leading their pursuers a merry chase, but the following is about the best one he relates: He had been engaged in several exciting chases, one winter, and he noticed that every time his dogs went in a certain course they invariably lost the track after running a mile or two. This became monotonous and the Squire determined to ascertain the cause of the sudden termination of his sport. Having started a fox one morning he hastened to the sport where numerous losses had been made by the dogs, and awaited developments. Having been in the chase about the usual time, the Squire heard the dogs coming in his direction on a very warm track, and it was then that he developed his first attack of buck-ague, knowing that something unusual was going to happen. In a few minutes the fox, which was a beauty, came bounding along the hill side, and upon reaching a steep bank of a branch he gave a wise look back in the direction from which he came, and sprang a distance of 10 or 15 feet to a grape vine on the opposite side of the branch, and upon which it easily made its way up into a tree. Of course the chase was over when the hounds reached the spot from which he had made the leap, and the Squire said to himself, "an animal that has as much sense as you, Mr. Fox, will not be interrupted by me. Stay where you are d—n you." The only thing that bothers the Squire is the probability that he may get too old some time to climb the hills and jump the ravines in his efforts to keep in hearing distance of his hounds when they are making the music that has sounded so sweet to him since his boyhood.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

The Recorder is glad to hear that the R. H and W. turnpike has been completed, very much to the delight of those enterprising citizens along the route, who are responsible for so great an improvement in that thoroughfare Be it said to their credit that they have completed a work which should have been done many years ago, and which will be a monument to their progressiveness, and a rebuke to those who were obstacles to its construction. The members of the community which is being benefitted by the pike is now willing to acknowledge that they had heretofore been handicapped by a bad road and now that they can go at will with some pleasure, makes them feel like they had been transported to another country.

BOONE'S ASSESSMENT.

The tabulation of the taxable property of Boone county as listed by the Assessor and revised by the Board of Equalization shows that taxes will be paid this year on $7,235,641. Lands, of course come first, the Assessor's book showing 152,507 acres listed at a value of $4,625,000, and 813 town lots valued at $503,696. Household and kitchen furniture is valued at $183,485. Manufacturing impiements and machinery,at $56,-205. Value of stocks of goods and other property in stores, $68,038. Personal property is valued at $1,087,165. There are 2,707 males and 1,826 children between the ages of 6 and 20.

Notwithstanding last Saturday was a very bad day for a sale, a very large crowd attended that of H. P Parson's at Garnetts Mill on Middle creek. Prices realized were satisfactory as shown by the following: Cow, $58; heifer and calf, $59.25; aged horse, $50; brood sow, $30; three 70-pound shoats, $27. Ennis Nixon cried the sale.

The ground hog is certainly making good, and such weather as has prevailed for the past several days goes a long ways. It is enough for six weeks at least, and if Mr. G Hog will begin a pledge to cut-out such weather for the baiance of his six weeks there will be no objections.

If troubled with indigestion, constipation, no appetite or feel bilious, give Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets a trial and you will be pleased with the result. These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. Sold by all Dealers.

The Cincinnati and Louisville daily papers failed to reach Burlington at noon Tuesday, when everybody was especially anxious to see the proceedings of the tobacco meeting held at Lexington the day before.

SHEEP FOR KENTUCKY.

Points on Care and Handling.

The question was put to me the other day by a reader of Farmers Home Journal, as to which was the best breed of sheep for the farmer, particularly the Kentuckian, whose object was mutton and wool. He also wanted to know what a farm flock should shear. In dealing with the first problem will say that farmers as a rule, do not run fullblood or registered ewes, whereas mutton and wool are sought. The investment in fullblood ewes is much greater thereby increasing the risks, while the profits are very little more. In fact many good sheepmen claim that the lambs are not so robust and strong as from good grade ewes.

For best results for the average farmer smooth roomy ewes carrying thick even fleeces, should be selected and mated with a full blood buck of the breed your fancy and judgment directs. Personally I prefer the southdown. This breed in my opinion, will make, for food consumed, more meat and that over the parts from which the desirable cuts come, than any other, and at the same time bear a fleece unequalled in texture and quality by any other short wooled breed.

One has only to consult the awards of the Smithfield show in England and our International Fat Stock Show, to be convinced of the unequaled merits in the pens and on the block.

Selected, well fleeced grade ewes should shear from 6 1-2 to seven pounds of wool, providing they have had proper care. The farmer must do his part which is as easily overdone as neglected. There is no line of stock handled on our farms that the majority of farmers know so little about. Yet these same men would be deeply offended if told of their ignorance. In fact many people who raise sheep do not realize there is much to know about them. The truth is, it takes a man longer to become an expert with any other livestock. To return to the subject of care and feeding every man who raises sheep should have early rye for ewes when they lamb. It is as impossible for them to give a large flow of milk without succulent food as it is for the dairy cow. Corn silage is an excellent substitute for rye and can also be fed in conjunction with it. Silage put up out of green corn or silage that is mouldy should be avoided. Ewes that are nursing should have a small quantity of shelled corn and oats. A pint and a half to the ewe is heavy feeding. They should also have alfalfa, clover or cow pea hay. As soon as the lambs will begin eating "creeps" should be arranged so they can be fed to themselves. They won't eat much but it pays.

One of the most serious mistakes some people make is to allow their ewes to get poor and weak before lambing season. They should be watched closely. Feed just enough to keep them gaining a little up to the time they have lambs. Where grain is needed, which is usually the case, to keep them in the condition mentioned, broken ear corn is good, but should be fed with care.

This can be spread thinly on the grass, care being used to select a fresh spot each day. Where troughs are used for shelled or ground grain, they should be so arranged that they can be turned upside down between feeding times. Sheep are the most particular about dirt of our farm animals, yet they muss up their troughs if allowed to run over them.

It is not generally known that Gympson burs will kill sheep, and are readily eaten by them at this season. I have in mind at present a young man who has lost five fine ewes from the above cause. The dry Gympson stalks should be cut off and carried out of the sheep pasture or burned. Around barns, fences, and old building sites are the places these weeds are most likely to be found.—C P. Adams, in Farmers Home Journal.

Pensioning Her Soldiers.

The Tennessee Legislature has placed the minimum pension for Confederate soldiers and widows of Confederate soldiers at $100 a year and in the same act raised 1,388 old soldiers from $60 to $100. The bills carrying the changes increased the annual appropriation from $350 to $520 for soldiers and from $196 to $210 for widows. The flat raises more than take up the increase. The bills passed were not the bills favored by the State Pension Board but when it was seen that they were going to pass the fight on them evaporated completely. There was only one vote recorded against the soldiers bill and none against the widows'. The bill it is believed will be approved by Gov. Hooper.

Attack Like A Tiger.

In fighting to keep the blood free the white corpuscles attack the germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then pimples, boils, eczema, salt rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands electric bitters to tone the stomach, liver and kidneys and expel poisons from the blood. They are the best blood purifier. Mrs. C. T. Barnes, Dallas, Texas, writes: "I have never found anything to equal Electric Bitters for building up my health." Only 50c at [illegible]

What a Good Cow Looks Like!

Speaking now of the cow that will do great things in the dairy just what she should look like?

Two classes of cows are prominent before the man who is about to go into the milk business. One tends to a large quantity. This cow satisfies the man who sells his milk by the can, almost irrespective of the goodness of the milk. For this cow the owner claims first that she is a hardier animal than one that is bred exclusively for butter, and second that the great quantity of milk she gives enables her to put as much money in the pocket of her owner one year with another as will the cow that runs to butter fat.

The second class of cows is the class that looks to the rich condition of the milk and not so much to the quantity put in the pail. Just now let us consider this latter cow. What is her appearance? How may one know that he is getting a cow that will prove satisfactory?

In general appearance, then such a cow should have a body that is capable of taking care of a large amount of food. You cannot push a cow with small body to very great results. This body should be trim, well shaped, good and straight on the back, head up and coming, eye clear, nose wide breast broad and showing good lung development, tail slim and long, a nice brush at the bottom, udder reaching well up behind the body between the legs and well ribbed up, but not too long legged.

And then, as to outward appearance the good cow should wade into her feed as if it tasted good. She should be ready for her rations and not mince over them. She should drink well and be full of animal life when out of doors. If she runs, kicks up her heels and does some snorting when first let out of the stable so much the better. Her unselfishness depends largely on her vitality.

The prospective buyer will do well to sit down to the cows he is thinking of buying and note what the cow thinks of it when he does so. If she pays little attention aside from manifesting a kindly interest in what is going on, it is safe to say that she is not cross or overly nervous. If she springs away when the milker touches her teats and acts as if she would be likely to kick somebody out of the window, better look out.

The teats ought to be good in size and well placed, so that the hands can get about them without difficulty. Size is a fine thing, too, though overgrown teats are hard to manage, especially for the woman or man with small hands.

His Confederate Record.

In a political race several years ago in Woodford county, Col. Tobias Gibson and Mr. W. O. Davis met in debate at the court house. Col Gibson, having been a Confederate soldier, made a strong appeal for the soldier vote and dwelt at great length on "the war." When he had concluded, Mr. Davis took the platform and gave this amusing account of his war record:

"Gentlemen," said he, "I had thought that Lee's sword was sheathed at Appomattox, but since Colonel Gibson has dwelt at length on his record as a Confederate soldier, I want it distinctly understood that I, too, have a war record, and I am not ashamed to place it side by side with his. I was born the day Fort Denelson was surrendered, and just as the echoes of the guns were dying out along the Tennessee, and the white flag was waving over its battlements, I saw that my services were needed and I immediately leaped to arms. I joined the infantry and with the rebel yell on my lips attacked the breastworks and captured rations for the campaign. I enlisted for three score and ten years, or until the rebellion was put down. In the second summer of my campaign there were trying days, but I gritted my teeth, what few I had, and remarked that I would fight it out along this line if it takes all summer. General Grant afterward heard of this remark and appropriated it. Well do I remember the midnight attacks and call to arms, the double quick and the forced marches in undress uniform. Though pressed hard by the foe, yet I reinforced by pargoric and vermifuge. I came off victorious, and live to tell of the battles fought and victories won. Colonel Gibson appeals to those who wore the gray to vote for him, but I make no such partisan appeal. It matters not to me whether you wore the blue or wore the gray but to every comrade who wore a napkin, I appeal to stand by me."

A few minutes delay in treating some cases of croup, even the length of time it takes to go for a doctor often proves dangerous. The safest way is to keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and at the first indication of croup give the child a dose. Pleasant to take and always cures. Sold by all druggists.

If talk affected the price of tobacco it would be worth a dollar a pound.—Winchester News

Every Farmer Knows

That even the best regulated and well made machinery will sometimes get out of order and cause trouble. That's why we contract for and handle the best lines only, the kinds that have been tried and tested and proven to be the best. Have you never noticed this?

Soon you will have to deal with the feeding problem. If you have several head of Cows, Horses, Hogs or Sheep, and must keep a big supply of feed on hand, a SILO is the thing to have.

By the use of a SILO we can show you how to save about 100 per cent. on your feed bills in six months' time, the only outlay being $150 for a SILO. Write us for particulars. The greatest convenience—the most economical device every invented for the farm.

In other lines of machinery we handle Dick's Feed Cutters, Grain Drills, Gas Engines, and Roofing materials of all kinds.

Try The Recorder One Year

The destruction of tobacco beds has begun in Nicholas county. According to reports several tobacco beds have been distroyed, and in one case a grave was excavated in the middle of one bed.

An extra session of congress is very probable, unless President Taft and the friends of the Canadian reciprocity agreement are able to bring more than ordinary pressure to bear upon the Senate and avert the waste of any time whatever by the opponents of the agreement.

Two pistol "toters" were engaged shooting-up Williamstown, one night last week, and when Dr. A. V. Menefee looked out of his window to ascertain the cause of the shooting, a bullet lodged in one of his arms. Circuit court was in session, and two parties were indicted for the shooting.

From now until the Democratic State primary election, May 27th, the woods are going to be full of orators. Nearly all the candidates say they are going on the stump and make a thorough canvass of the State. Former Senator James B. McCreary, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, says he has been invited to visit nearly every section of the State and he intends to do so, and preach Democratic doctrine where ever he goes.

Danville officers believe they have succeeded in running to the ground the best organized and largest band of robbers that has ever infested Central Kentucky, and who are believed to have disposed of most of their stolen property in Cincinnati. So shrewdly have the robbers operated that it has been almost impossible to land them. They have not confined their operations to any particular character of property.

The Ohio legislature is rearranging the congressional districts in that State, and as the Democrats have a decided majority in both Houses the Republicans fear the worst, and predict that when the work is completed every district that it is possible to make so will be safely Democratic. Some very artistic gerrymandering is in progress, and the shake-up will be so general that the voters will have trouble in locating themselves.

Judge Allie Young, of Morehead, who was looked to as a possible candidate for governor against Senator James B. McCreary, will not make the race. This is the emphatic declaration of the Judge. He says:

"My entrance into the race at this time might serve to arouse further antagonisms within the party, and this I wish to avoid. I do not think my candidacy would pacify the differences, and for that reason, if for no other, I will not become a candidate. This is final. I appreciate the expressions resulting from the mention of my name in this connection.

The Speaker of the House in Congress will have but little to do other than to keep order during the deliberations of that body. He will not be the power in shaping legislation that his predecessors have been, he having been shorn of his chief prerogative, which has been transferred to the ways and means committee of the House. Under the new order the Speaker is neither "It" nor "The Whole Thing." For the first time in the history of this government has the ways and means committee been made the dominating element in the House.

The Democratic State Executive Committee has appointed the cost of holding the Democratic primary election among the offices as follows: United States Senator, $4,500; Gover nor, $3,750; Lieutenant Governor, $650; Auditor, $2,500; Atty. General, $2,500; Treasurer, $2,500; Clerk Court of Appeals, $2,500; Secretary of State, $1,875; Commissioner of Agriculture, $1,250; Superintendent of Public Instructions, $1,250. The committee is not calculating on committee is not calculating on lessen the expenses on the candidates, which is estimated at $23,250.

Congressman J. Campbell Cantrill, of the Seventh Kentucky District introduced a bill in Congress that is of great interest to tobacco growers as well as to other farmers. It instructs the tariff board to ascertain and to report to the house how much of various crops, including tobacco, wheat, corn etc., is in the hands of the manufacturers. At present, the growers have no way of ascertaining how much of the left over crop is in the hand of manufacturers. This information would be of great value to farmers' organizations' Mr. Castrill believes.

Primary May 27.

The Boone County Democratic Executive Committee met last Monday and called a primary election for May 27th at which to nominate Democratic candidates for State Senator and county Representative. The entrance fee was fixed at $35.

More Turnpike Talk.

It is said there has been considerable turnpike talk out on the East Bend road during the past few weeks, but as the condition of the roads will begin to improve in the next few weeks the fever will soon subside. Why not get your share of the turnpike tax, boys? No persons need it worse.

Dies Suddenly.

The sudden death, last Friday morning, of R. O Beemon, one of the good citizens of Hopeful neighborhood, was a great shock to all with whom he was acquainted. He had not been complaining and had just returned to his house from doing his usual morning chores, and sat down, when he was stricken by death. He was a stout, robust man, and a quiet, good neighbor and citizen.

Sold Her Farm.

Mrs. Salite Calmes has sold her farm of 135 acres near Bullittsville, to H. G Cropper. The price for which the farm sold has not been ascertained at this office, but it it, or near about, $6,000. Mr Cropper has secured a farm that is just about what he has desired for a long time. The location is not on the pike but is near thereto and has a good road leading to the Bullittsville and Dry creek pike. The improvements are good

A Wise Hog Was He.

A few nights since Elmer Kirkpatrick was milking his cow in the barn, and having compieted two of the teats he reached for the opposite two, bnt instead of grasping them his hands came in contact with the snout of a hog that had already cleaned up on half of the milk. The presence of the hog had not been discovered because of the intense darkness, and the trick at which it was caught explained the sudden failure in milk on the part of the cow for several days past.

A Visit to Bracken County.

Thomas A. Adams, of the north end of the county, returned a few days ago froma visit to his brother-in-law, Geo. Bradberry, in Bracken county. He says much of the country through which he traveled is hill land, and although farmed, is better taken care of than the same kind of land in this county. The land owners take a pride in keeping the fence rows and hollows free from briars and bushes. He reports Mr Bradberry as having all he can do in his shop and a favorite with all.

Good Prices Prevailed.

James Goodridge, who resided down on Middle creek, had a rattling good sale on the 15th inst. A good crowd was present, the the bidding was spirited, and the prices realized were entireiy satisfactory.

Five hogs that would average about 130 pounds brought $100.

An aged cow sold for $46, and a nine months old heifer, for $26.50

Hay $11 a ton; corn, 68 cents a bushel.

Ennis Nixon was the orator.

Fruit Crop In Danger.

The spring weather of the past few days have swelled the buds of the fruit trees almost to bursting, and the first cold snap that comes along will find them easy prey. For the past few years our fruit crop has been seriously curtailed by warm weather at this time of year, cold and frosty spring when it falls due. The seasons have to a large extend reversed themselves of late, and the fruit is the heaviest sufferer. Grass is also looking well, and was never so green and plentiful at this season.—Winchester Democrat.

Good Ground Hog Weather.

The 1910 February blizzard was on the 17th day of the month. The snow drifted so badly that the rural mail carriers, who go out from the Burlington office did not attempt to make a delivery on the Friday and Saturday following. The big snow of the month began this year on the night of the 18th, but did not come in such a quantity, nor did it drift like that of last year. It followed a few days of very pleasant weather, which made it much more unwelcome. Several times in the last ten or fifteen years February has been the only month that furnished ice that was of a quality good enough to put up.

Knockers Knocking.

Are you a knocker? If not now is the accepted time to get ironshod and join the Knockers' Klub, was the subject debated before the Burlington's Knockers' Klub at its meeting held last Saturday afternoon. The address of the occasion was made by the secretary, who said in part: "If you've got any little kick coming, hand it to the committee, who will look it over, from it up and let it loose when it will do the most good." He announced at the close of his remarks that at the next meeting of the Klub the subject will be, "What improvement is the Knockers' Klub making?" by Ham. He urged that a full attendance of the members be on hand at that meeting. After imposing a fine on Big Knock and Little Knock each, for absence, the meeting adjourned.

[illegible] has gone to Lin[illegible] on business.

Wm. Stamler spent Friday in Owen county, looking after the purchase of some fine timber.

Dr. Harry W Hamilton and Roy O. Stamler spent Thursday in the city on business and pleasure.

John L. Vest spent part of the week in Frankfort on some business before the court of appeals.

Mrs. J. L Wills, Lexington, spent part of the past week here guests of her daughter, Mrs. O S. Watts and husband.

Mrs. E W. Sechrest and sister, of Ludlow, spent Sunday here, the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E Graham.

W. R Rogers, of Burlington, the clever Clerk of the Boone County Court, spent a part of last week with home folks.

Dr. Wm S. Tomlin, a prominent physician of Indianapolis spent a part of last week here with his brother, Hon. Grant Tomlin

John Brooks of near Augusta, Bracken county, spent part of last week here looking for a desirable farm with a view to purchasing.

Mr. and Mrs J. W. Hogan, of near Union, were guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs Eli Conrad, and Mr. and Mrs Geo. Rice, the past week.

Mrs. D C. Marnulls and little son, Russell, of Ludlow, spent this week here the guests of her father, Geo. Sanders, who is very sick with lagrippe.

John M. Dyer, of Morgantield, Union county, spent part of the week with Mr. and Mrs J. C. Hughes, near Richwood, and visited friends in Walton.

Wm. P Moore, who moved last week from Beaver Lick to his new purchase, Lakeside Farm at Sherman, Grant county, was here a part of last week on business.

W. Lee Gaines spent a part of last week in Lexington on business relating to the adjustment of some claims of the Q. & C Railroad Co., he being its claim agent for this territory.

Samuel Adams, of Burlington, Boone county's popular Jailer and all-around good fellow, spent Sunday and Sunday night in Walton. He is seen in our town quite often of late.

Miss Cecile Menefee left Sunday for Madison, Indiana, on a visit to friends, taking advantage of a daylight ride on the beautiful Ohio river from Cincinnati to Madison on one of the fine steamboats.

Miss Virginia Graham spent last week in Cincinnati attending the opening in the wholesale milliner houses, getting spring styles, which will be published in this paper the time set for their opening.

Mr. and Mrs Geo. W. Griffith and children spent the week at Sanders, Carroll county, their old home. Mr Griffith operates a box-ball alley at Dry Ridge, Grant county, and his family resides here.

Miss Mary Graham slipped while walking on the L. & N track, a few days since, cutting her arm and spraining her wrist badly. Several stitches and bandages were necessary in the dressing of her injuries.

Rev. J T. Wright and wife, of Erlanger, where they had been on here with the members of his flock, being the pastor of the Walton M. E Church. His members are well pleased with the efforts of Rev. Wright, for he is doing a good work with earnestness and zeal.

Mr. and Mrs James Houston who have been residing near Verona, were guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs W. H. Tillman, Monday, moving to Sherman, in Grant county, where they will reside on the farm of her father, W. F. Moore, the current year.

J. M Wilson, of Williamstown, was here Monday, in the interest of the Grant County News, and had a nice business. Mr Wilson is a splendid newspaper man, and established The Log Cabin at Cynthiana, a number of years ago but for some time has been identified with the Grant Co., News

J. T Dempsey, of near Hume, and M. T Wilson, of Verona, were here last Tuesday on business. Mr Wilson purchased the handsome span of bay horses owned by Mr. Demsey for $475. The horses are stylish, sixteen hands, and about 5 years old. Charles P Best handled and developed them and made them valuable and through him the sale was made.

J. T Hurt, station agent of the Q. & C railroad at Walton, went to Cincinnati, last week, and entered a hospital for treatment, where he had a surgical operation performed for some nervous trouble. Mrs Hurt accompanied him to the city. H C. Blanchett, of Dry Ridge, is filling Mr. Hurt's place as station agent in a very acceptable manner. Mr Hurt is reported much improved and will soon be able to resume his position.

Edward Groves and Chas. Spencer, of near Napoleon, Gallatin co., spent Thursday here, coming from Cincinnati, where they had been on the cattle market, and bought a lot of feeding cattle for their farms, having them shipped as far as Walton, because of freight rate consideration, and driving them the remainder of the way home. Mr Groves resides in Grant county, on the line from Mr. [illegible] who resides in Gallatin the worthless machinery, the total cost of which was about $5,000 making about $12,000 invested in the brick machinery and premises out of which $6,000 might be realized. These costly experiments deter many public spirited citizens from investment in public enterprise of the like kind.

Owen S. Watts was at Nolin, Hardin county, a part of last week looking into the features of the reorganization of the deposit bank at that place with the understanding that he is to be the cashier. The bank was wrecked by dishonesty, but the stockholders announce that they are willing to stand an assessment of eighty per cent put the bank on a substantial basis, and do all in their power to make the investment a success if Mr. Watts will take charge as cashier. The bank is located in the best part of Hardin county could be made a profitable investment. Mr Watts is fully qualified to manage the bank, and his honesty and integrity are unquestioned. Jno L. Vest was with him Saturday, looking over the field and the legal aspect of affairs of the old bank management.

The members of the Masonic fraternity of Walton contemplate the establishment of an Eastern Star Lodge in the near future. This is the branch of Masonry that is designed as a protection to the wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of Masons, who are alone eligible to membership, and who control its affairs. A preliminary meeting was held on Thursday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S L. Edwards when about a dozen interested in the organization of the lodge and formulated a plan for the early establishment of a lodge. The following officers were elected to become effective as soon as the arrangements are completed: Matron, Mrs. B K. Menefee; Associate Matron, Mrs C W. Ramsler; Patron, Dr C C. Metcalfe. Another meeting will be held as soon as the required number have been enlisted in the work of organization.

Card of Thanks—While our hearts are overwhelmed with sorrow and grief, we are not unmindful of the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown us in our sad bereavement in the loss of our dearly beloved wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Melissa Jane Houston nee Mullins. To our relatives, friends and neighbors, whose kind sympathy helped to alleviate our sorrow we tender our sincere thanks, especially do we wish to thank Rev. H C. Wayman for his consoling words, and also Mr. Edwards for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral.

The Bereaved Husband, Children and Grandchildren.

—o—

Notice is hereby given to all American born citizens of Walton, Ky., and the surrounding country, that would like to know something about the Junior Order United American Mechanics, and who may be interested in organizing a new council at Walton, Ky., are invited to Walton, Ky., March 5th, 1911, at 2 p. m There will be six or eight representatives from Covington to deliver addresses in the interest of the new council at Walton. Come one come all.

According to some recent decisions of the Court of Appeals a drunken man does not seem to have many rights that the railroads are bound to respect. An intoxicated man fell from a train in Western Kentucky a few months ago. A damage suit followed, with the result that the lower court mulcted the railroad company for several thousand dollars. The Court of Appeals reversed the verdict because of the man's inebriated condition.

In Northeastern Kentucky a citizen heavily laden with a cargo of booze bought a ticket from one station to another. When he attempted to get on board the train the conductor said: "Nay, nay, Pauline," or words to that effect. Later he sneaked on board the smoker while the conductor wasn't looking. After the cars were under way he became bolsterous. The conductor stopped the train and gently but firmly assisted his unruly and unwelcome passenger to a soft spot on the right of way. Then the bell rang, the whistle blew and No. 37 sped around the curve and out of sight leaving the booze-hampered individual to wonder whether he was traveling or going somewhere.

In the abstract of the court's decision it is not stated whether he spent the night on a pile of crosstles or in negotiating the distance which separated him from the family residence. At any rate, he sued the railroad shortly afterward for damages "for all proper relief" for the physical inconvenience mental anguish, humiliation, consternation and loss of sleep and booze. The lower court thought he was entitled to $200. The Appellate Court reversed the verdict, holding that persons who are intoxicated are not in a proper condition to be received on a train and may be refused admittance; holding also that the intoxicated man when he got on board the smoking coach after being refused admittance was a trespasser.

These decisions may strike some people as having a tendency to work hardships in some instances which, perhaps, is true. The court, doubtless, in adjudicating the deserts of intoxicated passengers also had in mind the rights of the larger class of the traveling public which is wont to ride trains soberly and in its right mind.—Courier-Journal

BELLEVIEW.

To the Recorder:

A vast majority of the members of Belleview Baptist church deplore the resignation of their pastor, Rev. H. B. Hensley, whose resignation was offered and accepted at the regular church meeting Saturday, Feb. 11, 1911. He will move to the State of Texas. May the Lord God continue to use him in his great field of labor. Rev. Hensley has been our pastor for two years and during a greater portion of that time his services have been under the most trying circumstances, and when the hours were darkest he was ever faithful to the cause he so ably espouses. During his pastorate at our church the greatest revival of religion took place that ever occurred in the history of the church, which is good evidence of his christian character before the unconverted of our community. Now, as he is going to a new field, we trust God will crown his efforts with success, and when his work here on earth is finished and the finger of God touches him, calling him home, may it be said of him, "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith," is our prayer.

TOBACCO TALK.

Great preparations are being made to plant one of the largest crops of tobacco ever known in Graves county.—Mayfield Messenger.

We are inclined to think that a very good way to raise tobacco this year would be to get the ground in good condition and then plant it in corn.—Winchester News.

"Opened up soft" is the excuse for the low prices of tobacco on the breaks. You never heard anything of this until the farmers first opened up soft by refusing to pool.—Dover News

Mr. Leonard Miller, the foreman in the Record office, is about the most energetic man in town. Last year aside from putting in ten hours a day in the office, he cultivated a part of his garden in tobacco. He sold his crop Saturday for a good price.—Lancaster Record.

Mr. A J. Donovan, of the Fernleaf neighborhood, enjoys the distinction of having, so far this season, received the record high figure for tobacco on the local market. Mr Donovan had a 14,000 pound crop, part of which he brought in Tuesday, a portion of it bringing the handsome price of 30 cents a pound, which goes to show that high-grade tobacco is in demand.—Mayaville Bulletin

Six hundred pounds of some very fine long black wrapper leaf tobacco were sold on the loose floor of R. E and W. D. Cooper Wednesday for $16.50 per hundred pounds, establishing another high record for the season. The tobacco was grown by Mr. Brown on the Jim Carroll farm in Vaughn's chapel neighborhood. It measured about twenty-six inches in length and was as fine as was ever seen here.—Hopkinsville New Era

W. B Colbert, near Barlow, comes forward with a tobacco record this week that is worth while. From nine acres of land he delivered to our factory here 11,735 pounds of tobacco which brought 8 1-2 cents, netting him $310.83 And now comes S. E. Denton, also of the Barlow neighborhood, with a yield of 7,910 pounds from six acres of ground. He also received 8 1-2 cents all around, averaging $112.05 to the acre.—Wickliffe Yeoman

Mr. Edmund Burd and his brother were in the city Monday drawing the money for their crops of tobacco. Edmund alone raised on the Wilkes place, eight miles west of Mayfield, 6,164 pounds of tobacco which he sold here at from $8.50 to $4 per hundred pounds, using only six acres for his crop. His crop yielded him $537.15, and on five acres his brother Edward raised $464.60 worth of tobacco at $10 for the leaf and $4 for the tops, in which Edmund has a half interest.—Mayfield Mirror

There has been failure upon the part of the tobacco growers to agree upon any plan that has been advanced, either for the pooling or cut-out of the 1911 crop, and it seems now that it will be a "go-as-you-please" race in the culture of the weed this year. A curtailment of the crop is possible, even though there is no organization for that purpose, if the individual growers will have it that way. Low-priced tobacco is not a better paying crop than corn, wheat or something else that can be grown here, and the farmers would do well to remember this. If it will not pay to raise tobacco at starvation prices, why not raise something else?—Shelbyville Record.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. Riley Boothe, a tenant on the farm of Mr. Jennings, of Bracken county, passed through Dover with five big loads of tobacco—in all about 15,000 pounds. He was not taking it to market, but was hauling it back home, after trying to sell it in Ripley. Samples had been taken to Ripley and Mr. Boothe was told to bring his crop to Ripley, and that the samples indicated it would be worth more or near seven cents. When five big loads were rolled into "supply and demand" market and the work of unloading and grading be gan. it was evident the crop would grade little above 4 cents, and Mr. Boothe reloaded the two unloaded wagons and returned his tobacco to the farm.—Winchester News.

Mr. Clave Goddard writes in the Harrodsburg Herald as follows: "In January, 1910, Joe Vineyard began work on ten acres of tobacco on T. H Coleman's farm, crop to be pooled, provided there was a pool, but the 'outsiders' killed the pool. Joe had $175 in cash when he began work on his crop; during the season he drew to pay the wages of help in the crop not one cent for other purposes, $265.75 The crop was delivered on the Danville market last Monday and Thursday and sold and netted the enormous sum of $715.61; it weighed 12,500 lbs, an average of less than 5 3-4 cents. After deducting the $265 75 advanced, Joe had the princely sum of $92.05 left for 13 months' work. He had this princely check to meet a grocery account at one store amounting to $200 and another for a buggy, harness, etc., for $197. Joe Vineyard worked as hard and as faithfully as any man ever worked. He did not squander one dollar; he has a delicate little wife with three little babies, and, as he told me last week, less than ten days' provisions in his house.—Winchester News.

Carlisle.—The alleged report that is said to have been published to the effect that "several tobacco plant beds were dug up during the middle of the night, and in one case a grave excavated in the middle of the bed," referring to tobacco conditions in Nicholas county must be incorrect, as no one in this section seems to have heard of any acts of this character this year. The tobacco growers of this county are not at all excited over the tobacco situation at this time in any way. Quiet preparations are being made by many growers to raise a crop, beds were sown last week while others announce they do not care to sow a crop. However, there has been no talk here or threats of interference with any grower who desires to grow the crop, and the tobacco situation is quiet in this county, as far as can be learned here.

Carlisle,—Preparations of Nicholas county tobacco growers for the 1911 crop have been checked by the severe weather. Last week hundreds of tobacco plant beds were burned and planted by the growers, who are making every preparation to grow a crop. It is believed however, that the acreage in this county will be smaller than heretofore. The announcement of many larger growers that they will not raise a crop.

To Select Seed Potatoes.

The farmers in the famous potato region of Greeley, Col., became convinced of two things by experience. For one thing they found that potatoes should be planted on the same ground only twice in five years. Their crop plan is grain one year, followed by alfalfa two years. Then two years of potatoes. The grain pays just a fair rental, the alfalfa returns a moderate amount to the good, and the potatoes such profit that the total for the five years had made the land sell nt $150 to $300 an acre. The alfalfa puts back into the soil certain food which the potatoes consume. Potatoes, to return the largest profit, should be grown on land that has previously been in some legume such as alfalfa, clover, cowpeas or peanuts.

Another thing about potatoes. A hill of potatoes has, as a rule half large potatoes and half small ones. It makes no difference whether a large or small potato from the hill is planted, the crop will probably be like the hill the seed came from. Occasionally a hill will be found that has ten or more smooth, medium sized, well shaped potatoes, with out a single small or rough one. The potatoes from such a hill, if used for seed, are likely to produce a crop like themselves. Selecting seed from such a hill is the way to secure high yielding strains.

You can't walk up to a pile of potatoes and pick out seed with any degree of certainty that you will get the best results. The time to select the seed is when you find the right kind in a hill.

Looks Like Progress.

At a recent Good Roads Congress held in Louisville, a bill was drafted to be presented to the next Kentucky legislature, which if passed by the law-makers, will enable any or all counties to obtain from the State Treasury a duplicate amount of money for new road building that the counties raise for that purpose. For instance, if a county should raise by taxation $50,000 the State will furnish a like amount to be expended by the county authorities under the supervision of a State superintendent, who shall be a civil engineer. This looks like progress for the whole Commonwealth. The Blue Grass section and some other counties have always maintained a fine turnpike system, but many counties in the State have poor public thoroughfares, really only dirt roads. This new program will enable evey county to construct good gravel roads, and the money used will be well spent. Good roads areone of the best assets of the State.—Our Country.

NEED OF CAPABLE MEN.

Now more than at any other time in the history of Kentucky, is it necessary for capable men be sent as representatives to Frankfort. The old time rule that any man "just so he is a good fellow," would do to represent the county in the legislature has passed, and the sooner the people of the State realize this fact the the better. It is related of one wise solon, who was sent as a representative to Frankfort that he could not be induced to mount the stairs leading to the capitol, because he had been elected to the lower house. Such ignorance is inexcusable, and the stigma of sending such men as representatives should rest with the people who are responsible for their election. Send men to Frankfort, who are progressive and intelligent, and who will be in a position to discharge the duties of the position in a manner befitting the representatives of an intelligent citizenship. Now a good time to create the new order of things.—Paducah-News Democrat.

Every Farmer Knows

That even the best regulated and well made machinery will sometimes get out of order and cause trouble. That's why we contract for and handle the best lines only, the kinds that have been tried and tested and proven to be the best. Have you never noticed this?

Soon you will have to deal with the feeding problem. If you have several head of Cows, Horses, Hogs or Sheep, and must keep a big supply of feed on hand, a SILO is the thing to have.

By the use of a SILO we can show you how to save about 100 per cent. on your feed bills in six months' time, the only outlay being $150 for a SILO. Write us for particulars. The greatest convenience—the most economical device every invented for the farm.

In other lines of machinery we handle Dick's Feed Cutters, Grain Drills, Gas Engines, and Roofing materials of all kinds.

SOME HISTORY

In Regard to The Life of The Late John P. Gaines.

Bakersfield, Cals., Feb 19
Editor Recorder

The notice in the Boone County Recorder and Mr. J D. Gaines' letter in regard to Major John P. Gaines has been called to my attention. My mother Mrs H. Bedinger knew Major Gaines and has requested me to see what I could find in regard to Major Gaines' life in Oregon. According to Hubert Howe Bancroft's history of the West Coast of America, vol. 30, History of Oregon, published in San Francisco in 1888, are extracts from the California Courier July 27th, 1850, Spectator an Oregon paper Aug. 23, 1850, and Strong's history of Oregon Manuscripts pages 16-13, states that John P. Gaines was born in Argueta, Virginia, in Sept. 1795, and removed to Boone county, Kentucky, in early youth. He volunteered in the war of 1812, being in the battle of the Thames and several other engagements. He represented Boone county for several years in the legislature of Kentucky and was sent to Congress from 1847 to 1849. He was elected Major in the Kentucky cavalry and served in the Mexican war and was taken prisoner at Encarcion. After some months of captivity he escaped and joining the general army, served until the end of the war. On his return from Mexico President Taylor appointed him Governor of Oregon. The California Courier, July 27th, 1850, states that Major Gaines left New York in November 1849, in the U. S store ship Supply arriving at San Francisco in July, 1850, was then transferred to the U. S sloop of war, Falmouth, and arrived at Oregon City, Aug. 16th, 1850 He was accompanied by his wife, three daughters and two sons, two of his daughters, Flora and Harriet, having died with yellow fever at St. Catherin's island in the mouth of the Amazon. The other members of the party were Judge James S. Strong, Judge of the third territorial district, wife and daughter, their son having died the same time the Gaines girls did, Mrs. Hamilton, wife of General Edward Hamilton, of Ohio Territorial Secretary of Oregon, their little daughter and a Mr. Kinney. From the first of May until the middle of August there was neither Governor or District Judge in the Territory. The Secretary, Prosecuting Attorney and U. S Marshal administered the government. Mr Gaines was royally welcomed by firing salutes, cannons, speeches and a public dinner, and in return the Governor presented the territory with a handsome silk flag. This was the first flag presented to the territory as Congress had never offered these people a flag.

The Oregon Statesman of March 20th, 1854, remarks that Gaines came around Cape Horn in a government vessel, bringing with him his family and furniture, arriving nine months after his appointment and drawing salary all the time, while Lane, being removed, received no salary but performed the labor of the office until the first of May, 1850. Gaines was not welcome to many of the Oregon people as he was a Whig and they Democrats. Owing to the opposition of the Democrats the first part of his administration was unhappy and stormy. During this occurred the reorganizing of the legislature and also the removing of the Capital of Oregon City to Salem, to which Gaines was bitterly opposed. After the removal of the Capital his administration was more peaceful but Ex-Governor Lane made life a burden to him. Lane was reappointed to succeed Gaines, which was a great triumph for the Democrats. After being relieved of the governorship he retired to his farm near Salem, which he had homesteaded, where he died in December 1857. His wife was killed some time before by being thrown from a horse. Appleton's Cycolpedia of American Biography says that Gaines was appointed by President Fillmore, but this is evidently a mistake, as Fillmore was not inducted into office until July, 1850, when he succeeded President Taylor.

In Sept. 1908, I was visiting in Hollywood, California, where I saw notice in the Hollywood paper of the death of Abner Gaines, youngest son of John P. Gaines, former Governor of Oregon. He was 74 years of age and had been a resident of Hollywood for a great many years. He was buried in the Hollywood cemetery. I suppose that his family are still there. Respectfully,

S. E BEDINGER.

Some Unique Customs.

Hotel customs throughout the world are varied. A hotel in France is on wheels and turns so that any room can be given sunlight. Regulations governing the length of bed sheets have been made in certain states. Probably the most unique custom prevails in Tempe, a town in the Salt River Valley, Arizona. Here the proprietor refunds the hotel charges to all his patrons on any day the sun does not shine. At first this seems benevolent but he has been called upon to remit to his guests only once in the last five years. Guaranteeing sunshine is an original feature.

Business Conditions in The South

Reports of business conditions in the states of the South are the best that have ever been made from that section of the country, and these reports are not from any one, two or three states, but comprise advices from every state, including Deleware, to the Texas western boundary line.

These prosperous conditions are in almost every line of business, but they are based upon that as yet primary interest of the South, agriculture.

The money derived from the products of the soil of the South constitutes by far the greatest part of her total income, and so vast is that sum as compared with the incomes of former years that the people are becoming independent of other sections as far as capital for her local enterprises are concerned.

It is estimated that during the year 1910 more than 100,000 persons from the states north of the Ohio and the Potomac took up their permanent residences in the Southern states; and upon one day of the last week more than 3,500 persons left Chicago for the state of Florida, the majority of them going to investigate as to lands in that state which they desired to purchase in case conditions were found to be favorable for profitable results.

The trains to Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma since December 1st last have carried many thousands of actual settlers to those Southwestern commonwealths, and while the great middle belt of the Southern states are not counting their newcomers by the tens of thousands each month, as are the Southwestern States, yet there is a steadily flowing current of Northern people to these older Southern states.

Fruits, vegetables, corn and cotton have and are bringing fortunes and independence to millions of the Southern farmers, and at the same time the mining and manufacturing interests in those States are assuming an importance beyond the brightest hopes of even twenty years ago.

Fruits, vegetables, corn and cotton have and are bringing fortunes and independence to millions of the Southern farmers, and at the same time the mining and manufacturing interests in those states are assuming an importance beyond the brightest hopes of even twenty years ago.

The better understanding now existing between the transportation companies and the Southern people insures cordial co-operation that will inure to the advantage of both the inhabitants and the railways.

In the immense railway development of the U. S. which is planned for the coming ten years no section will respond with so speedy returns upon the new investments as will the southern portion of the Union.

It has the dependable soil, the favorable climate, the fine ports, the great natural waterways, the veins of coal, the forests of timber, and will be traversed in every direction by lines of railways operated twelve months in the year without excessive expenditures caused by antagonistic climatic conditions.

The South has needed but to be known to be appreciated, and the world is now just realizing the opportunities offered in those states.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY.

April 30th, has been set aside this year as "Tuberculosis Day" and will be observed by 200,000 churches in the country in a manner similar to that of "Tuberculosis Sunday" in 1910, when over 10,000 sermons were preached on the prevention of consumption. The Kentucky Association for the study and prevention of Tuberculosis states that it will make a special effort to enlist every one of over 1200 ministers in Kentucky to give their co-operation in bringing this vitally important subject before the members of their respective churches. It is estimated that in this way over 250,000 persons in Kentucky will be enlisted in this movement.

In one respect "Tuberculosis Day" this year will differ from "Tuberculosis Sunday" of 1910. Instead of requesting the churches to give to the Tuberculosis cause a special Sunday service, the State Association in this year going to ask that meetings at which Tuberculosis and its prevention be discussed, be held on Sunday, April 30th, or on any day near that date, either in the week preceding or the week following. The object is to get as many people in Kentucky as possible to think about this great problem at the same time.

It is conservatively estimated that there are in Kentucky today at least 20,000 persons suffering from this disease in some form or other.

The State Association is planning to distribute educational leaflets in connection with this day and it is earnestly desired the public will take an active part in stamping out this prevent able disease which sends over 6500 of our citizens to an early grave every year, and causes an economic loss to our state of over $13,000,000.

Our people are interested in the cut-out question. Most of them prefer to curtail the crop, but few feel that they can afford to cut it out entirely. The action of the Burley Tobacco Union in passing strong resolutions caused much talk and aroused much interest in and around Bedford.—Trimble County Democrat.

Many of the farmers are very anxious about getting their plows started.

For County Clerk.

The Recorder is authorized to announce W. R Rogers as a candidate for the nomination for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

March came in like a lamb.

Pendleton county Democrats will hold their legislative primary on May 27th.

Graves county taxpayers come across with $3,500 taxes on their dogs, which amount will pay for a considerable amount of wasted mutton.

The women of Seattle Washington, have entered politics in earnest, and have named the officers who are to conduct the affairs of the city.

The Lexington Herald says the fellow who has been stung with them wants to know if reciprocity with Canada will make the dimes of that country as good as ours.

It is strange that the demands for mutton and wool are increasing and sheep raising is not now receiving increased attention. Can it be that farmers and stockmen have not seen the advantages of sheep raising? Try a few sheep this year.

The Recorder is not boasting when it says that new names are being added to its list nearly every day, and this, too, without having a paid solicitor in the field. Now is the time to join the procession.

The funeral of Gen. W. L. Cabell took place in Dallas Sunday. It is estimated that between 50,000 and 60,00 persons saw the funeral procession or attended the services. Veterans of the union army marched behind the Confederate veterans in the parade.

Mayor Head, of Louisville, has withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His letter announcing his withdrawal is very different from that of Ben Johnson's in that he does not seek to injure his party, consequently instead of losing friends Mayor Head has increased his list. As the race now stands the candidates are McCreary and Adams, both of what may be termed Central Kentucky.

There appears to be an undercurrent of belief abroad, that at its next meeting the State Democratic Committee will call off the State primary election it has ordered held on May 27th for the nomination of candidates for State officers, and substitute a delegate convention. It does not look like such action on the part of the committee is reasonable, but there are many strange and unaccountable occurrances in politics. A rescinding of the order calling the State primary would be a forerunner of a signal Republican triumph next November, and be the means of placing Kentucky in the Republican column for all time to come. The calling off of the State primary at this late date could only be at the instance of some who wield an influence with the committee and whose aspiring friend is afraid to submit his claim to the people. This is an occasion in Kentucky politics when the voters propose taking a hand, and not submit longer to the dictates of inefficient leaders who have dominated the party for many years for purely selfish ends. Nothing would suit the Republicans better than to see a primary election called off, and who can blame them?

Gratitude.

The Recorder has been notified that the printing of the ballot books, &c, for the next county primary election will be let out to the lowest bidder. The work the committee will of necessity have done will not exceed $25, consequently it will not make the man who does it rich, but the committee in its effort to be economical (?) and save the few dollars it thinks the Recorder might charge more than "the other fellow" overlooks the fact that while the "other fellow" never has and never will do anything for the Boone County Democratic Committee without pay, the Recorder never, during the thirty-five years it has been published, charged the committee for publishing the calls of its chairman for committee meetings; never charged the committee for publishing the orders under which the numerous primary elections have been held; never charged the committee for publishing the list of the officers appointed to hold a primary election; never charged the committee for publishing its order declaring the nominees.

If the committee desires to give its printing to some one other than the Recorder it has the right to do so, and it is not necessary to attempt to veil that desire with "the lowest bid" dodge.

The Recorder is a Boone county institution, its editor was born and raised in the county, is a Democrat and pays his taxes here, neither of which can be claimed by "the other fellow," whoever he may be.

There have been a few primary elections held in the county for which the Recorder did not do the printing, but in every instance it was given the refusal of the work and no "lowest bid" proposition was ever mentioned, nor was ever there an intimation that its charges were excessive.

After having served the County Democratic Committee for thirty-five years faithfully and gratuituously in the instances above mentioned, the edict of that body is that now where a few dollars are involved the Recorder must expect no favors from it unless it will work for it cheaper than anybody else. Such an emphatic display of county pride and unbounded gratitude is overwhelming, but it has been wonderfully slow in manifesting itself.

Gentlemen of the committee, it would [illegible] to us to close this article without thanking you for the $1.00 worth of your printing you so generously awarded the Recorder without requiring it to be obtained by the "lowest bid" process, but you should have let the tail go with the hide.

In conclusion the Recorder states that in no wise will its policy of the past towards the committee be changed, and it will continue to print its calls without charge as heretofore.

It was rumored last week that the Democratic State Committee at its meeting in Louisville on Friday would rescind its former action calling a primary election to nominate State officers and order a convention. We are glad to know they did not, and the primary for May 27th stands. The News favored a convention at the start, but after the call for a primary it insisted that the United States Senatorship should be included in the call, and the committee did the proper thing when it so ordered. The Democratic majority in the State is too small for the representatives of the party to act partially and imprudently, and it is a pleasure to know that the matter has been settled and that no set of men in the background has influenced the committee to act for their pet schemes to the determent of the party.—Carrollton News.

Yes, but some say there is a fox under the hay stack, yet.

Fire at Hathaway.

The residence of Robert Moore at Hathaway, together with all its contents was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The fire was caused by a defective flue. Mr. Moore had but recently purchased the property, it being the house in which David Ryle kept store.

At the meeting of the Burley Tobacco Union held in Lexington, last Monday it was decided to abandon the proposition to cut out the 1911 crop of tobacco, unless the move is endorsed by the Burley Tobacco Society at its meeting in Lexington next week, which it probably will not do, if the attitude of Mr. Tebus toward the Union in the past is any criterion to judge by.

Notice—The stockholders in the Petersburg Canning Co. are urged to attend the meeting in Petersburg Saturday afternoon, March 4th, 1911, at 1 p. m.

Miss Jonette Revill is visiting her sister, Mrs. J G. Furnish, in Covington.

W. S. Acra, of Petersburg, was among the callers at this office yesterday.

Miss Olga Kirkpatrick attended the theater in Cincinnati, last Saturday night.

John D. McNeely, of Hathaway, was a business visitor to Burlington, Monday.

John W. Rice, of Weatherford, Oklahoma, was the guest of his cousin, W. J. Rice, yesterday.

M. J Corbin, wife and daughter, of Belleview, were Sunday guests of D. M Snyder and wife.

Atty. Thornton Snyder, of Cincinnati, was transacting business in Burlington, one day the past week.

Mr. and Mrs Geo. Ossman, of Beaver, were Saturday and Sunday guests of ex-County Clerk B. W. Adams and wife

A. H Norman, of Union, and a Mr. Michaels, of near Erlanger, were transacting business in Burlington last Saturday.

Mr. Edmond, who recently purchased the Chas. Jenkins farm below Petersburg, was transacting business in Burlington last Saturday.

Mrs. Sallie Calmes was in town yesterday arranging her business preparatory to going to Lexington to make her home with her sister.

B. W Adams, who has been considerably indisposed for two or three weeks, has about recovered, much to the delight of his many friends.

Miss Ennice Sullivan, of Covington, came out last Saturday to spend a few days with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs W. P. Sullivan, near town.

Rev. Elliott, of Louisville, occupied the pulpit for the Baptist congregation, last Sunday, Rev. Wells, the pastor, being unable to fill his appointment.

A letter received, a few days since, from H. P Stephens, of Nashville, announces his complete recovery from a recent operation for appendicitis.

C. C Hughes, gauger, who is employed in the revenue service at the Old '76 distillery, Newport, spent Saturday night and Sunday at his home in Burlington.

Mrs. Adna Hall returned home last Friday from Covington, where she had been at the bedside of the sick wife of her brother, H. G. Clutterbuck, who has improved considerably.

Mrs. Dudley Rouse entertained the Boone Literary Association, last Friday evening. The meeting was enjoyed by all as is always the case when the association is entertained by her.

C. C Roberts went to Walton, Monday, to attend the funeral of his kinsman, Jeff Roberts, of Bracht, Kenton county, who died from the effects of an attack of apoplexy on Friday before.

J. P. Duncan sends the Recorder a photograph of one of Kentucky's famous pikes leading from Lexington out past August Belmont's fine stock farm, and it is a beautiful avenue for travel.

J. F. Lambert, who lives five miles out on the Belleview pike was in Monday. He is one of the large tobacco growers of the county and is anxious to know what is to be the result of the cut-out movement.

Mrs. John Hogan will begin a three month term subscription school at District No. 52, Tuesday, March 7th. Mrs. Hogan is a most excellent teacher and the patrons of the district are delighted to have her teach again this spring.

W. C Brown, of Florence, was in Burlington, one day last week, and it is said that he and his good wife and two sprightly children contemplate becoming citizens of the town again. They lived here many years ago and will be welcomed back, as they were favorites with all.

J. P Duncan, after spending several days here with his father, J. W Duncan, and sister, Mrs. C. M. Baldon, and brothers, Dr E. W. and James A Duncan, returned to Walnut Hall Stock Farm, Fayette county, last week, to resume his duties as trainer of Mr. Harkness' fine trotting horses.

Frank Mullins who lives south of Gunpowder creek, came to Burlington, last Saturday, and while here the melting of the snow so increased the volume of water in the creek that he could not cross it to return home, hence he had to remain until Sunday morning with a friend. This being the day of telephones it was no trouble for him to inform his family of his whereabouts.

It was the editor's good fortune and great pleasure, last Saturday morning, to ride from Erlanger to the traction road with E. O Rouse, of Florence, who was going to meet his handsome and accomplished daughter, Miss Violette, who is boarding with her aunt and attending High school in Covington. Mr Rouse is one of the county's most substantial and clever citizens, who believes in getting out of the old educational ruts that have been a handicap for many years.

OPEN EVENINGS.

There is some talk of an extra session of the Kentucky Legislature for the double purpose of considering the question of redistricting the State and the local option question. If an extra session is called it should be for the purpose of changing the tax and highways laws, measures which would be of great benefit to the whole State. Kentucky is almost dry, but every county has bad roads and poor tax laws. Next winter the senatorial fight and other political matters will render tax and road legislation almost impossible, and the only show to get those measures thru is to call an extra session.—Shepherdsville News.

Richard Allen, who lives a couple of miles from town was in Tuesday and says the roads in his neighborhood that have been dragged this winter are in fair condition where properly drained.

The Democratic Executive Committee reaffirms its action in calling a State primary for May 27. That no steps were taken toward making a platform was a great disappointment to many of the Democrats of Kentucky, and is calculated to injure the party in the State. Why this committee should be so indifferent to party success and so adverse to giving the Democrats of the State an opportunity to publicly make known the principles for which they stand, is a matter that is beyond comprehension. Can it be that the Executive Committee is more interested in the personnel of the ticket than in the success of the party?—Lebanon Enterprise.

Jesse Kirkpatrick is papering Library Hall.

This is the month of changeable weather—all kinds in twenty-four hours.

Mr. McCracken, of the Florence neighborhood, had a fine day for his sale.

There are several cases of measles in Burlington, but so far the disease has been confined to colored patients.

There are a great many young lambs in the county, and so far the flock owners have had pretty good luck with them.

L. T Clore is making a record as a catcher of rats, a large wire trap full every night being the result of his efforts in that business.

Supt. Edgar Riley informed the Recorder, Monday that he was in receipt of the draft for last month's payment of teachers' salaries.

In last week's issue it was stated that Dudley Rouse's parents came to this State from Virginia in 1850 when it should have read 1805. Covington was a pretty lively site for an orchard as late as 1850.

A letter received Sunday by Mrs. Sidney Gaines from her husband, who is at the bed-side of M. T. Garnett, in Bartow, Fla., stated that Mr. Garnett is in a very bad condition, and is unconscious part of the time.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are safe, sure and reliable, and have been praised by thousands of women who have been restored to health through their gentle aid and corrective properties. Sold by all dealers.

The metal spread on the Burlington and Florence pike the past month has bedded nicely.

James E. Botts, of Belleview precinct, came in Monday and left an advertisement for his sale which he will have next Saturday. The advertisement appears in another column. Mr. Botts will move to the Calmese farm near Bullittsville, for a while.

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all dealers X

If farmers will give their seed corn a thorough test they will find that barring the ravages of moles, cut worms and wash-outs, they will have very little replanting to do. When a farmer cultivates land on which he ought to have 100 hills of corn but has only ninety, one-tenth of his labor goes for naught. It is this waste of labor that tests provide against.

As M. J Corbin, wife and daughter, Miss Bernice, of Belleview, were coming to Burlington, last Sunday morning to attend church, in Mr. Corbin's auto they had an exciting experience near Mr. Lambert's on the long hill. In making one of the sharp curves on the hill the machine skidded and went off of the pike on to the bank which settled under the weight and came very near letting the machine go over on its side, frightening the occupants considerably. To get back on to the road it was necessary to summon Mr. Lambert and his team to their assistance. On the road again Mr. Corbin continued his trip to Burlington without further incident, but to avoid the possibility of an accident he did not remain for the night services.

V. W. Gaines, of Idlewild, was among those who were looking after business in Burlington, Monday.

Esq. William Stephens and Lawrence Chambers, of Petersburg, made the Recorder a call yesterday as they were enroute to the McCracken sale.

It is human nature for a person to think he ought to get a better price for what he sells than the price that prevails, while he is of the opinion he is paying too much for what he buys.

Material has been received for making considerable repairs by the Burlington and Florence Turnpike Company on its bridge that spans Gunpowder creek at Limaburg. Among other repairs will be iron joists to support the floor, which will make the bridge a most substantial structure.

The Knockers' Club has an orcheatra composed of members that makes delightful music at intervals during the meetings. The music is destined to prove a very popular feature of the meetings and will have a tendency to cause a good attendance at each meeting.

Forced To Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers, whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs, are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. R Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed and I gained forty seven pounds in weight. Its surely the king of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. It's positively guaranteed for Coughs, LaGrippe, Colds, Asthma, Croup—all Throat and Lung troubles. 50c and $1 Trial bottle free, at all dealers

Dear Recorder:—

Through your columns I wish to thank my many friends who have so kindly contributed to my happiness here, finding it impossible to answer each. Poor people have poor ways. I am perfectly well and most lovingly cared for. In the last week company from home gave an "At Home" to 18 kindred spirits. Saturday evening there was a dance—heard old Bro. Froh preach Sunday. Attended Mrs. Franklin's reception and the moving picture show and took two long walks each day. We have new books from the library, and fancy work and being helpful besides keep me too busy to worry. My Blufe, Press and I will visit you all in 1912. All continue to write to your true friend. Mrs. M. E. Adams.

No Need To Stop Work.

When your doctor orders you to stop work, it staggers you. "I can't" you say. You know you are weak, run-down and failing in health, day by day, but you must work along as you can stand. What you need is Electric Bitters to give tone, strength, and vigor to your system, to prevent breakdown and build you up. Don't be weak, sickly or ailing when Electric Bitters will benefit you from the first dose. Thousands bless them for their glorious health and strength. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50c at all dealers.

"Bud" Goodridge and family, until recently residents of the Waterloo neighborhood, are now citizens of Burlington, occupying a portion of his mother's residence.

For several days last week it was thought that Hubert Gaines would lose his fine, black filly colt, but it has come around about alright again. It is a very fine young animal that is prized highly by its owner.

Notice! Notice!

Parties desiring [illegible] will do well to call on [illegible] Howard Electric Machine Shop at Florence, Ky. [illegible] Ice [illegible] and power [illegible] called for and delivered.

Washington the terms of bill passed despite the retains her Congressmen, it will be the Legislature to redistricting act. This an added incentive to Republicans and Democrats alike capturing the Legislature, as it will be the right of that body to divide the State into Congressional districts. No redistricting act can be taken out of politics, and so it is likely that Democratic Legislature in Kentucky, if it redistricts, will put Congressmen Bennett and Langley in the same district which will be called the Tenth and which will probably be Republican in complexion, as will be the Eleventh.

In order to give Representative Thomas, in the Third district, less of a struggle, Metcalfe county may be added to the Eleventh district.

This would insure nine Democratic Congressional districts in Kentucky, make one overwhelmingly Republican and make the Tenth almost safely Republican also.

Should the Republicans capture the Kentucky Legislature, however, it would be in their power to make four or five districts of their own, on the basis of the present majorities of the counties. They would likely take Harrison from the Ninth and put it into the Sixth, take Clark from the Tenth and put it into the Seventh, and sprinkle so many Eleventh district mountain counties into the Third Fourth and Fifth as to render them very uncertain.

It is certain that if the next Legislature is Republican a redistricting act will be passed, as the chance comes only every ten years and the Republicans are not satisfied with the present apportionment.

Eclipses of the Sun.

During the present year, 1911, there will be two eclipses of the sun. The first of these, which occurs April 28, will be total. This April eclipse will be visible in the United States, with the exception of the far north as a line drawn through the cities of Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Butte, Mont., and Portland, Oregon Visible in Mexico and Central America, the path of totality will extend from Ankland, Australia, across the Pacific ocean, almost to Central America. At Richmond, Va., and at New Orleans, La., the phenomenon will occur either part or wholly after sunset, but in this section of the country it is scheduled to begin at 5:30 in the afternoon and last one hour. The other eclipse of the sun for 1911 falls on October 21, and will be invisible to the United States.

Some Important Don'ts

Don't contradict people, even if they are sure you are right.

Don't be inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate acquaintance.

Don't underrate anything because you don't possess it.

Don't believe that everybody else is happier than you are.

Don't conclude that you have never had any opportunities.

Don't believe all the evil you hear.

Don't repeat gossip, even if it does interest a crowd.

Don't jeer anybody's religious belief.

Learn to hide your aches and pains under a pleasant smile.

Don't care whether you have the earache, headache or rheumatism.

Learn to attend to your own business. A very important point.

Will Not Allow It Raised.

Hopkinsville—Any attempt to raise tobacco in this county in defiance of the cut-out order and the strong public sentiment back of it will almost certainly result in serious trouble for those attempting it. Three farmers in different parts of the county prepared beds to sow tobacco seed, but when they started to work next morning they found notes on the seed beds warning them to desist, under dire penalties. Another man whose name could not be learned, rented a farm near Sharpsburg, and it is stated, declared his intention of raising ten acres of tobacco in spite of 'night riders.' Before he took possession, however, the five room building he was to occupy was blown to pieces with dynamite and rendered entirely uninhabitable. That farmer has changed his mind about raising tobacco this year. A man in the Peeled Oak neighborhood, south of this city, also was notified in writing not to make any more preparations to raise tobacco this year.

The declaration for a cut-out of the tobacco crop of 1911 at the recent convention at Lexington meets the hearty and almost unanimous approval of the tobacco raisers of this county. Even members of the pool, or the Burley Tobacco Society, who have heretofore stood aloof from the cut-out movement, now express hope of its success and will use all influence available in its behalf.

In the Circuit Court last week a negro man was given a life sentence in the penitentiary, for appropriating a turkey that belonged to some one else. It was his third conviction for felony and habitual criminal law requires a life sentence with other two convictions were for stealing.—Georgetown

CALL FOR PRIMARY.

At a meeting of the Boone Co., Democratic Executive Committee held at Burlington, Ky., February 20th, 1911, it was ordered that a primary election be held in every voting precinct in Boone County on Saturday, May 27th, 1911 for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for State Senator, County Representative and County Court Clerk to be voted on at the regular election in November.

All rules governing the State Primary on May 27th shall govern this election.

A. B Renaker was made a subcommittee of one to have ballots printed and attend to all details in carrying out this call.

The entrance fee of each individual candidate in this primary election is fixed at $35.00 to be paid to A. B Renaker not later than May 12, 1911, at which time the names of the candidates who have paid their proper entrance fee will be placed on the ballots.

A. B RENAKER, Chairman.
BEN BERKSHIRE, Sec. P. T.

Bad Roads Causes Ignorance.

While much has been said in regard to the value of good roads to the farmer in the way of contributing to lessening the expense of hauling farm produce to market the relation of the public roads to the education is one which has been overlooked. It is a more or less well-known fact says Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, that we have in all of our states a number of illiterate persons. While there are a number of contributory causes to illiteracy, it is significant to note that in four States where the average per cent of improved roads is 30.55 the per cent of white illiterates is only 0.34 of 1 per cent of the total population, and in four States in which only 1.51 of the road mileage is improved the per cent of white illiterates is 4.76 It is probable that bad roads are partly a cause and partly an effect of ignorance but it certainly appears that the two are closely related.

A Remarkable Incident.

What is probably the most remarkable incident in the history of the Postoffice Department of the United States has just been cleared up. Thirty years ago 13 registered packages containing $3500 disappeared from the Peoria postoffice. Rev Chas. E. Burdette, brother of the famous humorist of that name, was a clerk in the Peoria postoffice at that time, and has been under a cloud ever since, altho he was not dismissed from the service. He always declared his innocence and his friends never believed him guilty. A few days ago an old mail pouch was delivered to a San Francisco repair shop for repairs. A workman ripped out the bottom of the sack and discovered the long missing packages caught by the corners in such a manner as to practically form a false bottom. Rev Burdette is now pastor of a church at Spring field, Mass.

Electric Railroad Business.

Twenty-five years ago not a mile of electric railroad track existed anywhere and not $1 was invested in this branch of railroading; now there are 35,000 miles of such road in this country. 75,000 electric cars, a capitalization of $4,000,000,000 and 10,000,000,000 passengers are carried in a year. This twenty-five year contract was presented to the American Electric Railway Association at a banquet in New York the other evening. The annual income of the companies was said to be $440,000,000 and they have 250,000 salaried employes.

How quickly a story gets old! It was only about twenty years ago that the electric car was looked at with curiosity, as we look at aeroplanes now. Will the aeroplane be the foundation of as great an industry as the electric car? That is to be doubted. At least, as an industry it can hardly grow as fast as the electric railroad business has grown.

One of the most interesting things said at this banquet was to the effect that within the next ten years the existing electric railroad traffic will probably be doubled. Evidently, the men who use the surface of the earth are looking for vast increases in business—regardless of what the airmen are doing.—Buffalo N Y., Express

Corn Growing in Kentucky.

The Lexington Leader reports J. W. Winter, the Illinois corn expert, who judged the exhibits at the Kentucky Corn Show, as saying that he does not doubt that when the Kentucky farmers have raised corn as long as it has been raised in Illinois, the quality of corn to the acre in Kentucky will far exceed the production of Illinois, or any other state. He gave as his reason that the Kentucky soil if properly treated, and with the right kind of seed corn, will produce larger yields than the soil of any other state in the union. He said, however, that the Kentucky farmers have not until recently taken enough interest in corn raising, and start about making the necessary arrangements to secure a larger and better yield to the acre. Mr Winter also said that the corn on exhibition is equally as good as most of the corn exhibited at the State corn shows of the great corn-producing states.

DE LAVAL
CREAM SEPARATORS
Won First Prize
at the
California State Fair

The DE LAVAL machines were exhibited in competition with the half a dozen other makes and, as usual, the DE LAVAL carried off the honors, being awarded the first premium.

Wherever they have been exhibited the DE LAVAL Cream Separators have invariably been awarded highest honors at every important exposition or actual-use contest.

The DE LAVAL skims closer, runs easier, lasts longer and is easier to keep clean than any other separator made.

Sooner or later you will buy a DE LAVAL.

No Gold Brick Scheme.

The officers and directors of the Ohio Valley Oil and Gas Company met in Maysville, last week, and the contracts to have two wells bored, one at Dover on the Pery farm and one at Brooksville. The work is to begin in thirty days and the contract price is $1.50 per foot for each well. As the borings may reach a depth of 1,500 to 2,000 feet, it will be understood that the experimental work is in an expensive proposition.

The Ohio Valley Oil and Gas Company is a home concern with $5,000 in cash on hand to bore for oil and gas in Mason and Bracken counties, where it has an immense acreage under lease.

This is no gold brick scheme, but a straight-out proposition of home people in home territory. Nothing has been colored or misrepresented and, however the borings result, the stockholders will share equally in the losses or gains.

SECRET OF BASKETS

Hopes to Interpret Odd Indian Designs Worked.

New York Woman Is Sent on Long Visit to Aborigines of Southwest by American Museum of Natural History.

New York.—Miss Mary Lois Kissell, who started recently for an extended trip among the Indians of the southwest, where she will study basketry on its native heath, is the first woman ever sent out by the American Museum of Natural History for purposes of original research. Hitherto men only have been employed to penetrate the wilds and the deserts in its behalf. But now it has come to a crisis and a woman fills the void. The museum has a fine collection of Indian baskets. They are of all shapes and sizes and uses, covered with intricate designs in significant colors. Some of the facts of their construction are known, but the scientists are aware of many mysteries which await solution. "Mere man"—even a scientific man—cannot get at these secrets. He tries, and the taciturn old squaw mutters: "Me no know." Mere man discovers that the Indian woman is bound by rules of religious observance not to discuss her work with men. Even the braves of the tribe do not know how the beautiful designs are executed, and the white man is doubly helpless.

It is Miss Kissell's enthusiasm, combined with her knowledge of textiles and handcraft that has won her place in the museum. It is said that she even lighted a glow of enthusiasm in the cold scientific souls of European museum directors. She was abroad last summer gleaning what she could about basketry from collections there. In Munich she asked such illuminating questions about how some baskets were made that the veteran scientist saw new light on his subject.

"Well, well," he cried, delighted, the old joy of discovery in his heart. "Who would have thought baskets meant so much? We'll know more when you come again, madame."

Feminine scientists, as a class, are full of enthusiasm. Miss Kissell has found, and also they sometimes see things which masculine science overlooks. For instance, a Congo expedition brought back a curious little cap made by some tribes of that region. The minute Miss Kissell saw it she recognized it as Irish crochet lace, done in straw. The sight thrilled her woman's heart. Irish crochet in the Congo! How was it done? The men of the expedition looked blank enough when questioned. What, indeed, was one stitch or another to them? It seemed as if the secret would remain untold, when it developed that the explorer's wife had been with the party.

"Why, yes," she said in surprise, "I know all about it, of course. I sat with the women for hours and watched them do it."

Miss Kissell's field will be the Pima-speaking tribes of Arizona, the largest encampment being near Tucson, but a trip of sixty miles further down toward Mexico may be necessary. She will go alone, fearing nothing and trusting to her beads and mirrors to carry her through in safety.

Now a woman is going to try her hand at ferreting out these secrets. Feminine intuition and an inborn natural understanding of squaw psychology are expected to accomplish much. For the rest Miss Kissell will depend on making friends with the papooses.

"It will take time, of course," said Miss Kissell, "to get them to regard me in a friendly way. I shall stay in one village long enough to feel acquainted. Then I shall take my 'knitting work' maybe and go to spend the afternoon with one of my neighbors. Two or three others will drop in, and we'll all sit and chat as we work. I expect to get many points, this way that would not be divulged in an ordinary interview. There are mysterious rites connected with the gathering of the reeds, and many of the designs have a religious or superstitious significance. They will tell me these things, I hope, as they could no. tell a man."

Everything depends on making a good impression. So Miss Kissell has provided herself with various appliances for winning friendship. She has several tiny mirrors to appeal to feminine vanity and a big box of glass beads from the 10 cent stores. She may take a walk through an Indian village and spy some fat little lad who looks promising. She will snap a string of red beads around his dirty little neck and smile ingratiatingly. In twenty minutes the whole village will know of the affair, and success will be assured. She has $20 in brand new coins, too. These are not for gifts, but for payment. She may want to buy a basket or an implement of some kind. An old, dingy coin would not tempt the savage heart, but a shiny silver quarter is expected to be irresistible.

Hunt Coons With Train.

Birdsboro, Pa.—Catching raccoons from a freight train was the unusual experience of John Cavanaugh, a brakeman on the Reading railway. While his freight was passing Modena, along the Brandywine, it being moon light, Cavanaugh saw the coon on the limb of a tree and pulled him down. After the animal was carried into the caboose he made a determined fight, and it was only with the aid of the train crew that the raccoon was finally dropped into a bag.

SOME STRANGE WEDDINGS

Three Australian Brothers Married Three Sisters on the Same Day —Two Sets of Twins.

Of strange weddings there appear to be no end, and the following are a few of the instances in point:

There are some very remarkable coincidents in the series of Quinn-Hoffman weddings. A year or two ago, at Adelong, Australia, three brothers named Quinn married, on the same day, three sisters of the name of Hoffman; but the most curious part of it is that two of the brothers were twins and these were married to two of the Hoffman girls, who also were twins! Again, some time previous, another brother of the Quinns married another girl of the Hoffman family, so that it may be said to be an interfamily record.

A somewhat similar occurrence happened in Trail Village, England, when four sons of Mr. John Somers were married, on the same day, to four daughters of a Mr. Hochsettler—a well-to-do farmer of the neighborhood. The four couples all took up abode in the vicinity.

A marriage which caused much talk at the time was celebrated in 1896, between the Marin and Rheaume families, who lived in the parish of Sainte Marie, Quebec.

The parties were neighbors, and the four sons of the one family arranged marriages with the four daughters of the other, and so perpetuated the old adage that "exchange is no robbery."—Widow.

HID HIS GOLD SINCE 1849

Virginian, Nearing Death, Shows His Housekeeper Where His Yellow Treasure Is Buried.

James P. Snyder of Luray, Va., is reported to have left much money, which he had carefully guarded since the memorable California gold fever in 1849. Then a young man about twenty, Snyder, with several Virginia companions, started in search of the yellow metal.

For a time his lot was one of hardship and privation. Finally there was a turn, and Snyder was soon rated as one of the lucky ones. He continued to stay in California, all the time adding to his wealth. He never married and his housekeeper since the death of her husband has been Mrs. J. C. Southard.

Not long ago Snyder, realizing his 82 years and the consequent near approach of the end, called Mrs. Southard into a side room of his home and, pointing to the floor, said: "See that piece of carpet? Raise it up and lift up that trap door." Mrs. Southard doing so, Snyder gave further directions. "Get down there and take that hoe you'll find there," indicating by a point of the finger, "Now, be careful when you scratch around that dirt"—pointing to a certain spot—"as you may break something." Removing the dirt as directed, Mrs. Southard soon came upon a half gallon glass jar of California gold money which had been hidden since Snyder's western trip.

To Please the Men?

It is a fact that the impelling motive in the fashions of women's gowns, hats and other outer appurtenances is dictated by a purpose to arouse the admiration of men? Such theory has been promulgated from time beyond the reckoning of statisticians. But how does it work when the latest dictum of fashion from Paris is announced?

According to that dictum, the fashionable woman of the immediate future will be "dressed like a Turk, a Spaniard, a Japanese, a grand dame of the first empire and a convict." Here is the combination: "Hat, Turkish turban; jacket, Spanish bolero, but with Japanese kimono sleeves; skirt, high waisted empire with 'loud, perpendicular convict stripes.'" It is to be taken for granted, of course, that the women will continue their accustomed practice of pleasing the men, somehow. But, how much will such a combination aid in producing results?

Woman National Bank Cashier.

Miss E. M. Boynton has been elected cashier of the Bay Side, N. Y., National bank at a salary of $2,500 a year. Miss Boynton came from her home in the west to take a place as bookkeeper in a store at Bay Side. When the Bay Side National bank was organized she became assistant cashier and of late had filled the cashier's place. Mrs. Minnie Y. Trickey, president of the Commercial State bank of Rosedale, Kan., for several years, has been re-elected for another year. Mrs. Trickey is also city treasurer of Rosedale. Mrs. Ella Dodd is said to be the only woman bank director in Delaware. She is a director and one of the principal stockholders in the Lewis National bank. Mrs. Dodd is the owner and manager of several prosperous farms.

Pearls in Cocoanuts.

Few people know that the cocoanuts of the Malay peninsula sometimes produce pearls that are highly prized by the natives. The stones are not unlike the pearls of the mollusks and are similar in composition to the oyster pearls, having calcium carbonate and a little organic matter. These concretions form just beneath the stem, and a pure white pearl brings a high price, as it is supposed by the natives to possess some kind of a charm. Cases have been known where the cocoanut pearl has been sold as a mollusk product, but such instances are rare.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Buttermaking is an art.

Fresh fruit is always delicious.

Most farm buildings are built too close to the dwelling.

In preparing a seed bed for sweet clover do a thorough job.

Very little is known about the actual value of rye as a poultry food.

The barn that is banked up will have fewer draughts over the floor.

Don't leave your valuable farm machinery standing unprotected in the field.

Oat straw is an excellent rough feed for sheep. Wheat straw is next in value.

Overcrowding the ewe flock during the winter months is a frequent cause of severe losses.

Very early spraying with Bordeaux is the thing for all kinds of fungus rot and for peach leaf curl.

Fresh, green bone is of itself almost a complete feed, and may be used as a special material for egg production.

Farmers should not buy more land until that which they already have is producing to its maximum capacity.

Exercise is of prime importance in several ways. It keeps the pigs nimble and in a healthy condition generally.

Before putting the chicks into the brooder it is a good plan to sprinkle them carefully with a good insect powder.

One of the first needs of the pigs is a comfortable place in which to pass more than half of the time, sleeping and resting.

Breeding stock should be selected for health, strength, vigor and maturity first, utility second and fancy points third.

It is a well known fact that properly managed a 20, 40 or 80 acre farm will return in addition to a living, a fine income for the family.

The dairyman having a productive farm of 180 to 200 acres can easily raise six to eight of his best marked female calves each season.

The annual income from milk and butter in the United States is said to be more than the output of the gold and the silver mines.

Carrots are fed to horses not so much for their feeding value, but for their influence in keping the digestive organs in good condition.

It requires ice to handle milk, cream or butter, so see to it that you will be fully supplied with this cheap article for next summer's use.

In winter dairy farmers often forget that nothing is cheaper and more beneficial than pure air, sunlight and a reasonable amount of exercise.

Fowls should always be starved for at least 24 hours before being killed, so as to have their crops and intestines thoroughly free from food of any kind.

There is a steady demand for nuts. The English walnut, pecan, Spanish, Japanese and American chestnuts, butter nuts and shellbarks are the most profitable.

The difficulties experienced in spreading poultry manure, on account of its sticky consistency, may be obviated by mixing with loam, peat or common stable manure.

Condiments that stimulate egg production are very much like anything that stimulates a human being. After the immediate results wear off the bird is in worse shape than before being fed.

People think that if hens don't lay in the winter they will in the summer, but this is a mistake, as it has been found that the winter layers will produce as many eggs in the summer as the non-winter layers.

As regards rotation of crops, unless the western farmer is willing to see his land become, even in the present generation, as valueless for agricultural use as is so much of New England, he must adopt and adhere to some systematic use of restorative crops.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING IS BADLY BROKEN UP

May Be More Logical and Phonetic But Offends Taste of Majority of Intelligent People.

We cheerfully and gladly print, in his own incorrect spelling, Mr. Andrew Carnegie's animadversions upon the Times' "old fogy" orthography. The clothing of men and women is incorrect as it fails to follow the custom of the majority of the most respected wearers of clothing. Usage, not logic or even convenience, is the criterion in dress. The usage of a majority of the best speakers and writers determines how a language should be spelled. Judged by this standard, the simplified spelling which Mr. Carnegie affects in his letter to the Times may be more logical, more phonetic, more economical than the accepted forms, but he will have to confess that it is incorrect and uncouth. It offends the taste of the majority of intelligent readers and writers.

Mr. Carnegie should not blame the teachers at Wellesley for enforcing the dictionary spellings in the compositions of its students. There are plenty of good abstract reasons why the young women at Wellesley, and, in fact, all women, should don trousers as better suited to freedom of movement than the cumbersome skirt and petticoat. In this matter the reformers of dress have all the arguments on their side, and Mr. Carnegie, we presume, would confess his prejudice in respect of custom and usage. A newspaper's business is the gathering and printing news. In conveying the news it would not affront its thousands of readers.—New York Times.

ORIGIN OF A SLANG PHRASE

"Bughouse" Started When a Telegraph Operator Found His Apparatus Short-Circuited by a Bug.

"Slang, the German word for snake, creeps into our language in spite of our vigilance," writes a correspondent of the New York World. "To illustrate: Some five or six years ago a certain telegraph operator, Joe Lilly, in a large Baltimore office, called up Cincinnati by telegraph, but could not make himself understood, although he could easily understand the message sent him. Then he called up other cities with the same result. Evidently something was wrong, so he notified the electrician, who on opening the box containing the transmitting apparatus found a bug which in the course of its wanderlust had short-circuited the machine.

"The other operators gave the victim a horse laugh for having a 'bughouse' transmitter. Even the messengers accused each other of being 'bughouse,' and inside of an hour it was flashed from one city to another. But after a while a race of employes sprang up who know not Joseph, and to these the word 'bughouse' conveyed not much meaning.

"Could 'bughouse' compete with 'crazy?' Well, for a time, 'bughouse' had 'crazy' beaten, but a reaction set in when some miscreant composed the ditty, 'I May Be Crazy, But I Ain't No Fool.' That put a quietus on 'bughouse'—a consummation devoutly to be wished."

Blaze Had Lasted Long.

A delegation of officials of fire departments of western cities was on a visit to fire headquarters in New York city a few days ago and their talk turned upon big fires in their experience.

"We had a big fire in our city a few years ago. The blaze wasn't entirely extinguished for nearly a week," said one of the visitors.

"A week may seem long in some cases, but we had a fire in this city that was not extinguished in two years," said Commissioner Waldo with a smile.

"It was only the other day that I ordered a fireboat up to Riker's Island in the East River to throw water on a fire that started two years ago. The fire was in the ground that had been reclaimed from the water by dumping cinders and other refuse from the city. In spite of the rains and water the underground fire has persisted. The reduction of the cinders and refuse to ashes has caused the ground to sink."

An Old Legend.

The legend of the live toad imprisoned in a solid block of coal or stone dies hard. It is to be feared that many who distrust some of the startling assertions of science are quite ready to receive this myth. The latest evidence of this extraordinary example of credulity comes from Leicestershire. It is reported that a resident, while breaking a lump of coal, saw "a live, half-grown toad fall out on its back. I called the attention of my neighbors to it, and I thought it was dead, but in a few minutes it began to move about, so I took care of it, and have it now, as well as the piece of coal. There is a cavity in the coal where it lay. I can vouch for its genuineness."—Dundee Advertiser.

Rings Replace Straps.

A newly invented substitute for the street car strap is a series of iron rings, attached to a bar running the length of the car. Each ring is fastened with a spring, and returns to a uniform position when the hand is withdrawn from it. The rings are not sightly, but their cleanliness attracts, a polished white surface being kept well scrubbed by the transportation companies which have adopted them.

The anxiety of those farmers who have opposed reciprocity with Canada is easily explained. The President himself has made the situation quite clear in his recent Illinois address, although he did not specifically tell the agriculturists in question how they had been whipsawed. He could not do so with much grace, but he was at pains to lay before them facts showing how ground less are their fears. The truth of the situation is that the farmers were hoodwinked by the high protectionist tools of the special interests. In order to lull the farmer to sleep so that he would be less likely to oppose the outrageous duties on many imports, a duty was levied on wheat and on other agricultural products as well. This adroit plan was conceived to make the unsuspecting tiller of the soil believe that he was a special ward of the high priests of Protection, and that the system regarded him with keen solicitude. With the commodities which he was compelled to purchase taxed to the uttermost, it was deemed good policy to tax the products he had to sell. Thus, he was told, Protection operated uniformly and he was a sharer in the benefits of a generous and paternal system. To his simple mind, heretofore, the thought never occurred that he was getting a sardine in exchange for a salmon; but while a few of our farmers have not realized the inequality of this "glorious" exchange, a great number have awakened to the fact, and these will scarcely be fooled a second time. They are not going to support a second time a policy that has robbed them already, particularly when that support might have a tendency to defeat their own redress.—Financial America

SWEET CLOVER PASTURES.

This wonderful clover has come to be of great importance to the farmers of Pendleton county. Our chief products are tobacco, cattle, sheep and dairying, and sweet clover plays a more important role in all these than any other thing. We have here, blue-grass, alfalfa, red clover and timothy; but today we have more acres in sweet clover by far, than any other grass. It furnishes fine pasture alone or mixed with other grasses; it is the earliest grass in the spring and the last to yield to freezes in the autumn. No grass is equal to it for milk producing and beef making. It is the hardiest grass we have, growing on all kinds of soil, on barren places in washes where it soon levels them up. Its great growth, exceeding ten feet in height and so thick that it heaps upon the ground a mass of litter, which together with the large roots covered with nitrogen nodules, quickly fertilizes and richens the poorest soils. For hay it is second only to alfalfa, yielding several cuttings a season. It furnishes more honey than any other plant and is about on a par in quality with white clover honey. The seed is gathered by hand and furnishes a handsome return to the farmer for his labor.

On a few years ago sweet clover was fought by our farmers as a weed pest until they discovered its value. Many farms and fields that had been abandoned by the owners, now produce splendid crops of tobacco after being in sweet clover a few years. It can be truthfully said this clover has been the means of redeeming large areas of poor washed and abandoned lands in this county. —Pendletonian.

Sixty-Six Indictments.

After having been in session for 11 days the grand jury adjourned last Saturday afternoon. Sixty-six indictments were reported but the nature of the indictments were not made public, the court having concluded that it would hinder the sheriff and his deputies in rounding up the indicted ones if the list were published. Among other indictments was one against the Fiscal Court for maintaining a public nuisance. The report also scores the court for not removing the present County Infirmary keeper and recommends that they be proceeded against legally if said keeper is not removed. They also recommend the removal of the county physician, alleging that he is unfit for the place.—Grant County News.

School Inspectors.

Two school inspectors, whose duties shall be somewhat similar to those of bank examiners, are suggested as greatly needed in Kentucky. The suggestion comes from Judge C. R. McDowell, of Danville. Judge McDowell believes that with two inspectors, competent and honest men, inspecting the schools and watching the disposition of the money of the State, large sums could be saved every year and the schools would be greatly benefitted as well. He says there is now no check on the paying out of three and one-half million dollars every year to the schools of the State. The State Inspector cannot reach the leaks and the Superintendent of Public Instruction cannot, there being a gap which must be bridged by a new law.

Are The Cities Over The Apprehension of Plague in Their City

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 21.—Bubonic plague is raging here.

Sixteen persons have fallen victims to the disease. Three have died, and there are three persons with light cases who are believed to have a chance.

The latest victim is William P. Oliver, who died to-day after two weeks' illness. The State Board of Health is stirred to great activity, and extreme measures to stamp out the malady are being followed.

Terror has seized many citizens, and scores are fleeing from the city.

Houses in which deaths have occurred have been burned.

Asiatics, who have arrived comparatively recently, are blamed for the appearance of the disease in the city.

Drastic measures to exclude Orientals from the city are being executed.

Citizens are aroused over alleged efforts of state health authorities to keep from them the exact nature of the disease. For a time the authorities held that the deaths had not been caused by bubonic plague, but a peculiar complication of grippe and pneumonia.

Two months ago three persons, one a woman, arrived, ill, on a train from Seattle. It now is declared that the trio had the bubonic plague, and that health authorities diagnosed the cases as those of typhus fever.

One of the three persons now is among the dead.

Alluding to the gravity of the situation is the fact that scores of citizens have been exposed to the disease.

Raise Brussels Sprouts.

In planning your garden this summer, why not include some of the new vegetables that are coming into use in the cities, are little known in the country. Brussels sprouts, for instance, a vegetable for which city folks demand more than can be supplied. The price is from twenty-five to forty cents for a very small quart. Brussels sprouts is a miniature kinsfolk of the cabbage. It resembles a very tiny cabbage and is little larger than a walnut. It is cooked as cabbage, but does not require so long a time over the fire. To taste it is more delicate than either cabbage or cauliflower. The cans of vegetable sprouts comes from the cities, when many other vegetables have been left to their own devices. The seeds may be sown in open beds in June and set out in July or August. Brussels sprouts is a very pretty plant. It may grow over two feet high. The stalk is covered all along with the sprouts, which are really

Peach Crop Saved.

This Georgia peach crop is reported very safe, as the cold weather which prevailed for the greater part of last week, during the damage was very slight. In fact, the freezing weather did little or no additional damage to the crop, growers estimate. Of course, there is always a little damage, but this year there is every chance of escaping any serious damage, as there are no cold spells in March and April as a matter of fact, it is much more generally killed by warm spells in any other month. At this time it is not as susceptible to cold as at any other age, to truck in Southern Georgia has been far greater than done to the fruit. Nearly all of the truck crops are safe. The strawberry crop is especially hard hit by the cold. Very few strawberries will be shipped from this section, and the means that the strawberry acreage will be greatly increased in the

Will Soon Be Gone.

Mary Dunean, 75 years old, one of the few surviving members of Shakertown, Mercer county, died last week. Only 12 members are now living, and with the decrease in number the value of their property, formerly estimated at $500,000, has also increased, until now it is worth about $150,000.

Last summer a deed of trust was given by the Shakers to George Bohon, of Harrodsburg, giving the property in his charge until the death of the surviving members. Three have died since and it is estimated the colony will be extinct in two years. All members are more than 75 years old.

START THE SHOVELS

Boys, And It Will Not Be Long Until The Clang of The Bell Is Heard.

Florence is getting worked up again considerable over the prospects of the C. C. & N. street railway being extended from its present terminous at St. John's to that town. Some of the citizens are offering the company inducements that are likely to be taken into consideration and look like they might have some weight with those who have the say on the part of the railway. Among those who are trying to hasten the coming of the road are the most prominent and influential citizens of the town, all of whom realize what a blessing the road would be to them. When the road reaches Florence it will be of considerable value to a very large and thickly settled territory both south and west of the town, and the travel from that point to and from the city will give Florence new life. Get the shovels started, boys.

The Literary Society of the B. H. S. will have an open session at the High School building, Burlington, Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited. An interesting program has been prepared.

Mrs. Mary Rice, widow of the late Scott Rice and a sister of W. W. Grant and Mrs. Bettie Rice, and mother of Mrs. Isaac Flick and Robert and Ezekiel Rice, of Belleview, was buried at Belleview yesterday. She died at the home of her daughter near North Manchester, Indiana, of paralysis.

LOCAL CREAMERY

Would Be of Great Benefit to The Farmers In This Community.

There has been considerable local creamery talk indulged in for the past year, and at last the point has been reached where it is thought advisable to call a meeting in order that there may be a general interchanging of ideas in regard to the project. There is no doubt but what the capital necessary to put up the building and install the machinery will be forthcoming when it is ascertained beyond a doubt that the surrounding country will sustain the creamery by patronage to an extent that will justify the investment. A country creamery is an enterprise that cannot be made go by money alone; it requires the milch product of cows and a good many of them.

The two creameries now in operation in the county are making money for the stockholders and also for those who are not stockholders but who furnish milk, the latter class obtaining a profit both coming and going in that they get a better price for their butter, while the cows they keep are enhancing the value of their land by the fertilizer they distribute thereon, and all know that there are many acres of land in this vicinity that needs rejuvinating as it were.

With a local creamery having the neeessary capacity many of the land owners could turn their attention to improving their farms by putting them in grass and at the same time be deriving therefrom a better revenue than they are yielding at present and with much less labor. But unless the farmers around and within a reasonable distance of the location of the creamery will obligate themselves to acquire and maintain a number of cows sufficient to meet the demands of the creamery it can not exist. There are several who have canvassed the subject and they are sanguine that it will require very little labor to induce the neighboring farmers to increase their stock of cows until all the milk necessary can be obtained.

The ground will be fully gone over at the meeting next Saturday, and if everything appears favorable the proposition to install a local creamery will be pushed as rapidly as circumstances will warrant. It is hoped that the meeting will be well attended.

WHAT THE WOMEN CAN DO.

Everybody is in favor of good roads as an abstract proposition, but when it comes down to the concrete—that is to say, to sand and gravel—there are differences of opinion. Some Kentuckians there are who declare themselves strongly for good roads, but say they do not know how to go about getting them.

One way to go about it has been exemplified recently by the Federated Woman's Club of Brandenburg. The members of that live organization felt the need of a good road from Brandenburg to Weldon, a station on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railroad. Brandenburg has no railroad, and when the citizens of that town go traveling they either take a steamboat or drive over to Weldon to take the train. Meade county mud possibly is a few degrees worse than the mud anywhere else in Kentucky. Anyhow, if there is muddier mud or stickier mud or more aggravating mud in Kentucky it will have to be discovered when some body opens a new clay mine. The male citizens of Meade have been handling the road question in the same way that many other Kentucky counties have been handling it. Mud multiplied by mud produces more mud, but the male citizens of Meade didn't seem to know it. The women woke up to the situation first and they determined to pike the road from Brandenburg to Weldon. They raised more than $1,200 by private subscription and they asked the Fiscal Court to do the rest. The court came across with an appropriation of $3,000 as an evidence of good faith. The road will be completed by the early summer. Next winter it will be possible to travel from Brandenburg to Weldon without breaking a hame-string or straining a single-tree. A wagon will not be a load for a four-horse team, and walking will not be an impossibility when a big thaw comes.

That is one way of getting a good road. There are other ways, but they all involve the expenditure of time and money. Good roads do not grow of themselves and they do not evolve from repeated daubings of mud. Why should fiscal courts continue wasting money on dirt roads year after year with no move for real improvement? Why, at least, do they not build a few miles of good road for an object lesson? Why should intelligent men fold their hands in helpless fashion and wait for the women's clubs to show them how to build roads?

Eugene Ogden, of East Bend, will move to his farm in North Bend this week. Ezra Aylor, of Aurora Ferry neighborhood, will move to the farm vacated by Mr. Ogden, and Elmer Kirkpatrick, of Burlington, will move to the farm vacated by Mr. Aylor.

Another dash of ground hog winter arrived Tuesday morning. Snow began falling about 8 o'clock and continued until nearly 10, by which time a considerable quantity of the beautiful had come down. No snow fell after noon, and by night not much remained on the ground.

Mrs. Chas. Klopp entertained with a party Saturday night in honor of her sister, Miss Melvin Evans. A large crowd was present and after enjoying a number of games all returned to their homes feeling well pleased with the evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church met in a most pleasant session at the Parsonage, last Thursday, March 2d, for the annual election of officers. After reading scripture and prayer and the usual order of business, the following officers were elected: Mrs. S. J. Bradley, President; Mrs. Anna Snyder, Vice-President; Mrs. Fannie Hoffman, Secretary; Mrs. Olga Geisler, Treasurer. The Treasurer's report showed a nice balance on hand. A review of the work done by the society since the organization, four years ago, showed that more than $200 have been raised and expended for the benefit of the Parsonage and the church. Just before adjournment met present enjoyed a light lunch. All present expressing themselves as having very much enjoyed the afternoon.

On February 25th, 1911, the Angel of Death came into the home of Mrs. Ryle and bore away the spirit of her husband to its heavenly reward. Claud Ryle was born at Rabbit Hash, this county, in 1877, and had been a resident of this place only a few short months. His death was the result of consumption. He had been sick a long time, but continued at his work until just a short time before death released him from his suffering. He died in the prime of life, before the weight of years were added upon him, while the sun of his life was at its senith and ere the powers of his mind began to wane, or with springs to dry up. All was done that loving hands and medical skill could do, yet we know God doeth all things well. While he can not come back to earth, his loved ones can go to him, where they will unite never to be separated again. They will never have to stand around the bedside of their loved one and see him suffer and be too powerless to give any relief. We all have to submit to the will of God and what a consolation to know and be ready when the messenger shall come to call us from earth to meet our loved ones in heaven. Mr. Ryle was married to Miss Octavia Stephens and to this union were born three children, Ruby, Franklin and Howard, all of whom survive the loss of a loving husband and father. Mr. Ryle also leaves a brother, Howard, and sister, Mrs. Quick, both of Rabbit Hash. The funeral was conducted by Rev. C. V. Brooks, assisted by Rev. Bradley, at the house, Monday afternoon, after which the remains were buried in the beautiful cemetery below town. The community tenders to the bereaved wife and sorrowing children its deepest sympathy in this hour of grief in their home, and we commend them to the tender care of the good shepherd, who said "I will never leave thee or forsake thee, my presence shall go with thee," and who has promised that "All things shall work together for good to them that love God."

C. E. S.

Card of Thanks—Mrs Claud Ryle desires the Recorder to extend her heartfelt gratitude and thanks to the many friends who have shown such untiring devotion and sympathy for her during all her trials and bereavement. She especially wishes to thank Bros. Brooks and Bradley for their consoling words and Mr. Stears the funeral director for his assistance.

It is said bad roads makes ignorance and we all think ignorance makes bad roads, the first for youth and the second by officer men, sometimes called overseers, who use mostly ignorance in working roads and the public at the same time.

Our people seem reluctant to raise tobacco and well they may as an over production will make it not worth the labor, and there will surely be no way out for the man behind the hoe and plow. The large producers can stand it but what of the little producer—the renter or small farmer whose families must be clothed and fed by the sweat of their brow, and credit gone?

Benj. Kirtley, of Rabbit Hash, was adjudged of unsound mind in the county court, last Tuesday, and ordered taken to the asylum for the insane at Lakeland. Mr. Kirtley became very violent some days since, and at times it takes five or six men to restrain him.

Tobacco Quids.

Woodford county farmers are making preparations to raise the usual acreage.—Versailles Sun.

—o—

The idea of cutting out the entire crop any year is an impossible attainment that does not appeal to any reasonable person.—Maysville Public Ledger.

—o—

The farmers have now stabbed to death their friend Pool, and starved the promising youngster. Cut Out. A resurrection may be possible, but it requires considerable faith to expect such a miracle.—Cynthiana Log Cabin.

—o—

Tobacco beds will soon be visible on every hill and in every valley. A large crop throughout the State will be planted and Mr. Duke will finish up the tobacco crop in his own way.—Carlisle Democrat.

—o—

If Kentucky would raise less tobacco, talk less politics and grow more corn and wheat and hogs, we all would be vastly better off and the State would go forward faster.—Frankfort News Journal.

—o—

Why so eager and ready to take the advice of men in regard to elimination of a tobacco crop, who never raised a plant or killed a worm? If your horse was sick would you go to a lawyer for advice?—Grayson Bugle Herald.

—o—

Since the tobacco pool has practically failed and the movement for a cut-out this year about fallen through, we wish to urge upon the people of Henry county and the State of Kentucky the necessity of raising a good quality of tobacco and fewer lbs., instead of an inferior grade and a large number of pounds.—Eminence News.

—o—

The efforts of the Burley Tobacco Union to force a cut-out in spite of the fact that a very small percent of the acreage has been signed to the plan, are ill-advised and will work more harm than good to the cause of the tobacco growers. There is nothing in the reports received by the Union to warrant such action.—Blue-Grass Clipper.

—o—

Very few tobacco beds have been sown only one that we know of in this section, but it seems that tobacco will be grown, or attempted to be grown, in nearly all the Burley tobacco growing counties. There have been no attempts as yet to destroy any tobacco beds nor threats made, notwithstanding reports to that effect in some of the daily papers.—Sharpsburg World.

—o—

The tobacco situation is a desperate one. Prices are dropping lower and lower. But we do not believe a cut-out is the proper remedy. It is economically wrong. The 1908 cut-out resulted in large increase in the acreage devoted to the raising of Burley tobacco. The artificially high price resulting caused increased production.—Winchester News.

—o—

Our advice to the Burley Tobacco Union, in which there are some splendid, conscientious men, is that they go to their homes, raise tobacco if they are so disposed, and get ready next fall to join hands with the Burley Tobacco Society, the Society of Equity and other organized or unorganized farmers in an orderly, conservative movement, looking to an agreement throughout the White Burley belt for a systematic reduction of the tobacco acreage for a period of from three to five years.—Lexington Herald.

—o—

The Burley Society tried to pool. Only a small percentage stayed and backed them. They tried a cut-but. Result—barn burnings, horse-whippings and murder. They tried to get the independents in Carter and elsewhere to join them and we wiggled our fingers in their faces. Then they gave up. Now we want to organize. The Burley Society agrees to join us if we will deliver the goods. We can't even get our own people in line. Some want a pool, some want to grow, some want a curtailment, some a cut-out.—Grayson Tribune.

—o—

It was conclusively demonstrated long since that the preponderance of sentiment in the Burley tobacco district was in favor of growing a crop this year, and it was utterly impossible to hope to make the movement for a cut-out successful, except through fear, and probably impossible even by the threat of the night rider. Now that the matter is settled by the demonstration of the preponderance of sentiment against the cut-out by the refusal of the Burley Tobacco Society to take action by the 20th of February and finally by the action of the Executive Committee of the Burley Union, it is well that agitation should cease. It would be a part of wisdom by those who grow tobacco to curtail the crop as much as possible.—Lexington Herald.

Fell On A Circular Saw.

Wm. Meyers age 35 years a well known young man of Washington township was killed by falling onto a circular saw, while at work in a saw mill operated by his brother-in-law, Louis Lauvermeyer. The mill is located on the Robt. Gullet farm about three and one half miles from Aurora, and Meyers was at work about the mill when his foot caught a board throwing him backward into the saw which was running. The saw struck him on the hip severing the bones [illegible] and he died within [illegible] after the accident.—Aurora Bulletin.

CALL FOR PRIMARY.

At a meeting of the Boone Co. Democratic Executive Committee held at Burlington, Ky., February 20th, 1911, it was ordered that a primary election be held in every voting precinct in Boone County on Saturday May 27th, 1911 for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for State Senator, County Representative and County Court Clerk to be voted on at the regular election in November.

All rules governing the State Primary on May 27th shall govern this election.

A. B Renaker was made a subcommittee of one to have ballots printed and attend to all details in carrying out this call.

The entrance fee of each individual candidate in this primary election is fixed at $35.00 to be paid to A. B Renaker not later than May 12, 1911, at which time the names of the candidates who have paid their proper entrance fee will be placed on the ballots.

Great Saving To Teachers.

"The rural schools of this state will be saved between $40,000 and $45,000 this week by State Treasurer [illegible] county superintendents the checks for the teachers' money, which is not due for two or three months yet. The amount paid out will be $410,000. Practically all of the teachers would have discounted their claims at ten per cent. thereby losing $40,000 in discounts if the money had not been paid at this time."

The above notice appeared in quite a number of papers last week. The language being exactly the same in each, suggests that it was inspired by some one interested. The fact of the matter is that the money was due by law on the second Saturday in February instead of two or three months from now, and the money should have been on hand at the time. It has been the custom for years to use the school money for other purposes, and to let the teachers wait until it should be convenient for the State authorities to pay. The assertion that the teachers would all have discounted their claims at ten per cent. is also gratuitous as the writer could not possibly have known what the thousands of teachers in all parts of the state would do with their claims. In this county, banks have never taken such an advantage of the teachers' necessities, but have advanced the money at very low rates of discount.—Winchester Democrat.

EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

To Be Given Impetus at Big Meeting In Louisville March 29th.

The Louisville Commercial Club through its Rural School Development Committee, composed of J. B. McFerran, J. M. Atherton and others, has interested the educational leaders of the State in its movement to develop and improve rural school conditions in every county of our Commonwealth. For the purpose of inaugurating a State wide campaign, Prof. J. Ellsworth Regenstein, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Chairman of an Executive Committee appointed for the purpose, has called a meeting of all citizens in the State who are interested in school matters, and particularly in rural schools to be held in Louisville, March 29, for the purpose of inaugurating a Statewide campaign in behalf of securing better educational conditions. This movement has received the unqualified endorsement of Prof. McHenry Rhodes, State Supervisor of city schools, Owensboro; Prof. H. H. Cherry, President of the Western Normal School, Bowling Green Prof. H. G. Crabbe, President of Eastern Normal Schools, Richmond; Prof. J. T. Coates, State Supervisor of rural schools; and Judge Henry S. Barker, President of the State University and many other educators and prominent business men from over the State who are not directly connected with schools so that we feel that the conference will be held under the most favorable auspices.

Growing Corn For Corn Pipes.

Probably not one smoker in a hundred who likes the real American pipe,—the corn-cob—is aware of the fact that many acres in Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and Nebraska, are devoted to raising corn for the especial purpose of producing cobs suitable for fashioning into pipe bowls. The grain itself is marketed, but the cobs on which it grows is the real harvest. The corn-cob pipe goes to every country in the world where men smoke, and is especially in favor in Aurtralia and New Zealand, because it suggests the idea of Yankee ingenuity.

The usual acreage of tobacco will not be cultivated in Boone county this year. A very large number of the growers were in favor of the cut-out and made arrangements to cultivate other crops and will not attempt to change back and prepare for a crop of tobacco. If the per cent of reduction in Boone county holds good throughout the Burley territory, there will be a very considerable falling off in the amount of Burley tobacco produced in 1911 as compared with last year's crop.

EVERY MAN A HOBO

Doubters Are Told to Visit Chicago Coffee Line.

Malcolm McDowell Asks How Many People Have Bank Balance of $5 Left After Paying Their Just Debts.

Chicago.—How many men apparently prosperous, could stand a heavy loss and have money in the bank after settling all bills? Malcolm McDowell, Jr., in an address before the Haeckel Fellowship club said their bank balance probably would be less than $5. Most men, in fact, are potential hobos, he claimed.

He pointed out it was only a step from a comfortable apartment to his coffee line at Jefferson and West Madison streets.

Mr. McDowell then defined such terms as "hobo," "carry the banner," "Hogan's flop," and "the overcoatless brigade."

"When I speak of a hobo," said Mr. McDowell, "I do not mean a tramp who will work and there are more of these in our midst than we realize. Chicago can't decently take care of 450 of them.

"Take the question home to yourself. They are men of our own class, many of them only temporarily unfortunate and too proud to appeal for help. This is not a woman's work; it's a man's work; and we must solve it sooner or later, and the sooner the better for us.

"How many of you could stand a heavy loss? How many of you have a bank balance of more than $5 when everything is settled?

"We ride around in automobiles and make a big show and live up to our income. That is just what many of these men do. Can we blame them for doing something that we do ourselves? This question faces us and we must do something.

"We meet and pass sentimental resolutions, and at the same time some charitable organization says don't pass out money indiscriminately.

"I would rather give away ten quarters and be imposed upon nine times than to miss the last fellow that needs the money. We must come home to the cause if we expect any good to result. What do our resolutions amount to? They are like a soft drink on a cold morning.

"The coffee line is a place on the west side where hundreds of poor men are given good coffee every night. Go over there and watch the line file by from 9 o'clock at night until 1 o'clock in the morning. You may see some of your friends there.

"I met a member of the Chicago Press club there. I also met a man there who lives less than three blocks from where I do. He had an $85 a month apartment. He lost his job and didn't have any money laid up. Fortunately he had his rent paid two months in advance. He came to me after the line filed past one morning and asked me for some rolls to take home to his wife, who had not tasted food for two days.

"These are your own people. Are you going to allow it to continue?" asked Mr. McDowell.

"Many of the men in that line 'carry the banner' until morning. You don't know what that means. It means that you, if you're ——, have no place to lie down and sleep and have to walk the streets. They don't even have the price of a 'flop' at Hogan's. Of course you know that 'Hogan's flop' means so much space for sleeping on a bare floor.

"This is an overcoatless brigade. I have seen few overcoats among them."

BEAVER AND OTTER RETURN

Three Colonies of Former Now in Delaware Valley Waters—Latter in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia.—The return of the beaver and the otter to the Delaware valley region, from which both disappeared completely many years ago, is now established beyond any question. A pair of beavers were discovered dam building two years ago on a branch of the Equinunk creek, a tributary of the Delaware, in Wayne county, Pennsylvania, and now there are three colonies of the industrious little animals on those waters.

On the upper reaches of the Navesink river, in Sullivan county, New York, a family of beavers have been at work for a year past building dams so persistently that several of the tributaries of that stream have been dammed. It is of interest to note that the dams are nearly on the same spots where more than two generations ago beavers were doing the same.

In Sussex county, New Jersey, on a stream, flowing to the Delaware, a constantly increasing beaver colony is following the constructive promptings of its nature so industriously and persistently that farmers are protesting against the law which protects the animals, for their dam building is resulting in damages to farm land by the flooding back of the waters of the dams.

Two otter were captured in Pike county, Pennsylvania, last fall, the first in fifty years. Three have been seen in Sullivan county, one of them in Yorkshire, on the hills overlooking the Delaware at Lackawaxen. Signs of otter have also been seen in Delaware county, New York, around the headwaters of the river, where it is said trees have been felled in a manner that plainly indicates that the felling was done by beavers.

URGES MUSIC IN THE HOME

Ethical Culture Man Would Have Children Begin by Learning to Play on the Dishpan.

A member of the faculty of the Ethical Culture school of New York urges the development of music in the home by unusual though simple means. He would have the growing child learn to play upon his mother's dishpan as an introduction to the keyboard of the piano, and graduate from thrumming upon a rubber hand to the strings of a violin. He mentioned also the triangle and the xylophone as examples of the more primitive instruments a child could learn to play, and he might have extended the list with the instruments employed in the kinder-symphony—the cuckoo, the water whistle, the watchman's rattle and the other diminutive editions of the cacophonous inventions of Richard Strauss.

To carry the idea further, a child who has the laudable ambition to become the tympanist in a symphony orchestra might be taught to drum on the window pane on rainy days; he should be fed on drumsticks; he is to be encouraged to practice the reveille and the ratsplan with his knife and fork on the edge of the table. Hereafter judicious parents will not throw away empty tomato cans, for, given a stout bit of twine and a piece of rosin, their noise-making possibilities are almost infinite. By sliding downstairs children will cultivate a faculty that will prove useful in the manipulation of the slide trombone, and the use of the shoehorn will suggest the French horn and the English horn subsequently.

FINE TREES IN PALESTINE

Eucalyptus, Fig, Olive and Orange Flourish Among the Rocks on Its Chalk Hills.

Palestine is exceptionally fitted for forestry. On its sand surfaces as on its chalk hills trees flourish and fruit in an extraordinarily short time. Eucalyptuses, for example, in three or four years reach a height and girth which elsewhere require eight or ten, and when cut off at a height of two meters develop to full trees again. It is a common thing to find great olive and fig trees growing among the rocks. The best oranges on the European market are from the land which is sand yet fetches now the highest price for orange culture. Indeed, there is a jesting phrase among Jewish colonists as to Palestinian fertility: "If you but stick an umbrella in the soil you will next year get a crop of them." The orange trees are especially profitable, as they fruit two months before those of Italy and Spain, giving the advantage to Jewish shippers. Jewish nurserymen are developing marked skill in grafting. Orange culture has now spread from the coast into Samaria. But the olive forstry is most promising. By 1912 the Jewish people will own in Palestine some 60,000 olive and fruit trees.

Mostly Sound and Fury.

His honor, Judge Samuel D. Waddy, K. C., who ended his life as a county court judge, was a nonconformist and a preacher. When he had preached his first sermon, E. E. Crispe, the author of "Reminiscences of a K. C.," says he returned to the paternal home hoping to receive his father's congratulations.

At the midday meal there was an ominous silence. This old young man at last broke by appealing "Father!"

"Yes, Samuel," said the good man thus appealed to. "I have heard your sermon. There was not much theology in it."

"No, father."

"Nor was there much divinity."

"No, father."

"Nor description of Biblical character."

"No, father."

"Nor explanation of difficult problems."

"No, father."

"Not much expounding."

"No, father."

"Well, Sam," said the father, with mild irony, "don't you think there ought to have been something in it?"—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Be Optimistic.

There is much in the past which we suggest ought to encourage us to face the unknown future hopefully and confidently. The pessimists are very vocal in our midst, and they doubtless play a useful part in reminding us of our imperfections, but none the less a look backward recalls to us the line of a well-known hymn: "Ye fearful saints, fresh courage take." We hope we need hardly say that we are not arguing for any careless view of life or its responsibilities. We think there is a real need for an increased seriousness in certain sections of the community in order that we may more nearly attain the level of the ideal state in which each of its members contributes something to its service. Let us be anxious about the future.—Westminster Gazette.

Woman Suffrage Advocate.

Miss Marjorie Johnson is giving a course of lectures in Philadelphia. She is one of the young college women connected with the Henry Street Settlement House of New York. She was chosen by the Consumers league of New York to investigate the conditions of factory and mill operators, and while investigating them worked in several mills and factories. In her lectures in Philadelphia Miss Johnson contends that women in industrial occupations need the ballot more than any other class.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Look out for mites.

Select seed corn early.

The cow never tires of silage.

Don't put a sick fowl in a coop with healthy ones.

Scraps from the table will help reduce the feed bills.

Every corn grower should test every ear of seed corn this year.

In buying a cow the first thing to do is to look well into the breed.

Green-cut bone must not be confounded with ground bone or bone meal.

A great deal of interest is being manifested these days in the small farm.

Horses, hogs, pigs and calves eat silage and thrive on it as well as does the dairy cow.

The milk from a cow in a poor run-down condition is certain to be correspondingly poor.

Every orchard ought to be planted in checks to admit of clean cultivation with the smallest amount of hoeing.

On the average farm, fifty hens bring as big returns as the best cow in the herd with less feed and care.

Many times, one hill will produce six eight-ounce potatoes; which is at the rate of 520 bushels per acre.

Chicken-eating sows are said to be cured by a tablespoonful of baking soda in slop three times a day for a week.

The cream separator, the silo and the manure spreader should find a place in the equipment of every dairy farm.

The feeding of clover hay to poultry is a very simple matter and can be successfully done by any farmer or poultryman.

Scales are a good thing for a man to have. They enable him to know just what he has to sell and also what he buys.

Ewes that go into their winter quarters in an unthrifty and low flesh condition cannot ... lambs in the spring.

There is often a tendency on the part of beginners to increase their herds too rapidly. Better go slowly and breed only the best.

A variety of crops certainly adds to the pleasure of living, if he can have on his table the early strawberries and the late blackberries.

Go carefully over your farming scheme as you worked it last season, try to discover the weak spots and set to work to remedy them.

If you have plenty of pasture and milk, that veal calf will make nice baby beef this fall late, either for market or for the home meat supply.

It is estimated that 90 per cent of the poultry product of the country come from the farm, and that the value of these is close to $300,000,000 yearly.

A few drops of tincture of iron in the drinking water makes an excellent spring tonic for the poultry. It tones up the system and makes rich, red blood.

While there is more or less prejudice against the use of rye as food for farm animals, it forms a valuable addition to oats and barley for live stock in Germany.

The matter of keeping records is important. The farmer should be able to take account of stock at the beginning of every year, the same as any merchant does.

If we neglect the hen houses this spring till they are alive with lice and mites, we deserve the consequences. It will take but a few minutes to clean it out thoroughly and not much longer to soak roosts, boxes and everything else with kerosene. A coat of whitewash can be put on almost as quickly, and good dry clean earth shoveled in when the filthy floor has been cleaned out. Follow this kerosene business up every ten days or so for a time and it will be a pretty tough house or mite that stays around such a place

DRESSMAKER AND NOVELIST

Unable to Spell, Marguerite Audoux, a Paris Seamstress, Yet Writes a Most Remarkable Book.

M. Octave Mirbeau discovered Maurice Maeterlinck. He has now discovered an illiterate seamstress who is a novelist of genius, Marguerite Audoux. She never learned how to write; does not know how to spell; but she has written a remarkable book, "Marie Claire." She earned her living with her needle and thread, and in her short intervals of leisure wrote her autobiography. Her sight failing her, she had to give up sewing, and, to keep the wolf from the door, thought of turning her MS. to account. The late Charles Louis Philippe, himself a novelist who described the life of the poor with much power, read her manuscript, and advised her, above all, not to try to learn style, but to go on writing as she had before. He took her MS. to the Countess Mathieu de Noailles, but the latter was "scandalized by the bad spelling" and poor Charles Louis Philippe died when still a young man.

Mirbeau has now taken up the seamstress-novelist, and her novel has just been ... enthusiastic preface by him. I have just read the book, and am amazed by its literary finish. Everyone who has ever read the writing of beginners knows that their overwhelming fault is to say too much. To say just enough is probably the height of art. Marguerite Audoux, the illiterate seamstress, almost reaches it. In her novel, which is just the plain, pathetic, and often tragic account of her own life, she never says too much. To tell a really unvarnished tale is, as every writer knows, the most difficult task of all. If no one has pruned her novel—and we are positively assured that no one has touched her MS. beyond correcting the spelling—Marguerite Audoux is all unconsciously a successful disciple of Guy de Maupassant. It is said that the Academy of Ten, founded by Edmond de Concourt, thinks of awarding her its annual prize.

RUBBISH SAVED A MILLION

Brooklynites, by the Use of Street Debris, Have Reclaimed Much Land at Coney Island.

H. Milton Kennedy tells some interesting things about the pioneer work of Brooklyn in the matter of refuse disposal. It will be news to most Brooklynites that by the use of street rubbish and ashes $1,000,000 worth of land has already bene reclaimed at Coney Island.

"The sanitary, economical and efficient method for final disposition of ashes and rubbish as practiced by the department of street cleaning means much for the growth of a city," Mr. Kennedy says. "Brooklyn was the first city to establish the system of transporting its wastes in cars to the outlying lowlands, thus reclaiming otherwise worthless territory, which is made habitable and which increases the city's tax revenues.

"Since its operation, beginning seven years ago, more than one million dollars' worth of land has been reclaimed in the vicinity of Coney Island and a similar work is now in progress on the shores of Flushing bay. All from Brooklyn ashes and rubbish that was formerly wasted by the expensive method of scow dumping at sea.

"Besides this, the hauling distance for the department street cleaning carts was reduced by one-half, resulting in more frequent trips and better collections. It also afforded better paving right into the collecting stations, instead of long hauls over bad roads which injured the horses' feet and increased mortality, not to mention wear and tear to equipment."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Would Chase Cats.

The other night a New York man visited friends in a New Jersey town where police dogs help the local force in routing out burglars. These dogs are highly trained.

"In spite of that," said the man, "Max, which I believe is considered the best of them, cannot be trained to leave a cat alone. His job is to go around at night with a policeman and circle houses. If he finds a burglar at work he is trained to chase him out into the open, where the policemen can get at him. But if Max finds a cat on his trip around a house it is all off with his job. He chases that cat until pursuit is useless. I don't know what he would do if he caught a cat, because he is kept muzzled, but his nature tells him cats are to be worried and he annoys them all he can in spite of his training."

In Dead Earnest.

The funeral procession was moving along the village street when Uncle Abe Burse stepped out of a store. He hadn't heard the news. "Sho," said Uncle Abe Burse, "who they buryin' today?" "Poor old Tite Harrison," said the storekeeper. "Sho," said Uncle Abe Burse, "Tite Harrison, hey? Is Tite dead?" "You don't think we're rehearsin' with him, do you?" snapped the storekeeper.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Relics of Other Days.

Miss De Peyster, a wealthy New York woman who died recently, left all her property to the New York Historical society. Some of the articles enumerated in her will have been in her family for 200 years. There will probably be a room set aside in the society for the portraits and other beautiful possessions.

MILLIONAIRES MUST UNITE

Humorist Calls on Them to Stand Together Against the Arrogance of the Laboring Classes.

Never has the arrogance of the laboring classes stood out so painfully as at present. The garmentmakers have struck, our brass polishers have struck, machinists and taxicabbies have struck, and now the poison has infected even the messenger boys.

Fellow-millionaires: United we stand, divided we fall. Let us now make a solemn covenant together. Let us, the masters, the employers of labor, strike. Let us discharge from our employ every laboring man on the pay roll, from the second hairdresser to the youngest helper in the shops. Man and boy, woman and child, let them be cast out. Let us pay no more taxes to a government which has refused to protect us, and thereby throw out of work the hordes of policemen, soldiers, constabulary, and the like who now live on our bounty.

Then, fellow-millionaires, scoraing the assistance of all these turbulent elements, let us deprive them of their jobs by sowing our own wheat, kneading our own bread, making our own clothes, and building our own houses.

Make no mistake; I call for a general strike. Let the mob manage as best they may. If they starve because we will not give them work, their blood will be upon their own heads.

Millionaires of the world, unite! You have nothing but your property to lose, and you have a fresher, fairer, finer world to gain!—Puck.

INDIANS AND THEIR DEAD

How the Hopis and Navajos Bury the Deceased and Provide for Their Souls.

The Hopi Indian believes that the souls of all deceased adults go to the Grand Canon. When a man dies a grave is dug. The nearest relative of the deceased carries the body to the grave, places it in a sitting posture facing the Grand Canon, erects a long pole between the legs, locks the dead man's fingers around it and fills the grave. To the top of the pole, protruding above the ground, he ties one end of a string and leads the other end in the direction of the Grand Canon. At the end of four days it is believed the soul leaves the body, climbs the pole, and with the string to guide it goes to its eternal home in the canon.

The Navajos, on the contrary, are very superstitious about handling dead bodies. They believe that the evil spirit that kills the person hovers around the hogan, as they call their lodge, awaiting other victims, and a hogan in which a death occurs is never occupied again. Navajo hogans are always built with the entrance facing the east. When a death occurs in one of them an opening is invariably made in the north side. Therefore, when one sees a hogan with the north side knocked out he may be certain someone has died in it.—Outing.

Prayer Ten Centuries Old.

Among the documents and manuscripts taken by the Pelliot Mission of France from a cave in Chinese Turkestan, where they had lain during ten centuries, is a curious manuscript recorded by the French Academy of Science. The manuscript is an one of the oldest known Hebrew texts. It is a prayer formed of passages taken from the Psalms and from the prophets, written in beautiful square Hebrew, with a very rudimentary system of vocalization. Evidently the manuscript was carried on the person of the man who owned it. Hebrew scholars believe that the document dates from the eighth or ninth century of the Christian era; and that it belonged to a pious Jewish merchant of Arabia. No such paper was known in Arabia in either the eighth or the ninth century, therefore it is supposed that the manuscript was transcribed for its owner when he was in China, where such paper was to be found.—Harper's Weekly.

How Clouds Are Colored.

The color of a cloud depends on the manner in which the sunlight falls upon it and the position of the observer. It will be noticed that high clouds are always white, or light in color, and this is because the light by which they are seen is reflected from the under surface by the numberless drops of moisture which go to form the cloud.

Heavy rain clouds, on the other hand, are found much nearer the earth, and so the light falls on them more directly from above, giving a silver lining to the cloud, though the under surface appears black, owing to the complete reflection and absorption of the light by the upper layers. Seen from above by an observer in a balloon the blackest rain clouds appear of the most dazzling brilliant white.

Being in Debt.

There is a restaurant in New York where the waiters do their level best to make old customers sign checks for meals instead of paying cash. The moment a customer hesitates at sight of the total, or evinces a tendency to count the money in his pocket and sigh, a waiter is sure to shove a pencil into his hand and actually coax him to "hang up" the check.

"Why, of course you ought to sign checks," is the way one of the managers put it the other day; "nobody amounts to anything in New York till he owes something."

RUNNING GREAT STEAMSHIPS

Immense Modern Liners of 60,000 Tons Have Automatic Machinery Controlled by Single Hand.

In the hands of a skillful marine architect much more has been accomplished with steel struction than the mere economy of space. The safety of vessels at sea has been enormously increased, until in the highest type of modern ocean liners the element of danger is virtually eliminated. The marvelous ingenuity displayed throughout this great fabric of steel in guarding against every possible contingency of the sea comes to the average landsman as a surprise. A great liner of 50,000 tons may be controlled by a single hand. The complicated machinery for safeguarding the ship is practically automatic.

The bottom of the great hull of the liner is doubled, the inner shell being strong enough to float the ship even if the outer hull be completely torn away. It is exceedingly unlikely that water would ever reach this inner shell through accident to the main hull, but the precaution is taken so that if once in a thousand trips the ship should strike a hidden object it will prove absolutely invulnerable. The shipwrecks of the past caused by running upon hidden rocks, derelicts and icebergs are thus completely eliminated.—Cassier's Magazine.

PRINCE AS BANK WRECKER

How the Famous Regent Tried to Close the Coutts Institution by Trick That Didn't Work.

The Gentlewoman of London recalls the following story of the prince regent and Coutts' bank: "When George IV. was a regent he had a grudge against Coutts' and determined to play a trick on the authorities. In those days even the great banks kept very small reserves of cash and the playful prince thought out a plan to close Coutts'. So he sent his equerry round from Carlton house with a check for £100,000, fondly hoping that the bank would not be able to pay over the counter. The prince's trick, however, failed of success, as the wary old partner of the Strand bank proved equal to the occasion. He said at once to the equerry: "How will his royal highness take the amount, in gold or notes?" The equerry hesitated, and then said he had better go back to Carlton house to inquire. So he departed, and Coutts' had time to send to the Bank of England and get the cash required, but it was not needed, as the prince regent, seeing that Coutts' had got the better of him, did not return the check in question.

How It Feels to Be Run Over.

"When I was run over," writes a correspondent, "I had not seen the car approaching. The first thing I knew was that I was on the ground, kicking upward with my legs in an effort to get from under the car. Then I felt a wheel going over my chest, which bent as it passed over. In the intervening second or two I went through several minutes' worth of feelings. I had the sensations of astonishing at being on the ground, of wanting to roll aside and away, of bracing myself—and my chest especially—suit to resist something, whatever it might be, while a lightning flash of fear was dimly there and subconsciously ... What on earth next?' Yet it was hardly fear, because there was no time for such a durable sensation; it was rather a sense of being suddenly confronted with a grave reality of doubtful, obscurely terrible import."

A Rare Prize.

The securing of the pelt of a black fox is of such interest among trappers and buyers of fur that the event is widely heralded throughout the trade, but it is rare indeed that one of the valuable animals is seen alive in captivity, yet a Farmington man has the distinction of having a live black fox in his possession. The animal was captured by Stanley Savage of Avon, who has a line of traps set in the vicinity of Mount Blue. The animal was not injured materially by the steel trap in which he was caught, and Savage, after a lively tussle, succeeded in putting a collar around the fox's neck and attached a strong chain to it. He then took the animal to his home, where he has him confined in a firmly built cage.—Kennebec Journal.

Certain Americans Abroad.

There are Americans who live abroad and speak of their native land in shameful whispers. Another kind is an explainer. He becomes fretful and involved in the attempt to make it clear to some Englishman with a cold and flshlike eye that, as a matter of fact, the lynchings are scattered over a large territory, and Tammany has nothing whatever to do with the United States senate, and the millionaire does not crawl into the presence of his wife and daughters, and Morgan never can be king, and citizens of St. Louis are not in danger of being hooked by moose. After he gets through the Englishman says, "Really?" and the painful incident is closed.—George Ade in Century.

A Futile Scheme.

"I always have to quarrel with my husband in order to get him to buy a new suit of clothes. He never thinks he can afford it."

"I should think he would learn after a while that it is useless to try to make you get you to quit ... so much for dress."

The Recorder is authorized to announce Mosby Allen, of Walton as a candidate to represent Boone county in the General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For County Clerk.

The Recorder is authorized to announce W. R Rogers as a candidate for the nomination for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

There are some occasions in which Senator Bailey, of Texas, thinks the recall is justified.

The State Democratic Committee has changed the date of the State primary election from May 27th to July 1st.

Gov. Willson appointed Judge J .W. Cammack of this Judicial district to preside over the Fayette Circuit Court during the illness of Circuit Judge Watt Parker.

With representatives of both the Democratic and Republican parties voting against popular election of Senators it seems more than ever that political, like railroad, platforms are to get in on not to stand on.

It seems that the county candidates are not agreed as to whether the county primary election should be changed from May 27th to July 1st, as has been done in the matter of the State primary.

Cincinnati is rejoicing over the fact a bill authorizing pneumatic mail tubes to be installed in that city has passed both houses of Congress. The work for a mail tube system has been in progress there for six years.

Wonder how much money would induce the people living along the pike from Belleview thence to Rabbit Hash, to permit that thoroughfare converted into the old time [illegible] which they were so many years getting rid?

Last Monday two of the members of the county Democratic Committee, who were attending county court, approached the editor of the Recorder, on separate occasions, and like gentlemen, introduced the action of the committee ordering the printing of the ballot books, etc., for the county primary election given to the lowest bidder, as the topic, they being present and participating in the meeting. Their statements did not in the least humble or compromise them, and the editor desires to assure them that, had he entertained any ill feeling towards them on account of the committee's action, their gentlemanly deportment towards him last Monday would have eliminated all soreness.

The resignation of Senator Joseph Bailey, of Texas, at the close of the last session of Congress, may cause him a hard fight to sustain his withdrawal of the resignation. It is contended that he resigned when he sent his resignation to Governoe Colquitt, and that no acceptance of that resignation was necessary to make it legal and effective. The only way in which Bailey could continue to be Senator would be by re-election if the Legislature were in session, or by appointment by the Governor if the Legislature were not in session. Precedents have been found supporting this contention. A fake resignation like Bailey's was attempted by a member from Kentucky named Golloday, and in the contest other cases were cited, establishing the principle that the "right of resignation is purely personal" to a member, and when it has expressed this right he [illegible] de facto as longer

MILK COWS ON A TRAIN

Will Be at Walton, Friday, March 10th, From 12:15 Until 2:45 p. m.

Let The Farmers Turn Out and Learn a Few Modern Ideas.

The exhibit and practical demonstration of what constitutes good farming that is being carried over the State on the railroads by the Agricultural Bureau of Kentucky will be at Walton, Friday, March 10th, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, from 12:15 until 2:45 p. m. There will be a fine lecture on dairy products and a number of fine milk cows will be on board the train for the purpose of a practical demonstration. Every farmer who desires to learn how to make the farm pay better and be more attractive in many ways, should by all means be present and learn a few modern ideas that will put more money in their pockets. The State goes to this expense to try and improve conditions in the State, and to make farming more profitable and attractive, and it is up to the farmers to embrace the opportunity to learn a few things that their money is paying for, as the entire expense of the trip over the State is paid by the tax payers and ought to be a profitable investment if the farmers will avail themselves of the information thus afforded them.

The milk cows on the train are "June Beauties Rose" and "Lula Beth." They are Jersey cows from the Experiment Station and occupy model stalls in the baggage coach. They form an exhibit somewhat similar to the old "before and after taking" pictures. June Beauties Rose is pointed out as the results of a combination of good breeding and the best of care and feeding, while Lula Beth plays the part of "the horrible example." Lula Beth according to her "keeper" although a thoroughbred, had certain structural defects to begin with, and before she was acquired by the State of Kentucky had lacked proper care and food. She is exhibited as a cow that it would not prove profitable to feed. Though she gives milk abundantly, the milk is lacking in butter fat.

SOIL CONSERVATION.

Why is this expression on the lips of every thinking man in the country? Because it is of more importance than a tariff commission, or the postal savings bank, or the revision of the Payne Aldrich Tariff Bill. In the past when the farmer simply mined the virgin soil, which by nature possessed a great amount of soluble plant food, he always raised a bountiful crop. The day of mining the soil is past, because the farmer has depleted mother earth of the available plant food elements, and he is confronted, not with a theory, but a condition which calls for scientific cultivation. The average corn crop in the United States is less than 30 bushels per acre, and the wheat crop less than 14 bushels per acre.

In the past this great nation has been exporters of food-stuffs but we are rapidly becoming importers. We import Rye with an ocean freight of 5c per bushel and an import duty of 10c per bushel. We import Oats from Canada with an import duty of 15c per bushel. The import duty alone is a very handsome profit.

Our farmers must awaken to the condition, and instead of 30 bushels of corn and 13 1-2 bushels of wheat per acre, they must cultivate to raise 60 bushels of corn and 27 bushels of wheat per acre in order to feed our population, which is more than ninety million people. This can readily be accomplished by the use of commercial fertilizers if used liberally from 300 to 400 pounds per acre. Feed the crop and it will feed you. Keep up the soil.—Indiana Farmer.

Senator Baily, of Texas, was so enraged by the votes of some of his Democratic colleges on the Arizona constitution in the closing hours of Congress that he tendered his resignation as senator but was unable to have it accepted and he was finally pursuaded to withdraw it.

President Taft has called an extra session of Congress to convene April 4th, at which session the reciprocity agreement with Canada will be disposed of.

If Senator Bailey were a child or a woman it would be easier to understand his sudden resignation and almost as sudden withdrawal of his resignation. Certainly his explanation that he resigned because of the apparent approval of the Arizona Constitution by a majority of his party colleagues in the Senate is not impressive as coming from a man. The Populistic features of the Arizona Constitution are objectionable, and Mr. Bailey is right in opposing them, but it is a new idea in legislative assemblies that a legislator must resign because his colleagues do not accept his views—that he "will not play" unless he can run the game to suit himself. If Senator Bailey is going to resign every time he finds himself in a minority of his party in the Senate he is likely to do more resigning than anything else.—Courier-Journal.

SOIL FERTILITY.

Principles by Means of Which It Is Restored or Manured.

Soil fertility can be restored and maintained in any agricultural region by the persistent practice of simple systems of farming. The growing of leguminous crops, the turning under of green manures to make humus and the systematic rotation of crops are absolutely essential. In most attempts to rebuild soils in the of the element phosphorus is equally important. With the exception of swamp or peaty types, all soils are adequately provided with [illegible]ogen can be secured through clover, alfalfa, cowpeas, soy beans, vetch and the like. No farmer should buy commercial nitrogen for ordinary field use. Truck farmers and gardeners require it in this form for quick action in small areas, but farmers can obtain an abundance of the element practically without cost by growing legumes.

In order to make these restorative crops attain proper growth most soils east and many types west of the Mississippi river must be limed. Failures with the clovers are due almost altogether to an excess of acid in the soil. Ground limestone applied at the rate of from 1,000 to 10,000 pounds per acre neutralizes the acid and increases the supply of available calcium, thus rendering the soil more hospitable to legumes. Inoculation to insure the presence of bacteria also is sometimes necessary. Legumes that do not form tubercles on their roots do not fix nitrogen. Each legume has its own special bacteria. Soil taken from a spot in which sweet clover is established can be used in inoculating for alfalfa, these legumes having a common organism to serve them in deriving nitrogen from the air. About 100 pounds of soil per acre is sufficient. It should be obtained from a successful field or plot of the particular legume which it is desired to grow.—Breeder's Gazette.

We see it rumored in some papers that the State Democratic Committee will impose terms on those voting in the State primary that will cut out many Democrats. For instance, we see it intimated that only those who registered and voted the Democratic ticket last fall or were prevented from doing so by legal reasons will be permitted. This will cut out thousands of Democrats in the Seventh district who did not vote for Campbell Cantrill for Congress, but who will support the ticket this year. Other instances could be enumerated, but this is enough. The provisions should be broad enough to allow every Democrat to vote in the primary. What is wanted is to attract Democratic votes and not to repel them.—Winchester Democrat.

Jolted the Judge.

A prominent New York justice got a jolt the other day, and he is telling the story of it yet. He said that late one afternoon he gave a case to a jury and that it was 4:30 o'clock the following morning before the jury agreed upon a verdict.

"I waited for the verdict," said the justice, "and after it was returned I told the jurors that, as it was possible that most of them were married men, if they desired I would give to each a certificate that he had been detained until 4:30 o'clock in the morning on jury service.

"The jurors consulted together for a few minutes," continued the justice, "and then the foreman arose and said, 'We thank you for your consideration and appreciate the kindness of your offer and desire to say that if your honor needs a certificate to the effect that you were detained until 4:30 o'clock in the morning waiting for our verdict we will gladly so certify.'"

The justice hastily declined this kind offer with thanks and just as hastily adjourned court.

All Can Be Associate Editors if They Like.

The newspaper man is blamed for a whole lot of things he can't help such as using impartiality in mentioning visitors, giving news about some folks and leaving others out, etc. He simply prints all the news he can find. Some people inform him about such things and others do not. An editor should not be expected to know the names and residence of all your uncles, aunts and cousins, even if he should see them get on or off the boat. Tell us about it. It's news that make the newspaper, and every man, woman and child can be associate editor if they only will. Never apologize when you give this bit of information to an editor, for if there lives one so dead that he has lost his appreciation of such favors, he is dead, indeed, to every virtue that imparts value to a paper.

The One Crop Idea.

What a blessing it would be for this country if our farmers could get away from the one crop idea and raise something besides tobacco. Just why a man will devote all his time to one crop, the failure of which to grow will make him hard up for one year is more than we can tell. To raise one or two crops for the money each year is good judgment saving enough time to spare for the cuitivation of vegetables necessary to feed the family and feed sufficient to feed the stock but to depend upon one crop for all is beyond reason and yet we know men who do it and at the end of the year do not have money enough to pay for the food eaten during the year. May the one crop idea soon be a thing of the past.—Owen Democrat.

Le Tabac informs us that the idea that tobacco has only been known in Europe since the discovery of America, is incorrect. In fact the Medes and Persians, a long time before our era, smoked narghiles, as ancient sculptures prove. A philologist has suggested that the Greeks and Romans smoked tobacco, at least in their colonies. In the Malay Archipelago the use of cigars and cigarettes is said to date much further back than the discovery of America. Le Tabac further says that the word cigar seems to show that man's solace and comforter did not originate in the West Indies, but most likely derived from Sakara, an Arab word meaning smoke.—London Globe.

Wagon Turned Over.

A wagon in which a lot of dishes, a piano and some other articles were being hauled for the gentleman who moved from the city to the Beuchert farm out on the Belleview pike, was turned over as it was ascending the hill from the creek to the house, one day last week, breaking the dishes and damaging the piano considerably to say nothing of the injury to other articles.

A Piano or Organ Needed.

Quite a number of the patrons and friends of the Boone County High School attended the open session of the literary society at that institution last Friday afternoon and enjoyed the exercises which consisted of debates, papers and declamations.

The Boone County High School needs a piano or an organ in its work, and it looks like the people of Burlington and vicinity ought to contribute the funds necessary.

Another Distribution Coming.

The Boone County Board of Control of the Burley Tobacco Society held a meeting in Burlington last Monday. In the absence of the president, J. C. Hughes, Hon. John W. Berkshire, of Petersburg, presided, and Thos. F. Curley, of Walton, secretary, kept the record.

It was reported to the meeting that 60 per cent. of the 1909 pooled tobacco had been sold, and that the pooled tobacco is bringing satisfactory prices.

It was also stated that another distribution of the proceeds of the sale of the pooled tobacco is to be made shortly.

ALVA BRUCE DEAD.

Alvin Bruce, son of the late James Bruce, and a brother of Mrs. W. P. Sullivan, of Burlington, died of pneumonia at the home of his sister, Miss Emma Bruce in Walton, about 3 a. m., Tuesday. Mr. Bruce was about 50 years of age and a bachelor. He was an industrious, kind-hearted man, liked by all who knew him. He moved from this neighborhood to Walton many years ago. The remains were taken by undertaker Scott Chambers to Bullittsburg, yesterday, and placed in the vault. The deceased leaves quite a number of relatives and friends to mourn his death, which is an especially hard blow to his sister, with whom he lived.

A Creamery For Burlington.

Quite a number of interested parties attended the creamery meeting held at the court house last Saturday afternoon.

G. W. Sandford was chosen chairman of the meeting and B. T. Kelly, secretary.

The installing of a creamery in or near Burlington was pretty generally discussed and it was apparent that every one in the meeting was of the same opinion—that a creamery here would pay.

Quite a number of cows were pledged, and a committee consisting of G. W. Sandford, J. S. Rector, A. W. Gaines and Carl Rouse were appointed to circulate papers for the pledging of cows.

Wool Poolers Meet.

At the meeting of the members of the Boone County Wool Pool held in Burlington, last Monday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

All the members of the board are requested to meet in Burlington on the first Monday in April.

A Costly Experiment.

A press dispatch from Danville says: "Boyle county farmers have had a costly experiment with seed wheat which they purchased in Missouri last fall. J. Reward Allen sowed thirty acres, John C. Robinson fifty acres and many other farmers in the county acreages fully as large, and were well pleased with the outlook until the severe freezes of the past week. About 9,000 acres were sowed in the county. The farmers thought they were buying in Missouri winter Fultz wheat, but the indications are that they got spring wheat instead. The wheat fields which had enjoyed a luxurious growth during the warm days in January and the early part of February were blackened by the cold weather last week. The wheat has wilted and fallen flat on the ground. The farmers will break the ground and sow regular spring wheat.

Quite a list of the Recorder's loyal friends and supporters called in to say "howdy," last Monday.

The "ghost" that has been frightening timid people recently in different parts of town is going to get all that is coming to it, judging from the way a number of citizens have expressed themselves. A load of bird shot in the "ghost's" anatomy, or a pistol ball in the foot would put a stop to its nightly wanderings.

Commodore W. H. Whitlock left Sunday at noon on the Kittie Whitlock for a trip down the Ohio. The trim little gasoline boat had a forty foot barge in tow, on which were ladders, farm and garden gates, hay beds, skiff oars and pike poles. He also took along a number of the famous Whitlock skiffs and expects to dispose of the whole outfit before returning.

The fox chase Monday morning attracted a large crowd of people which reached from Poplar street up Main to the court house. The fox was led through the street out to the Dorrel place and then turned loose. An hour later seven fox hounds were unleashed at the corner of Main and Poplar and the chase was on. It was a thrilling sight to see the dogs take the scent and start in pursuit of the prey, running swiftly with noses to the ground, and every few minutes emitting a deep-toned, prolonged bark, which is music to the fox hunter's ears. The chase lasted until the Pepper farm, on Salem Ridge, was reached when the dogs overhauled the little red animal and he soon went where all good little foxes go.

Crop Prospects Excellent.

St. Louis.—Reports on agricultural indications received by The Republic from all the great producing states of the Middle West, the North, the Northwest, the West, the Southwest, the South and the Southwest are exceptionally propitious. Weather conditions have put the soil into the best shape and everything is favorable for large and good crops. Interpretation of the reports obtained from authentic and reliable sources, leads to the conclusion that while the crops may not be as large individually, as last year, the production will be more diversified and the total output will be immense.

Taking the producing territories in their entirety, and the crop prospects are excellent. There is one locality in the Southwest and one in the Northwest which declare weather and soil conditions to be discouraging, and Montana fears that a too rapid thawing of the mountain snows might result in another dry season. Otherwise the reports are more than gratifying. All crops without exception, are stated to be at least as good as a year ago, with better soil condition. In fact, it would not be surprising if the grain production should exceed the forecast, in which case prices would be high.

But the communications appear to show at present that, while individual crops will not be extraordinary the total production will be enormous. In any event, the farmers look forward to a very prosperous year, and this, of course, means heavy wholesale and retail trade.

The fruit crop has not been damaged much. Most of the reports indicate rather a large and substitative fruit crop. Thr same difference holds regarding early vegetables.

Probably the most significant feature of the communications is the expansion of farming in South Dakota and Southern states. Diversification steadily is becoming a more vital factor in American production.

Some Perplexing Questions.

It is a question with some which is the cheaper and safer, a mule or an automobile. The mule must have corn, hay oats or grass. He may in the meantime have colic, may kick the stuf out of you, or get to bucking and land you in the middle of a mud hole or on top of a pile of rocks. The automobile eats nothing but gasoline and is at rest is as harmless as a cow. But when it gets to running, goes it blind and is liable to run to climb a telephone pole or jump off the bridge. Mules and automobiles are really both dangerous. Therefore we walk.—Madisonville Hustler.

—o—

A nearby exchange prints an advertisment for a firm of undertakers which closes with this sentence: "Your patronage solicited." After a fellow is dead, what is he to be solicited for his patronage in the purchase of a coffin which to plant him? He doesn't care then what becomes of the body, nor will he care from whom his coffin is bought. It is useless to respectfully or otherwise solicit a person's coffin trade while he is living. He never comes to buy a burial casket personally for himself, and the purchase of that is a matter of so late that he has nothing to do with the deal except to inquire.

Last week ... put his auto into a ... last week, and slush ... Accidentally to ... agreed.

... the genial editor and publisher of the Milford Dispatch, editorially in a recent issue of that bright and interesting paper. Men will take a notion to tell you how to run a paper, asserts L'Hote, when they wouldn't think of hinting to the merchant how to conduct his store or tell the preacher what to preach. They pay good money for schools and don't know whether Johnny is learning the rule of three or how to hold a cigrette gracefully, but when it comes to the newspaper, sizzling cats, there's where they all get off. During the past week a friend wanted to know why we didn't try and run a paper a little more along the lines of how Christ would run a paper. We don't know just how that would be. In the first place if Christ was back on earth we don't believe he would go into the newspaper business at all, and if he did we are sure he wouldn't come to Milford to do it. If our friend had wanted it more on a religious plane we could tell him frankly that it wouldn't pay. There is not an editor or a preacher that could tell the truth for thirty days and stay in the community in which they live. If our friend doubts this let him try telling the absolute truth for just one week and see where he lights. We never were much to "soft soap" or "blarney, anyone" in fact our bluntness and honesty of speech has cost us many friends. Tell the truth! We aren't going to do it, yet we believe there would be a better understanding with humanity, many times, if people had the courage to do it. A Kansas editor announced he would try for one week and he is still in the hospital. He didn't get past the first day. The following item appeared in Monday's issue and now the boys are getting out the paper. This is what he said: "Married, Miss Sylvia Rhode to James Cannaham last Sunday evening, at the Baptist church. The bride was an ordinary town girl who don't know any more than a rabbit about cooking and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty by any means and has a gait like a duck. The groom is an up-to-date loafer, has been living off the old folks all his life, and don't amount to shucks nohow. They will have a hard life while they live together.

Economical Beef Feeding.

The Nebraska state experiment station at Lincoln published the middle of December a bulletin on "Economical Beef Production," which contains a number of suggestions which should be valuable to feeders of beef cattle. As a result of a number of carefully conducted feeding tests, it was found that old process linseed meal coarsely ground had a slightly higher feeding value than cottonseed meal, while either of these feeds was considerably better than wheat bran as a protein concentrate. One experiment showed that cold pressed cottonseed cake fed with corn and corn stover gave larger daily gains than any other combination of foods used. The results in three experiments made showed that beef could be produced more cheaply by the use of alfalfa in connection with corn than by the use of any of the above three concentrates—linseed meal, cottonseed meal or bran—when the roughage consisted of prairie hay. The conclusions derived from some other feeding tests showed that with corn at from 35 to 50 cents per bushel and alfalfa hay at $7 per ton or lower less than a full feed of corn—from fourteen to eighteen pounds—is a more economical ration than when a full feed was used and that if corn was worth from 50 to 60 cents per bushel it was more economical to reduce the corn ration to a half feed, or from ten to twelve pounds. A comparison of the quarters after the animals were slaughtered showed that the groups fed on alfalfa gave a better quality of meat, as shown in the color, marbling, etc.

A Deficient Diet.

Investigations into instances of pig eating sows seem to show that this tendency is aggravated if not in every case caused by the sow's not having a balanced diet during the few weeks prior the birth of her litter. A largely fat forming ration, such as corn, fails to furnish the mother with the elements she needs in providing her unborn young with flesh and bone forming material, and the morbid appetite she sometimes shows in her attempts to devour them as soon as born is quite often evidence of the lack referred to. The difficulty may be overcome by reducing the corn ration and substituting for a part of it in the neighborhood of half a pound per day of oil meal or tankage. This ration may be still further improved by adding an allowance of steamed clover or alfalfa hay. The bone forming element—potash—may be supplied in cob charcoal and wood ashes.

The Business Principle

of successful lives is the habit of saving, depositing what can be spared in a good bank to meet the emergencies of the proverbial rainy day. A little at a time makes a snug sum in a short time. The Equitable Bank and Trust Co., Walton, Ky., will accept any sum on deposit and pays four per cent. interest on what remains a year, or three per cent for what remains six months. Remittances by mail given prompt response and careful attention. This Bank has assets of over One Hundred Thousand Dollars. We qualify as administrator, executor, trustee, guardian, etc., of estates, which is much more satisfactory than a private individual in such capacity. Mail communications given careful attention. Every Farmer Knows

That even the best regulated and well made machinery will sometimes get out of order and cause trouble. That's why we contract for and handle the best lines only, the kinds that have been tried and tested and proven to be the best. Have you never noticed this?

Soon you will have to deal with the feeding problem. If you have several head of Cows, Horses, Hogs or Sheep, and must keep a big supply of feed on hand, a SILO is the thing to have.

By the use of a SILO we can show you how to save about 100 per cent. on your feed bills in six months' time, the only outlay being $150 for a SILO. Write us for particulars. The greatest convenience—the most econo... every invented for the farm.

In other lines of machinery we handle Dick's Feed Cutters, Grain Drills, Gas Engines, and Roofing materials of all kinds.

Of The Boone County High School

MARCH 1. BURLINGTON, KY. 1911

Prospects are growing better as the days go by for a large attendance of students in the High School at the opening of the fall term. The students in attendance this year are a fine body of young people. They are all intensely interested in the welfare of the school and will use every effort to widen its influence.

The new building has added inspiration and life to the school work. The large airy rooms, the excellent heating system, the comfortable seats, the splendid blackboards, the modern equipment, the beautiful surroundings combine to produce conditions that make for progress and interest and the best sort of education. The young people of the county who would otherwise have to go elsewhere for their higher training or be without it, may now satisfy their ambition for self improvement in their own county. The most earnest and painstaking efforts are made by the teachers to give each and every student that individual help and encouragement that is needed for the satisfactory completion of the course.

SOCIETIES.

The Young American Literary Society holds its sessions twice a month on Friday afternoons. It is here that the training is given in parliamentary law and practice. Here, also, all students have exercises in public speaking, reading and debating. This work is carried on largely in connection with the English Classes in which are taught all forms of theme writing, exposition, argument, etc. Robert Gaines, a Junior, is president of the society at the present time. The society elects new officers every eight weeks.

In addition to this, the Boone Library Association, composed of some of the leading citizens of Burlington, and meeting once in two weeks, is open to all High School students for membership. This brings them in their work before a wider and more critical audience and is a great advantage in their development along this line.

One of the greatest forces making for the training of the moral and religious side of character in the schools of the land is the Young Men's Christian Association. An organization of this society has recently been perfected in the school. The membership includes boys in both the High School and the lower grades. Howard Huey is president.

PRESENT HIGH SCHOOL CLASS.

OUR AIM.

While the graduate of the Boone County High School will be prepared to enter college with advanced standing, the chief aim is to prepare him for life. He is instructed in the usages of polite society. He is given practice in all forms of letter writing and correspondence. He is taught to speak in public, to present properly a motion to a deliberative body and to preside himself. Opportunities are presented for the acquisition of the useful and ornamental arts of drawing, painting and music. But besides all this—and more important in some respects—is the course in AGRICULTURE.

Boone County is an agricultural community, and it is to be supposed and desired that most of the students will, in later years, be farmers and farmers' wives. Preparatory for this occupation a course is given, treating of soil, fertilizer, crops, farm economics. Attention is given to grafting, budding, spraying, planting and seed testing. Much of this will be actual experimental work, thus combining practice with theory.

PREPARATION FOR GRADUATES' EXAMINATION.

The examination for graduates from the common schools will be held May 12-13. Those who wish to enter High School next fall should prepare for and take this examination. Arrangements have been made whereby those desiring to take this examination may receive extra preparation free of charge in the County High Schools after the country schools have closed. This will afford an opportunity not only to prepare for this examination, but to do extra work on those branches in which students need strengthening preparatory to entering High School.

EARLY [illegible] IN STAW.

As soon as possible after the frost is out of the ground plow or spade up the piece of ground designed for the potato patch, and lay it off in furrows two feet wide and eight or ten inches deep. Now fill the furrow with decomposed straw or leaves, cut the potatoes in two and place them six inches apart, cut side downward, upon the straw. Now level the top of the ridge, covering in the seed and straw with earth. Then cart on straw, scattering it eighteen inches deep, or even two feet is better. Any rain or fall of snow will beat down the straw compactly, decomposition commencing in the straw in the fur[illegible] and in that next the ground, the potato sprouts force their way up through the straw and eventually cover the patch with their foliage. The evenness of temperature, with the moisture of the decomposing straw, keep the potatoes always mealy. In the driest season the yield will be greater than when planted in the ordinary way, and when once planted there is an end of culture, until they are taken out for the table.—W. R. Gilbert in Indiana Farmer.

Capitalists of Richmond, Kentucky, are preparing to erect a big plug and smoking tobacco factory, which promises to be the most important industry in that city. A number of such institutions throughout the tobacco district would hurt the business of the Trust, and bring it to terms much more quickly than night riding, and perpetual agitation. The tobacco raisers should by all means become their own manufacturers.

SOME PESSIMISTS AND OPTIMISTS

To the Boone County Recorder:

The happiest community upon the mundane sphere is the little community which constitutes the population of our little town, Petersburg.

On the 25th of last month the shareholders in the corporation known as the Petersburg Canning Company, convened in Kritz's Hall, and elected twelve directors to manage the business of the company.

At this election our enterprising merchant, E. T. Kritz, was elected president, which makes the operation of the cannery this season a cinch, since he and his son own 12 shares of the stock, if for no other reason. He is financially interested in having the cannery operated this season. This enterprise is not only an incalculable benefit to the town, but it avails the surrounding farmers a chance to derive a greater net reward from their field acres than any other crop they can plant. If the farmers will exercise the same care in cultivating their tomatoes as they do in cultivating their tobacco and watermelons, they ought to produce 400 bushels per acre.

The plan upon which this company is operated will pay the farmers 26 cents a bushel for their tomatoes, provided they can sell the canned goods for 80 cents a dozen. A fair average is one dozen cans for a bushel of tomatoes.

For every cent over 80 for a dozen cans add 1 cent to 26 cents a bushel for other tomatoes.

In all corporations where there are a large number of share-holders you will find both pessimists and optimist, both of whom we have in our company. The pessimists casts his shadow in front of him, and he lives in doubt. He doubts if the cannery will operate this season. He doubts if the farmers will raise the tomatoes. He doubts if the cannery will be able to get the money to run its business. He becomes so impressed with his doubts that he offers to sell his shares for 25 cents on the $1.

The optimist, on the other hand, casts his shadow behind him. He sees the bright side. He entertains no doubt of the success of the enterprise. He does not wish to buy at any price, now will he sell his sares for less than cost. His only purpose is to do all in his power to make the enterprise a success.

I am so optimistic that I believe before the close of this year our pessimists will become euthusiastic optimists and there will be no more shares offered at 25 cents on the $1.

Any one wishing to raise tomatoes for the canney must report at once to E. T. Kritz, President, or Ben Berkshire, Secretary.

HERE AND THERE.

POOR ROADS THE CAUSE.

A dispatch from Somerset says that in the last week more than twenty-five farmers have left Pulaski county to locate in the Western States. The same dispatch says there is scarcely a day that is not marked by the departure of people for the West. "Poor roads," [illegible] "are and to be the cause of so many farmers seeking other locations."

It is doubtless true that poor roads are responsible for removals from many Kentucky counties. Not all those who go West, of course, are going by reason of dissatisfaction with road conditions. Many of them are attracted by cheap farming lands that are skillfully advertised by railroads or real estate agents. It is an established fact, however, that counties which have good roads draw population from counties which do not have them. Now that the movement for improved highways is so general throughout the country and so many States and counties are building permanent thoroughfares, farmers can hardly be censured for refusing longer to live on mud roads. Unless a farmer be strongly "anchored" it seems to be nothing more than natural that he should quit a farm on a mud road and seek a location where he may travel with some degree of comfort and transport the products of his labor at smaller expense.

Pulaski county can ill afford to spare its farming population. If people are leaving because of bad roads the progressive citizens of the county should set themselves to work to secure improvement. Why not form a few good associations in different sections of the county to discuss the situation and to formulate plans for betterment? The farmers themselves should lead the movement—Courier-Journal.

He had suffered greatly during the past year and death to him was a blessed relief, and a meeting with him moved one gone before. After a short funeral sermon by Rev. McMillan he was laid to rest in the Big Bone cemetery last Friday. He leaves one son and five grand-children to mourn his death; also a host of friends who will miss him and deeply sympathize with the family in their bereavement.

Obituary—Albert Beemon departed this life Feb. 16, 1911. He had been confined to his room most all winter, but had borne his suffering with never a murmer and with-out a complaint. As a husband and father too much could not be said of him. There was no burden he was reluctant to bear. He loved his family with a pure devotion and to them he gave willing, unselfishly, anxiously and lovingly all the efforts of his life. He anticipated every wish spared no effort, sought no rest or ease for himself, while one want was unsupplied. He was always watchful, always thoughtful, always careful, always earnest, always devoted every interest of his children. From their infancy he exercised a vigilant oversight over them. He lived for his family. Home was his chosen realm and he its ruling spirit. He sought no gaze of foreign eye, no popular admiration or applause, but was content to live and reign supreme in the bosom and affections of his family. He possessed a warm, generous nature, was true and steadfast in his friendship. He loved simplicity and disliked idle ceremony and vain show. He had a smile and a kind word for all. He bore malice towards none and I am sure he had not an enemy on the earth. He leaves a grief stricken wife, four sons, five daughters and four grandchildren to mourn his death. He had gone and left us dear mother, whom he was willing to die for, and loved as no other. Weep not, dear mother, sisters and brothers, for he is happy in that land so fair and is gone and waiting for all of us there.

THE BURLEY TOBACCO SITUATION.

(By James Tandy Ellis.)

As the matter looks today, the tobacco growers of Kentucky have about come to the conclusion that a general cut-out of this year's crop would not solve the problem which has found so much discussion and has almost created a national interest.

There is one fact to be considered in the outset. With the crop of the 1909 pool now on the market and the heavy crop of 1910 being sold as fast as possible, and with a bumper crop to follow this year, the farmer can not reasonably hope for much of a price for his future crop until some organization is effected by which he can control the price. Many plans have been suggested but all of them seem to vanish as soon as they are proposed, for back of it all looms up the truth of the one great opportunity that has been lost. With the organization of the Burley Tobacco Society, managed by a set of men known for their business ability as well as their long years of experience in the tobacco trade, the question resolved itself into a matter of certainty so far as a uniform price for tobacco was concerned and all that was required was the co-operation of the growers, and inasmuch as they had, had the fact clearly demonstrated by pooling their interests, the price could be demanded and gotten, it is to be wondered that they did not further this great movement. The hill counties, where the movement first originated, stood heroically for the pool, but the richer counties thinking that this remarkable price occasioned by the pool, would hold, possibly, for a few years, refused their support, and we know the result.

One year ago in Lexington, even the farmer inexperienced in the cultivation of tobacco, rejoiced at the fancy price his inferior crop brought, it was a golden harvest, and men could see ahead visions of farms of their own, and all easily paid, but how different is the picture today. The high class tobacco is bringing a very good price, but you must consider the fact that the biggest bulk of this tobacco is not in the high class by long odds, and the average tenant as he compares his check with that of last year, finds it cut to just about half.

There is not much danger now of the scare of outside territory increasing their acreage of tobacco. This last crop will about settle the question along that line for all time to come. The manufacturers are looking to Kentucky for their stock, Kentucky where experience and the soil give the desired quality of this weed. We can not hope for much in the way of legislation, we can not better the situation by appeals to the sentiment of the farmer, but the lesson must come, as it will come by the demoralizing conditions following a steadily dropping market. It is a gloomy picture, the relation of the grower and the Trust. The farmer furnishing the land, the labor, and handing over the fruits of this labor to a concern that piles up a profit before his eyes that staggers him.

Possibly some day the tobacco growers will awaken to the fact that they can hold absolute control of this product, either by the formation of a selling pool, or by the organization of one great stock company for the manufacture and output of their own goods. Possibly, there may come to them the sensible determination to regulate the acreage, to allow so much grown according to a fixed basis, established by each hundred acres. Something may come about to bring relief and to get the matter in hand again, but to the men who followed the old pool and who fought to the last for it, the hope can not be strengthened unless there again swings the sentiment and call for the old leaders for the name of LeBus yet stands as a grim shadow across the pathaway of the American Tobacco Company.—Our Country.

Roads in Owen County.

Owen county and its county seat are cut off from everywhere for want of good highways and Railroads. Today our roads are in worse condition than at any time in twenty years. No more money can be expended for their betterment, by our Fiscal Court than will be needed to keep the culverts open and fill the "chuckholes." This means, sad as the announcement is, that our roads are doomed, and that a few more years must find us plowing the mud, a stepping of 25 years backward, while our neighbors all around us are going forward. The writer was told last week by a merchant of our county whose store is only located eight miles from the railroad, and located on what was once one of the best places in this State, that he had a few days before paid a man $7.00 to haul a small load of goods from the station, the price being doubled because of the awful condition of the road. Similar increases in freight rates are the same thruout our county, the rates between Owenton and Sparta having practically doubled in the past five or six years. Who pays these intolerable rates? We answer the farmer pays them first and his customers pay them last.—Owenton News-Herald.

Tenants Forming A Pool.

New problems are arising each day for the tobacco farmer The very latest is a move by the tenants whereby they are demanding two-thirds of the crop and refusing to make contracts to grow crops this year. Many of the best tenants in the county have canceled their contracts for growing this year, saying that growing for one-half is a money losing game for them. Many tenants who sold for 12 1-2 cents came out in debt on last year's crop. We hear that several contracts have been made on a basis of 60 percent. to tenants and 40 per cent. to the landlords, the latter to furnish houses and grass for the tenants. Tenants are further demanding that a clause be put in the contracts guaranteeing them not less than 12 cents a pound for tobacco. Many of the larger land owners say that the tenant is asking too much, and will not put in as large amount as anticipated, while the tenant claims the landlord has been making the money, and that he has been barely able to live, and in many instances lost money. —Mt. Sterling Gazette.

CORN GROWERS' CLUB

To Be Formed In Every County In State of Kentucky.

Between $15,000 and $20,000 in cash will be distributed in prizes in this State to winners of corn growing contests conducted by Boys' Corn Growers Clubs. C. S. Kirk has gone over the State, into almost every county organizing the corn growing clubs among the boys of the common schools and in every county there has been raised, by popular subscription, not less than $75 and in many instances as high as $150 to be given as prizes for young corn growers. Henry county ranks all the other counties with the largest contributions, $172 having already been raised in that county and the prospects are that it will go well over $200. The purpose of the clubs is to interest the boys of the state in farming and to teach them how to grow corn. As the boys are to be the future farmers of the State it is hoped that the corn growing contests will result in increased yield of corn in the whole State in a few years. Some fine records have been made by the boys in the contests and through these boys the farmers are being taught seed corn selection and how to increase the yield of corn. The corn growing contests have aroused considerable interest through out the state. In Henry county there will be a corn growers day and the winning corn growers will be given a banquet. In other counties there is the spirit of rivalry in the growing of corn and this is expected to produce results.

NEWS FROM INDIANA.

Efforts will be made to prevent the reported attempt to remove the remains of John Fitch, first inventor of the steamboat, from the old cemetery at Bardstown, Ky., where they have rested since 1798. Mr. Fitch was a distant relative of the Fitch family in Lawrenceburg. —Lawrenceburg Press

Lewis Craven, aged thirty-nine years, committed suicide at his home in Greendale Monday at 4:30 p. m. by firing a bullet thru his brain. The deed was committed in a front room of the cottage in which Craven resided, and in the presence of his eleven-year old daughter Effie. For some time Craven had appeared to be despondent, and all day Monday was extremely nervous. Shortly before 4 o'clock he told his wife that he was going to leave, and asked her to bid him goodbye. Thinking it best to humor him she did as requested. He seemed to become more nervous, and Mrs. Craven, accompanied by two of her children, started for a neighbor, thinking his companionship would benefit her husband. She had barely reached the sidewalk, when she heard a pistol shot, and her daughter who had remained with the father, ran out, screaming that her father had shot himself.—Lawrenceburg Press.

Forced To Leave Home.

Every Farmer Knows

That even the best regulated and well made machinery will sometimes get out of order and cause trouble. That's why we contract for and handle the best lines only, the kinds that have been tried and tested and proven to be the best. Have you never noticed this?

Soon you will have to deal with the feeding problem. If you have several head of Cows, Horses, Hogs or Sheep, and must keep a big supply of feed on hand, a SILO is the thing to have.

By the use of a SILO we can show you how to save about 100 per cent. on your feed bills in six months' time, the only outlay being $150 for a SILO. Write us for particulars. The greatest convenience—the most economical device every invented for the farm.

In other lines of machinery we handle Dick's Feed Cutters, Grain Drills, Gas Engines, and Roofing materials of all kinds.

C. C. COLEMAN DEAD.

Was Attorney General Of Kansas Four Years

And Filled Many Other Important Offices In That State.

Was Born Near Burlington, A Son Of The Late James P. Coleman.

DIED AT CLAY CENTER, KANSAS.

Chiles Crittenden Coleman, son of the late James P. Coleman, of Burlington, died of internal cancer on the 4th inst, at his home in Clay Center Kansas The following obituary was published in the Clay Center Republican:

It was the 9th day of April 1910 that Mr Coleman was seized with the illness that confined him to his home For many months there was alternating hope and despair, and then at about the beginning of the present year it became known to him and his friends that he could not be well again and that the end must come before many days Although it has been known that he must die, yet the announcement that he had died on Saturday morning at a little before six o'clock and just as day was breaking, came as a shock to all his friends

Chiles Crittenden Coleman was born in Boone County, Ky, December 29th, 1854, and was the only son of James Preston and Katharine Coleman His father was a teacher in mathematics in Morgan's Academy, at Burlington, Kentucky, and was also the principal of that school His mother, Katharine Coleman, was a woman well educated and of rare accomplishments Her children received from the mother's tuition a large share of their early education and the son did not attend school until he was eleven years old He then became a student of the school where his father was a teacher and later graduated there His mother died when he was fourteen and when he was nineteen his father passed away, leaving Mr Coleman and his two younger sisters, Annie and Mary who came to Clay Center thirty-five years ago to make their home here

He was at first a teacher here for a short time and then for two years was deputy Register of Deeds with his uncle Hugh M Frazier

Mr Coleman was admitted to the bar in 1878, although he did not immediately enter upon the active practice of law He was several times elected to the office of County Attorney of Clay County and in 1903 became attorney general there was much important litigation and the state of Kansas was never more ably represented in its law department than by him On the expiration of his second term the state honored his judgment by twice electing his first assistant to the office of attorney general and then, after four years elected his second assistant to the same place

In 1898, he was elected president of the State Bar association of Kansas, and at the time of his election was the youngest man who had ever filled that office While Mr Coleman held official position either as County Attorney or Attorney General for many years, yet all of the thirty years and more of practice as lawyer gave him many years of service in the regular practice as a lawyer and he was able and efficient For more than thirty years before his death he was the senior member of the law firm of Coleman & Williams

For many years before he became the attorney general nearly all of the larger cities of the state and a great many of the smaller ones, were absolutely defiant in violating the prohibitory liquor law When the question came to Mr Coleman for his action he mapped out and pursued a course different from any that had ever before been pursued The most defiant of all the cities and the largest of the cities was Kansas City, Kansas, and the fight commenced by him was begun there

The defiant lawbreaking Mayor of the City, the Chief of Police and the County Attorney of Wyandotte county, were proceeded against by ouster suits The County Attorney resigned rather than face exposure The Mayor, upon being ousted from office immediately asked a re-election The attorney general immediately asked the Supreme Court to convict him of contempt of court He was convicted fined $1,000 and after appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, his appeal dismissed, the fine paid and the Mayor ousted from office The Chief of Police also was ousted from his office Similar ouster suits were brought in every city that defied the law and the fight for prohibition was completely won for the first time in Kansas A prominent Judge of one of the District Courts of the State recently said: "I consider that Mr Coleman has done a greater service for the State of Kansas than any one man has done for twenty-five years When his prohibition fight was won the lawbreakers in my district took to the woods like rabbits and we've had no trouble with them since"

The Kansas Issue, the Official organ of the State Temperance Union, soon after his return from office, said concerning his administration the following:

"His work bears the impress of a lawyer, rather than a reformer A great deal of the criticism, abuse and opposition that came to him was because of his courageous, persistent and successful fight that he made against the liquor and brewery interests of the state They have power, money and newspapers, and these were used on Attorney General Coleman without stint But thru it all he never wavered, never retreated, never whined, never boasted and never quit To his fearless and effective policy of law enforcement the state is indebted for the increased efficiency of county attorneys along this line Coleman's law enforcement record will bear the test of time He set the mark high for his successor had retires to private life with the confidence, respect and gratitude of those who believe in the enforcement of law, in official integrity and civic right eousness

MORE CORN PER ACRE.

Written For Farmers Mail and Breeze By J. M. Gilman,

Member of National State Corn Breeders' Association.

There are four factors necessary to the production of a high yield of corn They are good soil, good seed, good cultivation and a good season The absence of any one of these, seriously handicaps the others, so that the statement of the old farmer who said "Each one of these elements counts 25 per cent for a high yield by its presence, and 50 per cent against a high yield by its absence," is more nearly correct than appears at first thought

By a good soil is meant a soil with the elements of fertility so balanced and so available that the plants may make a rapid, uniform growth from the start until the crop is harvested Fresh plowed pasture land, clover sod, timothy sod that has been well fertilized, alfalfa sod after the first year, all are good for corn production, all the better if fall or winter plowed

Prairie sod rarely, if ever, produces a maximum yield, nor does land that has been put to corn more than three years in succession, no matter what the original richness of the soil may have been The corn plant is a rank feeder and the amount of available plant food actually taken from the soil is very great In addition, because the surface must be kept loose and free from weeds during the time of heavy rains, rolling lands always have a heavy loss from washing

Few crops will ruin land more quickly or completely than corn planted continually without fertilizer or rotation

I do not think it is too strong a statement to say that half the ground annually planted to corn would better be planted to some other crop, nor is it exaggeration to say that half the acreage properly handled will produce as much as the total yield grown under existing conditions

The average yield in Kansas is something under 20 bushels per acre and it is nothing uncommon to secure yields of two three or even four times that much I have in mind a community where five years ago it was not believed that a yield of 100 bushels per acre could be grown, and a man who said it could be done was thought to be losing his mind Since that time, in this same community, dozens of acres have been grown with yields in excess of 100 bushels, simply because, by an object lesson, farmers have been shown it could be done

The second factor in securing an increase yield is improved seed or high yielding seed It has been proved time and time again by every careful breeder of corn that some ears have an unknown quality that enables these ears to produce more than other ears of the same variety grown under the same conditions The ear-to-row method of breeding has shown extremes, ranging from 35 bushels per acre for the lowest and 83 bushels for the highest when planted on prairie sod and a minimum of 60 bushels with a maximum of 160 when under most favorable conditions possible Of course, no single ear yields that rate, it being comparatively easy to measure the grain and compute the rate of yield When we realize that this high yielding trait is hereditary, it is immensely valuable, while a man would actually lose money if paid to plant the progeny of a low-yielding ear

It has been proved by the experience of both experiment stations and farmers that corn brought from a distance requires some little time to become acclimated before it will do its best, so that it behooves a purchaser to secure corn from the same section of his own state, rather than several hundred miles away in another state The claims of any seedman that his corn will make good in any one of four or five different states must be looked upon with a good deal of suspicion, for it is directly contrary to the results obtained generally

In cultivating a crop, a thorough preparation of the ground is essential Fall or winter breaking is preferred, so the frost can break up the soil particles and make plant food available Disking and harrowing just before planting gives a better seedbed and serves to hold moisture The method of cultivating is not so important as that it be done at the right time However, I believe that the cultivation of the crop after it is planted, is on the whole, the best performed part of work of the average farmer

Good soil, good seed, good cultivation are absolutely in the control of the grower, but in the matter of weather he must take what comes, just as everybody must, but even here some of the bad results of an unfavorable season may be overcome A soil rich in humus retains more moisture than one deficient in that respect; well drained land carries off the water more quickly and thoroughly than undrained; a soil mulch overcomes, in part, the effect of drouth, and tested seed will make a better stand so that even unfavorable weather is not so apt to injure the crop where the other elements of success are in evidence

Farmers Must Co-Operate.

In his annual address before the Farmer's Institute held at Mt. Sterling last week, President Bigstaff paid his respects to the middle men, the gamblers and the trusts, none of whom, he said, produced any actual wealth, but are parasites that live off the farmer. In this connection he said:

"They watch the farmer so closely that they know better than the farmers do, the kind, condition and yield of the crops in the county. These parasitic middle men manipulate the prices of our products so that, about the time the seed should be planted, the markets are made to "look good" to the farmers; then at harvesting time, when they know that the farmers cannot hold their crops and have to sell them the markets go down and down. But after they get out of the farmers' hands, you see the prices begin to "sky-rocket." It is the same old game of the three-card-monte men—"now you see it, and now you don't.'

"What is the secret of their success over the farmer—how do they do it? The answer is most simple. Combination. They unite against the farmer, knowing that the farmers will not get together, or if they do, they will not stick together for their own good and protection."

"How much longer the farmers of this country will be like "dumb driven cattle" or like "sheep led to the slaughter" I do not know and will not undertake to say. But I do know, that when the gamblers of Wall street, or the Stock Exchange are about to bring on a money panic, the people look to the farmers for help and if the crops are good, the country is saved

"I do know that if those crops should fail for a single season, there would be panic indeed. And I do believe that if the farmers would unite they could control the produce and prices of the world. And I do now predict that the next great era in agriculture will be the everlasting organization and union of the farmers. If the farmers should strike, the people would be begging for bread. For without agriculture all living things would perish from the face of the earth."

Richmond, Madison county, voted dry one day last week by 156 majority.

Louisville's million dollar city hospital will be constructed of concrete and glass.

Just what Uncle Sam has up his sleeve in his mobelizing business is a puzzle to many people in this country.

The United States Supreme Court has decided that the State of West Virginia must pay over seven million dollars of old Virginia's debt.

Judge Cammack broke the record last week when he granted twelve divorces in the circuit court at Lexington in three days. That was going some in divorce litigation.

The constitution of the United States does not permit the President to declare war against another country on his own responsibility. He must have the backing of Congress which he can obtain only while that body is in session.

Judge Watts Parker died suddenly of heart failure at his home in Lexington, last Monday. He had been ill for several days, but his condition was thought to be very much improved and the summons came unexpectedly. He had been judge of the Fayette circuit court for seventeen years.

It has been given out by those who profess to know, that Govern or Wilson will call an extra session of the Legislature to redistrict the State and to change the present tax law He is waiting for the last census report which may be in any day. Report has it that the session will be called about the middle of April.

Some are advocating the calling of a Democratic state convention for the adoption of a platform for the nominees at the primary election The Recorder suggests the following as a good platform for each of the leading political parties in the coming campaign:

"Resolved, That we want the offices and the salaries"

No more gold will be coined for about three years, Congress having passed a bill permitting the secretary of the treasury to issue gold certificates against the gold bullion and foreign gold coin in the treasury. It is claimed that the government will save $300,000 a year by the cessation in the coinage of gold.

It seems that some of the Democrats who claim to be so anxious to spring a candidate on which the party can harmonize are making very slow progress with their harmony efforts. So far the candidates to whom they have appealed, after looking the field over, saw there is already so much harmony that they would stand no chance, and several of them have declined to be led into a slaughter in a vain effort to harmonize a party that is already harmonious. The fact is those who have been called upon to play the part of a Moses have ascertained that the pretended harmonizers are fakes and can not deliver the goods. Hon. A. O. Stanley is the last man who turned a deaf ear to the harmonizers.

POLITICAL NEWS.

The Democrats of the State might as well know right now that unless the Eleventh District has representation on the State ticket it will cost the ticket several thousand votes in the final election—Somerset Times.

—X—

We voice the sentiment that the Democratic party must go into the fight with a platform Candidates stand for nothing but themselves Principles stand for everything To the ordinary voter, the man selected is of no particular consequence, provided he is honest and capable. The great majority of us never get to see a Governor or State officer We have no particular call on him What we want to know is what principle in State affairs does he stand for?—Bowling Green Messenger

—X—

The condition of affairs now existing in the State, is, in our opinion, of serious concern to every man professing allegiance to the Democratic party The management of party affairs is not in competent hands, and the people, have, to a great extent, lost confidence in the State Committee In the interest political honesty and representative government the members of the committee should either resign or call a convention and let the party elect their successors—Lebanon Enterprise

—X—

The Democratic voters of Kentucky and the announced as well as the prospective candidates for office in the State are wondering what will be the next move on the part of the Democratic committee Three meetings have already been held; the second practically undoing the work of the first, while the third had no definate results We now await the next move—Paducah News-Democrat

—X—

Can it be that the Executive Committee is more interested in the personell of the ticket than in the success of the party? Or does this steadfast determination to deny the members of the party a chance to make a result from a fear that if the Democrats get the opportunity to assemble in convention to frame a declaration of principles they will at the same time hurl from power every member of the committee and elect members who are more willing to carry out the wishes of the people?—Lebanon Enterprise

—X—

The great Democratic party—the dominant party in Kentucky—has failed since 1900 to formulate a platform, the disasters that have followed its mythical course, has been in the opinion of The News, well deserved It now seems that men and not tenets, and defined principles, are to again march to the front under a party emblem, such being the decree of the wise men who hold in the hollow of their hands the destines of the party of the people of this great Commonwealth, and perchance the minority party should formulate a platform that would suit the fancies and and common sense of the people, better than the photograph of any man, we, as one of the humble Democrats of Kentucky, would be unable to lament—Carrollton News

"White Capped."

Garbed as "white caps" a score or more of women joined with about one hundred men in administering a whipping to two women in Morgan county. The victims of the mob were sisters, Nanny and Mary Combs. The beating was most severe, as attested by the fact that two new buggy whips were worn out on the backs of the women. After that they were forced into a vehicle, sent to the nearest railroad station and put on a train for their former home in Breathitt county under orders never to return. The Combs women were accused of operating an illicit resort in an isolated section of Morgan county. They had been warned frequently to leave, but paid no attention to the orders, and feeling against them became so intense that when the whipping was decided upon many women invited upon being allowed to join the "White Caps."

No arrests have been made and it is said that none is likely to take place.

FINED FIFTY DOLLARS.

The suit of William Smith and Brady Anderson, of Big Bone, vs. the Hamilton and Big Bone Turnpike Co., engaged the attention of County Judge P. E. Cason and a jury in the Quarterly Court, last Thursday, Smith and Anderson sued the turnpike company for $50 damages because of the company's gatekeeper, John Kite, pulling the tollgate down on them. Kite claimed that he pulled the gate down because of their owing the company toll which they had refused to pay, which indebtedness to the defendant company the plaintiffs denied. The plaintiffs were represented by Attorney D. R. Castleman, and the defendant by Attorney John L. Vest, of Walton. Every point was contested and it was late in the afternoon when the jury returned a verdict finding for the plaintiffs the full amount sued for. An appeal will be taken to the circuit court.

Can You Say Yes to Them?

A professor in the University of Chicago told his pupils that he should consider them educated in the best sense of the word when they could say yes to every one of the questions that he should put to them. It may interest you to read the questions. Here they are:

Has education given you sympathy with all good causes and made you espouse them?

Has it made you public-spirited?

Has it made you a brother to the weak?

Have you learned how to make friends and keep them?

Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself?

Can you look an honest man or a pure woman straight in the eye?

Do you see anything to love in a little child?

Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

Can you be high-minded and happy in the meanest drudgeries of life?

Do you think washing dishes and hoeing corn just as compatible with high thinking as piano playing or golf?

Are you good for anything your self?

Can you be happy alone?

Can you look out on the world and see anything except dollars and cents?

Can you look into a mud puddle by the wayside and see a clear sky?

Can you see anything in the puddle but mud?

Can you look into the sky at night and see beyond the stars?—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Louisville warehouse estimates that fourhundred million pounds of Burley tobacco will be raised this year in Kentucky and elsewhere. If this is anything like a correct estimate, the weed will be hardly worth marketing next fall. This is about twice as much as was raised a few years ago.

The Equitable Bank and Trust Company, of Walton, assignee of the Richwood Deposit Bank is now sending out to those who had money on deposit in the Rich wood Deposit Bank at the time of its failure, checks for 25 per cent of the amount of their deposits, which will make a total payment of 75 per cent.

We owe it to the community in which we live to do everything we can in every way possible that will be to its advantage Our neighbor's prosperity means a great deal more to us than someone's who lives elsewhere. We should bear this in mind in buying our goods We can afford to pay our home man a firm price for his wares rather than send our money away, knowing as we do that every dollar our own citizens makes will help in sustaining our schools, churches and public institutions It pays richly to patronize home industry

The hold-up and shooting of young Evans near Tranter's on the Lexington pike on Friday night of last week, caused M. L. Riddell to relate his experience on the Friday night before in the same neighborhood as he was coming up the Willow Run hill with a load of goods. He was near the stone quarry when he was asked by a man to stop and assist him to get a drunken companion out of the road. Being somewhat suspicious Mr. Riddell engaged the man in conversation in which he informed him he would not get out of his wagon, when he was told that he would be taken out, the stranger starting towards the wagon, Mr. Riddell, in a very positive tone, ordered the fellow to not advance another step, and he obeyed. About that time another wagon arrived, the driver of which knew one of the men, and a short parley ensued and Mr. Riddell came on, but in the mean time it developed that the man lying on the road was not drunk, which fact makes it evident the parties had planned a hold up, which was possibly, prevented by the timely arrival of the other wagon.

FINAL SUMMONS

Answered By Harvey P. Marshall Monday Morning, March 13.

Passed Away at The Home of His Daughter Near Waterloo.

Harvey Parker Marshall, of Waterloo, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Wingate, last Monday morning, aged 84 years, 7 months and one day.

Mr. Marshall was one of the county's oldest, if not, the oldest native male citizens. He was born within a mile of where he died, and spent his entire life in the neighborhood of his birth place. The remains were interred Tuesday afternoon in the Marshall family burying ground on the old Marshall homestead.

Harvey Marshall was a son of John and [illegible] Parker Marshall, who were among the first to carve out a home in the forest in what is now known in this county as the Waterloo neighborhood. He was one of a family of five sons and one sister, Arthur P. Marshall, of Aurora, Indiana being the only survivor of that family.

Harvey Marshall's wife, who died many years ago, was a daughter of Gideon Clore. To them were born six children, John T. now deceased, Samuel H., Mrs. Anna Rice, Mrs. Susan Ryle, Mrs. Moses Ryle and Mrs. John Wingate, all citizens of this county.

To know Harvey Marshall was to like him, and his entertaining manner and affable disposition made friends for him of all with whom he came in contact He lead a simple, frugal life, endeavoring to render unto his fellowmen all that could be expected of one gentleman by another. So long as he was able he was ready to respond when a friend or neighbor was in need of assistance, no matter what the sacrifice or inconvenience he incurred thereby.

No act unbecoming a gentleman or honest man could be imputed to Harvey Marshall. He was purely unselfish and a kinder heart never existed. His religion was practical, consisting of kindly offices to his distressed fellowman be he an occupant of the humble log cabin on the hill side, or an owner of a palatial home. He recognized that all men spring from the same source and that every man is entitled to the love and respect of his fellows until he proves himself unworthy, and along that line of belief Mr. Marshall reasoned and reasoned well.

Mr. Marshall but recently passed through a severe illness, which so weakened his heart that that organ gave way Monday morning, and the good old man passed out of the world through which he had journeyed so long.

The agricultural train which was run last week under the auspices of the State University in the furtherance of the agricultural interests of the State was greeted by a large crowd of enthusiastic farmers and dairy men at every stop, where addresses were made on scientific farming and numbers of subjects discussed which have greatly stimulated the interest in farming and dairying throughout the section covered. but the train had to be abandoned at Georgetown on account of the strike of the firemen on the railroad.

GOOD ROADS AND BAD.

A few years ago our county officials talked of making pikes of our good roads; this year they have made mud roads of our pikes.—Shepherdsville Pioneer.

Why not Nelson county have a number of miles of model roadway in our county the coming year? Start the wheels of progress and let everyone get behind the Fiscal Court.—Bardstown Standard.

Are we going to sit idly by and see the farms of the county sell below their real value simply because of the condition of our roads, or will we awake to the urgent demands and build better roads?—Irvine Herald.

If there is a county in the State of Kentucky that should be interested in good roads, it is Fulaski county. With the property valuation we have, good roads would make the county the richest in the State of Kentucky.—Somerset Times.

We think that the dirt roads ought to be kept up by taxation, but at any rate there is no excuse for Garrard county not having good roads all over the county. We appeal to the people to help us in this fight.—Lancaster Record.

The very best thing Kentucky could do would be to construct a highway from Crab Orchard along the old wilderness road to the Cumberland Gap. It would be a great educator as well as the best investment Kentucky ever made.—Mt. Vernon Signal.

Why can't Union county get a move on itself and build permanent highways, having already in the attempt to improve and keep in order the dirt roads expended sufficient to have paved every important road within its borders?—Sturgis News-Democrat.

If a good roads agitation will encourage local taxation for road improvements, well and good; but the ultimate result is to be only the influence of the press behind a State law to make McCraken county's already over-burdened citizens chip in for roads in counties tributary to Lexington and Louisville, we "air against it from cend to eend."—Paducah Sun.

Boyd county spends lots of money for dirt roads, and it is nearly the same as throwing the money away. Let us get down to business and build our roads the way everybody knows they ought to be built, out of good material applied in such manner that the road will be firm and hard all the year around.—Ashland Independent.

While our advocates of new school houses are talking of the school laws, let them bear in mind the need of a compulsory educational act, and also the fact that good roads and education are twin brothers. New school houses are all right, but they cannot put 35,000 children in school who have never darkened a school house door; it will take a rigid compulsory law to do that, and that kind of law will work better if there are good roads between the home and the school house.—Shepherdsville News.

We all believe in, and appreciate good roads, but how are we going to get them? "Talk is cheap, but it takes money to buy land." We do not believe it possible to make good roads out of Webster county dirt alone. It would take a big sum of money to rock them. Could we raise the money? Not by taxation, except by bonding the county. Would we bond the county? We should be much pleased to hear from some of our readers on the subject.—Sebree News.

T. Coleman du Pont, formerly of Louisville, who offered to advance $1,000,000 to the State of Deleware to build a highway the entire length of the State, has announced that he will put up $2,000,000 if necessary. Mr. du Pont will give $100,000 outright to the State's good road fund. "Coly" once resided in Kentucky, at Central City, and he has large mining interests in the State now, which have earned him several fortunes, so why not help Kentucky some, too? He might at least do something for Muhlenberg along the good roads line.—Owensboro Inquirer.

We have talked to several farmers in the last week about the road tax and not one have we found against it, all of them were for keeping it on from year to year till we get good roads all over the county. A prominent farmer who lives twelve miles from town says he could make the trip to town in an hour less time if he had good roads than he does now.

Another says: "The difference in horseshoeing bills on good and bad roads would pay most people's road tax."

Another who lives about four miles out says he can only haul about one-third as much now as he can in the fall when the roads are in good shape—that there are lots of places where an empty wagon makes a good load for two horses. If we had good roads he could haul a full load the year round.—Madisonville Messenger.

CALL FOR PRIMARY.

At a meeting of the Boone Co., Democratic Executive Committee held at Burlington, Ky., February 20th, 1911, it was ordered that a primary election be held in every voting precinct in Boone County on Saturday May 27th, 1911 for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for State Senator, County Representative and County Court Clerk to be voted on at the regular election in November.

All rules governing the State Primary on May 27th shall govern this election.

A. B Renaker was made a subcommittee of one to have ballots printed and attend to all details in carrying out this call.

The entrance fee of each individual candidate in this primary election is fixed at $35.00 to be paid to A. B Renaker not later than May 12, 1911, at which time the names of the candidates who have paid their proper entrance fee will be placed on the ballots.

CLIPPINGS FROM KENTUCKY PAPERS.

Morehead.—The Rowen county fiscal court awarded the contract for the new county jail to the Blue Stone Company, and for the fixtures to the Stewart Ironworks.

—o—

Magistrate Dunn, of St. Charles this county, came upon a blind tiger establishment which was conducted as a regular saloon by Clarence Morris, colored, this morning. The negro had a regular bar near St. Charles and was in the act of serving two farmers when the Magistrate happened in. Within two hours he had been tried before Judge R. B. Bradley, fined $120 and given ten days in jail.

—o—

Frankfort—In order that she may be used as a witness against men higher up in the alleged vending of lottery tickets in Louisville, a respite of the penitentiary sentence imposed on Alice Boyd in Jefferson county was granted by Gov. Wilson. The woman, a negro, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and serve two years in the penitentiary on a charge of selling lottery tickets.

—o—

Frankfort—On account of excessive loans the Two States Bank of Stephensport, was ordered to close its doors and go into liquidation by Dr. Ben L. Bruner, Secretary of State. The bank was capitalized at $15,000 and had deposits amounting to more than $50,000. It is not believed that the depositors will lose anything. The bank was examined recently by the State Bank Examiner and found to have excessive loans to certain persons.

Tobacco Quids.

Now that the pooling and cut-out plans for tobacco have been abandoned, it is probable that one of the biggest crops in years will be put out. Every fellow feels free to do as he pleases.—Blue Grass Clipper.

—X—

During the past weeks plant bed burning was the order of the day in Warren county. Plants are reported to be up on the beds that were sown about Christmas. Indications are that a large crop of the old reliable one sucker type will be raised in this section this year. Farmers of this and adjoining counties have reasons to congratulate themselves as they have always sold their tobacco at very satisfactory prices and none of the disorders prevalent in other communities have ever invaded our section.—Ex.

—X—

Since the cut-out has failed we hope every farmer, especially those who favored it, will increase his acreage and grow enough of the weed to satisfy the most blatant of those who wanted to grow And if it is possible to obtain the information, we would like to have statistics showing how much help these same farmers rendered to the poor tenants in their efforts to grow a crop of tobacco. Many of these men argued that the poor man could not live without a crop Let them come forward now and show how they can live with a crop at present prices.—Owenton News-Herald.

—X—

Tobacco has been practically all delivered at Hawesville, Ky. The total amount is slightly under 700,000 pounds, or about half the usual amount delivered there. The later deliveries have not raised the average of quality over that previously reported and Hancock county's tobacco crop of 1910 must be written down as the worst in many decades. According to report, the tobacco growers of the county have taken advantage of the last few days of fine weather to burn plant beds extensively and it is quite probable that a big crop will be put out, though the majority of the growers believe there is a kind of sacred obligation to continue to adhere to the association limitation of ten thousand hills to the hand. There are those also who advocate boldly the disregarding of all limits and of planting excessively as the sure way of stopping the production that seems to be increasing in Missouri and elsewhere, by cheapening temporarily the weed.

That land about Lawrenceburg is increasing in value is shown by the fact that at each successive sale of the 100-acre tract below town, known as the Hannah farm, the price has been advanced. George H. Berger has recently purchased the place of the Vonholt brothers paying these for $10,000.—Press.

Remarkably Intelligent Dogs.

If one may judge by the size of the claims presented in the various counties for sheep killed by dogs, we are rapidly losing the best of our sheep in Kentucky and the dogs are showing an almost human discrimination in mutton.

Sheep killed by dogs are valued anywhere from $6 to $12 apiece. From this it appears that the dogs must be given to killing Cotswolds and Southdowns in full fleece. In one Western Kentucky county it has been discovered that sheep are very generally listed for taxation at $4 a head. In the same county the claims allowed for bucks, ewes and lambs killed by dogs range from $8 to $21. If the Assessor's report is to be believed, there must be a tremendous lot of scrub sheep in that county to pull down the average to $4 a head, and the dogs must exercise mighty good judgment in avoiding the "scalawags" when they go forth on a slaughtering expedition. The dogs are showing such a marked preference for high-class mutton that presently, it is to be apprehended, there will be no blooded sheep left in that particular county.

Dead sheep seem to be more valuable than live ones, and it is difficult to account for such a situation unless it be that Kentucky dogs are progressing extraordinarily in acumen and in fastidiousness. Under such circumstances it might be well to raise the dog tax or to import a considerable number of canines that are not so all-fired smart.—Courier-Journal.

Mayor Skain of Lexington has addressed an official communication to President Harry S. Barker of State University, notifying him that if he and the Board of Trustees of the University do not take steps to prohibit the State University students from entering saloons they will be arrested on charge of violating the city ordinance, taken before the Police Court and sentenced to a term in the Work-house.

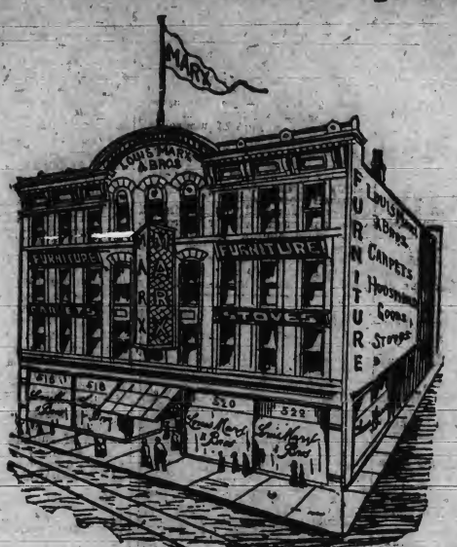
Henry Gordon, in jail in Grant County, serving sentences for two misdemeanors, was pardoned by Governor Willson upon the requests of the County Attorney and Sheriff of Grant County because Gordon gave evidence against Millard Edwards, who introduced saws and tools in the jail at Williamstown, and aided in the escape of June Harvey and Wood Edwards. Harvey had been convicted of felony and Edwards of three misdemeanors.

DE LAVAL
CREAM SEPARATORS
Won First Prize
at the
California State Fair

The DE LAVAL machines were exhibited in competition with the half a dozen other makes and, as usual, the DE LAVAL carried off the honors, being awarded the first premium.

Wherever they have been exhibited the DE LAVAL Cream Separators have invariably been awarded highest honors at every important exposition or actual-use contest.



The DE LAVAL skims closer, runs easier, lasts longer and is easier to keep clean than any other separator made.

Sooner or later you will buy a DE LAVAL.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Remove the orchard litter.

Sweet clover is very drouth-resisting.

Plan for an orchard this year, if you haven't got one.

The cow is the final judge as to the real worth of silage.

Rye straw is of very little use on the farm except for bedding.

A cow should be dried off for a few weeks before the calving period.

Keeping records of the cows is oftentimes the first step toward success.

During the summer months poultry consume a large amount of green forage.

Chickens are always considered more or less of a side line on the farm.

Plenty of out-door exercise and fresh air will insure a crop of vigorous lambs.

Regularity in milking helps the flow during the present and all subsequent lactation periods.

Good drainage to a cow stable is absolutely necessary, and a cement floor serves this end to good advantage.

Keep your chicks on dry ground, where they can get no red worms, and they are not likely to have gapes.

Except when pigs are small, two feedings of warm, sloppy feed per day, morning and evening, is sufficient.

The trap nest picks out the layers, the best brooders, the drones and the unprofitable hens as well as the egg eaters.

The season has arrived when farmers and gardeners should begin testing seeds to determine their power of germination.

There will be no danger of white specks, or black specks either, in the butter if the cream is strained into the churn.

The sooner anyone gets rid of "cull" stock the better, and when a favorable opportunity comes it is well to take advantage of it.

A cow that is run down or hidebound, the result of faulty digestion and assimilation, needs tonic to build up her blood.

Many of the troubles experienced at lambing time are result of rough handling and treatment during the period of pregnancy.

The farmer's family is fortunate in having an abundance of good food at all seasons of the year, but this is especially true in the winter.

Every farmer can have plenty of eggs and chickens for himself and for market if he will only turn a little of his energy toward the hen house.

Are there not some places about the farm where evergreens ought to be planted? They make a splendid windbreak about the barns and yards.

In hauling manure, ice, wood or other slow work about the farm where a team stands a good share of the time the use of blankets is to be recommended.

You must keep track of your hens and know what they are doing if you are going to keep them at all, and then you can have as large a flock as you can manage.

There is no danger of cattle choking on shredded fodder. They chew it the same as hay before they attempt to swallow it and it goes down their throats as easily.

Some one who has not been asleep all the time during recent years has said: "Cement and alfalfa are going to make western farmers the most independent people on earth."

Before the appearance of blossoms and foliage, spray for soft scale and like insects with the lime-sulphur wash or kerosene emulsion. No fruit grower can expect to have clean, healthy trees unless he uses sprays and washes.

Given plenty of good roughage and a light grain ration of wholesome farm feed supplemented with a little oil and some root crops or corn ensilage for succulence the ewes should then be in ideal flesh condition at lambing time.

GUNNER WAS NOT FLATTERED

Ladies Visiting the Warship "Put Their Dirty Paws" All Over His Immaculate Gun.

A company of ladies were visiting an ironclad, and paused for a moment on the upper deck to examine the cannon. Their admiration was excited by the shining condition of the great monsters and one of the younger members of the party, standing near the gun, placed her delicately-gloved hand on the brass mountings, at the same time making some remark about its beautiful polish.

The gunner whose duty it was to keep the brasswork bright did not appear to be greatly pleased with the feminine compliments, and the ladies had no sooner moved away than he seized a cloth, sprang to the cannon which the young lady had touched, and commenced rubbing it fiercely, all the while casting malevolent glances after the retreating party.

The officer of the deck noticed his action, and remarked:

"Well, Smith, you don't seem to be tickled as I should think a man would be with all that flattery."

"Flattery!" said Smith, bitterly. "'Tain't enough for them to come and look at it"—rub, rub, rub—"but they've got to go and put their dirty paws all over it." And he kept on scrubbing the brasswork with his fiercest energy.

RESULTS OF A WRONG DIET

English Writer Says That Nearly Every Form of Disease Can Be Traced to Food.

To sum up in a word, wrong diet furnishes the raw material for every disease. Without it they are not possible. It furnishes the means by which inherited predisposition develops into active disease. In its absence we are not vulnerable to infection and contagion. Its retention in the body in the form of foreign matter is the one real disease. For disease is the accumulations of foreign matter in one part or other of the body, and all the manifold names it bears serve merely to distinguish the different conditions arising from this common cause. The locality, character and state of these accumulations may give rise to the most varying symptoms, disordering the blood, retarding the changes of the tissues, clogging the joints, irritating the nerves and generally obstructing the bodily functions.

Wrong diet is the underlying cause of consumption, rheumatism, cholera, epilepsy, cancer, bubonic and pneumonic plague, heart disease, measles, bronchitis, influenza, appendicitis, bad temper, melancholia, apoplexy, hysteria, cataract and arthritis, and is the commonest cause of suicide.

Church a Playroom.

Before the appointed hour of nine o'clock the other morning the doors of the Central Park Methodist Episcopal church were open for the convenience of the boys and girls of St. Paul who desire to take advantage of the games distributed by the Thursday club, says a St. Paul dispatch. Piled on the shelves of one of the classrooms were more than a thousand sets of games, and Miss Helen Swanstrom stood ready to hand them out to the first comers.

The boys and girls who came were overjoyed at the information that they would be allowed to make use of the games right there in the church. They were glad too that the rooms would be open from 7 until 9:30 o'clock every evening, except Saturday and Sunday evenings, when games will be given out for use in the church, but not for carrying home. Games for home use may be taken out any time on any Saturday from 9 a. m. till 4 p. m.

Novelists and the Public.

Surprises in the novel reading line are always pleasant. Readers are so apt nowadays to label a novelist, to say or assume that such an such a style, such and such a treatment, such and such characters, are his or hers by right of invention, or of adoption, or of anything else. And who can answer that writers do not readily agree to the fancy, or the whim, or the taste, or the judgment of the public? With might and main they try to live up to the label, making, as a rule, little or no effort to change the brand. "You ask for a certain thing; here it is for you," they seem to say. "There are other draughts as good to be got from the vintage of my examination; but fearing your disapproval, I shall not attempt to provide them."—Naho Walker in London T. P.'s Weekly.

Put Out.

Seymour—Aren't you living in the flat any more?

Ashley—No; the landlord evicted me because I was practicing deep breathing.

Seymour—That seems like an absurd reason.

Ashley—It wasn't absurd, however; expanding my chest pushed out two or three of his partitions.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Portuguese in America.

Probably the deposed king of Portugal doesn't know it—for he is not credited with being much interested in his subjects, much less ex-subjects—but there are 50,000 of his countrymen in the United States. Massachusetts ruins strong with them, having about 15,000. Little Rhode Island has 2,500.

RISE OF MORGAN DYNASTY

Foundation of Fortune Laid by Ancestor Who Fought in Washington's Army.

Most of our wealthy men started in small ways. Carnegie was a messenger boy. Rockefeller tramped the streets to get a petty clerical job. H. H. Rogers and Russell Sage were grocer's clerks. Harriman was a broker's office boy. James J. Hill was a section hand, or something like that. But four generations of the Morgans have been born in the purple, so to speak. The Morgan dynasty runs back to the days of the American revolution. Joseph Morgan, after fighting in Washington's army, proceeded to lay the fortune of the house. It did not take him long to rise to the control of the chief transportation lines in Connecticut. They were nothing but stage lines, but they were worth controlling just the same. Later on he figured as one of the capitalists of the Aetna Fire Insurance company of Hartford. His grandson is J. Pierpont Morgan, Sr., and young J. P. is of course, his great-grandson.

Of all the multimillionaires of our day, Morgan the elder remains the most inscrutable. All the others, Rockefeller, Harriman, Rogers and the rest have at one time or another thawed out in the presence of the newspaper and magazine men. Morgan has never thawed out. His personality is as far removed from public scrutiny now as it was when he was the center of the whirlwind contest with Jay Gould forty years ago.—Current Literature.

HE BROKE THE ENGAGEMENT

Cruel Misunderstanding Disrupts Matrimonial Plans of Count and Chicago Girl.

The sudden death in New York of Sir Clifton Robinson, "the traction king," was being discussed in a New York club.

"Sir Clifton Robinson," said a New York man, "built miles and miles of street railways in this country. He liked this country. He especially liked our young men.

"I once heard him say that our young men were not mercenary—that it was practically unknown for an American young man to marry for money. But a young foreigner, he declared, would marry his grandmother if there was a hundred a year in it.

"A Chicago woman on a liner, he said, once remarked:

"'Yes, Mabel was engaged to be married to a handsome young count she met in Budapest last summer; but there was a cruel misunderstanding.'

"'Indeed, how was that?' asked another woman.

"'The count,' was the reply, 'understood her father was a multimillionaire.'"

Two Kinds of Riches.

Dollar chasing by day; bridge whist by night; home a place for sleeping only, is not success. Live today. Make it successful. Make it a day of progress, kindness and work. A lot of such todays in your old age will be pleasant to look back upon.

If your todays are dollar chasing and character killing, looking backward in the old age days will be a cheerless picture. "Yes," says Bill Success, "you can. There are two kinds of riches, dollars and happiness."

There are two doors, Dollars at the left and Happiness at the right, and the ticket taker is at the entrance and his name is "Compensation." Go in either door, but there are no rain checks given or money back. You must choose which door you will take.

There's an inner door to the Dollar entrance marked Failure. There's an inner door to the Happiness entrance marked Success. You may go in either entrance, but you must pay the price.

Diplomatic Rebuke.

A little known story of the Jewish race in Portugal is told of King Joseph I. of that country. On one occasion the king ordered that all Portuguese who were in any way allied to or descended from the Hebrew race should wear yellow hats. The old Marquis de Pombal, then minister in chief, shortly afterward appeared at court with three yellow hats under his arm. The king smiling, asked him:

"What are you doing with these?"

The marquis replied: "I have, them in obedience to your majesty's command, for I really do not know a single Portuguese of note who has not Jewish blood in his veins."

"But," insisted the king, "why three hats?"

"One is for myself," answered the marquis, "one for the inquisitor general by your side, and one is, in case your majesty should desire to be covered."

Smuggled Bracelet in Photograph.

Of smuggling tricks there is no end. The Bangor (Me.) customs officials had a new dodge sprung on them one day recently in an attempt to get a gold bracelet through without the payment of duty.

Some one took a number of cabinet photographs, but before tying them together to make them appear as a bulky die of photos he carefully hollowed out a hole in the center and deposited the bracelet therein. A superficial examination of the package would have caused one to think that it was simply a bundle of photographs and allowed it to proceed without question.

LIFE ON LONELY ICELAND

People in Bleak Northern Country Know What's Going on in the World.

A traveler in Iceland says that he journeyed more than fifty miles from the capital, Reykjavik, and saw but two or three farms in all that distance.

"During all this time," he says in the Youth's Companion, "I had not seen a sapling as big as a stalk of cat-o'-nine-tails. Extinct volcanoes surrounded us on every side. Dust storms swept down from their scarred sides. Distant gleams of glittering ice from the glaciers dazzled us when the sun shone upon them.

"But here, in a land where there is almost no fuel, and where few crops besides hay and turnips can be raised, in the land of the midnight sun in summer and the midday moon in winter, I found books and cheerful conversation, an outlook on life, and a knowledge of current events which I have not always found in populous cities.

"There are no schools, to be sure, outside of Reykjavik and one or two other small towns, for children cannot walk ten miles each way to a schoolhouse, and even such a schoolhouse would accommodate but two or three families. But the itinerant pedagogue goes about from house to house, carrying his store of learning with him, and leaving behind much intellectual stimulus and a desire to know what is going on beyond the bounds of the island.

"They were great chess players in the lonely farmhouse where we stayed and they were keen to play with us. Although my companion considered himself a fair chess player he was ignominiously beaten by the angular lady of the household. They had a Bible too and an Icelandic hymn book. We went away from our short visit to the lonely farmhouse of the Sog with the impression that the home life in the typical farms of Iceland might well be envied by dwellers in more favored climes."

POPE'S HEAVY MAIL BAG

His Holiness Gets Greater Number of Missives Than Any King or Executive.

If one were asked to speculate as to the sovereign whose daily mail bag was the greatest one would hazard the kaiser. But no. Then most will say it ought to be. On unimpeachable authority of a Paris contemporary we learn that the pope is the recipient of the greatest number of missives.

The mail of his holiness consists on the average of 23,000 letters, newspapers, etc. To go through this mass 35 secretaries are kept employed.

The president of the United States receives nearly 1,000 letters daily and about 4,000 journals and books.

The kaiser's mail consists of 4,000 letters and frequently the same number of books and papers. Our king, we learn, is favored with 1,000 letters a day and over 2,000 newspapers and books.

The czar is not overworked in this respect for a sovereign, his majesty's mail being given at 650 letters, etc., per day. The kings of Italy and Spain have to deal with about 200 letters each.

Queen Wilhelmina is still more favored with 150 letters, etc. But President Falliores is still more fortunate, for we are told that he receives few letters and hardly any papers.—London Globe.

Badge of Servitude.

Would-be artistocrats in America who are wont to decorate the hats of their coachmen with cockades are probably ignorant of the fact that from a European standpoint the cockade is only used to show that the wearer is a servant of royalty. Across the water the cockade can be legally worn only by servants of royalty, including naval and military officers, diplomatists, lieutenants, deputy lieutenants and high sheriffs of counties. As worn by these, the color is black. The black cockade was introduced in England by the house of Hanover, although previous thereto it had been worn in various colors. A scarlet cockade was in vogue during the time of Charles I. His son adopted white, the badge of the Jacobites, while orange was the color of William of Orange. Orange remains the color in the Netherlands. Black and white is the color in Germany, black and yellow in Australia, tricolor in France, scarlet in Spain, blue and white in Portugal—that is before the revolution—and black, red and yellow in Belgium. The word "cockade" comes from the French "cocarde," originally applied to the leathers of the cock worn by Croatian soldiers serving in the French army.

Chinese Will Take Part.

Dresden is planning for an exposition devoted to the cause of hygiene, sports and their allied interests. According to advance information this exposition, which hitherto has not been very much talked about, is likely to surprise by its perfection of detail and architectural beauty—as might be expected of Dresden.

That the exposition will be world wide in its scope is evinced by the fact that the executive committee has just received plans from the Chinese for the erection of an imposing Chinese section. It is proposed to erect a large hall for this purpose, and an imposing pagoda will be erected as a demonstratio of Chinese architectural development.

RIDING IN AN AEROPLANE

James Hopper, who rode as a passenger in an Antoinette aeroplane, thus describes his emotions in Everybody's:

"And then—good Lord, what is that! At first I thought that we had struck an abandoned quarry and were hurtling through a pile of stones. Then, more plausibly, that we had passed from the grassy plain to a road of torn-up macadam. But neither of these suppositions answered quite the question put to me by my senses. We seemed to roll on a medium singularly hard. Hard and smooth, and yet sown with roughness. It felt as if we were upon a road of adamant laid upon the bedrock of the earth, and as if upon this adamantine road pebbles hard and faceted like diamonds had been strewn. Upon the hard, smooth substance the machine glided level, but excited to a furious trepidation by the bristling diamonds. 'We are going through a rock pile,' I said to myself, returning to my first unsatisfactory and yet more plausible supposition. We were flying, by Jove! But what was the meaning of this hard going, this tremendous trepidation. From the gentle earth we had passed to the ways of the air. That adamantine, resilient and diamond-bristling surface upon which we rode now, it was the azure of the skies. It was ozone, it was ether, it was everything that is hazy and impalpable and blue—and it felt like metal, like rock, like chrome steel, like the compressed bowels of some planet smashed between two suns. I was flying, and it was like drilling. I was feeling the earth, and the earth was following me, jealous and vigilant, gripping me, stubbornly and implacably, with its earth sensations.

WAS AN INVENTIVE GENIUS

Man Devised Contrivance for Riveting Knobs on Strings of Honey Bees —Why It Failed.

"That man once invented a great labor-saving device that he expected to make him rich, but his hopes all came to nothing."

"What was it?"

"It was a contrivance for riveting little knobs upon the stingers of honey bees, thus rendering them harmless. He got his idea from seeing a cow with knobs on her horns to prevent her from goring."

"Why was it that his invention didn't pan out?"

"That was the strange part of it. You see, bees are queer things. As soon as he would get his little knob fastened upon the stinger of a bee the hismed thing would just sit around, tapping on the floor of the hive with it. Before he had completed his invention no bee had ever been able to make a noise of that kind. Well, sir, all the bees that had knobs on their stingers just seemed to give up their ambition as honey gatherers, and there they would sit, proudly drumming on the floor of the hive, hour after hour, while the bees that didn't wear knobs would hang around listening, instead of going about their business. So he had to give it up; but I understand that he's working on a new thing which he expects to turn out much better."

"What is it?"

"It's a machine for fastening fish scales together so they can be used in stove doors in the place of isinglass."

World's Greatest Oil Well.

The scene in the Potrero del Llano district, a few miles above here, where the biggest oil well in the world has been active since January 3, 1911, cannot he adequately described. Imagine a solid column of oil shooting to a height of more than four hundred and fifty feet from a hole in the earth, with a mist of minute globules carried hy the wind for more than ten miles setting down upon the vegetation and forming pools of oil within that radius; then a great lake of the fluid four miles long by three miles wide and formed by means of an earthen dam hastily thrown across a natural reservoir, and at the lowest depression of the bank of this lake a channel several feet wide leading into the Tuxpan river, through which the overflow of oil from the wonderful geyser is constantly going to waste.—Tuxpaw (Mexico) Dispatch.

Valuable Knowledge.

"And these?" we asked, as we were ushered into a room filled with children deeply immersed in study.

"They are learning," said the principal, "the difference 'twixt tweedledum and tweedledee!"

We were not a little struck. "But is the game," we objected, "worth the candle?"

"Oh, entirely so!" rejoined the principal. "When they grow up they will be able, with very little assistance from the agent, to distinguish a car of the current year's model from a car of the year previous, thus to save themselves much humiliation and loss of social rating."—Puck.

Like Moving Picture Shows.

Marionette or puppet theaters, formerly well beloved by the Italian residents from memories of their old home, have disappeared in New York, being replaced by the moving picture shows, but the mythological and legendary dramas familiar in the vanished playhouses are still preserved and in more effective form by the films of the biographs.

LEFT HIM HOLDING THE CAT

Seems Mean Thing to Do, But Was Will Sympathize With Irate Householder.

The night was still. Nearly all are. The householder had made a fire in the wood stove with a couple of old newspapers which were in the vicinity sufficiently to enable him to prepare for bed without excessive suffering. Then he made a shivering run for the bed and crawled beneath the covers with chattering teeth, and hooked his knees over his ears in his effort to keep warm.

Then he swore. Afar down in the unlighted, cold-mattinged hallway the telephone hussed merrily. The householder tried to persuade himself that it was a mistake. It was just the tinkle of broken icicles on the glass of the window, but the telephone objected strongly to this and buzzed furiously.

The householder arose and barried down the stairs. They were not warm. The hall was cold and silent. The telephone kept up its persistent clamor.

"'Ello!" said the householder wrathfully. "'Ello!"

"Is that 3456?" inquired a masculine voice.

"Yes," said the householder; "what d'ye want?"

"Does a family named Mullins live next door to you?"

"Yes," said the householder; "what of it?"

"I wish," said the voice, "you'd send over there and ask Miss Mullins to come to the 'phone."

"Huh?" inquired the householder, unbelievingly, visions of dressing in the cold room and parading out into the night flooding his brain.

"Get her soon as you can," said the voice. "I'm in a hurry. Got to catch a train." Then the householder came to a swift decision.

"Hold the line," he said. Then he calmly hung up the receiver and went to bed.

"Isn't that our 'phone?" asked the householder's wife after a while; "I've been hearing it for half an hour."

"It ain't for us," said the householder, curling up comfortably. "They got the wrong number—wanted some one named Mullins."

A MISTAKE.

Smithson—I think we ought to do something to honor his memory.

Jackson—That's a good idea. He wasn't much account—but he had a corking fine memory.

An Exaggeration.

Mrs. E. R. Thomas, the day her horse Nemesis won at Gravesend, was congratulated on the brilliant success of her racing stable.

"When one wins," Mrs. Thomas answered, "one's losses are forgotten. But in racing one's losses are many, and the keeping of a stable has its troubles.

"The general idea of a racing stable, the idea that it is one long triumph and joy, is more wrong. It is an exaggerated as the foreigner's description of our mammoth hotels.

"This man said of our hotels:

"'In America everything is on a grand scale. They have gigantic buildings of incredible splendor. I lived in New York in a hotel of such colossal proportions that when I rang the bell Thursday evening the waiter would come to my room Monday morning.'"

Oh, the Mistletoe Bough!

The village amateur operatic company recently essayed to give a performance of a musical play written round the story of "The Mistletoe Bough." As a vocalist the heroine was not a success and in addition she had the misfortune, when playfully hiding in the ancient oak chest (kindly lent by the local grocer), to hear the lid go down with a click.

"The lid of your box is locked," whispered the alarmed stage manager to the grocer, who was in the front seat.

"She ain't a-going to sing no more, is she?" was the cautious inquiry.

"Her spirit appears in the next act and sings twice," said the manager.

"Oh, do it!" came the reply. "Then I'm a-goin' to bile the key!"

Spirited Tale.

"What did you do when the cat bore down upon you?"

"I held my breath, and—"

"My! How strong you must be!" (He then turned aside and chewed a clove.)

Always Kicking.

"What are you kicking about?"

"Everything!"

"Haven't you every thing you want?"

"Yes, but—"

"But what?"

"I've got to work for it."

WALTON DEPARTMENT.

D. B. WALLACE, Manager.

Hand your news items to Mr. D. B. Wallace at the Walton Equitable Bank and Trust Co.'s building. He is also authorized to receive subscriptions and collect other accounts.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Wish to call the attention of the public to the fact that my store is now stocked with a complete line of strictly pure, fresh drugs of quality the highest that money could buy, and am prepared in every way to handle all kinds of prescription work. Also have a full stock of Patent Medicines and Sundries. Shall operate the drug business in connection with my grocery until the new store room now in course of erection is ready for E. K. Stephens, my successor in the grocery line, after which I will utilize my entire store building as a drug store. Same will be equipped throughout with up-to-date fixtures and I shall make this the most attractive, the most complete drug store in the State outside the large cities.

Thanking you for the liberal patronage given me in the past, assuring you of my fullest appreciation of any continuance of like favors, and guaranteeing that your wants will be supplied with only strictly pure products—the best to be had, and at the very lowest prices consistent with quality,

I remain yours respectfully,

ROBERT W. JONES, Walton, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Redman spent the past week at Dry Ridge visiting friends and looking after his farming interests in that quarter.

A. M. Hickman who formerly resided near Berkshire and is now a resident of Chicago, was a visitor here a part of last week calling on Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Allphin.

Eugene Lathrop, who has been filling a position as telegrapher on a railroad in Oklahoma, arrived here last week to visit home folks, and is the guest of his mother Mrs. Mary Lathrop.

Rev. L. H. Well, of Cincinnati, filled the pulpit of the Walton Christian church Sunday morning and evening, preaching in the place of Rev. L. A. Kohler, the pastor who was also present and ea.

A. R. Edwards spent part of the past week in Cincinnati in the interest of his firm S. L. Edwards & Son, and arranging about his automobile business of which he will have an adv. in the Recorder next week.

J. Cross & Son have opened a paint shop for buggies and carriages and solicit the patronage of all who desire first class work. Mr. C. A. Youell, who is the most efficient workman they can secure will always be on hand.

Rev. J. C. Wright, of Erlanger, pastor of the M. E. church, filled his regular appointment here last Sunday, and spent Monday among his members. Rev. Wright is a fine pastor and his sermons are always interesting as well as entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fullilove, who have been residing in Louisville since last summer, are expected home here next week, and Mr. Fullilove writes the Recorder to say that he will be prepared to contract to do paper-hanging and papering in good style, neat and at reasonable prices, and requests the public patronage.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. C. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bedinger H. R. Hearne, R. O. Hughes and son Rod ... W. Cleek and Mrs. C. C. Bedinger and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. ... of Richwood, were visitors here Friday coming up to attend the agricultural exhibit on the railroad special which unfortunately failed to arrive.

The Disciples of Isaac Walton have gotten out their rods for the opening season. Our old friend E. K. Stephens, was the first to get his luck, landing a ... of bass at the cannery pond. Ollie Franks caught a big string of catfish at the mill pond and John C. Miller came in third with the reward of a few patient hours.

Owing to the strike among the railroad firemen on the Q. & C. Railway all of the trains were delayed last week and the special train with the agricultural exhibit from the Kentucky Experiment Station failed to arrive last Friday as scheduled. About one hundred and fifty people had assembled to enjoy the features of the special and were greatly disappointed.

A. Ralph Edwards, the popular deputy postmaster, spent Tuesday in Cincinnati on business. He is the exclusive agent for the Buick Automobile for Boone and Gallatin counties, and will have a big advertisement in the Recorder next week. Persons intending to buy an automobile should write Mr. Edwards. He will give parties interested a demonstration of the merits of the automobile.

Prof. C. O. Morgan spent Saturday at Lexington attending a convocation of the principles of the high schools and graded schools of the State for the purpose of advising with each other as to what will be contributory toward the betterment of the schools generally. The meeting was a good one and only the accredited representatives were invited so as to confine the meeting strictly to business matters, and much good was developed.

Mrs. Raymond Byland and mother Mrs. Wood moved to Covington last week where they will make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Benj. B. Allphin moved from the Craven property to the Byland place, and Mark Benson has moved to the property vacated by Mr. Allphin having purchased it recently. Wood Miller has moved to the Lora Rouse property which he has purchased and Chas. Ransler will move to the Miller property which he has purchased.

Mrs. Comeleat Chambers McKean will have a grand opening of the spring millinery creations at her Walton store Friday March 17, and extends a most cordial invitation to all of the ladies to call and examine the style and assortment of goods. No printed invitations will be issued, but the Recorder will be relied upon to give the public the invitation to come and see and purchase if it suits you. There will be an unusual handsome display of gowns, hats, notions, etc. and it will be worth your while to inspect them.

One of the nicest social entertainments enjoyed this season by the good people of Walton was the musicale and luncheon given at the school hall last Friday evening by the teachers and pupils of the public school. The musical program was very entertaining and the luncheon was delicious, which fact was attested by all of the good things being consumed long before the hour of departure arrived. There was a large attendance and everybody seemed to enter into the happy spirit of the evening, making it a truly enjoyable affair throughout.

James Monroe and pretty bride, of Rising Sun, Indiana, spent part of the past week with Mr. and Mrs. John L. Jones, of Landing, and Mr and Mrs. John C. Miller, of Walton, and a couple of days with relatives at Covington, bidding their relatives and friends good-bye, previous to their departure for Saskatchewan, Valley, Canada, where Mr. Monroe has taken charge of a large tract of land, and expect to make their home near Wilhelm, intending to leave March 24th. The bride is a very handsome young lady, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Williams, of near Rising Sun, formerly of Boone County. Mr. Monroe is one of the sterling young men of Indiana, and will make his lovely wife an excellent husband. Their many friends in this quarter wish them happiness and prosperity in their far away home.

Another distribution of 20 per cent of the valued price of the 1909 pooled tobacco has been ordered, and arrangements are now being made for the distribution at as early a date as possible, which will probably be about the first of the coming month. The last distribution of 20 per cent amounted to about $66,000, and all of this money has been about checked out by the holders of the certificates, the Equitable Bank and Trust Company and The Walton Bank and Trust Company being the treasurers of the fund for Boone county. The coming $66,000 will be of great value to the growers as it will come at a time when it will be most greatly needed. It is believed that the pooled crop will average the growers about 10 cents per pound and that of itself shows the value of the pool, considering the present market prices for the 1910 unpooled tobacco. The Boone Co., tobacco has been showing up very well in the Louisville market. Last week 94 hogsheads of the pooled tobacco sold at an average of $14.10, the returns to R. W. Carpenter, Secretary of the Boone County Board of Control, showing the sales to have been thus made. It is presumed that these tobaccos were of the best type, but even then the average was good considering the rest of the market. The 1911 crop ought to be pooled by all means.

Prospects Look Encouraging.

About twenty-five interested parties attended the creamery meeting last Saturday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by G. W. Sandford, and when the subscription papers were presented they showed that about 250 cows had been pledged, and the entire territory had not been covered. Stock to the amount of about $1,500 had been subscribed, and no special effort along that line had been made. Taken altogether the outlook for the success of the creamery was most encouraging, and everybody is earnestly requested to attend the meeting which will be held in Burlington next Saturday afternoon, at which time the manner of operating a creamery will be fully explained by those who have had experience with them.

Persons who are posted say that Burlington is certainly a good location for a creamery, and if earnest work on the part of those who are trying to work up one here counts, it will surely be a go. Do not forget the meeting next Saturday afternoon.

The Road Problem.

The local papers throughout the State are discussing the good road proposition from every angle imaginable. The road problem is being handled as successfully as it will ever be under the present system in Kentucky, and until it is entirely divorced from the county and fiscal court, except as to the furnishing of the funds necessary for the roads, there can be no improvement in the road working. The road of a county ought to constitute a separate and distinct department of the government, presided over by a single officer who has no other official duties. A county judge is not in a position officially to look after the roads as they should be. He cannot leave his office to go about over the county investigating complaints. He appoints the best men it is possible to get to accept the position of overseers of roads, but it is impossible for him to ascertain by personal observation as to their success as such officials. A county supervisor of public highways, with the right man in the place, it appears, would be an improvement over the present system, as he could be and should be required to give the roads his individual attention, and then be held responsible for their proper maintainance.

The Recorder's neighborhood correspondents are on hand this week with an interesting lot of notes. Nearly every neighborhood in the county is represented in the columns of this issue, and that class of matter is what makes the local paper. The Recorder believes that it has as efficient and faithful neighborhood correspondents as any paper in Kentucky.

The sun shown, the wind blew and the snow flew, yesterday, which was a genuine March day with all the frills and flounces.

C. C. Roberts will cultivate his farm near Walton this year. Burlington will miss him very considerably.

Turnpike Election Notice.

The stockholders in the Burlington and Florence Turnpike Road Co. are hereby notified that said company's annual election of officers—a president and directors—will be held in Burlington on Saturday, April 1st, 1911 A. B. ROUSE, President.

For Oliver Chilled plows and repairs for same call on O. P. Phipps, Burlington.

The High Class Saddle and Harness Stallion,

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS,

2844 A. S. B. A

Will make the season of 1911 at the W. L. Norman Stock Farm at Walton, Ky., and if you want a show horse bred to be ...

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS is a dark bay, 16 hands, weighs 1200 lbs., with three white feet, snip and star, and lots of style and action. He was sired by

BRACKEN CHIEF 2148,

by Harrison Chief 1608 by Clark Chief (89); dam Kit Hardy (2880) by Indian Chief (1718); 1st dam Miss Berry 4034, by Rhoderick 104; by Mambrino Le Grande (99); 2d dam, by Bell's Yellow Jacket 112; 3d dam by Gray Eagle.

Miss Berry is also the dam of Woodland Chief, one of the finest show horses in Kentucky. Woodland Chief is a full brother to Bell's Fitzsimmons and a full brother to Rhoderick, and one of the finest geldings ever showed, and sold to a party in Texas for $1,000.

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS is also the sire of the champion walk-trot gelding, Mat Coyne, showed at the Horse Shows in the fall of 1908 and sold for $3,600, and also the champion harness mare showed by C. C. Harris.

T. T. Anderson, of Maysville, one of the largest dealers in the state, says some of the highest class horses he has handled have been by Bell's Fitzsimmons.

The greatest show, harness and saddle horses of our state have sprung from the loins of Harrison Chief and Indian Chief. Where can you find a horse of better breeding than Bell's Fitzsimmons? He has been a winning show horse ever since a suckling colt, and has proven himself a successful sire. Some of the highest priced saddle, harness and walk-trot horses that have left the State have been sired by him.

Personal care over all stock. Mares left on good grass at 10c a day at owner's risk.

$15 00 to insure a mare in foal or parted with.

JOHN RENSLER,
C. R. BEST.

Mrs. Eliza Buchanan Mahan was born in Ohio county, Ind., October 6th, 1842, and departed this life at her home in Petersburg, March 10th, 1911. She was the daughter of William and Lucinda Buchanan. She was happily married to Mr. Joseph Mahan, December 17, 1868, to which union God gave six children, one having preceded her to the heavenly land, the others being William, of Georgetown, Ky., Mrs. Alice Bruce, of Ludlow, Ky., Harry of Chicago, and Eugene and Perry, who live at this place. The deceased professed religion and joined the Methodist church in 1872, and has always been a constant attendant upon the preaching of the Word, and an interested and sympathetic listener, drinking in and enjoying to the utmost "the story that never grows old." Many hearts are sad because Mrs. Mahan has been taken, but amid all the tears and grief comes the happy consciousness that she is with Jesus. She was of a quiet retired nature, and with her manifold christian graces and sweet and lovely disposition, she beautifully adorned all the walks of life she was called upon to fill as daughter, sister, wife, mother, neighbor and friend, and it was a priceless joy to know her. Her very memory should rest like a benediction upon her loved ones' lives. Besides the five children, Mrs. Mahan leaves her husband, a sister and brother and host of other relatives to mourn her loss, to whom the community in general extend heartfelt sympathy; yet we realize that our efforts to com fort are of little avail in this hour of supreme sorrow, and we would direct them to Him, the great comforter, their acknowledged friend and saviour. The funeral was conducted Monday afternoon at the M. E. church by Bro. Bradley, and a large concourse of relatives and friends followed her remains to the cemetery in town where she was laid to rest beneath a bower of beautiful flowers, there to await the "resurrection morn."

Card of Thanks—We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in the loss of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mahan. We also desire to thank the donors of beautiful floral offerings, Rev. Bradley, the choir for the beautiful songs rendered, the pall-bearers and Mr. Stier for the careful attention to all details. The Family.

The death angel has again visited this community and taken from our midst William Henry Tanner, who died very suddenly the 15th inst., at his home in Florence, at the age of 69 years, 8 months and 26 days. He was enjoying his usual good health until about 3 o'clock in the afternoon when he began complaining. They summoned a physician but nothing could be done to restore him and he passed to his reward about five o'clock on that day. He was married to Lucy V. Tanner, Jan. 31, 1861. To this union five children were born, two of whom, Mrs. Chas. Tanner and Mrs. Cora Blankenbeker, with their mother, survive to mourn his departure. Mr. Tanner was a faithful member of Hopeful church from his youth, having united with that body at the age of 18 years. His favorite vocation was that of a machanic and for many years he served the people in that capacity, and by his honorable and upright dealing he had establishand quite an extensive business and had the confidence and friendship of all with whom he had dealings. In his departure the family loses a kind and affectionate husband and father, the community a generous and obliging neighbor. The funeral services were conducted at Hopeful last Saturday by Pastor Tomlinson, after which the remains were buried in Hopeful cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community. The family extend their heartfelt thanks to the friends who so kindly assisted during the illness and death of their loved one.

Mrs. J. C. Kilgour Dead.

Few deaths have occurred here that caused more surprise than that of Mrs. J. C. Kilgour, who was universally known and respected, she having lived here most of her life, and enjoyed the love and respect of all with whom she was acquainted. During the past year she had experienced slight strokes of facial paralysis, from the effects of kidney disease, but was not seriously ill, it was thought, at any time previous to her death, which occurred about 10 o'clock last Friday night, at her home here on North State street, where she and the Doctor lived happily and enjoyed all the comforts of a typical home.

Her husband has been bedfast the past week with a heavy cold on his lungs, and pneumonia was threatened, and to be near him, Mrs. Kilgour had her bed placed near the Doctor's. When Mrs. Kilgour retired she seemed to be in usual health, but suddenly she called to the Doctor, who at once got up and endeavored to respond to her call, but life had left her in an instant, she having succumbed to a sudden attack of cerebral hemorrhage, caused by a kidney affection. The stroke to the stricken husband cannot be described, but he bore up manfully, and with superhuman strength met the crisis like a true soldier and he appears to be improving nicely.

The deceased was a kind and affectionate wife, a woman with many excellent traits of character, and was honored and loved by a husband who was true and faithful to the last hour. Much sympathy will go out to Dr. Kilgour in his sad misfortune, and the relatives of the deceased will have their full measure of sympathy in their sudden and sad bereavement.

The funeral services were at 2 o'clock p. m. Thursday, at the late home of the deceased, many relatives and friends being present to pay their last tribute of love and respect.

The remains were laid to rest in a beautiful casket covered with wreathes and bouquet sof beautiful flowers, silent tokens of love from the family and friends.

Ella Cornelia Rittenhouse Kilgour, daughter of John C. and Jane Angevine Rittenhouse, and wife of Dr. John Kilgour was born April 14th, 1856, in Harrison, Ohio, where she lived the greater part of her life. She was educated at Moores Hill College and at Smithson College, Logansport, Ind. In faith she was a Universalist. Being of a modest, retiring disposition, she fulfilled in her charities the teachings of the scriptures in not letting the left hand know of the doings of the right. She was a devoted sister and daughter, and a loving and faithful wife. Frail in body and lonely and sad in the loss of so many of those she loved best, she went bravely and cheerfully through the last years of her life, which ended March 3, 1911.

Few deaths have occurred here that caused more surprise than that of Mrs. Kilgour, who was universally known and respected, she having lived here most of her life, and enjoyed the love and respect of all with whom she was acquainted. During the past year she had experienced slight strokes of facial paralysisfrom the effects of kidney trouble, but was not seriously ill, it was thought, at any time previous to her death, which occurred about 10 o'clock last Friday night at her home here on North street, where she and the Doctor lived happily and enjoyed all the comforts of a typical home. —Harrison, Ohio, News.

Dr. Kilgour and his first wife resided at Hebron, this county at one time many years ago. Dr. Kilgour is the oldest member of our family, and will be 66 next November. He is a son of the late John Ficklin Kilgour and a grandson of the late Charles and Lucy Ficklin, Kilgour. He was a brother of Harry Kilgour and Mrs. Manlius Goodridge, both of Francesville, Boone county, Kentucky.

A lady at Saint Elmo, Tenn., sends the Times, a clipping from the Superior, Wisconsin, Telegram, commenting on the recent action of the Scott Circuit Court in sentencing a negro to the penitentiary for life for stealing a turkey, and characterizes it as "an outrageous perversion of justice." It is true that the negro was tried for stealing a turkey, and that he was sentenced to the penitentiary for life, but not because of that single theft. The negro was convicted under the habitual criminal law, through which a third conviction for felony carries with it a life sentence. This was the third conviction of the negro for three separate offenses, it was an enforcement of the law merely where the guilt was plain. This action was occasioned considerable adverse criticism from some of the newspapers on the outside that are not advised as to the law in Kentucky bearing on such cases.—Georgetown Times.

The meeting of the Central Kentucky Calvert Association, the members of which are the descendants and heirs of Lord Baltimore, held a meeting in Stamping Ground Wednesday, with probably sixty in attendance. Mrs. Bourgeoise, of St. Louis, who is one of the heirs; also an attorney, were present and advised that a permanent general organization be formed for the purpose of taking the necessary legal steps to gain possession of the vast estate, including all the city of Baltimore and most of the State of Maryland, which was leased for 99 years in 1774 to the State of Maryland. It is probable that the Central Kentucky Association will unite with other similar associations and raise funds to make the fight through the courts. There will be many heirs and some who will claim to be heirs who are not, and it will take a long time to ferret out each branch of the family. Mrs. Bourgeoise has been engaged in this work for five or six years and has secured considerable information as to the descendants and as to the title to the property. Among a lot of time-worn papers packed away at Stamping Ground, was found the family Bible of Obediah Calvert, containing a list of names of his family, and it will be used to establish the fact that the descendants of Obediah Calvert are also descendants of Lord Baltimore, and claim to be heirs to $300,000,000 worth of property in Maryland.—Georgetown Times.

Success in Poultry.

To insure success in the chicken business it is imperative that the parent stock be comfortably housed and judiciously fed. Special care and feeding should begin a month before the eggs are wanted for incubation. Otherwise it may be very difficult to secure the amount of fertile eggs desired, in that when the days are short and the weather cold the sexual activity of both cock and hen is at its lowest ebb.

With proper mating the first clutch of eggs is generally the most fertile unless the birds have been too highly fed or are over fat; in that event their surplus flesh should be worked off, whereupon the second clutch may be all right.

It is best to provide warm, light quarters in which the eggs are to be laid, and to determine their fertility when obtained examine them by looking through them at a strong, bright flame; like that of a kerosene lamp. The germ of life showing as a dark speck can be seen through the shell in the broadest part of the egg; if it isn't discernible the egg may almost invariably be regarded as infertile. What then should be done with it? Place it by itself for commercial and domestic purposes. They are just as good for cooking as the fertile ones; indeed having no germ to be quickened into life by the warmth, they are better for some purposes than fertile eggs.

The writer does not want it to be understood that he opposes or underestimates the value of the incubator for hatching chicks; but virtually he considers their rearing be hens to be the most profitable method for small breeders. Accordingly, when a hen has become a persistent setter she should be removed from her nest to a place by herself, and there entertained with a few china eggs until two or three hens have become well established sitters, which is quite likely to occur in a few days; the eggs can then be placed under them all at one same time and the chicks that are hatched cared for by one of them. Each hen should be given only as many as she can cover, when they are well bunched under her. Every morning at a regular time the hen shouldb e taken from her nest for feed, water and exercise, and at the end of ten or fifteen minutes at the utmost put back again and fastened in for the next twenty-four hours.

After the incubating has been under way for ten or twelve days heart in the chicken begins to send blood to the various organs in amounts sufficient to increase its warmth quite perceptibly and if the egg then becomes entirely cold, it may be regarded as infertile or that the chick is dead. As any further heat applied to such eggs only sets loose the sulphur and hydrogen with which they are filled, making the very distinct and disgusting smell of rotten eggs, it is obvious that they should at once be removed from the nest. Everything in fact should be done to keep this as clean as possible, and that lice may have no chance to thrive, insect powder should occasionally be used.

CALL FOR PRIMARY.

At a meeting of the Boone Co. Democratic Executive Committee held at Burlington, Ky., February 20th, 1911, it was ordered that a primary election be held in every voting precinct in Boone County on Saturday May 27th, 1911 for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for State Senator, County Representative and County Court Clerk to be voted on at the regular election in November.

All rules governing the State Primary on May 27th shall govern this election.

A. B Renaker was made a subcommittee of one to have ballots printed and attend to all details in carrying out this call.

The entrance fee of each individual candidate in this primary election is fixed at $35.00 to be paid to A. B Renaker not later than May 12, 1911, at which time the names of the candidates who have paid their proper entrance fee will be placed on the ballots.

Speak Gently.

When a horse balks do not whip, scold or quarrel with it. "Speak gently." Be patient. Take time. Go to the bits. Fasten a [illegible] one front leg between the foot and the fetlock, and tie the foot up to the hames or hold it up, as the case may be, compelling the horse to stand on three legs while it rests. Resting will very soon become more irksome than going. But with kindly "whoas" and the continued by holding the bit, compel the horse to stand until thoroughly anxious to go, which will not be long, when the foot should be let down and theanimal allowed to go. Repeat the process as often as the occasion demands, increasing rather than diminishing the time of the restraint.

Some firms who use heavy horses make an absolute rule that a team shall not be driven beyond a walk. Two results of such a course are apparent to the casual observer. First, their horses are in good condition and from that fact it is safe to rely on the statement of theowners that they are not always replacing horses that should have many years of usefulness before them. Second, their horses soon learn to walk fast.

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism is simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment. The Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Ry. Co.

NOTICE

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 16, 1911.

To the Public:

The Management of The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company believes that the public should be advised of the reasons for the present difficulty with the white firemen who left the service of the Company on March 9, 1911.

The railroad is divided into three operating Districts.

The Third District is the one between Chattanooga, Tenn., and Oakdale, Tenn., a distance of 84 miles.

In 1904, before the present Management had charge of the operation of The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway, it was not possible to secure enough white firemen to operate trains between Chattanooga and Oakdale.

Because of the inability to secure the required number of white firemen, the Company was forced to employ negroes as firemen and has had negroes in service constantly as firemen since 1904 on that part of the line between Chattanooga and Oakdale.

The agreement between the Management of The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company and the firemen applies to all firemen.

The Committee representing the white firemen demanded that The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company should, within 90 days, discharge from the position as firemen all colored men so employed and to agree that hereafter no negroes shall be employed as firemen.

The Company declined to grant this demand, and, thereupon, the committee representing the white firemen gave notice of their purpose to leave the service of the Company.

The committee gave this notice to take effect in less than twenty-four hours—in conflict with Article 45 of the agreement dated July 1, 1910, which provides that 30 days' written notice shall be given of any purpose to revise or abrogate the agreement.

The Management of The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company immediately filed protest against this action, but, although an investigation was promised, no final answer has been given by the committee representing the firemen or by the officers of the firemen's organization.

The Erdman Act provides for mediation between a railroad and its employees, and at the last conference, on March 9th, before the strike order took effect, the committee representing the firemen was urged to consent to mediation.

This was declined, but, as the law provides that either party may make application to the mediators, a telegram was at once sent by the railroad company to Judge Martin A. Knapp, (appointed by President Taft as one of the Board of Mediation, Washington, D. C.), requesting him to immediately use his good offices with the firemen to bring about mediation.

Although the Management of The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company has been always willing to accept the services of Judge Knapp as mediator the officers of the firemen's organization and the committee representing the firemen have declined to accept his services.

The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company has at all times faithfully carried out the provisions of the contract between the Company and the firemen.

Negroes are not employed as locomotive engineers, and the Company will not promote or employ negroes as engineers.

When the white firemen left the service of the Company on March 9th, on less than twenty-four hours notice, it became necessary for the Company to obtain such firemen as could be obtained to move the passenger and freight trains and to meet the needs of the public.

The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company has always endeavored to give good service to its patrons and to meet in every way as a common carrier the needs of the public. It is recognized throughout the entire country as a high class railroad, and the Management will appreciate any assistance which can be rendered by the citizens in sections through which The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway runs in restoring the former satisfactory service.

This statement of the situation is made so that all persons interested and the public generally may know the actual conditions.

H. BAKER,
General Manager.

The Fruit Crop Safe.

Mr. Ullanmeyer, the noted Fayette county nurseryman, has given out the following: "Fruit in Central Kentucky is yet uninjured, thanks to the recent heavy sleet. The fruit buds were developed fast as a result of the days of rising temperature, but the cold wave came in time to check nature's advance, and the sleet that followed protected the buds. Central Kentucky is about due for a good fruit crop, and the old adage of a heavy sleet meaning a full crop of fruit is likely to be realized. The sleet told heavily on peach trees and many a young tree was almost baren of twigs when the weight of the ice lifted. Cherries, plums, pears, peaches and apples promise abundant yields, while the strawberry crop, which last year was ruined by a light freeze in May, will probably this year make a record breaking yield When the generally accepted theory of setting small fruit in the spring of the year and fruit and foliage trees in the fall, is considered the surest way, yet good results are obtainable in the spring of the year in setting out fruit trees, in the fall. The pruning season is now on in full blast, in fact, it is nearing its close, and yet we venture the assertion that many farmers and orchardists have neglected an important work. Pruning a tree or raspberry bush is as necessary as suckering tobacco or thinning a hill of corn.

THE HORSE.

Blanket the horse even if the weather is mild.

Demand for good draft horses greatly on the increase.

The supply for good 1,500 pound work horses is always behind the demand.

Fonr hundred head of good draft horses were eagerly snapped up at good prices at a recent sale in Illinois.

If you are not working your horses be sure to turn them, as well as the colts, out where they will get plenty of exercise and fresh air.

The government estimate of the average farm value of horses in the United States, January 1, was $111.67, an increase of $3.48 as compared with a year ago. The highest values were for Massachusetts and Rhode Island, $148, and the lowest in New Mexico, $50.

All good trotters are worth more today than at any time since the American Trotting Interest was established. The great demand for our trotters in foreign countries is principally responsible for this condition. The American trotter is now conceded to be the fastest in the world.

It looks as if there will be no market for American thoroughbreds, except at home, in the near future. With South America closed, England agitating a tax on the American product and France closing even its steeple-chase to foreign horses, the breeding industry in this country will have to find a market here or give up the business.

MULES IN DEMAND.

H. N. Rankin bought 19 mules at Paris, Ky., recently which cost him from $100 to $235 each.

The average of mules in this country on January 1st, was placed ar $125.62, an increase of $5.78 per head over the past year. They were highest in South Carlina, $173 a head, and lowest in New Mexico, $82 a head.

$$$

Major W. M. Coulling, Depot Quartermaster at St Louis, Mo., has just been ordered to buy 500 mules to be shipped immediately to Texas. Uncle Sam will find that they come high, and if he places many orders like this, the price will reach a height that will make the mule respected next to wives.

$$$

John D. Atkins, of Paris, Tenn., bought two mules from Mr. D. F. Lyell, from near Pottsville, Tenn., for which he paid $474. After the mules were put on the scales and weighed showed to be a fraction tion less than 23 cents per pound. This shows that mule flesh or "mule meat," as the case may be is higher than that of beef or pork.

Out of a total of 7,500,000 mules in the world we have over one-half of them in the United States, and we cannot begin to fill the demand. There is no better business that a man could engage in today than raising mules for the home as well as the foreign market. Good prices prvail and there never was a more opportune time than the present to start into raising them.

A Louisville warehouse estimates that four hundred million pounds of Burley Tobacco will be raised this year in Kentucky and elsewhere. If this is anything like a correct estimate, the weed will be hardly worth marketing next year. This is about twice as much as was raised a few years ago.

GOOD ROADS.

How To Build Them And How To Keep Them in Good Condition.

Mr. Editor:—A question that is interesting the farmers in our State as well as other States, is how to build good roads. While we are liberal enough to view this question from a state and national standpoint, we will limit this article to our own county.

Now, how shall we have good roads in our county?

I feel safe in assuming that our county, in the last ten years, has expended $60,000 in endeavoring to keep our public highways in repair.

What are the conditions of these roads today? Are they any better than they were ten years ago? Some, perhaps, are, but a majority of them are not.

Why is it that the immense sum of money spent on these roads does not make a better showing? I attribute the fault, in a great measure, to our present road system in Kentucky.

I would suggest two plans, either of which would be preferable to our present law. I agree with one of your correspondents of last week, that a road supervisor elected by the legal voters of the county, who would be paid a fixed salary, and held responsible for a fair and proper expenditure of the road money, would be an improvement on our present system, but I think a better plan would be to make the magistrates the road overseers and hold them accountable for the proper expenditure of the money placed in their hands. Pay them a per diem for overseeing the work. Let them take one road at a time. Give that road its proportion of the money in his hands, and then employ as many teams and men as he can handle with economy. He should select the worst places in the road and make them good, and then the next year take another section. By adopting this plan, in five years every public highway in the county would be proud of, and the farmers along the road would be from ten to twenty dollars per acre richer than they are today.

Agreeable to this plan the land owners in each magisterial district would select the best man for their magistrate and road overseer. The reward would be sufficient to induce a good man to seek the two positions.

In undertaking to improve our roads, the first move to make is for the fiscal court to move all public roads out of creek beds and place them on high ground so that when a dollar is spent on said roads it will remain and not be washed away by the first rain that comes. Thousands of dollars have been washed away in this manner.

In repairing or making new roads they should be at least eight or ten inches higher in the center than on the sides, with a good ditch on either side. Then each neighborhood should own a good scraper that would throw the dirt or gravel to the center.

I have a road scraper that I have been using on the gravel road I was instrumental in building between Petersburg and the cemetery, and it worked with perfect satisfaction. I use it three or four times a year, and it keeps the road in such a condition that when a rain falls it goes in the ditches and does not wash the bed of the road. It can be used with success on dirt roads. It throws the dirt or gravel to the center of the road.

The scraper is composed of two oak scantlings five feet long, four inches square, placed parallel four feet apart. Underneath these scantlings I have imbedded three light car rails six feet long, placed at the following angle and distances apart. They are imbedded about an inch into the scantlings and fastened with flat head nails.

The first rail is placed nine inches from the front end of the right hand scantling, and thirteen inches from the front end of that on the left. The other two rails are parallel to the first and twenty inches apart. This permits the outside rails to extend about 8 inces on either side from the frame. Across the top, midway between the two broad rails, nail a plank twelve inches wide and one and one-half inches thick to stand on when operating the scraper. Bore a hole through the front end of each scantling, and through these holes fasten a number eight wire or cable of three or more strans of smaller wire. The center of this cable should be about three from either scantling.

Prepare For The Examinations.

It will not be long before the first examinations of the year for teachers' certificates will be held. For a long time the examinations were so strict that if a teacher passed she was about sure to secure a school as there was no surplus. While the examinations are still rigid the scholarship of the community has increased and a greater per cent. of the applicants secure certificates than formerly; at the same time the school term has been lengthened and the salary increased, especially in schools of the lower grade, and, in consequence more persons are desirous to enter the rank of teachers. On this account it is expected that there will be many applicants at the examinations this year. It is expected that some of the young people who secured certificates of graduation from the county schools will be applicants, and we are afraid some of them will be disappointed. The examiners will require papers of much higher grade to give a teacher's certificate than is required for a certificate of graduation, and those who hold the latter must not be too sure of the result. Better spend a month or so reviewing and brightening up on the subjects required in the examinations.

A CREAMERY AT BURLINGTON

We[illegible] Profitable Institution For The Farmers And The Community.

Quite a delegation of interested persons were in Burlington last Saturday afternoon to attend the creamery meeting, some coming as far as six mile to push the good thing along and encourage the enterprise in words and by subscribing cows and taking stock. In fact it looked like Jas. White R. B. Huey and others who live quite a distance from Burlington are about the most enthusiastic advocates of the creamery. O. W. Sandford and C. E. Rector have been and are yet doing earnest work, and if it is not a go it will be no fault of theirs. The papers showed about 275 cows pledged with promises enough, by responsible parties to put the number considerably over 300, while the necessary amonnt of money was short $700 or $800, which it was thought would be obtained without much trouble. The question as to the location of the creamery was easily settled by Robert B. Carver offering a site at a price that is merely nominal. His liberality removed what was expected to prove the most troublesome problem the company would have to solve. The site will be on Mr. Carver's land somewhere near the creek just south of Burlington, a very good locality for a creamery.

The farmers in this part of the county have been informing themselves in regard to the results to be obtained from a creamery and any way they figure they find that it is a source of revenue the year round, the volume of which depends on the number of good cows kept and the attention given them. It is a business that while you are cultivating your land for the production of provender that provender is returned to the soil the best fertilizer it is possible to obtain. What industry could be more attractive to a farmer than that which, while it is increasing his bank account, it is increasing the fertility of his land. It is seldom that a farmer is confronted by a proposition that is profitable to him both coming and going. To ascertain the correctness of this assertion it is only necessary to consult your friends at Hebron or at Union. At each place the creamery has been given a thorough try out and the results are eminently satisfactory to all concerned. It is a proposition that has been demonstrated here at home. It is not a business that is being introduced and backed by an alleged experience of men who are strangers and live hundreds of miles away, but it has gained favors among those whom you know will make no statement in regard thereto but what can be relied on. Basing the assertion on information it has acquired from those who are interested in the creameries in this county, the Recorder does not hesitate to say that a creamery will be a profitable investment for the farmers in this part of the county.

Another meeting will be held next Saturday afternoon, and it is the earnest desire that every stockholder and every person who has pledged cows be in attendance, as the indications are now that the work will be so far advanced that several important steps necessary to the organization of the company will be taken. Be sure and be present.

Blacksmith's Ten Commandments.

1.—Thou shalt pay the Blacksmith all thou owest him, for he has nothing to lose.

2.—Thou shalt be ready to bring thy work in before spring comes, for he has no time to lose.

3.—Thou shalt not talk to the Blacksmith while he is working, for he has plenty to do.

4.—Thou shalt not expect us to stand any breakage, for thou wouldst not stand any breakage for us.

5.—Thou shalt deal very gently with the Blacksmith, for he is human.

6.—Thou shalt not disturb him while he is sleeping, for he needs rest.

7.—Thou shalt not expect us to do all the work at once. Call early and avoid the rush.

8.—Thou shouldst not expect too much charity, for it costs us time.

9.—Thou shalt not dictate to the Blacksmith, for he knows how to do the work.

10.—Thou shalt call on us when you want anything done, for we are here for business.

A Recent Ruling.

An exchange says: "The attention of the sheep breeders of the county is called to a recent ruling of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board. This ruling is that no one is allowed to move his sheep off of his farm for any purpose until they have been inspected by some county or State inspector and has his certificate of such inspection that such sheep are free from disease. This board has also issued a rule against all railroads, express companies and all other lines of transportation forbidding them to accept any sheep for shipment, either in or out of the State, unless accompanied by a certificate of health."

For County Clerk.

The Recorder is authorized to announce W. R Rogers as a candidate for the nomination for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Dudley Rouse was in Cincinnati, Monday, shopping.

Mrs. C. M. Baldon was in Cincinnati, Tuesday, shopping.

Eddie Westbay has been complaining considerably for several days.

H. W. Rouse and family, of Hebron neighborhood, were guests of F. H. Rouse and wife, Sunday.

Elmo Gaines, of Idlewild neighborhood, was in Burlington a few hours, last Saturday afternoon.

Stephen Rusch, of Indianapolis, a friend of Dr. O. S. Crisler, was in Burlington, Monday, a few hours.

Mrs. Sarah Carpenter from out on the Petersburg pike was the guest of Mrs. F. A. Hall, last Monday.

Mrs. Richard White, residing out on the Belleview pike, has been considerably indisposed for several days.

H. G. Cropper and wife, of Bullittsville, and Mr. Kendall, of Louisville, were transacting business in Burlington, Tuesday.

Joseph Birkle and wife, of Bullittsville, were Sunday guests of their son, Charles and family, out on the Belleview pike.

Mrs. J. M. Lassing is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. C. Brown, whom she is assisting to get "set to rights" in her new home.

Miss Sallie Rogers is now making her home in Burlington with her brother, County Clerk W. R. Rogers and sister, Miss Lizzie.

Circuit Clerk James A. Duncan was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. V. W. Gaines, of Bullittsburg, last Saturday night and Sunday.

Misses Laura and Carrie Porter were last Saturday and Sunday guests of their sister, Mrs. Woodie Sullivan, of Belleview neighborhood.

Attorney Sidney Gaines and wife spent last Saturday night and Sunday with his brothers, Stephen and James, in Petersburg precinct.

Cleveland Snyder, who is employed in the city, came out and spent a few days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Snyder.

Mrs. Stewart, who has been with her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Dix, for some time, left for her home in Morehead, Rowen county, last Monday.

Hon. J. W. Kennedy, of Union, candidate for State Senator, was in Burlington, yesterday, attending the meeting of the county Democratic committee.

W. C. Brown and family moved from Florence to Burlington yesterday, and their many friends here are glad to have them among them again.

Mrs. Belle Brady went to Belleview yesterday, to spend a few days with Miss Julia Dinsmore, who arrived home Monday after an absence of several months.

Wilber Kelly subbed for Elmer Conley, carrier on R. D. 2, one day last week while he attended the funeral of his wife's sister, Mrs. Wood, of St. Bernard, Ohio.

Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, of Riverside, came over last week to spend a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Emily Berkshire and other relatives in this part of the county.

Milton Portwood, of Locust Grove neighborhood, dropped in Tuesday, to renew his allegiance to his county paper. His visits to the county seat are like those of the angels.

G. W. Sandford visited the Cincinnati livestock market last Thursday and invested in some nice young stock cattle. He says they are higher than he ever saw them.

W. C. Goodridge, who has been taking extra care of himself this winter, was a visitor at this office, last Monday, being the second time he has been in town in the last several months.

J. M. Thompson, of Petersburg, came over the other day and traded horses with Marce Riddell, getting two animals for one. If any one figured in the transaction the fact was not been divulged.

Mrs. Peter Hager, of East Bend, fell last Saturday, and broke her arm. A few weeks ago she had the misfortune to dislocate her other arm at the elbow, and she is now helpless as to her arms.

P. A. Ryle, of Gunpowder church neighborhood, was among the Recorder's Monday callers. He says he can do a day's work in much less time than he use to require. He can go the distance now by noon any day.

Peter Hager, of East Bend, was a caller at this office, last Friday. He reported the dirt roads as improving rapidly. As he came up the East Bend road he saw smoke in many places which he took to be the result of burning of plant beds.

R. M. Wilson, of Rabbit Hash, Democratic county committeeman for his precinct, was in Burlington to attend the committee's meeting yesterday. He reports the farmers along the road from Belleview to Burlington as having their spring work more advanced than those of his neighborhood.

John Furlong, who has been talking life insurance for nearly one quarter of a century, has tired of that business, and moved, last week, to his farm in the Pt. Pleasant neighborhood. He use to be well up in the farming business, and it will be no trouble for him to renew his acquaintance with that class of work.

W. D. Cropper left last Tuesday afternoon for Bartow, Fla., to bring M. T. Garnett back to Burlington, Sidney Gaines having received a letter from those who are looking after Mr. Garnett at Bartow, saying that he had improved considerably, both mentally and physically, and desired to come back home. They will arrive about next Monday if the trip is made without any delay.

Dr. A. E. Chambers, past Council commander of Camp No. 19 Woodmen of the World and one of the Texarkana delegates to the convention just closed at Mineral Springs, was elected one of the thirty-two delegates from the State of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona to the big annual convention of the sovereign head camp to be held next June at Rochester, N. Y.—Texarkanian, —March 2d.

Judge C. C. Roberts and wife took their leave, last Sunday afternoon, for their farm near Walton, where the Judge will seek to become a horney hand farmer. The people of Burlington hate to lose such good citizens as Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, and hope that success and good health will attend them. Their daughters, Misses Sheba, Susan and Mary and Master Clifton will continue to occupy the residence in Burlington for some time at least.

Local Happenings.

April fool's day comes on Saturday this year.

Many tobacco plant beds were prepared last week.

A very heavy wind prevailed for a while last Friday night.

Tuesday was the first day of spring according to the scientists.

It looks like the pastures will be good early in the season this year.

William Kirkpatrick has broken ground for his new residence near town.

For Sale—Two cows and calves. Apply to Cad Sullivan, Bullittsville, Ky.

The installation of a creamery at Burlington is not expected to distress anyone.

St. Patrick's day was a little cool, but, otherwise the weather was pretty good.

Mumps, measles and chickenpox are an interesting trio making a tour of the neighborhood.

The public school rendered an interesting St. Patrick's day program last Friday afternoon.

Thomas Rice and wife and his brother, Chester, are recovering from a light attack of chickenpox.

Hade White, colored, buried his baby Saturday, its death being the result of measles followed by pneumonia.

The campaign for county representative in the next legislature has reached the card-writing stage in Scott county.

Maichus Souther, of Constance, and B. H. Berkshire, of Petersburg, were in town yesterday attending the meeting of the County Democratic Committee.

Hon. J. W. Berkshire, of Petersburg, candidate for State Senator, was in Burlington, Wednesday attending the meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee.

J. J. Tanner, of Richwood, and Louie Cole and wife, Mrs. Ada Williams and Wm. Andrews, of Covington, spent last Friday, St. Patrick's day, with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rector near town.

Quite a crowd of the friends and patrons of the local school visited that institution last Friday afternoon and were entertained by and enjoyed the exercises.

The 1911 tobacco crop in Boone county will fall considerably below the three million pound mark. Several big crops will be pitched, but a large number of small growers have quit the business.

Those who have made a critical examination of the fruit buds say the freezes of last week did not kill them. Some claim that the cold weather will be a benefit rather than a disadvantage to the fruit.

The turnpike companies are holding their annual elections. The pikes that radiate from Burlington are generally found in pretty good order the year round, be it said to the credit of the several companies.

Draft horses are suitable for raising on level land, while lighter horses and mules are best adapted to hilly farms. Horses designed for the saddle and the road use well developed activity and stamina on rough and hilly pasture land while they are young.

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all dealers X

Mrs. W. H. Woods died of typhoid fever at her home in St. Bernard, Ohio, last Friday. Mrs. Woods was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lambert, of Belleview neighborhood, and a sister of Mrs. Elmer Conley, of Burlington. Interment at Highland cemetery, last Monday.

It is hoped the effort to build a turnpike from Union to Hathaway will not cease with the coming of good dirt roads. The road which it is proposed to pike is a splendid thoroughfare in summer but in winter it goes to the other extreme. The people along the route are entitled to a better road than they have during winter.

The sudden death of Henry Tanner, last Thursday evening was a great shock to the town of Florence, where he has lived for many years. He was a most excellent citizen who attended strictly to his own affairs, his chief aim being to lead a life that was an honor to him and good example for those about him.

This is the time of year to clean up your premises. By beginning early it will help you get rid of that spring-fever feeling, and be a fine thing for the town and her people, and besides, you may avoid diseases by cleaning away winter's accumulation of trash. It is also conducive to the health of your family, your neighbors and the general public.

THE OLD ORGAN

After A Rest Of Several Years Is Now Furnishing Music For The Pupils In The High School.

Many Who Contributed To Its Purchase Are Singing In The Heavenly Choir.

The first church organ ever brought to Burlington, which was nearly forty years ago, after having served in all the Sunday schools and churches except the Universalist church, became a musical benedict, and although in fair condition, was, in a manner consigned to the scrap heap, but last week it was brought forth from its seclusion and installed in the chapel at the High School, where it has renewed its career of usefulness in a very satisfactory manner. It was purchased for the Burlington Union Sunday school in about 1873, Mr. Frank Smith, father of the late Dr. J. F. Smith, being one of the principal subscribers to the organ fund and the leading spirit in the effort to secure the instrument. At that date in many churches there was a strong opposition to the introduction of a musical instrument in church services, and it was quite a while before the organ was used for other than Sunday school work. The Union Sunday school was, at the time the organ was purchased, held in the Baptist church.

ON THE DEEP BLUE SEA.

Congressman A. B. Rouse Sailing O'er The Briny Waters.

Letter from Hon. A. B. Rouse, written "in the Caribbean Sea, mid way, Sunday 2 p. m.," and postmarked March 7th, aside from business, says: "We are now 350 miles from Cristobal and will arrive about 2 o'clock tomorrow. Have had good and bad weather. Awful storm Wednesday off Cape Hatteras and since then fine and dandy wea. Today is clear and hot and the Caribbean sea very beautiful. Can look out and see flying fish most any time. Passed Cuba yesterday but did not see a human. I had the glasses on the island for most of two hours. Hope to see you by last of the month for a day or so, and then to Washington to help reduce the cost of living.

The Burley Tobacco Society is arranging for another distribution of the proceeds of the 1909 pooled crop to the tobacco growers, and 20 per cent. will be distributed about April 1. This will be welcome news to the great army of growers who have manifested less impatience at the delay than one would naturally expect under the conditions. This will make the second distribution of money on the 1909 crop, the first one occurring in January, being for 20 per cent. also.

NOTICE.

At the meeting of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee held yesterday the date of holding the county primary election was changed from May 27 to July 1st, on which day the State primary will be held. The call as appears elsewhere in this issue was printed before notice of the change of date was received at this office. Corrected call next week.

Esq. T. F. Curley, of Walton, member of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee, in town yesterday, to attend the committee's meeting, which was held to decide as to whether or not the date for holding the county primary should be changed to correspond with that of the State primary.

Edward Sandford, of McVille, who is pitching ball for the Louisville club, is making a good start for this early in the season, and his many friends in this county hope that his usefulness and value as a box artist will continue to increase so long as he stays on the diamond.

Robert W. Jones, of Walton, has his fine drugstore about equipped, and it will be a business house of which the town may well be proud. Mr. Jones is a fine business man and makes a success of everything he undertakes.

Mrs. Spencer Walrath is having considerable painting and paper-hanging done on her residence. In removing some plastering the other day she found a very fine pair of scissors that had been lost, no doubt for half a century.

W. P. Sullivan, an enthusiastic creamery advocate, came over in town yesterday morning and reported five fresh cows at his house. He and his son, Bert, will have quite a herd of cows, if the creamery is a go.

Cards are out announcing the celebration of the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Castleman's wedding on the 31st, inst., from 7 to 10 p. m.

The Consolidated Telephone Co. installed quite a number of new boxes in both the Walton and Burlington districts during the last month.

Those farmers who were so work brittle have had an opportunity, the past week, to take off the wire edge.

Plant an early garden for Mr. J. Frost. He has to have something to do in the spring.

Better look over every page of this paper if you want to find all the articles of interest.

A Dreadful Sight

to H. J. Barnum, of Freeville, N. Y., was the fever-sore that had plagued his life for years in spite of many remedies he tried. At last he used Bucklen's Arnica Salve and wrote, "it has entirely healed with scarcely a scar left." Heals Burns, Boils, Eczema, Cuts, Bruises, Swellings, Corns and Piles like magic. Only 25c at all dealers.

THE DOCTORS

Hold Another Very Interesting Meeting At Florence.

NEXT MEETING TO BE AT WALTON

The Boone County Medical Society, held their monthly meeting at Florence, Wednesday evening, the 15th, as guests of Dr. Hafer. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock, and like all other spreads, it has been the pleasure of this society to attend, was elaborate. Mrs. Hafer, as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Fulton, and Miss Hafer were in no wise at a loss to know just how to serve the many delicacies, just to the likings of the M. D's.

After dinner the literary part of the program was taken up and discussed to a "fare you well," it being a very interesting and profitable program.

The following physicians were present:

H. H. Hays,—Bullittsville.
B. K. Menefee—Walton.
C. R. Slater—Walton.
O. E. Senour—Union.
F. L. Peddicord—Burlington.
L. C. Hafer—Florence.
C. L. Langdale—Cincinnati.
G. F. McKim—Cincinnati.
E. D. Phinney—Cincinnati.
C. W. McCulloni—Erlanger.

The next meeting of this society will be held at Walton, Wednesday the 19th of April, and arrangements are being made to hold a joint session with the Grant Co. Society, on this date, so we will naturally look forward to a great big time. F. L. P.

The Recorder's estimable friend, Mr. Oscar Gaines, who resides two miles from Burlington on the Bullittsville road, was eighty years old, last Sunday, and is enjoying moderately good health. He celebrated his anniversary on Saturday before with a big dinner prepared by his good daughters, who delight in the pleasures of their father. A large number of relatives and friends were present to discuss the elegant repast, all of whom hope that Uncle Oscar may survive many more years and that they may be with him on each succeeding anniversary to show their appreciation of the noble old citizen, friend and relative.

Last week it was stated in these columns that Everett Walton had gone to Covington to enter upon the duties of inspector of cars for the Q. & C. He came out home last Friday to spend a day, and told of having made an exciting trip to Glenmary, Tenn., as guard for a fireman strike breaker on the Q. & C. While at Glenmary he saw one man killed, and at different points along the road the train passed through showers of rocks hurled at it by those in sympathy with the strikers.

Howard Kelly was taking a couple of fat hogs to Covington in a wagon, one day last week, and when near the road that leads to St. John's at Stevir's, the end gate of his wagon dropped out and out went the hogs, which were not missed until Mr. Kelly was near Lewisburg. He came back and found his hogs, one of them with a broken leg and the other not feeling any too well because of its shake up.

BOOTLEGGER IN JAIL.

Ex-Postmaster Looking Through The Bars at Williamstown.

SEVERAL CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

W. C. Johnson, former Republican politician and ex-postmaster of Williamstown, is doing penance in the county jail for "bootlegging."

For several months Johnson has been suspected of being engaged in the illicit sale of liquors. At the last session of the grand jury he was indicted on several separate counts, charged with violating the local option law. His bond was fixed at $500 and he was released, but after the grand jury adjourned several more charges were preferred against Johnson and he was rearrested. This time he either could not or would not give bond. Thursday of last week he had a trial and was fined $200 and ten days in jail. The County Attorney proposed to him that if he would plead guilty on the first charge that all of the other indictments would be filed away provided he would agree to quit the illicit sale of the "booze." He absolutely refused to do this with the result that there are a large number of charges remaining against him when he has done his time for the two convictions already secured.

Johnson, it is alleged, secured his liquor from Verona and Walton, Ky., on the L. & N. having it shipped to those points to avoid suspicion. His frequent trips to those places coupled with the fact that he had a government license led to his detection. One shipment to Verona contained 400 lbs., according to the story of the railroad agent at that place.—Grant County News.

LIME POOR FERTILIZER.

A great many farmers seem to be under the impression that lime is a fertilizer and that by applying it to their soil they will be benefitted by an increase in production. While they may have applied lime to a field at some time or other with a resultant increase of the production it was not any fertilizing properties of the lime that caused the increase by awakening the latent fertility already in the soil and making it available for the use of the plant. Plants do require a small amount of lime but that is nearly always found in the soil in abundance. In a great many instances, the application of lime is but a needless waste of money and labor.

Considered from an agricultural standpoint, lime has two actions, mechanical and chemical. It has a mechanical action on the soil in that it will cause a disintegration of the upper strata of tough, heavy or clayey land thus permitting a better circulation of moisture and aeration rendering the soil lighter and looser, making a better place for the plant root to exist. It also gives such soil a greater power for retaining moisture. If lime be applied to that soil that is light and porous it will have the opposite effect, that is, will cause the soil to pack together and detract from its value as farming land. By its chemical action it aids in releasing the plant food that is stored up in the soil, converting the unavailable elements into elements that are capable of being readily assimilated. It also tends to neutralize any unnatural condition of the soil. In cases of acidity of the soil it will prove beneficial for there are but few plants that will make much growth on sour soil. It will pay every farmer who contemplates applying lime to his soil to study the situation and find just what it may be that it would have no effect the lime is apt to have good effect and might be a needless expense.—S. C., in Farmers Home Journal.

Forced To Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers, whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs, are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. R Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed and I gained forty seven pounds in weight. Its surely the king of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. It's positively guaranteed for Coughs, LaGrippe, Colds, Asthma, Croup—all Throat and Lung troubles. 50c and $1 Trial bottle free, at all dealers

In 1893 B. Whitson, who lived in North Carolina was sentenced to be hung for murder. This was commuted to thirty years imprisonment in the penitentiary. He served two years when he escaped. He came at once to Kentucky, and under the name of Sam Jones, he went into the lumber business in Letcher county and amassed considerable property. He went to Lexington the past week on business where he was arrested and will be taken back to North Carolina. He says he killed his man over family troubles but for years has been living the life of a good citizen. He claims that an old friend who became angry with him recently had betrayed him to the officers.

A Singular Industry.

At Maule, a small village near Paris, France, is carried on a singular industry which is little known. It is a nursery for the cultivation of trees suitable for use as umbrella handles, walking sticks and alpenstocks. Nearly 500 acres of ground are given over to ash, oak, chestnut and maple saplings. One year after planting these are cut off near the root so as to make them grow several branches, which are then kept free from secondary stems.

The most curious part of the industry comes from the following year. Incisions are made in the bark, thus engraving upon it various designs. When the bark is stripped, these designs are found traced on the wood. At the end of the third year the branches are cut, stripped of their bark, bent into various shapes and sent to the manufacturers. Certain forms of handles are shaped while the branches are still growing on the trees.—National Daily.

KENTUCKY FARMERS

Have Much to Learn. They Are Only Crop-Growers.

The farmers of Kentucky have a good deal to learn. Though we live at present in an age of enlightenment, yet the agricultural classes of the state to-day are merely crop-growers and not farmers. When the country was first settled our forefathers found a soil wonderfully fertile and productive. Year after year they drew annually on the rich deposits of nature. At first this was wise and proved both profitable and remunerative. But as time went on this method of cultivation naturally reduced the fertility of the soil. Thousands of farms began to show decreased yields and to-day many a farmer only makes a bare living and his land is getting poorer instead of richer. The trouble is our farmers are taking the richness and fertility from the soil and are giving nothing in return. We must learn soil building; we must learn how to make land fertile; we must learn how to take care of land, and above all we must learn the first and simplest rule of nature, which is, in extracting fertility from the soil we must give back to mother earth as much as we take from her. Try this and see the result. It is a law of nature and must be observed.—Blue-Grass Clipper.

The citizens of Calloway county are land owners. We have 4,465 voters and there are 3,135 people who own land, amount ranging from one acre up to 1,500 acres, average holding 76 1-3 acres. There are not many large land owners and the smaller farms are being rapidly improved and grow more valuable each year. Calloway is no longer a back number. No county in the State offers better advantages to the farmer, and you can't improve on conditions by going to Texas or Oklahoma.—Murray Gazette.

The Superintendent of Schools in Clark county says the attendance at the country schools in that county this year is more than 400 in excess of that of last year. This may be attributed to in a small part to the awakening of interest in educational matters. In Clark county for instance, there has been great improvement in the county schools in recent years. Many new school houses have been built; others have been repaired and made more comfortable and attractive for the pupils. Under such circumstances it would be rather remarkable if the attendance did not show an increase.—Courier-Journal.

The people of this section will keep an eye on "Coin" Harveys efforts to construct a hundred miles of macadamized roads thru the roughs of Arkansas and Oklahoma in a single day, as discussed by the Courier-Journal. Harvey is well known in this community, being a brother of Judge Thomas Harvey and H. C. Harvey, the financier of Huntington. He once practiced law at Huntington, during the infantile days of that magic city, and we believe he now has a son engaged in the legal profession there. If Mr. Harvey succeeds in building that road in twenty-four hours he will be petitioned to come to Kentucky, or West Virginia to give a demonstration of his road building ability.—Cattlesburg Tribune.

PROFITS IN TOBACCO

Enough To Cause The Farmer To Pull The Bellcord Over A Gray Mule

Or The Tenant Who Yanks The Tobacco Worm From The Long Green to Stick Together.

LOTS OF MONEY FOR THE TRUST.

The American Tobacco Company did a pretty good business in 1910 Figures given out from New York show that its earnings for that year amounted to $35,045,052. This is an increase of $5,000,000 over its earnings for the year 1909. It has distributed more than $25,000,000 in dividends against something in excess of $20,000,000 in 1909.

Occasionally there is heard a plaint from the Burley district that "there is no money in tobacco nowadays," but there seems to be plenty of money in it for the trust. Wherefore one might think that the trust could afford to "loosen up" a bit with the hard-worked tobacco growers of the Burley belt. But in the matter of being soulless trusts are like corporations, only a whole lot more so, and a representative of the tribe of Duke in on record as saying that "the fool farmers will not stick together." And past history and current events would indicate that he was not very far wrong.

The tenant farmer, as he pulls the bellcord over a gray mule or yanks the belligerent tobacco worm from the shady side of a leaf of long green, has mighty little conception of the vast profits that are being stacked up every year by the American Tobacco Company. Millions are beyond his ken, but he knows that it takes hard licks and a heap of them to make the weed grow; that the job is not getting any easier as the years leave the marks on him, and that cornmeal is pretty high and bacon is out of sight. Meanwhile the landowner is talking pool or cut-out or reduced acreage, and when it comes down to brass tacks and contracts are to be signed he lets George do it.

There is nothing altruistic in this story of tobacco trust earnings. There is nothing in it that looks comfortable for the farmer. It is plain that the trust can pay good prices for tobacco if it wants to. Also it is clear that the trust is not going to pay any more than it can help. That has been demonstrated in the Burley district. All of which brings the farmer back to that "stick together" proposition and puts the question up to him as to whether he wants to work for his board and clothes —Courier-Journal.

Increasing the corn Yield.

Tests made by the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture, during the last year, in crossing varieties of corn indicate a very wide application of this method of increasing the yields. The results of experiments with more than twenty different crosses grown in seven States have been compiled. In nearly all crosses the yields were materially increased over the average of the parent varieties, the increase ranging as high as 50 per cent. These experiments have shown further than the crossed strains possess in a very marked degree the ability to withstand drouth a fact of obvious importance in the extension of corn culture in the United States. A large series of crosses have been made between different types and varieties of corn to determine which combinations are the most advantageous for different conditions of climate and soil.

Experiments in southern Texas have demonstrated the importance of growing only varieties of corn that have the ears well protected by long, tightly closed husks. The lack of this character is one of the chief reasons why carefully selected northern varieties are usually a disappointment in that section. Hybrids with the small Chinese type of corn have proved to be prolific and specially adapted to withstand high winds, and have also shown a decided increase in drouth resistance, though the silks are not as well protected by the basis of the leaves as in the Chinese parent variety.

According to the crop report published by the Department of Agriculture, Kentucky produced 381,024,000 pounds of tobacco in 1910, which was 38.7 per cent of all the tobacco produced in the United States last year.

This was the banner crop of the Kentucky growers, whose production in the last five years has increased as follows:

1906—252,300,000 pounds.
1907—240,378,008 pounds.
1908—185,500,000 pounds.
1909—350,504,000 pounds.
1910—381,000,000 pounds.

It is claimed that the tobacco crops of Virginia and North Carolina will be pooled this year.

Handling Lambs and Sheep

A correspondent advises that lambs can with advantage be weaned at four months of age, but the time of weaning really depends on when they are born, as late lambs should be weaned younger than those born very early in the spring. Lambs allowed to run with their mothers until the middle of summer do not make such good gains as those weaned earlier, nor does it give a chance for their dams to recuperate for the breeding season in the fall. As soon as the lambs are weaned, they should be placed in a pasture field as far away from their dams as possible. In a few days they will have forgotten all about their mothers and will continue eating as usual. Rape or a mixture of oats, peas and vetches are excellent crops to supplement the ordinary pastures during the summer. Great care must be taken, however, not to turn the sheep in upon rape when hungry, for the rape is very damp, and these conditions are prone to cause bloating and scouring.

Some breeds are noted for rapid maturity; others, for slow growth as lambs but the attainment of great size as the matured sheep. The breeder must determine the suitability of the various breeds to his purpose and choose accordingly. When he has chosen, he should [illegible] that type well in view and try to establish and preserve it by rigorous selection and sale of all inferior animals.—Indiana Farmer.

A DANGEROUS BUSINESS

Raising Children Near An Open Top Cistern.

A Fleming county farmer had a most unpleasant experience not long ago, all because of the fact that he has a family and a open top cistern. The results show that rearing children in the vicinity of an open top cistern is somewhat hazardous.

The farmer was walking around in his yard, probably meditating on the price of seed corn, when his ruminations were rudely interrupted by his 3-year-old baby falling into the cistern. Babies of the age of three are right in the midst of the toddling stage, and they reck not where they toddle. The farmer reached the cistern in about three jumps, pending which he had divested himself of his coat, and the fourth jump he made was into the cistern, where the water was eight feet deep and considerably chilly. He siezed the child in his arms and battled to keep his own and the baby's head above water. In the meantime a 14-year-old son who had been attracted to the scene hurriedly let down a rope. That helped some and gave the farmer a momentary breathing spell but in the excitement the boy let go of the rope, and to make a bad matter worse, tumbled into the cistern. A triple drowning was averted by the timely arrival of the farmer's wife, who brought a fence rail and lowered it to the struggling trio. The [illegible] was thereby enabled to support himself and to keep his two children out of the depths until the mother brought another rope and hauled the baby out. The boy was hoisted back to earth with the aid of rope and rail, and lastly, the husband and father was brought out by the combined efforts of his wife and son. The baby in the meantime was unconscious, but was revived by artificial respiration. It was an exciting time all around, and the next day the farmer nailed up the cistern. He had thought about it before, but had postponed it, "just like a fellow will."

An open top cistern is not to be recommended on any sort of ground. It is an especially undesirable attachment to a farm where among other products a large and interesting family of children is being raised.—Courier Journal.

The politicians tried every way imaginable to push Stanley into the Governor's race, while the farmers held a tight grip on his coat tail, saying, "Don't you do it, Owsley." Now that he has yielded to the wishes of the farmers, it may be that he has made a wise decision.—Owensboro Inquirer.

—o—

The Hon. Owsley Stanley has finally made up his mind that he does not want to be a candidate for the gubernatorial Democratic nomination just at this time, thus leaving the situation just as it has been for the past several weeks. Whether the bee will commence to buzz in somebody else's bonnet we do not know; neither do we pretend to know what will be the next move of the mercurial body, known as the State Central and Executive Committee.—Danville Advocate.

E. T. Franks, President of the United States National Bank at Owensboro, surprised even his closest friends by announcing his candidancy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. He will make the campaign on a progressive platform. He declared tonight for better educational facilities, good roads, an equitable tax system, nonpartisan control of penal institutions and an efficient non-partisan banking law.

RECALLING MISFITS.

THE RECALL LAW WILL MAKE BETTER OFFICIALS.

Seattle has recently discharged its mayor and elected a new one. The change was brought about by the use of the "recall" provision of the city charter.

The recall is a new election held at any time, on demand of a certain percentage of the voters, to decide whether an officer still has the confidence of the people. An opposition candidate is nominated, to take office in case the incumbent has lost the confidence of the people who elected him.

Los Angeles in 1903, was the first city to put a recall provision in its charter. It was at once used to get rid of a mayor who resigned rather than face the charges against him. Several other cities have followed the example of Los Angeles; and the new Arizona constitution extends the recall to all state officers, including judges.

Until this new device was invented, elected officers could be removed only on charges and after a trial. In the case of national officers, the Senate sits as a court to try impeachment charges and two-thirds of the Senators voting must agree to the guilt of the accused officer before he may be removed. There is a similar provision in the constitution of many of the states.

The recall is in effect a trial by the whole electorate sitting as judge and jury. If it continues to justify itself, as it seems to have in the two instances in which it has been used, there will be strong movements to put the provision in city charters, as well as in the constitutions of the states.

No Misnomer.

Frederic J. Haskin, vice-president of the National Press club, said some striking things about newspapers in the course of an address at Washington a few nights ago. He pointed out, among other things, that some idea of the magnitude of the newspaper business in the U. S. may be had from the statement that the total daily circulation of all the dailies in this country is now 22,000,000 copies—one for every four persons in our population. Allowing for duplication and for infants and illiterates it is calculated that three out of every four persons in our population read some newspaper every day. Newspapers are printed in 35 languages in this country. In the amount of capital invested, the publishing business has for some time been seventh in place among American industries, and it is likely that by the new census it will be raised to fourth or fifth place. "From these facts," says Mr. Haskin, "it will be seen that the 'power of the press' is no misnomer." When it is considered that the newspaper business is one of the youngest of considerable industries, its growth is indeed remarkable.

Now that Hon. William F. Cody has expressed a desire to become the first Senator from Arizona on position to the admission of that territory may be expected to stop as suddenly as a bad man in a frontier saloon when the Sheriff has the drop on him. If there is anybody in public life rash enough to match his mouth against the Cody six-shooter trot him out and we'll support him for Sergeant-at-Arms of the next House, which, from all appearances, will need a gritty man for the job.—Washington Post.

Mrs. Ellen Terrell.

The good woman whose name stands at the head of this column was known to a wide circle of friends. Her going from the earth was an occasion for genlune sorrow to many. For some months she had been in frail health but only recently she was able to go from Erlanger where she had spent the winter at the home of her son, E. B. Terrell, to Petersburg, where her last days were spent among near relatives and long time friends. She died at the home of Mr. John Berkshire on Friday, March 18th, and was buried from the Christian church on Sunday, March 20th, at 2 o'clock.

The life of Mrs. Terrell was one of which much can be said with profit. At an early age she became a member of the Christian church at Petersburg. During her entire life as wife and mother and through the lonely and trying period of her widowhood the Gospel of Christ was to her a source of comfort and strength. She was married in her young womanhood to Dr. Terrell and a happy wedded life was cut short by the death of the companion from blood poisoning contracted in a surgical operation. Of the two sons left to comfort her one was killed in a railroad accident in 1892, when at the hopeful age of 18. Thus heavy were her burdens but, though never robust, she bore them with heroic grace and patience strength of purpose to stand always up on conviction and thoughtful consideration for others were marked traits of her character. She loved her friends and was loved in return.

The large audience present at the funeral service gave evidence of the esteem in which she was held.

S. S. Lappin, Editor of the Christian Standard, and minister of the church in Erlanger, where Mrs. Terrell held membership, drove over to conduct the funeral. The text chosen was Rev. 14:13, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth." Many friends from other points were present and the impressions of the day were fit as marking the close of such a life.

It is seldom that the first of March arrives without the bulk of the tobacco crop being sold, but up to the present we have heard of but one or two small sales. This is not because the speculators are not willing to risk their judgment, but chiefly on account of quarantine which exists against Kentucky sheep in regard to the scab. The explanation as Cincinnati, for instance is very rigid and the shipper may have a few infected lambs without him knowing it. If these should be discovered he would be obliged to have his stock dipped twice with an interval of more than a week and this cost together with the feeding and the shrinkage in weight would entail enormous losses. This state of affairs will exist until our sheep raisers all over the State realize the necessity of stamping out the disease and take the steps necessary to do it.—Winchester Democrat.

It is evident from the reports received at this office that the 1911 crop of tobacco as compared with that of 1910 will not exceed 66 per cent. The growers are confident that the prices for the next twelve months at least will not justify the production of a crop and many of them will turn their entire attention to crops other than that of tobacco, while some will reduce their usual crop materially.

After two trials Anthony Bentler was found guilty yesterday by a jury in Judge Tracy's Division of the Kenton Circuit Court of operating a pocker game on commission, and with it goes a fine of $500 and from one to three years in the penitentiary. In a former trial the jury disagreed, one of the 12 jurymen refusing to vote with the others.—Covington Item in Tuesday Enquirer.

Wheat is said to be looking well.

HIGH VINE

—No. 2733—

Foaled in spring of 1904; by Highland Gaines, 1667; grand sire, Highland Denmark, 760; [illegible], dark bay, 2882, by Shropshire Kentucky Squirrel, 1865. Second dam, Ida May by Fayette Denmark. Third dam, Maxey by Granger. Fourth dam Mare by Expert, 77.

Breed to a Proven Sire.

HIGH VINE is a five galted saddle stallion, seven years old, 16 hands, and weighs 1200 lbs., a rich golden chestnut in color, and a perfect model in confirmation.

HIGH VINE is a uniform breeder and reproduces his own kind. The show record of his two sets of colts is unequaled by the colts of any sire in this section of country. His colts were shown at various fairs last year and were never defeated in their class and in addition awakened public admiration everywhere. In several instances the owners of High Vine colts have been offered $200 for the colts at weanling time, and this handsome price was refused by the said owners as all of them believed the colts to promise much better as they developed. There must be something in the breeding when $300 offers for weanling colts are rejected by owners who are governed by business principles in the sale of the products of their farm. Take a look at High Vine's colts and you will see the style and attractive qualities that make the price in a sale.

HIGH VINE will make the season at the stable of W. Lee Gaines on the Lexington turnpike, midway between Walton and Richwood, Ky. $20.00 to insure a live foal, season money due if mare is parted with.

No responsibility for accidents.

Make engagements ahead as his services are limited, and it saves annoying delays.

For the accommodation of those at a distance Mr. Gaines will pasture a few mares at $2.50 per month, with the best facilities for their care and keeping.

PREMIUM.—Free season for 1912 will be given the owner of the best High Vine colt exhibited at Florence fair at the High Vine colt show.

The High Class Saddle and Harness Stallion,

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS,

2844 A. S. B. A

Will make the season of 1911 at the W. L. Norman Stock Farm at Walton, Ky., and if you want a show horse breed to him.

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS is a dark bay, 16 hands, weighs 1200 lbs., with three white feet, snip and star, and lots of style and action. He was sired by

BRACKEN CHIEF 2148,

by Harrison Chief 1606, by Clark Chief (89); dam Kit Hardy (2880) by Indian Chief (1718); 1st dam Miss Berry 4034, by Rhoderick 104; by Mambrino Le Grande (99); 2d dam, by Bell's Yellow Jacket 112; 3d dam by Gray Eagle.

Miss Berry is also the dam of Woodland Chief, one of the finest show horses in Kentucky. Woodland Chief is a full brother to Bell's Fitzsimmons and a full brother to Rhoderick, and one of the finest geldings ever showed, and sold to a party in Texas for $1,000.

BELL'S FITZSIMMONS is also the sire of the champion walk-trot gelding, Mat Coyne, showed at the Horse Shows in the fall of 1908 and sold for $3,000, and also the champion harness mare showed by C. C. Harris.

L. T. Anderson, of Maysville, one of the largest dealers in the state, says some of the highest class horses he has handled have been by Bell's Fitzsimmons.

The greatest show, harness and saddle horses of our state have sprung from the loins of Harrison Chief and Indian Chief. Where can you find a horse of better breeding than Bell's Fitzsimmons? He has been a winning show horse ever since a suckling colt, and has proven himself a successful sire. Some of the highest priced saddle, harness and walk-trot horses that have left the State have been sired by him.

Personal care over all stock. Mares left on good grass at 10c a day at owner's risk.

$15 00 to insure a mare in foal or parted with.

JOHN RENSLER,
C. R. BEST.

KENTON COUNTY.

OBITUARY.

The angel of death spread its sombre wings over the home of Mr. Jefferson M. Stephens, of near Atwood, and claimed two victims within the past week. The first called was his father-in-law, Mr. Joseph B. Cain, an aged and respected citizen, whose passing away closed an honorable and upright career. He died Monday morning after a brief illness of pneumonia. His funeral occurred Tuesday morning, March 14th, 1911, and following the attendance of the funeral, his daughter, Mrs. Annie E. Stephens, beloved wife of Mr. Jefferson M. Stephens, took ill and two days of suffering ended her life. Young and beloved has she been summoned from earth to eternity. Without a struggle she peacefully fell into that dreamless slumber, and her spirit, like the shadow of a passing cloud, was wafted sweetly and gently to that blissful abode prepared for the —— and faithful. In her death a beautiful life has closed—one full of good works. She was a lovely, unassuming, christian character, and her friends were numberless, who loved her for her kindly, amiable traits. Husband and children are left to sorrow over their irreparable loss besides her mother, sister, brother and other relatives, and their sad affliction have the tenderest sympathy of many friends. Though the clouds of sorrow hang dark and lowering, yet there is a rift, and beyond this gloom —— a glorious, radiant face and beckoning hands calling the dear ones to that land where they can be eternally re-united in the bonds of celestial love. Brief funeral services were conducted at the cemetery by the efficient undertaker, Mr. J. W. Huff, of Latonia, Sta., Sunday morning in the presence of a large number of friends, and her remains were placed in the vault at Independence to await interment there. The pallbearers were Messrs. Ira W. Stephens, Thomas Stephens Howard Stephens, Luke Campbell, Ralph Hill and Clifford Northcutt. Floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

MOTHER AND THREE CHILDREN

Burned To Death While Visiting Her Parents at Harrodsburg.

Harrodsburg, Ky.—Four persons sons perished and five others had narrow escapes in the destruction of the home of J. T. Veach by flames four miles from here. The victims were Mrs. J. M. Bridges and her three children. Her parents, the Veaches, and their three children escaped with slight burns.

Mrs. Bridges, who is the wife of a Methodist evangelist of Bath N. C., was visiting with the three children at the Veach home. They slept on the second floor. Mr. Veach was aroused by the crackling of flames. He alarmed his wife and their children, who slept on the first floor, and shouted up a flame-choked stairway to Mrs. Bridges.

There was no response to the alarm from the upper floor. Veach attempted to rush through the burning stairway to his daughter's aid, but was driven back by smoke and fire.

The house burned down in an incredibly short time. In the ruins were found the charred bodies of Mrs. Bridges and her three children.

R. H. Gayle, a prominent citizen of Owen county was found dead last Tuesday morning, having been stricken with heart disease some time during the night. He was cashier of one of the Owenton banks, and a brother of former Congressman June W. Gayle.

WALTON.

Mrs. J. G. Tomlin Dead.

All that sorrow that death brings to a community in the loss of a beloved one was experienced here when the soul of Mrs. Anna Herndon Tomlin was wafted from its tenement of clay to its heavenly home Sunday morning, March 26th, at about six o'clock, after a lingering illness of many months during which time a fortitude of spirit was manifested that was characteristic of the noble life that was passing away. The insidious touch of that blighting disease endocarditis and consumption, become apparent one year ago, and she has been like a beautiful flower touched by the withering frost slowly passing away. The ordeal was the more painful since it was manifest that she wished to live for those she loved and continue the usefulness of her life here among those to whom she was a part of the sunlight of their lives. Her lovable disposition, her genial nature, her desire to do good to everybody and for everything, her uniform kindness to everybody, made the parting one of intense sorrow. With wonderful fortitude and courage did she face the inevitable, hoping that a change would come that would insure a reprieve from a separation from all this loved ones here who clung to her with the same devotion. But alas, it was beyond all power to arrest the rapidly encroaching disease, and death came to relieve the suffering. Up to a few minutes before she closed her eyes in that eternal sleep Mrs. Tomlin was conscious and cheerful. Hers was a life worthy of emulation. Her kindly disposition toward every body awakened the tenderest of sympathy for her in her affliction. All that was good and noble was her emotion. To love and to be kind was the biggest part of her generous nature, and naturally there was a reciprocity on the part of all who came into the sun light of her benign presence. 'Tis sad that such a life should end ere its sun had kissed its meridian, for she would have been only forty-two years old next September, but there are things we cannot comprehend or understand, and we can only console ourselves with the pleasant thought of having enjoyed the association of such a beautiful life, hoping that we may take advantage of the exemplification of the christian character, and that we will always treasure the memory of one so dear and good.

"She had not passed on life's pathway to the store that marks the highest point, but being weary for a moment she lay down by the wayside to rest, and using her burdens as a pillow she fell into that dreamless sleep that knows no wakening until the resurrection morn. While yet in love with life and its beauties she quietly passed to silence and eternal rest. Yet after all it may be best; just in the happiest, sunniest hour of all life's voyage when eager winds are kissing every sail, to dash against the unseen rock and in a twinkling hear the billows roar the sunken ship." For whether in mid-ocean when life is in its prime, or in the —— ers on the farther shore —— when the sands of life are nearly run, a sunken ship must mark at last the end of each and all. While on earth she added to the sum of human joy and when all was over here her frail form was laid to rest beneath a wilderness of flowers."

Mrs. Tomlin was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Herndon, and was born near Bank Lick, Kenton Co., Sept. 1st, 1869. Her whole life was spent in this quarter and no one could have been more beloved. She was married to J. G. Tomlin in 1891, and one little boy came to bless their home, Benjamin B., who was taken away when he was ten years old, and welcomed mother on the other shore. Her husband, one sister Miss Sallie, and two brothers, Dr. Robert H. Herndon, of Ludlow, and Dr. Walter S. Herndon, of Lexington, survive her. For many years Mrs. Tomlin was a member of the Baptist church, but she was always one of God's dutiful children, and her efforts to promote His cause was manifest in many ways. The sorrow that is felt in parting with her was in a slight measure evidenced by the great tokens of condolence and sympathy for the bereaved ones and the large attendance at the funeral which took place at the Walton Baptist church, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. H. C. Wayman and Dr. W. W. Evans conducting the obsequies.

The floral offerings were very extensive the casket being completely enveloped with tokens of many friends representing everything in the nature of flowers to be obtained at this season. The entire services were very touching and impressive. The funeral arrangement was under the care of Edwards Bros.

Mrs. Jessie DeHaris of Newport, and Mrs. Eva Ingle of Hennessey, Oklahoma, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tillman this week.

GOOD ROAD POINTERS.

Good roads can be had for one-tenth of the price we are now paying for the ugly uncomfortable things we are having to put up with.—Williamsburg Republican.

Senator Utley gets at the road question in a vital way—the good way, the natural way—when he proposes to give cold cash for improvement. "Money makes the mare go."—Princeton News.

Hardin county is working hard for that Lincoln highway. Good—and let all Kentucky work for good highways everywhere, for good roads are good pointers to easier times.—Owensboro Messenger.

If there is anything in the so-called power of the press, the next Legislature will do something worth while along the line of road improvement in Kentucky at its next session.—Paducah News-Democrat.

Will Carter county be left in the "mudholes" while other counties are forging ahead? We hope not. Farmers, let us get into convention and see what is to be done in regard to bettering our highways.—Grayson Bugle-Herald.

Roads are necessities and, like all necessities, cost money. The worse they are the more they cost us, though we may not know it, and we could easily have good ones by paying the same price—in a lump sum.—Lagrange Era.

Clark made some little progress last year toward scientific road building. No backward step should be taken. The voters are awakening to the importance of good pikes; they are just beginning to realize the cost of bad ones.—Winchester News.

Several have suggested that since there is some interest being manifested for good roads that we set the fourth Monday in April, County Court day, for a great coming together of the farmers of Lyon county for the purpose of getting an expression.—Eddyville Herald.

There is a quiet movement on foot among the citizens of Glasgow, looking to building of pikes out all the principal roads from this place, and there is no possible form of projected improvement that could possibly be of more lasting benefit to both the town and county.—Glasgow Times.

Kentucky needs good roads and good schools more than anything else and when this State has both it will go forward with rapid strides toward business prosperity. Good roads help all classes in the community and the farmers get the most advantage.—Frankfort News-Journal.

A few people in Kentucky have been untiring in their endeavor to create a "good roads" sentiment in this State. Their campaigns have not been wholly void of good effects. The enthusiasm shown by the earnest advocates has been caught up by others, and there is hope that the next General Assembly will strongly indorse State aid for bettering Kentucky roads.—Maysville Independent.

As we have said before, approximately $10,000 was expended on the roads last year, and if the people of the country, who use the roads, are to be relied upon, these roads are in a worse condition than they have been for many years. Some have suggested the reason for this is that paper money was thrown in the roads and that the rains swelled it up and made it mushy so that the roads were impassable. However that may be, it is high time that something was done.—London Echo.

When asked by the editor of the Breckenridge News how his Good Roads Club was progressing Father Knue, of McQuady, said enthusiastically that it was growing every day. Membership and interest both increasing. "I have now 12,000 loads of rock pledged which will be put on the roads between now and fall. Our plan is to fill all the bad mud holes first and make a solid foundation, then cover with gravel of which we have an abundance in easy reach of all our roads. We have some opposition in our movement, but it is among farmers who do not understand the plan I am now working on the element. It takes two or three hours to explain to them, but when I finally get a man converted to our way he goes to work with vim and helps me to convince others that our efforts are best for all."

Father Knue is riding horse back two or three days every week getting pledges of teams and rock and he declares that in less than five years that the roads leading out in every direction from McQuady will be the best built roads in Kentucky. His first work will be on the road leading to Tar Fork, a distance of five miles which he hopes to get completed this fall.—Breckenridge News.

BOSS COX AND THE COURTS.

The great Republican leader of the city of Cincinnati, county of Hamilton and State of Ohio, is Mr. George B. Cox.

He has recently been indicted by the grand jury of Hamilton county, and his lawyers have been spending weeks in trying to prevent a trial unless he is permitted to select his own judge as he has been permitted to select the nominees on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Cox is entitled to the same fair trials which our constitutions are supposed to give to the humblest individual, but we all know that the powerful political leader has privileges in court that the private citizen does not secure. He gets it through the ramification of his activities, thru the subtle influence of his power leading in all directions.

Mr. Cox does not want to be tried before a lawyer who is prejudiced. The basis of the assumption of prejudice is that the Judge is not willing to have the law violated by a political leader.

The attorneys of Mr. Cox have tried to get off of the bench judges that were not "fair" to them just as they try to get off of the jury men that they fear may have some kind of feeling in favor of the law or are supposed to give a strict construction to their obligations. He wants the right to challenge his judge.

When his motion is set aside he appeals to another judge to enjoin the trial and when that is denied he goes to the Circuit Court, and finally finds a judge somewhere who is willing to enjoin another judge and temporarily prevent the trial upon the indictment duly drawn.

Probably there is law for this, probably there is none at all. Nevertheless, the injunction has been granted. We have the extraordinary exhibition of a judge enjoining after he has asserted the jurisdiction of his court and his right to hear the case. The result in Hamilton county of the struggle between Mr. Cox and the courts he cannot control will be watched with interest throughout the country.—Ex.

Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner.

Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, the last of the Lieutenant Generals of the armies of the Confederacy, and the ranking surviving officer of the Civil war, Federal and Confederate, will, on next Saturday, April 1, celebrate the 89th anniversary of his birth.

It is not too much to say that Gen. Buckner is today the figure of greatest historic interest in the United States. Not only is he the highest in rank of all who remain of those two mighty armies that fought the greatest Civil war in history, but before that he had done valiant service in the Mexican war, he had served on the Western frontier when Ft. Snelling was on the border, and when Ft. Atkinson, on the Arkansas river at the edge of Colorado, was 361 miles from the nearest settlement. He has been Governor of his State and a candidate for Vice President, and he is today the honored "First Citizen of Kentucky."

Gen. Buckner will celebrate his 88th anniversary in the room in which he was born. It is now his library, in the commodious log homestead on Gen. Buckner's estate of "Glen Lily," which is near Munfordville, in Hart county, Ky. Gen. Buckner inherited this estate and home from his father, and he has never permitted any changes to be made in the original homestead tho he has made additions as it at once became necessary. These additions, however, have been made to conform strictly to the original homestead. Gen. Buckner's home is today a two-story log house, which except that it has gas, water and the modern comforts, is built just as houses were a century ago. The logs are not even weatherboarded, for Gen. Buckner hates a sham, and the logs wear the honest faces with which they came from the Kentucky forest.

Freak Damage Suits.

Frankfort.—Freak suits for damages against transportation companies were the rage here last week.

Frank A. Carr asks $2,500 damages from the L. & N. because a ticket agent did not sell him a ticket in time for him to catch a train.

John Dean asks $10,000 from the same company, alleging he was jerked about unnecessarily by an employee of the company.

Mattie Keith sued the Central Kentucky Traction Company for $1,000 because the motorman did not stop the car for her to get on.

Q. & C. Strike Settled.

At 8:00 o'clock, last Saturday night the strike of the firemen on the Queen & Crescent railroad was settled and an agreement signed which called off the strike at once. Both parties, according to the terms signed, found it necessary to concede points of difference, but the company maintains the right to employ such negro firemen as are now in the service between Oakdale and Chattanooga, and to give them one-half of the passenger and preferred freight runs.

The strike was in effect for sixteen days, during which time the company is said to have lost over 250,000 in business depression and the added cost of trying to operate trains with green firemen.

Colored farm hands are leaving the country round about Lancaster in this State in large numbers.

FROM OUT IN THE STATE.

Mr. William Surber, the well-known undertaker at Junction City, had Jim Pigg, of color, clean a set of harness for him one day last week, and the room where he keeps his coffins was the place designated as the proper place to do the work. Previous to this he had called in a friend, and after applying talcum powder pretty freely to the latter's countenance had him lie down in one of the coffins in the room. Pigg showed he was nervous by his actions, and when he saw the top of a coffin being pushed up and the white face of a supposed corpse he dug out for the sticks.—Danville Messenger.

Louisville—What is declared by the guards at the Louisville city workhouse to have been a plan for a wholesale jail delivery was discovered when saws, files and clumsily made weapons were found hidden in several places in the cellhouse occupied by white prisoners. The guards allege that one trusty has confessed, saying the plan was to kill the guards tonight and effect an escape. Keys fitting every cell door in the prison were found hidden beneath the bed of one of the alleged ringleaders of the plot.

Dr. Edwards Seriously Predicts Great Future for X-Ray and Tells of Work Done.

London.—Dr. Hall Edwards of Birmingham, who has lost his left arm and the use of his right hand in experimenting with the X-ray, described in a lecture a few days ago in a matter-of-fact way how he had battled for secrets which have left him maimed, a martyr to science.

Discussing the dangers of the X-rays, Dr. Edwards said:

"My experience has taught me that every good thing can be turned to harm. The drug that will not do harm I feel pretty sure will not do good either.

"You feel that especially when investigating such a force as this. No fewer than twelve fellow workers of mine have died in their efforts to produce the best results that could be obtained. As you know, I have suffered considerably. Many others have lost limbs in applying the work to the benefit of humanity. I regret not the slightest bit my experience, for, though I suffered, I had the pleasure myself of saving the lives of other persons. The very fact that we have suffered has caused us to infuse the greater energy into finding out how to prevent other people from suffering."

Dr. Edwards said further that through the use of the X-ray physicians can see through the human head in a fifth of a second, adding that twelve years ago it would have taken forty minutes to take a similar photograph.

"We are now able to administer a dose of the ray with as great accuracy as we give a dose of an ordinary chemical," he said. "We can see the heart beating; we can see often what patients have had for dinner. If we go on for a few years, it is quite possible that we may be able to see what they are thinking about."

He was speaking quite seriously when he made the prophecy; but there was a little interlude of banter as he told "the ladies only—the men are not to listen—that of all the hearts I have seen—and I have seen a good many—I have never known one which showed the slightest fracture. I have never seen a heart broken—or even cracked."

Dr. Edwards said that instead of destroying oysters to find if they contain pearls the rays now show if there is a pearl present, if not the oyster is put back into the sea.

TABASCO SAUCE GIVEN BEAR

Utah Hunter Stops Progress of Pursuing Bruin With Hot Contents of Little Bottle.

Ogden, Utah.—While Alfred Bruerton and his camping party were preparing supper on the ridge above Cache valley a grizzly bear nosed its way toward the camp, attracted by the savory odor of the food under preparation. None of the hunters could get to his rifle in time and there was a general scattering. Bruerton reached a tree an eyelash ahead of the bear, and grasping the lower limbs swung himself from one branch to another until he had reached the top.

Bruin continued to climb up the tree when Bruerton, remembering that in his haste he had brought with him a bottle of the fiery tabasco sauce, which he was attempting to open at the time the bear made his appearance, broke the neck of the bottle and poured the contents into the eyes and mouth of the brute.

With a howl of rage the animal descended the tree and groped blindly around the camp, where he became an easy mark for the rifles of the hunters, who had noticed his predicament. Mr. Bruerton has the handsome skin of the grizzly bear to back up the story.

HORSES DECREASE IN PARIS

Automobiles Have Sounded Knell of Animals in French Capital—Rapidly Disappear.

Paris.—Since 1899 the progress of automobilism has caused a decrease of 15,798 in the number of horses in Paris. The census of the horses in the city taken in 1910 gave a total of 75,463. In 1899 the number was 91,261.

This diminution is the more noticeable in the wealthier districts. In the Eighth arondissement districts. In the has fallen from 4,125 to 2,054. During the same period the Seventeenth lost 1,876, the Sixteenth 772 and the Seventh 487. In the First the number dropped from 29,566 to 11,338.

There are six arondissements in which the number of horses has slightly increased, including the Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth. In these arondissements are situated the great public works contractors, who use as many horses as ever. In the Ninth the number of horses has risen from 1,552 to 10,306; but this remarkable increase is due to the fact that the horses of one of the largest cab companies are counted in this arondissement, which was not the case in 1899.

A Dogless Town.

Baker City, Ore.—Every dog in the village of Durke near here was killed by the town's people the other night. Earlier in the day a band of mad coyotes had charged into the place, biting many people and dogs. The settlers armed and waged war against the intruders for many hours. They then turned their guns against the dogs, fearing that the rabies, which is rampant among the coyotes in the district, would spread.

ANTAGONIZE MAN WITH BEARD

Social Engagements Are Broken by Wholesale and Open Warfare Prevails at College.

Meadville, Pa.—Allegheny college is in a flutter of excitement, the senior class is unable to hold its social functions and tender looks are no longer exchanged by the dignified men of the upper class and the fair co-eds, all because of an ultimatum delivered by the young women to the effect that whiskers that have adorned the faces of the students must be done away with. A boycott has been declared on all students who will not make efforts to look like Apollos or appear with faces as clean as that of Cupid.

"No students with beards need apply at the hall or ask for any favors," is the slogan of the young women, and the weapon dealt an especially severe blow at the other members of the senior class." Names have been stricken from invitation lists. The girls simply do not like the scenery worn on the men's faces, and say that if it is not changed they will have nothing to do with the wearers.

Matters first livened up at chapel exercises when not a senior miss was in her place and the vacancy in this envied part of the chapel was painful. It could not be explained until the affair was over. Then the blow fell. There on the outside, where all could see and read, stood the senior co-eds. Thirty or more each carried an umbrella and from them dangled cards which read: "Our beaux are clipped."

The bewhiskered seniors understood With many there was an inward battle, for it meant social suicide or a sacrifice of whiskers. The young woman marched triumphantly back to their hall while the seniors went to frat houses to talk the matter over. A war council was held and the seniors decided that the whiskers should remain and the girls—well, they could boycott to their heart's content.

In the meantime social engagements are being broken, the moon is not half so attractive as it was before and the outcome of the affair is a matter of speculation.

One co-ed said that it is just possible that the girls will not graduate from the same platform as the young men next June if the horrid beards remain that long, but it is not believed that the trouble will reach that point. In the meantime the Glee club is rehearsing the song, "Still His Whiskers Grew."

PARIS FREAK AD MAKES HIT

Curious Scheme to Attract Patrons to Music Hall in French Metropolis is Success.

Paris.—The story of "The Beautiful Lady," by Booth Tarkington, has been recalled by the antics of a gentleman on the boulevards. He is dressed in severe mourning, top hat, and all, and would be quite inconspicuous were it not that he wears an American flag fashioned into a waistcoat, and talks and sings to himself or gesticulates frantically as he walks along.

"Drunk," "lunatic," "an English man," "an American," are some of the expressions heard in the gathering crowd that rapidly accumulates in his walk. After half an hour of promiscuous promenading the supposed lunatic makes his way to a well-known music hall.

At the box office he staggers in more demonstratively eccentric than ever and buys a seat. Ten per cent of his tosworks, [illegible] for some fun, buy seats, too. Once inside the hall the lunatic sobers down instantly, and the anticipated fun in the house does not come off, whatever there may be on the stage. The lunatic is only a walking advertisement for the music hall.

He is the latest improvement on the gentleman who used to sit quietly down at a cafe, and then shout suddenly at the top of his voice: "Go all of you at once to the Lutetia Cafe concert, if you have any sense or taste and really want to be amused;" or that other variant who would politely stop you in the street, bow, and instead of asking you, as you expected, for a light or his way, whispered courteously and earnestly in your ear: "Monsieur, I urge you to spend your evening at the Blue Windmill. It is the best show in the world."

GIRLS BALK ON MAKING HASH

Atlantic City Domestic Science Class Fear Edict of Young Men—May Scare Suitors.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The girl members of the domestic science class of the Atlantic City high school are pouting over the announcement that they will be forced, among other things, to learn how to make hash. The girls fear that public announcement of their proficiency in hash-making may scare off possible suitors among young men who are forced to indulge in the boarding house staple too often during their bachelorhood.

The scare started when the best young man of one of the girls informed her that he and his fellow-boarders had formed an anti-hash society with the following motto:

Remember this motto when spending your cash;
To one day of turkey there's six days of hash.

Instructors of the new class declare they will compel the young women to learn the mysteries of hash despite the protest.

After Dinner Speaker.

London.—Sir Frederick Young, who is 93 years old, spoke at a luncheon at the Hotel Metropole to celebrate the reopening of the Royal Colonial Institute.

THE JOKE TURNED

When People Commenced To Shun The Doctor On The Street

He Had To Expose His Hypnotic Stunt To Make Peace.

The joke was finally on Prof. Dix and Dr. Peddicord, and came about in this way. The Professor and the Doctor are very active and valuable members of the Boone Library Association, and at nearly every meeting introduce something that is new and novel. At the meeting last Friday night they, with the assistance of confederates, pulled off a hypnotic stunt so very successfully that several who witnessed the exhibition were thoroughly convinced that they were possessed of the unusual power they claimed, and as a result some became considerably excited over the matter, and by noon, last Saturday, the performance of the night before had become the talk of the town, and the Professor and the Doctor concluded it was fast becoming serious, consequently they decided to invite every body to the Doctor's that night to witness another of the remarkable performances, saying nothing about the expose that was to follow. Promptly at the appointed hour a considerable audience had assembled at Dr. Peddicord's, and the work of hypnotising was begun and conducted as seriously and as successfully as before, until some of the more nervous inclined among the spectators became worked up to a pitch where it was deemed best to discontinue the exhibition, when the expose followed, which could scarcely be believed by several who had taken the matter so seriously. The performance on the part of the persons claimed to be hypnotised was in obedience to code of signals so simple and plain that the spectators were at a loss to know why it was they had not detected the deception.

ASSAULT

On Me Was Justified Says Booker T. Washington.

Philadelphia.—Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, who was attacked and beaten up in New York City after it had been charged he was prowling around a hallway on West Sixty-third street, and for which alleged attack Albert Ulrich, a resident of the apartment house has waived a preliminary hearing, says he believes Ulrich was justified in attacking him under the circumstances.

"In looking upon the attack after seven days from its occurrence," said Washington, "I believe that Mr. Ulrich was justified in attacking not only me, but any other man under similar circumstances. I was in the hall of the house and was peering at the name plates on the doors in an effort to find one of my business acquaintances.

"After the charges had been brought, I learned that Ulrich had a daughter, and that several efforts had been made to kidnap her. There seems to be but little doubt but that Ulrich thought I might be a kidnapper, if not, he was perfectly justified in attacking me. No man could have done otherwise under the circumstances."

Bob Taylor Defines Music.

How sweet are the lips of the morning, the kiss of the waking world how sweet is the bosom of night that pillows the world to rest! But sweeter than the bosom of night is the voice of music that wakes a world of sorrows. It is like some unseen ethereal ocean whose silver surf forever breaks in song. All nature is full of music. There is melody in every sunbeam, a sunbeam in every melody; there is a love song in every flower, a sonnet in every gurgling fountain, a hymn in every rolling billow. Music is the twin angel of light, the first born of heaven, and a mortal ear and mortal eye have caught only the echo and the shadow of celestial glories. From Bob Taylor's lecture. "The Fiddle and the Bow."

Sign Boards Required.

It is not generally known that there is a Kentucky law providing for the erection of sign boards at crossings and forks in the roads. The statute referred to is as follows:

4326. Kentucky Statutes.

Sign Boards at Cross Roads

Every road supervisor or overseer shall, when directed by the county court, keep an index erected at the forks or crossings of all public roads in his district upon which shall be inscribed in plain letters the name of and the distance to the most noted towns to which the road leads, the cost of which shall be paid as other road expenses.

Not A Word Of Scandal

marred the call of a neighbor on Mrs. W P. Spangh, of Manville, Wyo., who said, "she told me Dr. King's New Life Pills had cured her of obstinate kidney trouble, and made her feel like a new woman." Easy, but sure remedy for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 25c at all dealers.

"UNCLE JOSH" COMING.

Will Appear At Library Hall Burlington, Saturday Night April 8th.

The Boone Library Association has been putting quite a good deal of repairing on their hall recently, the large post in the center having been removed, and the entire hall neatly papered and painted; also, a new piano added, altogether, making it some thing our town is proud of.

The Association will give an entertainment on Saturday evening, April 8th, consisting of "Uncle Josh," a comedy in four acts, followed by a funny farce, and all interspersed with music, laughs of all kinds, etc.

Watch these columns next week for a more detailed account of the entertainment, and begin now to look forward to an evening of fun on that date.

Sam Jones' Nerve.

Sam Jones, the late evangelist, was a man of unshakable courage. His self-possession was phenomenal.

At one time he was preaching a series of sermons in Wheeling, W. Va., against the saloons. In these sermons he was using freely his wonderful power in investing abusive terms for the things he believed to be wrong.

Just after a service in which he and "Sunshine Hawks of Baltimore had participated, Jones was approached by a hugh man of apparently great physical strength who thus began on the cool lamb ster of publicans:

"Your name's Jones, I believe."

"Anybody could believe that, Bud. I believe it myself."

"You've been abusing me."

"I don't know who you are Bud, but I know what you are. You're a hit dog. I can always tell, when I throw into a bunch of dogs, which dog gets hit, by the way he hollers."

"I'm a saloon keeper—"

"There! I said you was a dog—didn't I know?"

"Well, you've said the last mean thing you're ever going to say to anybody. I am to wear you out, right now." And he started at Jones.

"Bud, said Jones, without moving an inch, "are you a married man?"

"Yes," said the puzzled publican.

"Well, beto' you start in to wear me out, you go home and get your wife to dress up in black, and see what kind of a lookin' widder she'd make. For when you start in on me, you won't last long. Do you see right down at the end of my legs, two black things pinting forward? If the Lord had intended those things to run away with, he'd have pinted them the other way. I'll go right thru you just as sure as you start in. You think that because I'm a preacher, I won't fight. But you're mistaken, Bud.'

The saloon-keeper looked a while, took off his hat and bowed, and said:

"Good-day, Mr. Jones."

"Hawks," said Jones, you are looking pale. Were you scared? It wasn't me that did that bluffing. The Lord did it for me."

Statues of Goebel and Lincoln.

Frankfort.—Two imposing statues of men who played a part in Kentucky's history are being modeled by famous sculptors, and it is expected that both will be erected in the Capitol at Frankfort before the administration of Gov. Willson comes to an end. One is the statue of William Goebel, which was provided for by an appropriation made by act of the General Assembly. The other is the statue of Lincoln, which is to be the gift of J. B. Speed, of Louisville. Both are well under way, it is reported to members of the Capitol Commission, and there is talk of when they will be placed when they are finished.

The Goebel statue probably will be placed on the outside of the Capitol, on the approach to the building, if it is finished before the present administration goes out of office. There is some objection to this on the part of the friends of Goebel, who think that he should be given a place inside the Capitol. But the general opinion is that the outside location is a better one, and that the statue will show to better advantage if it is placed in a conspicious position on the approach near the building. Weather will not affect the statue and it will be as well preserved outside as inside.

When these two statues are in position the appearance of the Capitol will be improved, and will afford additional interest to the visitors at the State's new home. Ultimately statues of all Kentucky's great men will be placed in or about the Capitol, the plan of the architect being to have statues or busts all along the approach and on the grounds leading up to the building proper. But that is away in the future, as it will take many thousands of dollars to put the grounds in good condition.

Are you frequently hoarse? Do you have that annoying tickling in your throat? Does your cough annoy you at night, and do you raise mucus in the morning? Do you want relief? If so take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you will be pleased. Sold by all dealers. X

The announcement of the death of Mrs. J. G. Tomlin, of Walton, last Sunday morning, was a shock to her Burlington friends. She had visited Burlington on only a few occasions, but made warm friends of all those with whom she became acquainted. The bereaved husband has the sympathy of all.

There are several foreign nations that would be delighted to see the United States and Japan involved in war. They are jealous and afraid of Japan and want to see her trounced and believe the United States is the only power that can do the job, but Uncle Sam is too sharp to allow outsiders draw him into a conflict from which they would expect to derive the greater advantage. He will wisely let them fight their own battles.

Sensations are predicted when the damage suits of James Darnell against Congressman Campbell Cantrill and of Congressman Cantrill against the Kentucky State Journal comes to trial during the next term of the Franklin Circuit Court.

The damages asked in each case is $25,000, and resulted from charges and publications made during the campaign of Senator Claude M. Thomas, of Paris against Mr. Cantrill for the Democratic will be looking over the field and district.

Higher wages were paid to American farm laborers during 1910 than at any time in the last forty-five years according to statistics just made public by the Department of Agriculture. The average wage for the country was $27.50 per month during 1910, while twenty years ago it was only $18.33. With board, the average wage was $19.21.

In some parts of the country the rate of wages of farm laborers was higher than in others. The highest was in Nevada, where the rate was $54, while in Montana and Washington it was $50. South Carolina paid the lowest rate, $16.50 per month.

Northern Minnesota is waking up to its agricultural possibilities. One county in that State, St. Louis county, last year produced iron ore valued at one-third more than all the gold mined in the United States and Alaska. The value of the gold was $96,000,000 and the value of iron ore $125,000,000. But the people of that state say the agricultural possibilities of that county are greater than its mineral wealth. Dairying is the great hope of that section, but potatoes are the most immediate crop. The poultry industry has been developing rapidly also. The people have become so interested in potatoes and poultry that a Potato Special is to be run over the State carrying instructors from the State Agricultural College.

A NEW FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

Fire broke out on Albert Conner's place near town, one day last week, and in the absence of anything [illegible] which to fight it, he shed his corduroy trousers and succeeded in extinguishing the flames after a heroic effort. The trousers were none the worse for the novel use to which they were put. Mr. Conner is certainly resourceful.

Chas. Clore, who resides out on the East Bend road, was in town, last Saturday morning, rejoicing that he was done breaking land for both corn and garden. Mr. Clore is one of those who knows how to expedite work and always occupies a position near to, if not at the head of the procession, and he does so without any fretting and blustering, only taking advantage in a quiet way of every hour that is fit for out door labor.

Although an impression exists in this country that the resignation of the old Cabinet of President Diaz will have the effect of improving conditions in Mexico, authentic reports in the possession of this Government indicate that unless far greater concessions are made to the insurgent element a situation far more menacing than is admitted by the most truthful of the Diaz regime is most likely.

Look over all the county papers in Kentucky and see if you can find one that has as many and as good correspondents as the Leader has. We have more towns and neighborhoods represented in our columns than any other paper that we have examined.—Warsaw Leader.

It is evident the Leader has not been observing the amount of neighborhood news carried by the Recorder. The issue of the Recorder the week before the above claim was made by the Leader carried about one-fourth more neighborhood communications than the Leader, and instead of being leaded they were set solid which adds one-fourth more to the volume of the matter as compared to the Leaders leaded matter. Gaze over the columns of the Recorder, a few weeks, Brother Leader, and see error in your claim.

Look, Listen.

C. M. BALDON,
Burlington, Kentucky.

Last Saturday was a first-class spring weather, the sun shining bright and warm all day, but Sunday dawned dark and gloomy, and by eight o'clock, a rain began to fall and continued all day, stopping occasionally for a short interval. A heavy thunder storm disturbed the slumbers of the people about one o'clock Monday morning. This was followed by a cold wave and Monday was decidedly uncomfortable, a raw wind from the west prevailing throughout the day.

Here is the way the manager of the Louisville Association ball club, speaks of Ed. Sandford, of Belleview, who is one of his staff of pitchers:

"He has one fault—works too much with the forearm when he should use the full power of arm and shoulder. As soon as he gets this corrected, watch him, just watch him! I believe him to be the coming great pitcher of the country, and this is not a 'jolly,' either. The boy is another Russie for strength and speed, dead game and learning rapidly."

The Creamery A Go.

No step backward was taken by the creamery meeting, last Saturday afternoon, but on the contrary the work was advanced to a point where the next step will be the filing of articles of incorporation. B. T. Kelly, C. B. Rector and J. E. Gaines were appointed a committee to have the articles of incorporation prepared and ready to present at the meeting to be held next Monday afternoon. So far those who are working in the interest of the creamery have been successful beyond their expectations, and the deficit of $250 or $300 will soon be wiped out. There is no reason why the work should not be put through without any delays what ever. In the spring is the very best time to start a creamery, as the feed question will figure lightly at the beginning.

All stock buyers should read, carefully, the regulations of the Kentucky Live Stock Sanitary Board in regard to shipping or moving sheep. There is a fine for a violation of the regulation which is as follows:

Before moving sheep within the State of Kentucky, or offering sheep for transportation to any railroad company, steamboat, ferry or other common carrier for transportation to points either within or outside the State, they shall be inspected by the County Live Stock Inspector, found free from "Scabies" and exposure thereto, and are accompanied by regular certificates of inspection. These certificates shall accompany shipments to their destination and be attached to way bills or other identifying papers issued by the transporting company.

O. S. CRISLER, V. M. D.

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all dealers.

It has been intimated that the race for the Democratic nomination for the legislature in this county has not been made up, but the Recorder has no information as to the probable candidates nor from what part of the county they may come.

Attention! Farmers.

I have on hand a car load of Fish Guano for corn and other crops. This goods is made by The Jarecks Chemical Co., of Sandusky and Cincinnati, Ohio. Get in your order early and then get your goods early and save a nice discount.

A good dinner for 15 cents on April court day at Burlington.

The April term of the Boone Circuit Court will begin Monday week.

The equinoctial storm was somewhat delayed, but it got here all the same.

Sheriff B. B. Hume has handled quite a number of good horses this spring.

Sugar camps did not amount to much this spring.
in the court house yard.

The work of sowing oats was completed last week, about the usual acreage being sowed.

March has done a good part by the farmers in so far as the weather has been concerned.

The High School girls Triangle Club mean to say they will serve a lunch for 15 cents and not a dinner, next Monday.

Coffee steaming hot, beans, ham sandwiches, [illegible] candy—you can get them on April court day in Burlington.

James P. Tanner, of Florence, is assembling material for the purpose of remodeling and enlarging his residence.

Sandwiches and coffee at the court-house on April court day, served by the Girls' Triangle Club of the High School.

W. J. Rice has completed the grading around the new school building which has added greatly to the appearance of the premises.

Plows could be seen in every direction last week, breaking ground for corn, of which there will be an increased acreage in Boone county this year.

The Boone Library Association has installed a handsome, sweet-toned, new Stanley piano in its hall, for use at entertainments, etc.

Measles, mumps and other diseases are giving the soldier boys along the border of Mexico more trouble than the soldiers of either branch of the Mexican scrap.

Don't miss April court day, and don't worry about your dinner. There'll be plenty served by the Girls' Triangle Club of the County High School. A good dinner for 15 cents.

If you have anything for sale horses, mules, cattle, hogs, sheep, chickens, seed oats, seed corn or in fact anything send it to the Recorder. And if you know of a good item send that also.

Next Monday is county court day, and Boone county's annual horse show, on which occasion there is always a very large crowd in town, and next Monday will not be an exception.

Several persons have not applied to the County Clerk for the money due on their sheep claims allowed some time since, and the clerk is desirous that they call and receive their checks.

The base ball season will be inaugurated on the High School grounds next Saturday afternoon, when the High School team will tackle the Fossils under command of Herbert Kirkpatrick.

J. C. Revill has presented the High School with a nice, large wall map of the United States. Not long since he presented the colored school with a very useful map. He is a lover of maps.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invariably bring relief to women suffering from chronic constipation, headache, biliousness dizziness, sallowness of the skin and dyspepsia. Sold by all dealers. X

Five house cleanings are equal to one move and two moves are equal to one complete burnout. How does the fellow stand who has gone through twenty-five annual house cleanings as regard the number of burn-outs?

Esten Snyder, of Bullittsville neighborhood, will begin traveling for a Cincinnati oil firm the first of next month. He has had considerable experience as a traveling man and will make the firm a good representative. Kentucky is his territory.

Jack Eddins found a good hat, man's size, in the street near his father's residence, last Sunday morning. He does not believe the owner lost it in a struggle with hold-up men, as there were no signs of such occurrence anywhere in the neighborhood.

Andy Cook, who occupies the old Kendall homestead a mile south of town, gave the young folks a big dance, last Friday night. The attendance was made up of young people from every direction, and they danced until broad daylight and went home in the morning.

The call under which the county primary election will be held appears in another column in this issue. It is brief but to the point. As stated last week the committee changed the date to Saturday, July 1st. The committee also changed the entrance fee from $35 to $40 per candidate.

There will be considerable business transacted in Burlington, next Monday. The directors and officers of the county insurance company will be in session, the managers of the county wool pool will be looking over the field and the local creamery association will be getting its business into shape.

So many of the readers who were interested in the story "The Courage of Captain Plum," when the Recorder was changed to all home print, having requested the completion of the story, the Recorder has made arrangements to comply with their requests, beginning next week. It will run only a few weeks.

The local veterinary, O. S. Crisler, has been very busy for the past two or three weeks. Many of his calls are at night and about half of them require his attention all night. He has handled successfully several very bad cases in the last few weeks. He was called to East Bend, last Saturday.

James W., Sallie Ann and Cassie Barlow, are three aged people who reside over on Gunpowder, and whose condition, both mentally and physically, has become so impaired that it was necessary for them to have committees to look after their welfare both financially and physically, consequently the county court appointed J. M. Barlow to act in that capacity.

The farmers have been a busy class the past two weeks and have dispatched a very large quantity of work, consequently they are satisfied with the present outlook and feeling pretty good. Did you ever notice that when the farmers are in a happy mood that an air of contentment pervades the entire country and the world seems brighter and better?

A telephone message from C. C. Roberts, who began farming in the Walton neighborhood, last week, announced that he broke in nicely and was making dirt fly from early in the morning until the chickens began to hunt their roost. His exhibits of agricultural products at the Florence fair next fall are expected, by his friends, to be a feature of the exhibition.

THE FARM TODAY.

Farmers were, commercially speaking, the most dependent class on earth largely through their own fault. They were commercial slaves to the world of trade and had been subjected to the business cuffs of every class who wished to consider itself superior to the farmer. From our farms have gone forth the best men and women of business, leaving us the "medium and cull" to speak in the phrase of our trades men. Those business favorites scored farming and were taught to despise their heritage by parents who accepted their lot as inferiors of other classes. Why even the junk buyer was a man of business and assumed a condescending attitude. Let him try it now! As a result the boys crowded into the congested cities rather to accept the low paid job there than engage in a work they felt to be beneath the notice of anyone who would truly succeed. But conditions are changing and now comes the insistent cry—Back to the Soil.

We cannot lower and bind these people to the agricultural plane of fifty years ago but we must elevate our standards to the level of our city bred professions. We are doing this by changing our educational system and home environments.

What sort of education is this? The education which trains the farmer for the farm and the smith for the forge. We teach the farmer the essentials of agriculture and show them something in a farm beyond clods and drudgery. By teaching farming as a science, with up-to-date equipment, the young idea conceives the real nobility of the trade.

As a result the entire business is changing to meet the needs of a man who understands the science of his work. In this way the youth is taught to know the value of those clods in the back corn field, and the lure of the rainbow ore the distant city dissolves in its own prismatic colors.

But let us return to those culls who dropped out of the roll about twenty or even ten years ago and stayed with the old farm, seemingly through lack of any proper ambition. Are they culls today? Hardly any of them, I assure you. There are many in this section who received no more than a common school education, in a school building, who are now owners of from 80 to 160 acres and lead their communities. But do these men farm by the old system? No they are up-to-date and know the science of their soil. Where did they get this knowledge and system? Both from our farm journals and personal experience. Right here we must give due credit to the high standard long maintained by our magazines of agriculture. Great has been their work in developing our culls into up-to-date farmers, for the burden has fallen principally upon them. That shows us the great fault of our school system. We now realize that there are naturally very few culls, only men who fail thru lack of an education for their special work. Now we are instituting up our school studies. The environments of our farm communities will naturally adjust themselves. Telephones, rural mail delivery, home lighting systems, pressure water systems and the great improvement in tillage implements have come seemingly of themselves. We have a much better communal relationship today than even ten years ago. We have co-operation and our young people, having a much wider acquaintance are intermarrying in other communities and thus broadening these and tearing down the old social barriers which shut each neck-o-the-woods to itself.

With the turning of the emigrating tide will our trades suffer? Will a strong cooperation of the farmers be a benefit to the world at large, or only to that special class?—Indiana Farmer.

Forced To Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers, whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs, are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. R Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed and I gained forty seven pounds in weight. Its surely the king of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. Rendezvous For Drinking.

County Attorney C. C. Adams has raised a protest against drinking in the court house corridors and on the public square, and the county judge will be asked to see that it is stopped. It is claimed that certain parties have made the hallway and corridors of the court house a rendezvous for quenching their thirst from the lucious flask, but the county attorney thinks this should be stopped, especially as both he and the county superintendent have offices in the building and women are frequent visitors to these offices.—Grant Co. News.

The people along the river between Warsaw and Rising Sun, are being much encouraged over the prospects of enjoying the conveniences of a railroad in the near future. They believe that the construction of the lock and dam at Rising Sun will have much to do towards bringing the railroad.

U. S. Senate Two Years Hence.

Two years hence, March 4, 1913, the terms of thirty-one United State Senators will expire. Political conditions are so unsettled and independence of party ties and obligations is so assertive that it puts political prophets at a discount. When the state of Maine is democratic and supplants Eugene Hale with a Democrat in the United States Senate it stagers the political prognosticator and admonishes him to keep silent. However, according to the adage that has come down to us from the ages, "figures cannot lie," it is a plain fact that 31 senators now serving must go out in 1913, unless re-elected. Of this list nineteen are Republicans and twelve are Democrats. Obviously, proportion gives the advantage to the Democrats, but it is beyond the ken of mortal man to foretell the changes that may occur in the senators to succeed those whose terms expire two years hence. The twelve outgoing Democratic senators are from the states of Georgia, Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Virginia, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and South Carolina. Taking the present political status of these states as a guide, the conclusion would be that [illegible] will return Democrats. Of the nineteen outgoing Republican senators Elkins, of West Virginia has been eliminated by death. A Democrat, who must fight for his reelection, now fills that seat. The other eighteen states are: Idaho, Oregon, New Jersey, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Illinois, Kansas, Montana Maine, South Dakota, Colorado, Minnesota, Deleware, Michigan, Wyoming, Rhode Island and Iowa. Of these the states of New Jersey Nebraska, Montana, Maine and Colorado now have Democratic legislatures. The contests for control of all these legislatures which must elect senators to fill the expiring terms must be fought out next year. It remains for the political prophets to figure out results, the figures herein given being the basis of calculations.

By The Association of Brewers.

The Association of Indiana Breweries, with headquarters in the Merchants National Bank Building, Indianapolis, has prepared for the newspapers of the State a brief and comprehensive digest of the Proctor Regulation Law passed by the last legislature from which we make the following extracts:

1. Saloons may be limited to one for each 1000 inhabitants and must not exceed one for each 500.

2. The elimination of the "brewery saloon," no license holder being permitted to receive assistance of any sort from any person or corporation engaged in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors, nor can the agent of such person or corporation be granted a license.

3. The qualifications of the license require him to have resided in the State one year and the township, town or city six months before a license can be granted. Nor can a person convicted of a felony within 15 years prior to the passage of the act, or been twice convicted in the four years previous of violating the liquor laws receive a license.

4. Licenses shall be suspended or revoked for commission of a felony, for gross immorality for three violations within two years of any liquor law, failure to pay license fees, for permitting lewd persons or obscene pictures or pictures of nude women in his place of business.

5. License fees have been largely increased—the state license to $200, cities of first and second classes to from $800 to $500, other classes from $200 to $500, towns from $150 to $300.

6. No one shall sell liquor on Sunday, the Fourth of July, Christmas, New Years, Thanksgiving nor on election days until the polls are closed.

7. The license's bond is raised from $2000 to $5000.

Value of Poultry Manure.

According to the Kansas Agricultural College poultry manure has twice the value of horse or cow manure. It is especially valuable, for corn, soil, since it possesses a large per cent of available nitrogen, the element required in greatest quantities. It is a good manure for hotbeds. But this manure must not be applied to growing plants; it will injure them. It must be worked into the soil before planting. If poultry manure can be obtained in abundance it will be a temptation to load it on a manure spreader and haul it to the field. But no manure spreader can handle it successfully unless it is mixed with coarse cow or horse manure. It is better to follow the old "armstrong" method—apply it by shoveling from the ordinary wagon. This gives you the advantage of controlling the thickness of application. The field should not be plowed very deeply after the manure is applied. It would be much better to harrow it in, but a shallow plowing is satisfactory. Many piles of hen manure are allowed to go to waste on the farm because the results from its application were not satisfactory. If applied according to these instructions bearing in mind that it is rich in nitrogen, the increased production will be gratifying.—Wallaces Farmer.

218 Floyd County Indictments.

Two Hundred and Ten Indictments Said to Have Been Returned For Vote Selling.

A special from Prestonburg, Ky. says that the grand jury of Floyd county, which has been investigating vote-selling, has returned 210 indictments, and that many more true bills will be found against voters before the inquiry is concluded.

Prosecutor W. H. May says the traffic in votes was shown to be very open and conviction is certain in almost all cases. Certain leaders would receive money to buy votes and these were bought openly.

Many political leaders have left the county to avoid appearing before the grand jury. Others who refused to go before the jury are now under bond to appear at the June term of court.

Similar conditions are said to exist in Pike and Magoffin counties and their grand juries will also begin an investigation.

PIE AND THE WHIPPING POST.

Anyone who desires a visible exemplification of the forms of punishment that were quite widely employed in this country a couple of centuries ago has only to visit Dekeware, following the periodic county court decrees, and there he can witness them in full flower. We believe the public pillory is still in occasional requisition there. The whipping post certainly is, and its writhing victims in the course of a year are not a few. This week a representative batch of small offenders has passed thru the experience. One was a hungry negro who had stolen two custard pies. Another negro stole some rubber junk which he sold for 20 cents and a drink of liquor A third violator of the majesty of the law was a white man who also pleaded hungry after being found with twelve pounds of ham in his unlawful possession. In each case the sentence was ten lashes and a year's imprisonment. There appears to be a discrimination in the application of this penalty which an outsider finds it hard to understand. The law makes a difference between the embezzler and the petty thief. The former must undergo imprisonment if found guilty, but he is spared the pain and humiliation of the lash. The more dangerous criminal receives consideration and a certain measure of respect for the magnitude of his crime. To defraud his fellowmen to the extent of thousands is an offense of so much dignity that that feature must be taken into account in his punishment. As the whipping post is a relic of early English times, so the social distinctions then established seem to have been brought down with the other features of the institution. Thus, whipping could be administered to the villian, the tenant and the laborer, but could not be inflicted upon a gentlemen in this country as a distinct class who can claim its privileges by reason of birth, Delaware has hewed sufficiently close to the old line to maintain these social distinctions in her penal code, the forger the embezzler and the cheat, being masters in crime, are given the benefit of them.

The man who steals ham or custard pie because he is hungry, or rubber junk because he is thirsty, is supposed to be incapable of rising to the conspicous level of these other gentry, so he is disposed of with ten lashes and a year's imprisonment. Some jurists of good standing have advocated the whipping post for a certain class of criminals, particularly those guilty of the more brutal offenses, the old doctrine of retaliation. If it has justification on that score it certainly has ceased to have any as a correction for petty offenses, as Delaware employs it. It is demoralizing to the public and a confusion of justice. Were it applied to the top instead of the bottom of the ascending scale of crime it would soon be abolished, but it is confined to those who are unable to help themselves and make a protest that shall be respected. Thus Delaware halts a couple of hundred years behind the general advance in civilization.—Quincy Whig.

Health Alphabet.

Here is an alphabet of Health, for every one who will give it attention and a fair trial:

"Abstain from intoxicating liquors.
Breathe good air.
Consume no more food than the body requires.
Drink pure water.
Exercise daily.
Find congenial occupation.
Give the body frequent baths.
Have regular habits.
Insure good digestion by proper mastication.
Justify right living by living right.
Keep your head cool and your feet warm.
Make definite hours of sleep.
Never bolt your food.
Over exercise is as bad as under exercise.
Preserve an even temperament.
Question the benefit of too much medicine.
Remember, 'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.
Sacrifice money, not health.
Temperance in all things.
Under no condition allow the teeth to decay.
Vanish superstition.
Worry not at all.
X-tend the teaching of this alphabet to others.
Yield not to discouragement.
Zealously labor in the cause of health and gain everlasting reward."

Primary Election Notice.

At a meeting of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee, held at Burlington, Ky., March 22, 1911, it was ordered that a Primary Election be held in every voting precinct in Boone County on Saturday, July 1st, 1911, from 8 o'clock a. m. to 4 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating Democratic candidates for State Senator, County Representative and County Clerk to be voted on at the regular election in November, 1911. All known Democrats entitled to vote at the regular election in November, 1911, shall be entitled to vote in this election.

A. B. Renaker was made a subcommittee of one to have ballots printed and to attend to all details in carrying out this call.

The entrance fee of each individual candidate in this primary Election is fixed at $40, to be paid to A. B. Renaker not later than June 16th, 1911 at which time the names of the candidates who have paid their proper entrance fee will be placed on the ballots.

A. B. RENAKER, Chairman.
T. F. CURLEY, Secretary.

The prohibition of duck shooting on Lake Reba for the past two years has brought about a state of affairs that local hunters claim is an excellent one. The ducks being allowed to use the lake unmolested have come in great droves this season and the surrounding ponds have afforded some fine sport. They also feed in the evening in the nearby corn fields.—Richmond Climax.

Mayor Meacham denounces as a lie the report that he hid in the Baptist church when the night riders came to Hopkinville. All right; the facts are undoubtedly as Meacham states them. Under similar circumstances, however, we are free as a bird to admit that we would have hastily connected ourselves with any church that came handy and it wouldn't have made a particle of difference whether we went in through the basement or a hole or a front door.—Glasgow Times.

Money in Apples.

There is money in apple growing. At the meeting of the Kentucky [illegible] Society recently an Henderson county fruit grower told of his success in the growing of apples and said he had only one failure and that not total.

One year he sold a crop of apples from 20 acres for twice as much as he paid for the farm of 86 acres.

Another farmer realized $1,057, the past year from three acres. Discussing the apple question, the Henderson Gleaner says:

"Apple trees begin to yield in paying quantities when they are eight years old. They yield large quantities at the age of ten. Fifty trees can be grown on an acre of land. At $25 per tree an acre will produce $1,250 worth of apples. Probably the average well kept trees will not produce more than $20 worth of fruit one year with another, but even at that the profits from tobacco, wheat and corn are neglected to the penny class."

Breeding Saddle Horses.

In breeding saddle horses, safe guard as we may, occasionally there will be one lacking in size. The highly bred saddle horses are too high strung for the plow or the cart and there may be too many of them for school children, or for pleasure of the little folks who may have outgrown the Shetland. If the game of polo continues to grow in popularity as it has of late, and its votaries are properly approached this may provide an outlet for the surplus of good small horses for awhile. It takes quite a little training, and that by competent hand, to prepare a polo pony, but when once done it adds greatly to its value. We may at least expect the saddle horse, with his blood and metal, to surpass for this purpose the bronco or the underaized thoroughbred.

The raising of saloon license in Lexington to the statutory limit of $800 per year has made no material difference in the number of saloons there and has practically doubled the city's revenue from the liquor traffic. Out of the 141 saloons, 135 had arranged for renewal before the penalty was put on.

Comparson of The Hog Market.

Returns of the operations of the pork packers in Cincinnati for the past year, representing the summer and winter seasons separately, have been received by Superintendent C. B. Murray of the Chamber of Commerce, and calculations necessary to secure results and comparisons have been reached, the main features of which are now presented. For the eight months of the summer season, March 1 to November 1, the number of hogs slaughtered fell short 50,632, compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, the total being 299,155 hogs, which compares with 362,900 as the average for the ten summer seasons next previously. The cost of hog swas exceptionally high, averaging $9.48 per 100 lbs, being $1.89 over the average for corresponding time in the preceding year, and about $3 or 46 per cent above the average for five summer seasons previous. The average weight of hogs was considerably increased, with a still greater gain in the yield of lard.

For the winter season representing four months from November 1 to March 1, there was a small gain in number of hogs slaughtered, in comparison with the low record of the preceding winter, the total being 206,562, compared with 196,471 for 1909-1910, and 240,000 as the average for ten winter seasons prior to the past winter.

The average weight of hogs was increased [illegible] lbs, and of lard 7.17 lbs, the latter representing a gain of about 17 per cent. The average cost of hogs was $7.77 per 100 lbs, against $8.61 for the preceding winter, a reduction of about 10 per cent from the high record, while still much above the usual position.

For the twelve months ending March 1, 1911, the slaughtering of hogs in Cincinnati represented a total of 505,717, against 546,258 for the preceding twelve months, and 605,000 as the annual average for ten years prior to the past year.

The Maternal Woman.

"There are comparatively few women not replete with maternal love, and, by the bye, take care if you meet with a girl who is not 'fond of children' not to marry her by any means. Some few there are who even make a boast that they 'cannot bear children'—that is, cannot endure them. I never knew a man who was good for much who had a dislike to little children, and I never knew a woman of that taste who was good for anything at all. I have seen a few such in the course of my life, and I have never wished to see one of them a second time."—Corbetts "Advice to Young Men."

Farmers around Bedford have been busy burning plant beds. It seems that preparations for a large crop are being made. In the section of the county along the river the crop will not be so large owing to the fact that many will raise tomatoes.—Trimble Democrat.
